HALLOWE'EN IN THE CITY

Was Celebrated With Parties and the Usual Hallowe'en Stunts Last Evening.

MANY PARTIES HELD

Ideal Night Brought the Small Boy Out in Force and He Played All the Usual Tricks—Some of the Social Gatherings of the Evening.

Hallowe'en was properly observed in city and borough. The small boys rambled from early twilight until late at night and played all the usual Hallowe'en tricks and a few more which were unusual. Plenty of parties and little social gatherings furnished entertainment for the older set and some of the younger ones. The evening was an ideal one for Hallowe'en and there were many who took advantage of it.

One of the most unique Hallowe'en parties given last evening was the one at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lounsbury on Plainfield avenue. The affair was arranged and given by the Misses Lounsbury for a few of their young friends. The house was at tractively decorated with autumn leaves, cornstalks, Japanese, Chinese and jack-o'-lanterns, these affording all the light for the house. These decorations were used in the parlor and sitting room, where cozy corners formed a pleasing part of the arrangement.

The young folks passed the early part of the evening in playing all kinds of games, while a feature was the reading of one's fortune. This was done by each one taking a walnut from a tree. Inside of the shell was written the fortune in invisible ink, read only by holding to the light.

After the playing of games, the guests were invited to the dining room, where refreshments were served. The table was arranged in a novel manner. The illumination consisted of a candle at each place. There were cabbages and turnips filled with pop-corn, salted peanuts, confection, etc., while other vegetables were used in similar manner The menu was a delightful one and all had a jolly good time. At a late hour the young folk departed thanking the hostess for the pleasant time afforded.

Miss Helen Adams and Cory Adams, of Grove street, gave a sheet and pillow-case party last evening. All sorts of games were played, while a happy feature was the roasting of marshmellows. During the evening refreshments were served. Those present were: The Misses Helen Armstrong, Bessie VanArsdale, Margery Hart, Ethel Webster, Marguerite Lee, Edna Sebring and Edward Honeyman and Charles Lee.

Miss Jessie Pruden, of East Second street, entertained a few friends at a Hallowe'en party, last evening. The usual games were played and refreshments were served later in the evening.

In honor of the anniversary of her birthday, Mrs. Ida Manning gave a Hallowe'en party, last evening, at the home of William Schorb, of East Front street, to the performers and attaches of the Central Theatre Twenty in all were present and games, songs and music were plentiful after which a supper was served. The affair broke up at an early hour this morning.

Adam Blair, of East Fifth street, gave a Hallowe'en party, last evening, at his home, in honor of his son, Craig. Thirty of the young man's friends were present and games appropriate to the occasion afforded them much amusement. It terminated shortly before midnight.

A surprise Hallowe'en party was given in honor of J. L. Bennett, of Watchung avenue. It was arranged by Mrs. Bennett and twenty friends gathered. Games formed an important part of the progamme.

Miss May B. Squier, of Astor place, tendered a Hallowe'en card party at her home, last evening, to a few intimate friends. First prize for points, a cut-glass milk pitcher, was won by V. W. Hash, Jr. After the playing the young people enjoyed dancing.

A party was held last evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Foster at Roselle when twenty young people of this city went there by trolley. It was arranged by Mrs. Horace J. Martin and Mrs. Wooley and was a surprise to Mrs. Foster.

A surprise Hallowe'en party was given to Frank Day, of West Fourth street, last evening, by his daughters, the Misses May and Elizabeth Day. There was dancing. A feature was the instrumental music by Darby and Arthur Sherman on the banjo, violin and mandolin. Those present were the Misses Nellie and Elizabeth Casey, Mamie Walsh, Annie Kelly, and Messrs. Darby, Arthur Sherman, Wm. Callahan and John Kelly.

A jolly Hallowe'en party of last evening was given by A. E. Kenney, of Watchung avenue, for his son, Leo Kenney. The house was decorated with autumn leaves and corn stalks, while the rooms were lighted with Chinese, Japanese and jack-o'-lanterns. All the young women wore paper dresses cut in the latest style, and paper napkins were used for hats. During the evening there were vocal solos by Miss Mabel Hamilton and Miss Mable Farlee, accompanied on the piano by Otto Muech. A feature was the fortune telling by Miss Nan Rafferty, of Sandford avenue, who used tea leaves for the purpose.

A Hallowe'en party was given last evening by Miss Sadie Holmes, of Grandview avenue. The evening was spent playing games.

Miss Florence Taylor, of West Seventh street, gave a Hallowe'en barn party last evening. The barn was wierdly decorated.

Hallowe'en was celebrated in the borough last evening in a manner appropriate to the occasion but not to the idea of property owners. A crowd hoisted a chair to the top of the school building and removed the shutters from Spencer's Hall. A sign advertising trading stamps was placed on the porch of the school building. Later in the evening trolley cars were stopped by the youngsters pulling the trolley rope off the wire and cutting the rope. Bon fires were lighted and wierd figures danced about them. No damage of any consequence was done.

A plate glass window in the store in the Rink building occupied by a Chinese laundryman was cracked by a stone. It was thrown by a small boy.

FORECAST IN THE FIFTH DISTRICT LOOKS LIKE FOWLER'S ELECTION

Summary of Conditions in Union, Morris and Warren Counties Shows a Very Close Fight With the Odds Slightly in Favor of the Republican Candidate.

ESTIMATED RETURNS SHOW HIS MAJORITY AT 500.

But There Are Elements in the Canvass Which Cannot be Figured Out, and Which May Decide the Election—Union County Will Go Republican—Warren Will be Democratic—Morris Will Decide It, and Leans Toward the Republican Candidate—Forecast of the Results in the Neighboring Counties.

Congressional Vote in 1900.

	Rep.	Dem.
Warren		1,527
Morris	1,606
	6,248	1,527

Rep. majority of 4,721.

Estimated Congressional Vote in 1902.

	Rep.	Dem.
Warren		1,000
Morris	500

Rep. majority of 500.

A careful and impartial survey of the conditions existing in the Fifth Congressional district would lead one to believe that Congressman Charles N. Fowler, Republican, would defeat Congressman DeWitt C. Flanagan, Democratic, by a majority in the neighborhood of 500, but there are elements in the canvass which cannot be figured out and which may affect the general result. Union county will undoubtedly go Republican by a majority fairly estimated at 1,000. Warren county will be in the Democratic column by a similar figure. That leaves Morris county to settle one of the hottest Congressional fights that New Jersey has witnessed. An impartial forecast places Morris in the Republican column by a small majority variously estimated at from 300 to 800, 500 can be considered a conservative estimate. A slump, not visible on the surface, is possible in any of the counties and on that possibility depend the chances of Congressman Flanagan.

National issues have predominated in this campaign and the Democrats have fought the present administration chiefly on the issues of the trusts and the tariff. Past dissentions in the Republican ranks may or may not affect Congressman Fowler in Union county. The breach between the two factions there was a wide one but it has apparently healed up to some extent. If the threats once made to cut Fowler in Union county are followed out, he is likely to be defeated as the campaign in the district is such a close one that any one factor may affect the general result.

While the Republican ticket in Union county will win, all its candidates may not fare so well. Charles L. Moffett, Democrat, has the best chance of election to the Assembly of any one on his ticket. Somerset's campaign is very close with a likelihood of defeat for J. S. Frelinghuysen, Republican canddiate for senator, and victory for the rest of the Republican ticket. Middlesex county seems likely to go Democratic by a small majority.

As far as the municipal election is concerned, the local Republican ticket will undoubtedly be elected in its entirety by heavy majorities. Mayor Ryan, the Democratic nominee in Elizabeth, is likely to be re-elected.

UNION COUNTY.

Elizabeth, Nov. 1—Union county will go Republican but by a reduced majority and there is a chance that one or two and possibly three Democrats may be elected. That is the situation in this county summed up almost on the eve of election. Hamilton F. Kean, chairman of the Republican county committee, claims the election of the entire Republican ticket by good majorities while the head of the Democratic county committee declares that the election of part of their ticket is assured and that the chances are good for the remainder.

In the fight for Congress in the Fifth district, Union county is the pivotal point. If it rolls up its usual majority for Congressman Fowler, it is believed that his re-election is assured. From present appearances, he will undoubtedly carry the county anywhere from 800 to 1,200. In Elizabeth, he will be fortunate to carry the city. The Republicans will be satisfied with a very small majority there. In Plainfield, Fowler should get at least 800 majority as the Republican majority has been running considerably above that in past years. The rest of the county will probably add slightly to Fowler's gain. The results in Plainfield, however, will largely determine the size of Fowler's majority in the county. The silent vote is a factor which cannot be counted on and any strong movement for Fowler or Flanagan there is apt to upset all calculations. There are no signs of such a happening at present.

Even more than usual, pastors promise to play a particularly important part of the county fight. While the Republican ticket itself is sure of a majority, there is a possibility that a Democrat or two may be elected. Throughout the county, the man on the Republican ticket who will have the hardest time is Assemblyman William F. Hall. He is going to be cut on all sides but the opposition against him seems likely to be strongest in Plainfield. If the Democrats had united on one candidate as against Hall, his election would be practically assured but the Elizabeth Democrats are working for Reiss, the labor candidate, while Charles L. Moffett is the favorite in Plainfield and neighboring towns. Moffett is likely to poll the heavier vote of the two and has a fair chance of election. Assemblyman Newcorn is going to be cut in many quarters but hardly enough to defeat him. Coyne is practically assured of election.

Of the other candidates, B. Frank Coriell, candidate for sheriff, has the hardest row to hoe. His opponent, Charles H. Moore, is particularly strong in Eliazbeth, especially in the 'port, and may be counted on carrying the county seat by from 600 to 1,000. If Plainfield stands solidly by him Coriell will win, but a small majority there may elect the Democrat. The Democrats claim Rahway for Moore by 300 and hint at 1,500 at Elizabeth.

Unless the unexpected happens, Senator Cross will be re-elected. The Republicans place the figure at 1,000 but it is likely to be less than that. Cross may carry Elizabeth by a small majority but the result there, whichever way it goes, is likely to be close. Martine will run ahead of his ticket in Plainfield but will hardly overcome the heavy Republican majority there. The rest of the county will bring up Cross' majority.

Surrogate Parrot will undoubtedly be re-elected. While LeRoy Gibby is working hard, he has practically no chance of winning against a candidate like Parrot. Only a landslide could change the result. The coroner will probably follow close to the ticket and win out.

As far as the Republican ticket is concerned, it is likely to win in Union from 1,000 to 1,500 majority. Last year, Governor Murphy was given 1,300 plurality. The year before, the county went Republican by 4,900 but that was a National election. Mayor Ryan, the Democratic candidate for re-election here will probably defeat Former Assemblyman Ellis R. Meeker in the mayoralty contest.

MORRIS COUNTY.

Morristown, Nov. 1—Morris county is looked upon as the deciding factor in the Congressional campaign in the Fifth district, which is now drawing to an end, and both parties have used every possible effort to capture it. Now, two days before election, it looks as if the Republicans would secure a majority of the votes. The fight is going to be close but the conditions favor a larger vote for Congressman Fowler.

Chairman James H. McGraw, of the Republican county committee, gives as a careful conservative estimate that Fowler's majority in Morris county will not be less than 800 while it will probably run higher. The Republican candidates for surrogate, sheriff and assembly will run even with the head of the ticket. Mr. McGraw is very confident of victory in the district.

More enthusiastic Democrats claim the county but one leader, prominent in county affairs, admitted that Fowler would carry the county from 300 to 400 majority. The Democrats have conducted a stronger campaign than has been seen here for many years and the fact that DeWitt C. Flanagan claims Morristown as his home has had its influence. It is generally conceded, however, that there are elements in the canvass which cannot be figured out and which may swing the election either way. Conservative Democrats believe that their candidate for sheriff will be elected but that the Republicans will win with the remainder of the county ticket.

WARREN COUNTY.

Belvidere, Nov. 1—Warren county, the hot bed of Democracy for years out of memory, is now the scene of great political activity, and representatives of both parties are going from one end of it to the other and using their best endeavors to influence the voters to go their way on Tuesday next. The county has not for years been in the throes of a campaign so intense in its character as the present, and speech-making, documents and

HALLOWE'EN TIMES AT PERSEVERANCE LODGE

Pythian Knights Had No End of Fun at Their Meeting Last Evening.

ALL SORTS OF JOKES

THE DECORATIONS WERE A UNIQUE FEATURE OF THE AFFAIR.

Appetizing Looking Viands Proved to be Deceptive and Filled With All Sorts of Unpleasant Things —Fine Programme Given.

Of all the many affairs given last evening in honor of All Hallowe'en it is doubtful if any took precedence over the one given by Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., in its Castle Hall on West Second street. One of the decided features of the affair was embodied in the decorations. They consisted of shocks of corn stalks and grinning jack-o-lanterns. The lanterns were labelled with the names of prominent members of the lodge with a hit on some personal characteristic.

Hallowe'en games, such as apple ducking, apple biting, peanut hunting and flour cutting, began the fun at their conclusion a vaudeville programme was presented. It consisted of contributions from Mons. Dracula, contortionist and tumbler; character songs, monologues and imitations with the bones by Dan Manning; and character songs and dancing by William Walsh; piano selections by Harvey L. Patterson; vocal selections by Michael Martin, of Brooklyn, and Thomas Hendry, of this city, and illustrated songs by Thomas Muir, William N. Runyon and William Schorb.

On the completion of the entertainment refreshments were served and it was during their disposal that practical jokes abounded. Delicious looking cakes when bitten into were found to be full of pennies, pieces of cotton and other things, nicely browned doughnuts and crullers were filled with Cayenne pepper and the cigars when lighted suddenly became torches of red fire and pyrotechnics. One of the best jokes of the evening was played on Stephen Higham, who is known in the lodge as the "King." He gave orders several days ago for another member to buy him a cake for the affair of a size in kepping with one of regal rank. The orders were obeyed and previous to the feasting a solemn procession marched in with two pages in the rear bearing the cake. It was of the fruit variety and weighed twenty pounds which, with the decorating, brought the cost up to $17. The bill was presented to the lugubrious looking king.

The committee which arranged and had charge of the entire affair consisted of Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., chairman, William Feiring, Thomas Muir, William N. Runyon and Samuel J. Robinson.

HARVEST HOME.

As usual, the people of Plainfield and the merchants will be asked to contribute toward the hospital in whatever capacity they are able.

The committee in charge of the affair consists of Mrs. William Pelletier, Mrs. Edward Love, Mrs. M. B. Long, Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Mrs. W. L Glenney, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. W. W. Rowley, Mrs. W. A. Wheeler Mrs. Daniel T. VanBuren and Miss Emilie Schipper.

Mrs. Schwed has been appointed purchaser for the month and the visitors are Mrs. Daniel T. VanBuren, Mrs. Frederick H. Andrews, Mrs. Hugh Hastings and Mrs. M. B. Mellor.

Making New Members.

Court Plainfield, No. 1144, I. O. F., at its meeting, last evening, accepted eleven candidates and initiated four. The degree team with new paraphernalia conferred the work in a commendable manner. Delegates were present from Dunellen, Westfield, Somerville and other places, and later in the evening a smoker and entertainment was held.

PIONEER BUSINESS MAN DIED WHILE SLEEPING

Sudden Demise of Jos. Patterson at His Home Near Scotch Plains.

SEVENTY YEARS OLD

ORGANIZED TOBACCO BUSINESS IN THIS CITY THIRTY YEARS AGO.

Retired From Business Five Years Ago, Turning It Over to His Sons —Was Apparently All Well When He Retired Last Night.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, Nov. 1—When Joseph Patterson retired at his home in Scotch Plains last night he was apparently as well as he has ever been but when his wife went to call him this morning she was horrified to find that her husband was dead, having passed away in his sleep during the night.

The news quickly spread about the village and soon reached this city. At first the people who had known the deceased nearly all their lives would not believe the sad news but when the reports were fully verified they received the news with profound grief.

Joseph Patterson was one of Plainfield's pioneer business men and thirty years ago organized the tobacco business on West Front street which is now being conducted by his three sons. He was very active in business life until five years ago when he retired leaving the concern in the care of his sons who have conducted the affairs at the store since. Fifty years ago he married Miss Elizabeth Moore and moved to Scotch Plains from Brooklyn, where he was born. He was in business for several years in Cincinnati. He had passed the allotment of three-score years and ten by several years.

Besides his wife three, sons and one daughter survive him. The sons are George H., Charles F., and James A., and the daughter's name is Elizabeth. In politics he was a Democrat and thirty years ago was a member of the Township Committee of Westfield township when Scotch Plains was in that township.

The funeral arrangements have not been completed yet but it is probable that the services will be held on Monday from his late residence in the outskirts of Scotch Plains.

TRUCK SETTLED AGAIN.

New Set of Springs Did Not Remedy Trouble With Apparatus.

Although only recently fitted with an entire new set of springs, it has been learned at fire headquarters that the right side of the huge Hayes truck has again settled. On the way to the fire at Mansfield Robinson's home, Wednesday evening, the front wheels barely made the turn owing to the framework catching them. Proper attenion is being paid the trouble and it is not thought the machine will have to be taken off duty.

To Store Materials Elsewhere.

The contractors at work in rebuilding the Babcock building have erected a shed on the Stillman lot on Madison avenue, where the materials, now stored on Front street, will be placed. The shed was erected yesterday, and the work of moving the materials was started in the afternoon.

Supply at First Baptist.

The pulpit at the First Baptist church will be occupied tomorrow by Rev. R. H. Middleditch, of Ridley Park, Pa. He is a brother-in-law of T. S. Armstrong, the apothecary.

FORECAST OF THE ELECTION

brass bands will continue to do their work until late Monday night. Congressman Flanagan and others spoke in Belvidere, the county town, Wednesday night, and Congressman Fowler will wind up the campaign by addressing a mass meeting in the Shiretown Monday night.

Warren county has a normal Democratic majority of 1,500. The time was when the old rock ribbed county was counted on sure for 2,000, and even 2,200, but that day is past. All they can roll up today is 1,500. This majority the Democrats feel confident of, but the Republicans say nay to this proposition, and the chairman of the latter committee puts Warren at from 900 to 1,200, at the most. The Democrats have been somewhat apathetic and a meeting of the county committee had to be held at Washington, (Senator Cornish's home,) on Wednesday, to instill life and energy into the individual members.

The Republicans have been handicapped by reason of the coal strike and the hue and cry raised over the Trusts. They have met the issue bravely, however, and the leaders at this time feel much elated over the outlook. Senator Cornish has just sent out word to all his lieutenants that he expects every man to do his duty on Tuesday next. This means a lot of work at the polls and the Republicans will have to be on the alert or the majority against them, when the votes are counted, will surprise them.

Mr. Flanagan said at Belvidere that he expected to be elected to Congress on Tuesday next. Mr. Fowler will no doubt say the same thing when he addresses the mass meeting at Belvidere Monday night.

Colonel Wilduck, Democrat, will no doubt be elected to the Assembly.

Wm. R. Laire, Republican, expects to win for Senator. He has made a thorough canvass and meets with the most flattering encouragement everywhere.

For sheriff, Wm. J. Barker, the Democratic candidate, will be elected.

THE NEIGHBORING COUNTIES

SOMERSET COUNTY.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Somerville, Nov. 1—The present campaign in Somerset county has been the most active and aggressive in years. Both of the two big parties have waged the war daily and nightly in all sections of the county since the nominations were made, and who the winners will be is a question that very few will attempt to guess even now on the eve, so to speak, of the election. Almost everyone you meet—Republican or Democrat—believes it is a tossup, and very few bets are being listed on the result.

Of course, each of the County Executive Committees has the opinion that its party will win and that handsomely. A prominent member of the Republican committee has made the assertion that Lanning will carry the county by 600, Frelinghuysen by 400, Hoagland by 200 and Van Doren by 300.

On the other hand a member, who is well known and popular on the Democratic side of the house, believes that his ticket will come out by the following majorities: Perrine, 400, Childs, 500, Swackhamer, 300, De Mond, 1,000. He has said that Bernards, Bridgewater, Warren, Bedminster and even North Plainfield will give Democratic majorities, and handsome ones, this fall.

So much for the views of the leaders. According to the people it is going to be very close. Nov. 4, at night, one will see just in which column old Somerset stands.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY.

New Brunswick, Nov. 1—There is a very interesting guessing contest going on in Middlesex county just at present over the outcome of these past few weeks of hustling for votes on the part of the various candidates for office in that county. The Republicans have been kept guessing by the Democrats and the latter have been kept on the qui vive by the Republicans. In fact the campaign has been very lively since electioneering became the vogue throughout the State.

There seems to be but little doubt but the county will go Democratic but the victory will not be a landslide by any means. The next Congressman will be Hon. Benjamin F. Howell, who has already served three consecutive terms in that office and who is the present incumbent.

While the Republicans are almost certain to re-elect Congressman Howell they are going to lose the shrievalty. David Servis, the present county collector, will be the next sheriff of Middlesex. The Democrats have a man on the ticket who is very popular in Perth Amboy and in the smaller towns throughout the county, while William Carman, the Republican candidate, has the most friends in New Brunswick and Metuchen. Mr. Carman has made a very hard fight for the office and Mr. Servis' majority will be a narrow one.

Peter Francis Daly, the Democratic candidate for the office of surrogate, will also win by a very small majority over his opponent, Theodore Booraem. Mr. Daly also has many friends in Perth Amboy as well as in New Brunswick who are working hard for his election. Mr. Booraem is working just as hard for success as his rival but on the whole, his chances are not so bright as are Mr. Daly's. A Republican of Middlesex county remarked in this city yesterday that the Democratic candidate would be elected by a small majority.

There will be two Democrats in the Assembly after election day. They will probably be Joseph H. Ridgeway and B. M. Gannon. The Republican representative will no doubt be W. H. C. Jackson, of New Brunswick, the present incumbent in office.

One of the reasons why the Democrats will carry the county is because of the lax manner in which the affairs at the county jail have been carried on since the Republicans have been in office, and another reason why the Democratic party will win is because of the fact that a Democratic Board of Chosen Freeholders has pushed through the Amboy bridge and have given direct communication between the two bay shore towns.

Then again there is the vexatious jail question. There can be no doubt but the people of Middlesex want a new and substantial jail and with the Democratic party in power it is almost certain that the new jail will be forthcoming and at reasonable cost.

In the city of New Brunswick the Republicans will win because the Republicans have on their ticket a clean list of young bloods and by voting that ticket the people have an excellent opportunity of getting the city out of the hands of the "ring" which has been largely responsible for the stagnant condition of that town.

There is a great amount of dissatisfaction in that city with the Democratic party over the fact that the Democratic Aldermen gave the Pennsylvania Railroad Company the right to close up some of the most important streets of the town by erecting their solid stone walls across the principal thoroughfares.

The resulting dissatisfaction among the people of the Fifth and Sixth wards, the two strongest Democratic wards in the city, will cost the Democratic party many votes in the city this fall.

HER STORY.

Miss Ellen M. Stone Will Relate It at Casino Next Week.

Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary who was kidnapped and held in captivity by Macedonian brigands for a period of 172 days, pending the payment of a ransom of $65,000, will give a graphic recital of her experiences while a prisoner, at the Casino, Saturday night, November 8. Miss Stone is credited with great success in the delivery of her trials and tribulations, telling her story in free dramatic manner; coupled with a simplicity which is refreshing and effective. The New York Sun in speaking of her lecture in the metropolis, said: "It is worth while to go and see her and hear her talk. She tells an interesting story in a delightful way, and at no time poses as a martyr." Tickets for reserved seats are now on sale at Armstrong's pharmacy. One price, and all seats reserved.

—William Smith and family, of Glen Gardner, have taken up their residence in Plainfield.

THEATRICAL.

At the Acadamy of Music, New York, "The Ninety and Nine," Ramsay Morris's new drama, has made the biggest sensation of any play presented in the metropolis for years. Aside from the story of the play which is absorbingly dramatic and appealing, the production which has been given to it by Frank McKee is on a marvelous scale of magnitude and elaborateness. Referring to the opening performance the New York World says: "The author with one mighty stroke of mechanical ingenuity, combined with theatrical illusion, has set a mark far and away above any of his competitors." In regard to the sensational effect referred to The World says: "Events led up to a terrible catastrophe. A little Indiana hamlet was supposed to be encircled by a raging prairie and forest fire, and its three thousand people were threatened with a horrible death. On the platform of the little station of Cleves, thirty miles away, were scores of excited people waiting as the telegraph slowly ticked the story of their peril. In the throng was the drunken hero and the woman who was trying to save him. There was also the villain the son of the railroad official, whose special train and its powerful engine were standing in the railroad yard. The engineer was absent and the craven young millionare, who himself knew all about the engine, had refused to take the risk of making the dash through the fire-swept country, on the mission of rescue. The unsteady drink-racked hero sprang forward to take his place. Darkness, a moment of suspense and then the curtain rose again, upon a lurid exciting scene. The big stage was literally covered with fire. Flames licked the tree trunks and withered the leaves. Telegraph poles blazed and the wires snapped and curled in the fierce heat. Sharp tongues of fire swept through the dry grass and mounted higher and higher and swept on blazing fiercely, and then dimmed in the rolling smoke. In the midst of it all was the massive locomotive, full sized and such as draw the modern express trains, almost hidden from view in the steam and smoke. Its big drive wheels spun on the track and it rocked and swayed as if driven at topmost speed. In the cab was the engineer, smoke-grimed and scared while the fireman dashed pails of water over him to protect him from the flying embers." The play is on for a long run at the Academy.

The New York Painting and Decorating Company, of Park avenue, has completed a fine piece of work at the home of Former Councilman John Valiant, in Washington Park. The work included the tinting of the walls, relief work, etc., and it has been greatly admired.

The introduction of White Label brand of canned goods into this city by Neuman Brothers, has revolutionized the sale locally. Ordinarily, vegetables put up without any care, as most of them are, are decidedly lacking in taste, flavor and freshness. Not so with the White Label goods. They are packed in a scientific manner in specially prepared air tight receptacles and when taken out for use, the contents are as fresh as the day they were put up. Neuman Brothers place their guarantee behind every can they sell.

It restores the inflamed tissues to a healthy state without drying all the life out of them and it gives back the lost senses of taste and smell. The sufferer who is tired of vain experiments should use Cream Balm. Druggists sell it for 50 cts. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York, will mail it.

FIRST RULING MADE

Strike Board's Award Will Date From Nov. 1.

ANOTHER DAY IN THE COAL MINES

Preliminary Report May Be Made Relative to Wage Increase, Shorter Work Day and Coal Weighing.

SCRANTON, Nov. 1.—The first important action by the anthracite coal strike commission, which is arbitrating the differences existing between the miners and their employees, has been taken. It is announced by Carroll D. Wright, the recorder of the commission, that if any award affecting the existing rate of wages shall be made the award shall be effective from Nov. 1. It was fully expected that this question would come up before the arbitrators, but the action of the commissioners shuts off any possible controversy that either side may have desired to raise. The miners wanted the new scale, if one is made, to date from the time they returned to work, but the operators left the matter to be decided by the commissioners. The mine workers are perfectly satisfied, however, with the decision of the commission. The strike has been off only one week, and most of the men have not worked more than four or five days.

The commissioners spent the entire day in continuing their inspection of the mines and the mining region about Scranton. They visited the Manville colliery, operated jointly by the Delaware and Hudson and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western companies, in the forenoon, and the afternoon was spent in riding through the region on a special trolley car. The commissioners are on a tour of inspection today in the vicinity of Wilkesbarre and will return here in the evening.

It is possible the commission may make a preliminary report on three of the principal strike questions. They are the increase in wages, a shorter work day and the weighing of coal. After these have been decided the commission can take up all other questions without undue haste. It is known the commissioners have this feature under consideration, and it is very likely a preliminary report will be made.

The commissioners were underground yesterday for two hours and a half. The party consisted of thirteen persons and included six commissioners, the two assistant recorders, General Superintendent Rose of the Delaware and Hudson company, General Superintendent Phillips of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, District President Nicholls of the miners' union, a miner employed in the Manville and one newspaper correspondent, who represented the other news gatherers.

The arbitrators inspected practically the entire underground workings and, as on Thursday, found much to interest them. They asked numerous questions of all men they encountered in the gangways or chambers and did not seem to mind the discomforts of the trip.

The commission has not yet decided when it shall begin taking testimony. Chairman Gray said it may be nearly a week before the hearings are begun. Recorder Wright has sent out letters to the sixty-seven individual operators in the coalfields, giving them the same privilege of appearing before the commissioners as the larger operators.

It is stated by a member of the commission that the arbitrators will leave here either tomorrow night or Monday morning for Hazleton, where two days will be spent. The remainder of the week will be taken up by visiting the Panther Creek valley and the towns in the Schuylkill region.

Sioux Colliery Started.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Nov. 1.—The Sioux colliery, owned by the Lehigh Valley Coal company, having been tied up since the resumption of mining at the other collieries because the company would not re-employ a union Slav boss who quit work when Mitchell ordered him to remain away from the mines, has resumed operations by the Lehigh Valley Coal company reinstating the union man.

Cresceus Lowered Two Mile Record.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 1.—Cresceus, the great son of Robert McGregor, made good his claim to championship honors at the Driving park in a remarkable exhibition of speed and stamina. The horse was sent against the world's two mile trotting record of 4:28¼, held by Onward Silver, and completed the circuit twice without a break in 4:17 flat, clipping eleven and a quarter seconds off the former record. Both the horse and Mr. Ketcham, who drove him, received an ovation from the large crowd present.

Engineer Gillespie Reports on Fortifications.

INSULAR PROTECTION IS NEEDED.

Strengthening the Works About Important Harbors More Than Half Completed—Improvements In New York Bay.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The annual report of General G. L. Gillespie, chief of engineers of the United States army, now made public, presents a comprehensive view of the condition of fortifications throughout the country. After giving a list of the thirty-one points at which projects for permanent seacoast defenses have been adopted, the report says that the defense of the great lakes and the St. Lawrence is under consideration, and also projects for defenses for Porto Rico, Hawaii, Guam, Manila and Subig bay have been approved by the secretary of war. With reference to the last mentioned plans, the opinion is given that construction should begin at an early day.

"It is believed," the report continues, "that the time has come when it will be no longer possible to ignore the question of the insular defenses. The navy department is properly insistent that all its important coaling stations should receive proper defensive protection to keep off predatory attacks from possible hostile fleets."

With regard to defenses for coaling stations the suggestion is made that in view of changes in the construction of ordnance and ships congress should make provision for the appointment of a tribunal similar to the Endicott board of 1888 for the determination of details. This board, it is suggested, should have jurisdiction over the important naval bases at Manila, Pearl harbor and Honolulu as well as the proposed defenses for the St. Lawrence and the great lakes.

According to the report, the seacoast defenses are now somewhat more than 50 per cent completed. Twenty-five of the principal harbors of the United States have a sufficient number of heavy guns and mortars mounted to permit an effective defense against naval attack, and during the past two years considerable progress has been made in the installation of an adequate rapid fire armament, now the matter of first importance.

Under the head of river and harbor improvements much detail is given concerning the work done in the waters in the vicinity of New York. In East river it is stated that $4,595,088 of the $5,639,120 considered necessary to complete the present project has been expended, while in Harlem river $1,243,702 of a necessary $2,700,000 has been used. Speaking of the improvement in East channel, it is stated that under the existing project up to July 1, $402,436 has been expended in excavating for about a mile in length on the outer bar, but that no result useful to navigation will be obtained until the cuts are carried through the outer bar, which is about two miles long.

With reference to the enlargement of Governors island, it is stated that available funds will complete the riprap part of the bulkhead up to Castle William wall, an additional distance of about 1,500 feet, and that future appropriations will be applied to continuing and completing the enlargement.

Considerable space is devoted to the ship channel connecting the waters of the great lakes between Chicago, Duluth and Buffalo. The total expenditure on the improvement to June 3, 1902, was $2,992,058. The present commerce is about forty times that of 1870, six times that of 1886 and five times that of 1892.

Our Trade In Canada Grows.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The marked increase in the trade of the Dominion of Canada for the last fiscal year forms the subject of an advance sheet issued by the bureau of foreign commerce of the department of state. The aggregate commerce of Canada for the year was $414,431,831 against $379,243,773 in the preceding year. The increase was largely in the imports of goods entered for consumption. The value of the imports from the United States for 1902 was $120,809,956 against $49,215,693 from Great Britain and $32,785,946 from all other countries. The increase in importations from the United States exceeded $10,000,000.

President Hill's Great Project.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Nov. 1.—James J. Hill has begun the development of a steel and iron industry in the west which will rival anything of the sort in the world. He has arrived at Great Falls to arrange the first definite project in his great enterprise, the transformation of the old silver smelter of the American Smelting and Refining company, which has not been in operation for three years, into an immense iron and steel mill.

Buying Canadian Forests.

MONTREAL, Nov. 1.—The Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Navigation company, known as the Wolvin syndicate of Detroit, has bought from King Bros., Quebec, the entire seignory of Matane, with its extensive forests, for the purpose of entering into the lumber business in connection with its grain transportation schemes.

Steel Magnate In Genoa.

GENOA, Nov. 1.—Charles M. Schwab has arrived here. He is in good spirits and delighted with the climate. He has not yet embarked on the yacht Margarita.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Business Greatly Retarded by Lack of Transportation Facilities.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Speculation waits upon politics, but legitimate business is not disturbed by the approaching election. New labor controversies have been promptly settled by advancing wages, and the gradual improvement in supply of coal has reduced prices and restored activity in manufacturing. Complaints are increasing as to the tardy movement of freight, miles of cars being stalled by the lack of motive power, and many roads refuse to accept further shipments until the blockades are relieved. Lower temperature has stimulated retail sales of seasonable merchandise, but frost comes too late to seriously injure agricultural products. Liberal consumption sustains quotations in most lines, domestic demands being supplemented by large exports.

The future course of the iron and steel industry will be largely influenced by this fuel shortage, much business being permanently lost to home producers, and prices in some departments already show the effect of disorganized conditions. Railway needs have not diminished, numerous large orders constantly appearing, while the pressure for locomotives is causing large premiums to be offered. Structural shapes for bridge and ship building are next in point of urgent demand. Agreement on the tin plate wage scale may secure a lot of business that now goes out of the country, and some reduction in prices is expected.

According to precedent, wheat and corn should move in sympathy, but during the remainder of the crop year it is extremely doubtful whether custom will prevail. Many factors combine to sustain wheat. Reports from the Pacific coast indicate that the yield in that section fell short of expectations, yet news from Australia is most distressing, and large imports are being engaged. In Europe there is unusual consumption of wheat in feeding live stock owing to the scarcity of corn, while domestic mills are grinding at their limit. Supplies increase but little, although western receipts for the week were 9,278,678 bushels against 7,060,590 last year, and exports from the United States for the week were 5,803,973 bushels compared with 5,018,103 a year ago.

All these influences give wheat support, whereas the greatest corn crop on record is about to come forward, western receipts for the week amounting to 2,612,862 bushels against 2,217,126 last year.

Failures for the week numbered 233 in the United States against 191 last year and 22 in Canada compared with 21 a year ago.

Busy Day For Crown Prince.

BOSTON, Nov. 1.—Yesterday was by far the busiest day the crown prince of Siam and party have had since leaving New York and in many ways the most interesting. In the morning they went to Waltham and visited a watch manufacturing company, giving close attention to the methods of manufacturing the various parts of the works of a watch. A luncheon was served in the company's office, after which the princes were given watches with the Siamese coat of arms on the cases. The crown prince also received a lady's watch, the case set with diamonds, with the remark that perhaps some day he would desire to make a present to a lady. The party then went to Lynn, where they spent considerable time going through the factory there. In the evening the party again visited the theater and later were entertained at the Algonquin club.

Germany's Interests In America.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—According to a statement forwarded to the bureau of foreign commerce by Consul Winter, who is stationed at Annaberg, there is $2,000,000,000 of German capital invested in the United States and Mexico. It is also claimed that Germany has investments amounting to $2,000,000,000 in Central and South America, $1,000,000,000 in Australia, Africa and the far east and $250,000,000 in Turkey. In addition, it is stated that the German investments in stocks and bonds of other countries amount to $3,000,000,000. These foreign investments, the report says, are all the growth of the past thirty years, Germany having been one of the weakest nations financially until within the present generation.

Vanderlip Speaks In North Carolina.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Nov. 1.—Hon. Frank A. Vanderlip, vice president of the National City bank of New York and assistant secretary of the treasury during President McKinley's first administration, was the guest of honor and principal speaker at an elaborate banquet here last night under the auspices of the chamber of commerce, the leading trades organization of the city. There were about 200 representative business men of the community in attendance, and the speech of the eminent financier was listened to with much pleasure.

Korean Minister Received at Peking

PEKING, Nov. 1.—The emperor of China yesterday received Pak Chia Sun, the first Korean minister to China. The minister was accompanied by members of the legation. The dowager empress was not present at the reception. The Koreans wore European military uniforms to emphasize the fact that they are no longer subjects of China.

New Postage Stamp Out.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

Digests what you eat.

Many persons suffer frightfully from indigestion, and are in torture when they eat anything; the heart palpitates and they can't sleep. They try pepsin, soda tablets and almost everything else, and half-starve themselves, and still get no better. Isn't there anything to help them?

Many doctors know their patients suffer this way and don't know what to do. But here is how some doctors secure the gratitude of their patients:

"I suffered terribly from indigestion for fifteen years till my family doctor recommended KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE. The first dose relieved me, and I continued its use till now I am sound and well."—John H. Ellenberger, Helixville, Pa.

It can't help but do you good

"My family physician recommended me to use KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE for chronic indigestion that had tortured me for years. Formerly I couldn't eat anything or drink even a glass of water without distress. Now I can eat and drink whatever I want."—Mrs. R. F. Buffington, Xenia, Ill.

DIGG'S UPRIGHT FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

The Best on Earth! We Challenge the World!

The Extinguishers that turn up-side-down to discharge are good of their kind, but this is far better. Read the following reasons:

Points of superior merit of the Diggs-Upright over any other machine—

1—A sealed acid bottle and an air-tight tank. No change in the conditions of the chemicals possible.

2—Can never be discharged by accident; absolutely under the control of the operator.

3—A 3-gallon machine of this type contains ONE QUART more of liquid than a reversible, because it does not require a handle underneath.

4—It does not need inspection and recharging as required for the reversible with its loose stopple.

5—The acid being released at the top of the tank, and the outlet being at the bottom, the mingling of the chemicals is so thorough before the acid reaches the outlet that it is completely neutralized, and no harm can be done to flesh or fabric. In the reversible type the acid is released within the two inches of the outlet.

6—Convenience in handling. The machine stands on its bottom, and all the operator has to do is to turn the screw in the cap, and the flow begins instantly.

7—The bottle is not broken, and no nuisance of broken glass.

JOHNSON USES FIST.

Cleveland's Mayor Would Not Be Called a Liar.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 1.—A sensational scene occurred during a political meeting in the public square here in which Mayor Tom L. Johnson struck William Mylecraine, a Republican tax board official, in the face with his fist. It seems, according to the statement of the bystanders, that the mayor overheard Mylecraine assert that he (Johnson) was a liar. A few hot words followed, and then the mayor struck Mylecraine in the face. Mylecraine left the square, declaring that he would secure a warrant for the mayor's arrest.

Mayor Johnson, in explaining his side of the case, is quoted as saying: "We were talking about the assessment in the Thirty-second ward. Mylecraine had repeated twice that Mayor Johnson lies, and I walked over to him to explain that there might be some error in the papers. I intended to give him a chance to retract, but he wouldn't let me, declaring to my face that I was a liar. I then hit him. It was only a tap. I'm not certain that my hand touched him. I only intended slapping his face."

Vancouver to Brisbane.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 1.—The completion of the cable line between Vancouver and Brisbane, as already announced, makes one dream of the imperialists a reality. The cable is still in the hands of the contractors, and it will not be open for business for about three weeks. During that time it will undergo an elaborate system of tests in order that the officials may be satisfied that it is in thorough working order before being taken over from the contractors. The section between Bamfield creek and Fanning island, which is the longest in the world, already has undergone a series of tests and proved entirely equal to expectations. The great question in the success of the cable was over this enormous stretch, but it was found by test to give a speed of over a hundred words a minute with the Deerlove transmitter. The actual time occupied in the transmission of a message from this city to Sydney, Australia, including four repetitions, will be less than five minutes.

Venezuelans Preparing For Battle.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Nov. 1.—One thousand Andino troops from Maracaibo, Venezuela, have disembarked at Puerto Cabello and marched at once to Valencia to join the government forces there, which number about 1,500 men. They will attack the revolutionists from the rear, according to the present arrangement, at the same time that government forces under President Castro attack the enemy in front. President Castro has left La Victoria and gone in the direction of Villa de Cura. He left only 1,700 men at La Victoria. A report has reached here that forces under General Gomez have been routed with considerable loss by insurgents near San Mateo. General Gomez is vice president of Venezuela and has been operating with President Castro.

Loubet Working to End Strike.

PARIS, Nov. 1.—President Loubet, following the example set by President Roosevelt, is taking an active part in settling the French coal miners' strike. He has held an extended conference with M. Vincent, prefect of the department of Nord, who has been acting as intermediary between the strikers and the mine owners in that department. The mine owners have given the prefect the names of four persons who are to represent them in a conference with an equal number of strikers. In a semi-official statement President Loubet expresses hope for an early settlement of the strike and declares that this would be a political accomplishment beyond precedent.

MORE TIME TO MOROS

Bacolod Contingent Assumes Friendlier Aspect.

LEADERS PROMISE THEIR SUPPORT

Expedition to Force Submission to American Rule Delayed—General Miles Accepts Governor Taft's Hospitality.

MANILA, Nov. 1.—A telegram has been received here from General Sumner at Zamboanga, Mindanao, saying he is disposed to give the Bacolod Moros more time in which to make peace before capturing and destroying their strongholds.

Captain Pershing reports to General Sumner that many additional Moro leaders have come in and pledged friendship and support to the Americans. These visits have been returned by the Americans, who were cordially received by the Moros. Captain Pershing is urging the Moros to return to their abandoned fields and plant crops.

The situation at Lake Lanao, Mindanao, now appears to be more satisfactory.

Twenty members of the native constabulary of the island of Negros defeated seventy ladrones near Turica, Negros. The ladrones were intrenched, and it took an hour's fierce fighting to dislodge them. Six of the bandits were killed, and several of them were wounded. Their leader, a man named Dalmacio, was wounded and captured. Two guides in the employ of the constabulary were killed.

The newly organized Catholic Church of the Philippines proposes to canonize Jose Rizal, the Filipino patriot who was executed by the Spaniards in 1807, and Fathers Burgos and Gomez, native priests, who were executed for participation in the Cavite rebellion of 1872. A final decision in this matter, however, has not yet been reached.

General Miles, who arrived yesterday, has accepted Governor Taft's invitation to live at the palace while here. The garrison in Manila will be reviewed by the general today. The general will then proceed to Dagupan, where he will visit Colonel Charles L. Davis of the Fifth infantry, General Miles' old regiment. The general's plan for a tour of the archipelago has not yet been completed.

Lieutenant Winship In Hospital.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Lieutenant Emory Winship, attached to the flagship Iowa, has been condemned by medical survey on account of rheumatism and transferred to the British hospital at Montevideo. There is a most remarkable story behind this officer's illness. He was one of the heroes of the naval campaign in the Philippines and was advanced several numbers in his grade for distinguished conduct in action before the enemy. He now carries five Mauser bullets in his body—three in his right leg, one in his left leg and one in his left hip—received while operating a Colt automatic gun in a small steam launch endeavoring to protect the landing of a body of men from his ship, the gunboat Bennington. Lieutenant Winship was the target of the attacking party and was struck five times, but luckily none of the bullets reached a vital spot. It is believed his rheumatic disability will be only temporary.

Whitecappers Indicted.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Nov. 1.—The Barnstable grand jury has returned indictments in the Marion tar and feather incident of Aug. 6 last, the men named in the findings being W. H. Potter, Odber Andrews, Noble E. Bates, Owen S. Bumpus, A. N. Gifford, Hector G. McCloud and Joseph Silva, all of Marion. The charges are of riotous disturbance of the peace and of assaulting, beating and ill treating Mrs. Clara F. Potter and James McDonald. On the night mentioned a crowd of men gave McDonald a coat of tar and feathers and rode him on a rail out of town. Mrs. Potter was subjected to indignities, but not bodily harmed. McDonald was a boarder in the Potter household, and neighbors did not like conditions said to exist there.

Fast Time to Pacific Coast.

CHICAGO, Nov. 1.—With the inauguration Sunday of the Golden State limited between Los Angeles and Chicago over the Southern Pacific and Rock Island railroads, the time from coast to coast will be reduced to eighty-eight hours. The limited will leave Los Angeles at 2:30 p. m. and will reach Chicago at 10:30 a. m., in time to connect with the twenty hour trains for the Atlantic seaboard. The running time from Los Angeles to Chicago will be only sixty-six hours, and, allowing two hours lay over at Chicago, the through time from coast to coast will be eighty-eight hours, which will be a new record for the distance.

FOWLER OR FLANAGAN ?

Fowler or Flanagan, which will it be? That is a question which a good many men in the Fifth Congressional district would like to be able to answer with certainty. It will require a counting of the ballots Tuesday to definitely decide it. It is now conceded by both parties that the result is going to be close. The Republicans expect to win and the Democrats are hopeful. Summarizing the forecasts in the three counties, made especially for The Daily Press by those thoroughly in touch with the situation which appear on the first page of this issue, the Congressional battle is going to be extremely close with the odds slightly in favor of Congressman Fowler.

Figuring on normal majorities, Congressman Fowler ought to win out it is an admitted fact today that both sides are going to do considerable cutting at the polls Tuesday and normal majorities cannot be counted on. Fowler will carry Union county, Flanagan will come out on top in Warren. The net balance should, from the present appearance of things, show a small advantage for Fowler. A setback for either candidate in either of those counties will mean his defeat. It rests with Morris county, however, to practically decide the fight. It is there that the campaign has been the hardest and the result there will be watched with keenest interest. It looks at the present writing as if Congressman Fowler would carry that county but he will not have a great many votes to spare. If he does then he will be elected to Congress.

In another column will be found an impartial forecast of the probable results in the three counties which make up the Fifth district. They have been prepared by trained observers and give the situation as fairly as it is possible to give it. This is what it looks like now. The results will be concisely and accurately given in a special edition of The Daily Press which will be published Wednesday morning. It will take the place of the regular afternoon edition on that day.

ENDEAVORERS MET.

Arranged for Anniversary Service in Connection With Thanksgiving Meeting—Other Business.

The monthly business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church was held Thursday evening at the home of Miss Giles, of East Sixth street. The president, Miss Cora Brokaw, was in the chair, and there was a good attendance of members.

The first part of the evening was spent in committee conference relative to work for the coming month. The following persons were added to the society roll: Mrs. Nelson Runyon and S. Arthur Krom as honorary members. Miss Mabel Hand and Miss Vida Whitney were received as active members, having graduated from the Junior Endeavor Society recently.

It was decided to have one member of each committee in the senior society become the chairman of the corresponding committee in the Junior Society. It was also decided to combine the anniversary of the society with the regular Christian Endeavor Thanksgiving service, with a special programme. After the business, refreshments were served and the members joined in playing the game of ping-pong.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

Last night was one of the quietest Hallowe'ens this place has ever passed through. Usually the place is turned topsy-turvey, wagons are piled up on the sidewalks, gates stolen and numerous other tricks played. Last evening Marshal Plaine was out and all plans for a hilarious time were frustrated. Some boys did take a wagon on the sidewalk near Dealaman's store but they were caught in the act by the marshal and made to put the vehicle back where they found it.

A very enjoyable Hallowe'en party was given last evening by Miss Marjorie Burke, of Prospect avenue, to a large number of her friends, who assembled from Plainfield, Bound Brook and other places. The time was passed with dancing and music and the usual merrymaking Hallowe'en games were played. Refreshments were served before the guests departed for their several homes.

Senator W. C. Gethardt, of Clinton, was in town on business yesterday. When he went to get on the train at the station to go home, he slipped and fell and scratched and bruised himself painfully. He was taken to Dr. Brakeley's office and after his injuries were dressed was able to go home.

Daniel Beard had considerable trouble yesterday in getting his household goods removed from a freight car at the freight house yesterday, to a house which he is to occupy at Clinton avenue. He finally managed to get one load taken up by Huff's express.

An important issue in Tuesday's election will be the question of reducing the number of Freeholders. There is little sentiment in town in favor of the movement.

The third quarterly conference will be held in the Methodist church this evening. The presiding elder will be present.

Ludlow Frazee is engaged in giving a coat of paint to George Giles' residence on North avenue.

The Willing Workers of Holy Innocents church will hold a regular meeting this afternoon.

Quite a number from here attended the Republican rally in Plainfield, Thursday evening.

A regular meeting was held last evening of the Checker Club in W. H. Cole's office.

Charles Johnston, of High Bridge, has been visiting friends in town.

Mass was celebrtated in St. John's church this morning at 10:30.

Paul Reusch visited in Plainfield this morning.

NEW MARKET.

The Board of Education of the township has held several sufficient meetings during the past week to inspect the new school house at East Bound Brook. They have found the work progressing nicely. A regular meeting will be held in the New Market school house, Monday afternoon at 2:30.

W. J. Davis visited friends in Dunellen yesterday. He and his wife will leave on November 15 to spend the winter in California.

Hallowe'en was unusually quiet here, although some of the boys enjoyed themselves with the usual pranks.

Mrs. Hannah Nelson has been entertaining relatives from New York City for a few days this week.

Mrs. L. E. Livermore has again gone to Connecticut to attend her sick mother.

Abram Nelson's store has not yet been rented and still remains empty

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Services tomorrow at the Baptist church will be: Bible day exercises in the parlors of the church at 9:30; a pleasing programme has been arranged and the parents and friends of the school are invited to attend; morning preaching by the pastor, subject, "Evidences From the Temple of Christianity," 10:45; B. Y. P. U. meeting, 7; evening preaching, "Jewish Christian Priesthood," 7:45. At the close of the morning service the monthly observance of the Lord's Supper will be held.

Judge Clark, when not dispensing law, is being kept quite busy of late in the matrimonial line. The latest happy couple to be made one by His Honor was James Lear and Miss Sarah Willett, both of Plainfield. Judge Clark's latch string will always be found hanging on the outside for those who desire his services in this line, no matter at what hour of the day or night.

Several pleasant surprise parties were held in town last night to celebrate Hallowe'en. One was tendered to the Misses Marsh, of Front street, another to Miss Anna Miller, of the borough, and still another to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel MacCauley, of Grant street. Music, games and refreshments passed away several happy hours at each gathering.

Positively the last game of ball for this season will be played this afternoon on the local diamond between the locals and Plainfield Consolidated team. Owing to the universal interest in the game this season, the ball season through this section has been carried nearly two months beyond the usual season. Game called at 2 o'clock.

The case of Christian Hansen, who is charged by his wife, Elizabeth Hansen, with assault and battery and inhuman treatment, which was to have been tried in Judge Clark's court last night, was adjourned until Thursday afternoon, November 6, at 2 o'clock.

Hallowe'en passed by with the usual number of tantalizing pranks. Those who had neglected taking warning from previous years found their gates, door mats and everything else that could be carried by the boys, missing.

A benefit dance tendered to Manning Frazer, of Berkely Heights, was given last night in the large hall at Berkeley Heights. A number from the village and Plainfield attended the affair.

The Saturday evening prayer meeting will be held at the Methodist church tonight at 8 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Bayliss will lead.

The annual collection for the Publication Society will be taken at the Baptist church at Sunday morning's service.

Charles Manning is still in the hospital at Newark having undergone a third operation for the removal of an abcess.

Hallowe'en was observed by some of the boys in the usual way. One woman received a pumpkin filled with candy.

Thomas H. Brantingham, who with Albert Smalley is on a fishing trip in West Virginia, reports good success.

Mrs. Peter Johnson, of Plainfield avenue, called on friends in town yesterday.

Archie Stengraff was carting hay yesterday from his farm to market.

Fred Endress has put in a driven well on his farm in Piscataway.

M. W. Payne lost a valuable horse from colic Wednesday night.

Frederick Manning is improving from his recent injury.

Big Bunch for Initiation.

At the regular meeting of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., last evening, eight applications for membership were received. With their election next week, fifteen applicants will be initiated during November, the greatest number ever going through at once in any K. of P. lodge in the State.

J. H. Carney There.

An entertainment was held last evening at Liberty Corner for the benefit of the church there. It was conducted by the teachers of the school and held in the church. Among those who participated was John H. Carney in some of his famous German sketches.

Mistook the Place.

An intoxicated man mistook the Liberty Street ferry station of the Jersey Central Railroad in New York for his bedroom, at 5:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and started to disrobe. A policeman gathered him in and carted him away in an express wagon.

PRESIDENT HUNTING.

Roosevelt and Party After Turkey and Quail In Virginia.

MANASSAS, Va., Nov. 1.—President Roosevelt and his party were given a cordial welcome to Manassas on their arrival here. The president, accompanied by Secretary Root, Secretary Cortelyou and Surgeon General Rixey of the navy, reached here late last night on a special train for a few days' gunning expedition. The open season for wild turkey and quail began in Virginia today. The party traveled from Washington over the Southern railroad as far as Manassas, where the train was sidetracked, and today the party is shooting over the farm of Representative Rixey of Virginia, a brother of Surgeon General Rixey.

The president and his traveling companions spent the night on the cars. Carriages had been ordered to be at the president's car at 4 o'clock this morning. In these President Roosevelt and his party were conveyed to Representative Rixey's country place.

Extraordinary precautions have been taken to insure the safety of the president while on his outing. In addition to the secret service and postal officers who always accompany him wherever he goes several members of the Manassas police force have been detailed by the mayor of the town to watch over the president while he remains here.

Representative Rixey, who accompanies the president, owns a tract of 1,900 acres about three miles from this village. It is said to be a fine cover for both turkeys and quails. Over this tract, which is in the very heart of the historic battlefield of Bull Run, the president and his party will shoot. For several weeks in anticipation of the visit men have been protecting and feeding a particularly fine drove of wild turkeys, and the president is assured of excellent sport.

Serious Circus Mishap.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Nov. 1.—During the performance of Forepaugh & Sells' circus at Albany, Ga., Minting, one of the performers, was seriously, possibly fatally, injured. Minting's act was the riding of a unicycle up a spiral tower forty feet high, descending in the same manner. Yesterday afternoon he made the ascent as usual, but when he jumped from his wheel at the top of the tower the platform gave way, and he fell to the ground, striking the structure at three different places. He was badly bruised about the shoulders, had several ribs broken and received internal injuries, the extent of which have not yet been determined.

Smallpox Spreading In Barbados.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Nov. 1.—Smallpox continues to spread in Barbados at an alarming rate. A week ago the total number of cases reached 1,200. In consequence of the shipping restrictions the customs revenues declined the last quarter by over $20,000, a comparatively large sum. The other islands are observing the most strict quarantine against Barbados.

A DAMPER ON PROPOSALS.

Some of the Indignities That Are Heaped Upon the Bridegroom-Elect in China.

Women are constantly complaining that eligible men show a most uncompromising desire to remain single instead of selecting a wife. It is, therefore, a good thing that the same conditions do not prevail in England as in some parts of China, or the probability is that not one in a thousand would ever take a woman "for better or for worse," says Woman's Life.

In these celestial regions the bridegroom-elect has to submit to being dressed up by his friends in any sort of costume they like, and, thus habited, they accompany him in state through the streets of the town. Perhaps in that part of the world men are overanxious to be married, and everything which can possibly be done to induce them to remain single until they arrive at a more mature age has to be resorted to.

It is another case of all being fair in love and war, and no doubt the Chinaman who is shouting to-day, as he accompanies his friend, knows full well that next week he may be the bridegroom-elect, and so the punishment is robbed of much of its terror.

INDIANS GETTING CIVILIZED.

The Tuscaroras Are Giving Up Their Customs and Looking Forward to Citizenship.

It is many years since the Tuscarora Indians have held a "condolence," a ceremony which to the red men is similar to the inauguration of a president by the whites, says a Niagara Falls correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean. In explanation of this an old chief says that the Indians no longer look upon the ceremony of a "condolence" with the reverence of old. The Tuscaroras are the adopted children of the Six Nations, and they say that the Onondagas, the firekeepers of the nation, practically have disqualified themselves for this honorable position, and that the Tuscaroras no longer look up to them as children are wont to do to a parent for advice and help.

From these feelings between the adopted children and the leading tribe of the Six Nations, it is evident that the Indians are clinging closer to civilization and the white man's customs, and that a chasm is opening between the Indian tribes of the state. As a result of this severance of tribal relations the Indians of western New York are looking forward to citizenship.

TRICKS OF PHYSICIANS.

Practice of Completing Their Education Abroad Proves Almost Always Profitable.

"The best thing a physician or surgeon can do is to go off about six months every two or three years and give patients a chance to miss him. They will flock back to him in swarms—providing, of course, he has established a reputation and gained their complete confidence." So says a leading and eminently successful surgeon.

Here is a physician living in a city of 56,000 inhabitants, with a practice of $20,000 a year, of which he collects $12,000. "The most successful practitioners in my town," he says, "are two young men who spent a year each in Vienna and Paris, apparently studying the latest methods and cures. All that they knew they learned right in New York, but the mere fact of their having taken a course or two in Europe, or having pretended to, has given them a vogue which no one who has never been abroad can appreciate. A foreign reputation is worth $10,000 a year to a $5,000 doctor."

USES OF A BANANA.

Many Sources of Revenue to Which This Popular Fruit Is Put.

Immense fortunes have been made out of the banana business. Revenues do not accrue alone from the sale of the fruit, for the leaves are used for packing; the juice, being strong in tannin, make an indelible ink and shoe blacking; the wax found on the under side of the leaves is a valuable article of commerce; manila hemp is made from the stems, and of this hemp are made mats, plaited work and lace handkerchiefs of the finest texture; moreover, the banana is ground into banana flour. The fruit to be sold for dessert is ripened by the dry warmth of flaring gas jets in the storage places in which it is kept, and care has to be taken to prevent softening or overripening. The island of Jamaica yields great crops of this useful and money-making fruit.

Immigration Increasing.

Immigration statistics for the last fiscal year are of interest, because of the great increase in the number of new arrivals. Of the total of 494,-800, the month of May brought the most, 82,054; and in the past four months the arrivals numbered 268,-107, or considerably over one-half. Austria-Hungary, Italy, Germany and Russia sent the most immigrants. It is of interest to note that only one-fourth of the whole number were women, and that not the newer parts of the country, but New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey were the destinations of the majority of the incomers. Many went far west, even to California.

Crematories for Diseased Animals.

Crematories for the destruction of animals which have died from infections and contagious diseases have been erected in several parts of Silesia.

FASHIONABLE COLORS.

Tints Which Are Used For Street Dresses and Costumes.

There is a decided fancy for a bright shade of navy blue or green and for a green and blue mixture where tailor mades for town wear are concerned. Parisians just now are devoted to the combinations of these colors. Brown is being much worn. Many women choose a brown dress in order that they may wear brown boots which are so smart in a dark shade.

Lace effects are very general, and many of these chine silks are striped with what appears to be a black lace insertion, and some delicate tinted taffetas seem to be entirely veiled with an ecru lace guipure, but on close inspection it is found to be all woven in the silk. On others this takes the forms of squares and rounds much after the order of Greek lace guipure.

Of course the black broadcloth tailor made is always smart and the proper thing for morning or afternoon wear.

There is no doubt at the present moment that leading tailors are constant to one color, or many shades of one color, in the creation of a costume, and startling contrasts are avoided.

Double and triple skirts will be a great deal worn, but the newest of all is the box plaited skirt just touching the ground all around.

The smart gown here shown is of red cheviot trimmed with wide black braid and pearl buttons.

The hat is of fur trimmed with ecru lace. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR WINTER WEAR.

Skirts Are Fuller—Jeweled Trimmings All the Vogue.

One thing is certain, if skirts are shorter for day wear they are also fuller. Some of the new tailor made models show kilted skirts and short swallowtail cutaway coats. The fancy for tails has shown itself before in some of the late summer models. Small pads have also been introduced into the backs of skirts to obviate the flat effect of the plaits.

One of the latest French gowns is made of heliotrope velvet ribbon herringboned over silk chiffon. This particular gown is cut decollete and trimmed with a deep bertha of Irish lace.

Jeweled trimmings promise to be all the vogue. There is a discussion just now whether jet will continue to be considered smart. Colored sequins of all kinds are being used as trimmings on evening bodices, and if the fashion for panels becomes firmly established it is certain that jet will be required.

On the dressier evening gowns glorious pearl, diamond and gold trimmings are plentifully used, together with priceless lace and carefully chosen skins of ermine.

The smart silk waist shown is of brocaded taffeta. It has a wide effect, made of diamonds of lace and narrow black velvet. The sleeves are particularly artistic. JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE LATEST STYLES.

Petticoats of Orange Colored Silk to Go With Brown Suits.

The broad lace collar fitting closely over the shoulders will be seen on many dresses and coats this winter.

The merits of the velveteens, practical as well as æsthetic, have long been established, and their charm is now enhanced by the range of new colors and shades which have been added to the productions of former seasons. To the set of blues the gobelin, the sapphire, the tile, the nankin and half a dozen others there has been added a mist blue, of which the soft, sheeny surface is perfectly described by its name. Bruin is the well chosen name of a shade of brown deepening from the seal, the bulrush and the nut browns of last season, all of which still find tempting representations in the present collection, while there is a golden beech tint which seems to have caught all the reflected glow of the autumn woods.

Among the colors inspired by nature's palette are a purple iris, a clematis and a wistaria shade expressing three of the most exquisite nuances of their common color. From the vieux rose of the phlox the roses and reds range from the delicate pinks of the blush rose and the malmaison shade to the deep red of the peony, the glowing hue of the tomato or the coral of the mountain ash, while the vivid scarlet of the field poppy is faithfully produced in the brilliant poppy red, which is one of the most beautiful of the new colors.

The depth of color of the stone from which it takes its name is recalled by the zircon, and for cool, restful tones the olive, the Quaker and the lizard greens belong to the same category of quiet, subdued colorings as the dove's wing, the mushroom, the stone and the smoke gray.

The new chemises cling very close to the body down to the waist line, where they are gored out to form the short fluffy underpetticoat. They are trimmed with yokes of tucks run through with tiny lace insertions and ribbons.

The latest muffs are quite flat and entirely without stiffening. In many cases they are lined with chiffon and costly silks and caught up with long pearl buckles.

Petticoats of flame or orange colored silk will be much worn this winter. They go well with the brown suits and orange velvet hat trimmings.

The tailor made illustrated is of black cloth. The skirt is novel, with its perpendicular strappings and its stitched flounces. The jacket is trimmed with a wide collar of lace. JUDIC CHOLLET.

MILLINERY HINTS.

Green the Fad—Scarfs of Lace Used to Trim Sailors.

Green will be a color much worn this winter, especially in millinery. The close fitting turban shape, with a four inch depth of brim, will be the favorite toque. The bird of paradise plume will rival miscellaneous wings as trimmings.

Scarfs of lace are wound about the new French sailors. The shepherdess shape, of which we have somewhat tired in straw during the past season, will be again popular, but in felt, with alterations—that is to say, the tilt at the sides will be more abrupt and the curves behind and in front more distinct.

Pheasants' breasts will again be used.

Hats of black or white moire are very dressy. Sailor shapes of white rough felt are smart for morning wear.

The tailor made hat in the picture is of rough white felt, with an edge of Persian lamb and two green and black quills. JUDIC CHOLLET.

COPYRIGHT 1898 BY A. N. KELLOGG NEWSPAPER CO.

"No answer," said Lampkin to the boy. He quickly got the required instruments together and put on his hat and overcoat.

"No telling what has happened, and I'm behind time," he grumbled inwardly. "For aught I know Hendricks may have shot the wrong man and be in a frightful muddle."

Fifteen minutes later the doctor was entering the side gate behind Hendricks' house, after having successfully dodged unobserved into an alley leading from the main thoroughfare. He was wending his way through a collection of ash-receivers, garbage-barrels, and bundles of waste-paper, when he saw Mrs. Hendricks' white head appear at the kitchen door.

"Oh, I'm so glad you got here at last!" she exclaimed. "I have been almost crazy with impatience. He wouldn't listen to anyone else being called in, and I am afraid he is seriously hurt."

"What has happened?" inquired Lampkin, excited in spite of his professional calmness by her manner.

"Oh, everything!" exclaimed the agitated woman as she hurried him through the dining-room, sitting-room and library to the stairs in the front hall. "For the love of God, Dr. Lampkin—you are his best friend—do urge him to give up this perilous existence. The worry of it is slowly killing me. You see, I was with him when he so narrowly escaped from that awful bomb, and now this is the second attempt on his life, and I know they will succeed sooner or later, if they have not actually killed him now."

"How was he hurt?" gasped Lampkin, as he sprang after her up the stairs.

She made no reply. The next moment she reached the door of the detective's room, and opened it.

Hendricks, white as a ghost, and with dark marks under the eyes, sat in a big extension chair, in his dressing-gown, a rug over his legs and feet.

"Don't let my mother frighten you, old man," he said, with a smile, which he gave with evident pain. "You know how women are about a thimbleful of blood."

"What on earth has happened?" asked Lampkin.

"That secret enemy of mine is on the warpath again," explained the detective, affecting a light tone. "I am waiting for you to ascertain the extent of the damage he has wrought."

"You surely haven't been going without medical attention all this time, simply because you sent for me?" asked the doctor. "Great goodness!"

"I begged and begged him on my knees," wailed Mrs. Hendricks, "but he wouldn't listen to me, and insisted on bandaging the wound himself."

"I did not want it to get out," explained Hendricks. "Right now I wouldn't have it known that I was attacked for anything. You see I knew you could be trusted."

Lampkin's face stiffened with displeasure.

"Let me make an examination," he said, in a tone that told plainly that he did not intend to lose any more time.

"Here it is, in the left side," said Hendricks. "It can't be bad, for I stood up just now to look out of the window. I can't locate the blasted lead, though."

"I should think not," grunted Lampkin, as he removed the bandage.

After a moment he exclaimed:

"Thank heaven, you are all right! Nothing fatal, if you'll take good care of yourself. The ball went in at the side, glanced on one of your ribs and lodged against the breastbone. I can remove it in a moment."

Five minutes later the operation had been successfully performed and Hendricks, freshly bandaged, was reclining easily in his chair.

"Now, you get some sleep and remain quiet," said the doctor, mixing some medicine at the window.

"Rubbish!" muttered the detective. "Do you mean that I am to stay penned up here all day to-day?"

"And all week—this week," imitated Lampkin.

Hendricks' face darkened.

"But I simply can't," he grumbled. "I never had more to do in my life, and if I halt now my assailant will have gained by his cowardly attack. No, no, old friend, you must not stop me now that I have something fresh to start from. I have tasted blood, and like a bloodhound I must go on, on. I tell you I have the vilest scoundrel to deal with that ever breathed, and it is to be a fight to the death between us."

"It might kill you to leave your room inside of a week," was the doctor's firm reply. "If you go out and die from it, your enemy will have gained his point."

The words told on the detective. His face fell and Lampkin noticed his lower lip twitching. There was a hint of moisture in the big gray eyes. He turned to his mother, who sat near the grate, her face in her hands.

"Leave us alone, mother," he said. "I want to tell Lampkin how it happened. As for staying in, I'll take his advice. He knows his business, and I know nothing else will content you."

"Oh, I'm so glad," cried the old lady, and she came to him and parted his hair on the brow and kissed him.

CHAPTER IX.

When the door had closed behind her, Hendricks gave a deep sigh and smiled faintly.

"She doesn't know what an awfully narrow escape I had," he began. "When I retired last night I was so overcome with fatigue that I hardly could take time to undress. I actually fell asleep while sitting on the side of the bed to take off my boots. I almost tumbled to the floor, and that roused me sufficiently to complete the operation.

"The first intimation of danger came to me in a dream. I thought I was in the basement of a burning building, confined in a room, the walls of which were solid masonry and the doors of iron. I seemed to be choking and gasping for breath. It was no dream; it was reality as far as the stifling sensation was concerned, for on waking I found my arms pinioned, a weight on my breast and a towel saturated with chloroform held tightly over my nostrils.

"My Lord! it was awful. Every vein in me seemed on fire. I felt as if I had been pumped full of ignited gas. I tried to scream, but my human nightmare prevented that, or the slightest movement on my part.

"All at once the thought struck into my benumbed consciousness that I was in the clutch of my secret foe, and with that came a sort of repugnant desperation that had strength. I threw out my right hand, and catching the towel wrenched it from my nose, and then sucked down into me a whiff of God's pure air. It seemed to act on me like releasing a gigantic spring, for I hurled him from me as you would a stinging lizard. I heard him strike the middle of the floor and grunt as the breath went out of him. Then I felt hastily under my pillow, and missing my revolver, and hearing a click from where he crouched, I knew that he had nabbed it. I was on my feet in a moment, and you can bet I did some tall dodging in the darkness, for I knew I was his target. I saw him moving as I moved, trying to get an aim at me, and all the time I was edging, sometimes erect, again on all fours, toward the corner where I knew that old sword stood—a relic of the Revolution.

"Before he pulled the trigger I had hold of it. He heard it rattle and blazed away. His bullet struck the brass scabbard, glanced off and crashed into that mirror there. The flash helped me locate him, and jerking my weapon from its rusty sheath, I dashed at him, hoping to cut him down before he got another shot. My first furious thrust with such a formidable weapon astonished him, and he backed, cocking the gun as he did so. I gave him a stab right at the breast. It would have run a two-inch plank through, but it had no more effect on him than if I had struck the iron sides of an American man-of-war. He had on a bullet-proof suit of clothes. I heard him laugh derisively, and then he fired again. I felt the twinge in my side just as my mother screamed below, and then I was almost overpowered by the thought that she would rush to my rescue and get killed along with me. I dashed at him, cut at the hand holding the revolver and was rewarded by hearing the weapon strike the floor at his side. I saw him stoop for it, and plunged my sword's point at his back. It rebounded as if it had struck cork. The next lick was dealt at his hand as it groped toward the pistol. I knocked his arm out and he fell sprawling on the floor. The mistake I made then was in trying to get possession of the revolver, for when I reached for it, he bounded to his feet, and, hissing like a cat, sprang out at the open window through which he had come. I saw his head and shoulders disappear below the sill just as I secured the gun. I ran to the window and saw him crawling down the slanting roof of the conservatory. Remembering his armor, I took aim at the back of his neck, but I was too shaky to shoot well, and missed. Before my unnerved fingers could cock the revolver again he was out of sight, and I heard the gate in the rear close with a slam.

"I started in pursuit down the front stairs, but when I reached the first landing I met my mother and keeled over in a dead faint. The drug and the wound were too much for me. I came to in a moment and prevented her from notifying the police or the neighbors of the accident. Then it was four o'clock. I tried to get a message to you, but failed on the first attempt. That's the whole account of my adventures."

"You have certainly had a tough time of it," declared Dr. Lampkin. "At whose door do you lay the attack?"

"It is the work of the villain who set the bomb for me, and I am now pretty sure he is involved in the Palace Hotel affair."

"What, Gielow?"

Hendricks mused a moment, then he said:

"This attempt and the other, showing such positive enmity to me personally, make the whole business the biggest mystery of my experience. Besides, there is another clew which tends to lead me away from the idea of implicating the artist."

"What is that?"

Hendricks gazed at the open fire as if debating how to express himself clearly.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

Arctic Traveler Talks About His Overland Trip from Paris to New York—Has No Desire to Repeat It.

After nearly perishing on his third attempt to travel from Paris to New York overland, Harry de Windt has arrived at his destination.

Mr. de Windt left Paris on December 19, 1901, with three companions, determined to demonstrate that the proposed Transsiberian and Alaskan railroad was practicable, and that it would be possible to make the journey from Paris to New York by rail if such a line was ever constructed.

"We have no doubt that the railroad will be constructed some time, and believe it will not be many years before one may take the trip by rail," said Mr. de Windt. "Ten thousand dollars, however, would not induce me to take the same trip again as we made it."

De Windt and his companions were found nearly dead from exposure in a cave on the Siberian coast by Capt. Cottle, of the whaler William Bayliss. This was early last June. They crossed Behring sea in the United States revenue cutter Thetis, and after that their hardships were nearly over.

The story of their trip is a continuous record of struggle against mighty obstacles. Undaunted by two previous failures they fought their way on, determined to succeed. The first stage of the journey was made over the Transsiberian railway. This took them as far as Irkutsk. There they embarked on a trip of 2,000 miles to Yakutsk, traveling the entire distance in horse sleighs. Yakutsk has the reputation of being the coldest town on earth, and Mr. de Windt declares the reputation is well earned.

Speaking of that part of his journey, the traveler said:

"The distance was covered by means of 122 drivers and 732 horses. The total cost for each sleigh was under $150."

From Yakutsk the travelers' journey took them 700 miles to Verkoyansk, thence northeast 1,300 miles to the town of Srednikolynisk.

"The sleighs that brought us from Irkutsk were discarded at Yakutsk for small reindeer sleds about seven feet by three, covered in by canvas and reindeer skins," said Mr. de Windt. "Bear skins formed the beds and there we lay at full length, day after day, night after night, for the next two months, while a Yankute driver urged on his deer train. Light furs were useless in that region.

"The traveler bound for the Kolyma district must take all his provisions in a frozen state, for food is scarce along that lonely tract of 1,800 miles. The reindeer stations are 150 to 200 miles apart, but shelter huts are located at shorter intervals. These are little houses of wood and water in the form of slabs of ice, but nothing else.

"The suspension difficulties of that overland journey from Paris to New York can be realized only by those who have encountered them.

"From Srednikolynisk our next dash was 2,000 miles to the shore of Behring sea, dogs being our motive power. The cold was terrible. At times the thermometer registered 78 degrees below zero, and for 500 miles we did not see a hut."

At last the inhospitable seashore was reached, and there the entire party nearly perished from exposure and hunger. They were found at a place called Whadyluk by Capt. Cottle, who supplied them with provisions and offered to take them off in his boat. This offer De Windt declined.

After reaching Cape Nome De Windt and his companions went to Seattle, and from there to San Francisco.

Twice before De Windt had failed in the effort, once being driven back by unfriendly savage tribes in northern Siberia, and once turned back by the war in China.

The Mother-in-Law Tabooed.

According to Prof. Baldwin Spencer, formerly of Oxford, now of Melbourne university, the blacks of central Australia are free from one "white man's burden." He has spent several years making ethnological investigations among them, and one of his discoveries was that a mother-in-law was not allowed to come within a mile of the "mia-mia" (hut) of her married daughter. If she did so the husband was authorized by the tribal law to use his club.

REV. E. E. JACKSON SPEAKS FOR THE COLORED VOTERS.

Editor of The Daily Press.

Dear Sir,—I have been visited by several friends of the candidates on our Republican ticket, and questioned as to the position of the colored voters of Plainfield. Sir, I feel that I can say that whatever differences there were at the primary, and feelings which caused the factions, we, as negro voters, have laid it aside, and every one is pledged to vote the straight ticket on Tuesday.

Our idea is that if we paste one man on our ticket, it demonstrates disloyalty to the party which has made them their choice. I have for the past six days been placed in a position to know the general opinion of the colored voters, not only in Plainfield, but of Union county. We are aware of the fact that this is an important campaign, and if the white Republican voters will show their loyalty to the party, nothing will be lacking upon our part. THE FACTS ARE MADE PUBLIC

Letters From Mayor Smalley and Collector Brown Tell All of the Truth.

HAPPENED IN SOMERSET

Give the Facts Concerning the Reasons Why Collector Brown Would Not Accept Nomination for Surrogate—Attempt at Harmony Was Refused by Somerville.

As promised in Saturday's Daily Press, Mayor Smalley and Collector Brown have something to say regarding the misstatement of facts made by the North Plainfield Review.

MR. SMALLEY'S LETTER.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Replying to the article in the North Plainfield Review I want to first show the people of the borough that H. H. Webb, the nominal editor of that scurrilous sheet, has since his advent in our town depended on his leg-pulling qualities for an existance. Before his paper was six months old he on bended knees beseeched me and others for financial aid. With his landlord threatening to disposses him, I together with Senator Reed and Councilman Clark each gave him $50, The U. S. Grant Club, the borough officials, at my request, and many others from time to time responded to his dispairing cries and thus enabled him by charity to maintain his paper for the year necessary to make it legal. He was so hungry for official printing and so insistant that he should get it all that I was compelled to rebuke him for his greediness and it was then that he announced his paper as an independent and deserted the Republican cause.

The annexation question furnished his next opportunity and it can hardly be doubted he improved it. The various evidences of leg-pulling which his columns have from time to time disclosed are quite in keeping with the conclusion that they are for a consideration open to the publication of news items or editorials penned by "A Very Divine Healer of political sores."

The statement published relative to my position in regard to the nomination of George F. Brown for surrogate is absolutely false and is of the same stripe which have marked most of the political statements of that paper for months past.

Prior to the election of delegates to the recent county convention, certain persons in the borough, who have generally affiliated with the Somerville element in politics, came to me claiming to be authorized to offer me the chairmanship of the county committee. I declined to consider the proposal and overtures were then made to Mr. Brown, suggesting that he be a candidate for surrogate and put up $2,000, which would go in the hands of the chairman of the county committee.

Brown, in common, with every one else who has been identified in Somerset politics for several years, knew full well that the Somerville crowd had for years been engaged in trying to accomplish the defeat of every Republican candidate nominated from North Plainfield or by its aid and knew that if the county chairman was selected by the Somerville contingent there was great danger that his confidence and money would be used outside of the borough only to get votes for some one else. Under these circumstances, he said, he would accept the nomination only in case I would agree to serve as chairman, that I agreed to do and it was always certain that the members of the county committee would elect any chairman whom the leaders agreed upon.

Before this arrangement was made H. A. McGee and the Somerville emissary, who had been deputized to offer the proposition, was called into consultation.

I explained that I had felt that if a ticket was made up wholly of men who were opposed to the interests of North Plainfield, as would be the case if the Somerville element nominated it, I did not believe the borough people should support it. It certainly would be against their own interests to elect a lot of men who were disposed to deny North Plainfield any representation in county affairs.

I then stated the proposition which came from Somerville that Brown should be nominated for surrogate

ALIS ELEVEN WON FROM CRANFORD TEAM

Well-Played Football Game on Hope Common Resulted in a Victory of 12 to 0.

HAD TWO TOUCHDOWNS

WEAKNESS IN CRANFORD'S ELEVEN'S LINE DECIDED THE GAME.

While Alis Was Stronger Team the Game Was Hard Fought And Interested a Large Crowd—Great Run Made by Cuming.

The Alis A. A. football team sustained its envious football record, Saturday, when on Hope Common it handily defeated the Cranford football eleven by a score of 12 to 0.

The game was called at 3:45 when Alis won the toss and took the east goal. Cranford kicked off to Alis and Woolston ran the ball back to the twenty-yard line and then by clever end plays the ball was carried to the Cranford five-yard line. Pike lost on a fumble and the visitors tried to make a gain three times. Barrett made an excellent kick to the forty-five-yard line and then by tackle and end runs the ball was caraied back to the five-yard line when Cathcart took the ball around end for a touchdown. This was the end of the first ten minutes of play. Phillips kicked the goal making the score 6-0.

It did not take Captain Phillips long to discover that the weakest point on the Cranford team was at the end, owing to the peculiar manner in which the visitors were lined-up, and it was through this opening that the local players scored their best points. Alis took the ball and carried it to the twenty-yard line when they lost it on a fumble. Then the visitors showed their best points of the game. They forced the local players up the field to within the twenty-yard line of their goal when the Alis held them for downs. At this point Cuming made a sensational play by taking the ball down the line forty yards, ending the first half.

Alis kicked to Cranford in the second half. Cranford twice made an attempt to gain but was forced to kick. Phillips fell on the ball in the centre of the field. At this stage of the game Cuming made another of his sensational runs by taking the pigskin down the field for a touchdown, being tackled three times, but by sheer strength passed each one of the enemy's men excepting the last, who held him. Phillips kicked the goal making the score 12-0.

Cranford kicked to Alis. Davis secured the ball and ran back fifty yards to the forty-five yard line. In the next play Cuming was injured and Beard took his place. Phillips by a "quarterback trick" made thirty yards when the game was called on account of darkness.

The line-up of both teams follows:

Alis.		Cranford.
H. Smith	lc.	Wilson
Pike	lt.	Voorhis
Stewart	lg.	Hyde

LOCAL BALL PLAYERS DEFEATED AT 'PLAINS

A Picked Nine of City League Players Met Defeat by the Score of 4 to 1.

A LARGE CROWD THERE

NARROW ESCAPE OF PLAINFELDERS FROM BEING SHUT OUT.

Montross Pitched for Plainfield, But Was Not in His Best Form—City Team's Single Run Was Made in the Last Inning.

Scotch Plains' baseball team demonstrated its superiority over a picked aggregation of Plainfield players, Saturday afternoon, by humbling it with a 4 to 1 score. It narrowly escaped being a shut-out as the lone tally was made in the ninth inning. A crowd of 500 people witnessed the contest, of whom four-fifths were from this city.

Hits were few and far between on each side, both getting a total of four. Although not in the form he was at the beginning of the Westfield series, Montross held his opponents down well. "Lefty" Davis did good work.

Scotch Plains made its first runs in the fourth inning when Allen reached first on a fumbled grounder. Cruzius, who followed, hit to Cooney but the latter instead of trying for Allen, attempted to throw him out at first but failed. Dally came next at the bat and also sent a grounder to Cooney but this time it was dropped by Winn as the batsmen reached the bag. Allen reached home before the team recovered itself. A hit by Davis brought the other two in. The fourth run was made by Allen in the fifth by his three bagger and knocking Cooney over.

The Plainfield run was made by Martin in the ninth. He made second on a beautiful low drive and Montross sacrificed to give him third. A passed ball enabled him to trot over the plate. Martin was erratic in the early part of the game but made up for it afterward by stopping a number of drives that would have meant a base or two and probably a run.

GRACE'S CONGREGATION REJOICES AT CHANGES

The Reopening Services Were Held at Grace M. E. Church All Day Yesterday.

WERE WELL PLEASED

IMPROVEMENTS MADE AND COST OF THEM HAVE BEEN MET.

Services Morning, Afternoon and Evening, at Which Prominent Men Spoke—Large Congregations Were Present.

"I was glad when they said unto me, let us go into the House of the Lord." Never, perhaps has the congregation of the Grace M. E. church recited these first words of the one hundred and twenty-second Psalm with greater feeling than they did yesterday morning when for the first time in weeks they entered their accustomed place of worship. With newly installed carpet and organ and walls refrescoed a pretty crimson red tint, Grace church was transformed into a modern church.

The programme for the day was an elaborate one and all the services were largely attended. At both the morning and evening services the singing, which was very fine, was led by John Steiner accompanied at the organ by Miss Alice Carroll who will be the organist at the church permanently.

The morning sermon was delivered by Rev. Dr. J. M. Buckley, the editor of the New York Christian Advocate, who spoke on the subject "Christianity Triumphant." At the afternoon Sunday-school session a rally day programme was rendered during which the superintendent, John Valiant and Harry Gee made short addresses to the children. The music was arranged by Mr. Gee assisted by the teachers. At the Epworth League service the pastor, Rev. Dr. Edwin L. Earp, made an address.

The largest attendance of the day was at the evening service when Rev. Dr. Frank Mason North, the corresponding secretary of the New York City Church Extension and Missionary Society of the M. E. church, preached the sermon the text of which was taken from the passage of Scripture found in Mark, iii:13-15.

All the money needed to defray the expenses of the church improvements has been raised so that the church is entirely without any debt. The amount of the cost of the improvements amount to $2,500, all of which has been raised by the enterprising and energetic pastor, Rev. Dr. Earp. At the close of last night's service there was still $90 to be raised but when the pastor left the newly renovated edifice he said joyfully to a report that the entire deficiency had been provided for.

GIFT TO MANAGER.

Westfield Team Presented C. H. Denman With Watch Fob.

Manager C. H. Denman, of the Westfield baseball team, was agreeably surprised, Saturday evening, by receiving from the members of the nine, a beautiful gold watch fob. The players visited Westfield in a body and calling Mr. Denman to Grogan's Hotel, made the presentation. The fob is studded with nine diamonds, each one representing a member of the team, and also bears the monogram, "C. H. D., Westfield Ball Team, 1902."

Safe Arrival.

Friday evening Mrs. Sarah Vermeule, of Watchung avenue, received a telegram from her daughter, Mrs. Pearson, wife of Lieutenant Samuel B. Pearson, of the Ninth U. S. Cavalry, announcing the arrival of herself and husband at San Francisco from the Philippines.

PARK GOLF CLUB.

A field of a dozen turned out to play for the President's cup at the Park Golf Club, Saturday afternoon. The course was slow and none of the scores were remarkably low. Charles L. Morse who now leads by one and three-quarter points.

PROMINENT MEN AT MR. PERKINS' BIER

Impressive Funeral Service at Holy Cross Church Yesterday Afternoon.

CHURCHMEN IN CHARGE

BRIEF SERVICE HELD AT THE HOME BEFORE CHURCH SERVICE.

Well-Known Legal Lights From New York Were at Church—An Impressive Service Was Held—The Honorary Pallbearers.

Distinguished members of the New York and New Jersey bar, high officials in the Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches, relatives and neighbors, gathered, yesterday afternoon, at the bier of the late Edward C. Perkins, over whose remains the last sad rites were performed. Holy Cross church was filled to the doors by sorrowing mourners, while the funeral cortege was one of the largest ever seen in the city, the carriages extending for many blocks.

Preceding the obsequies at the church, a short service was held at his late home for the family and near relatives. It was in charge of Rt. Rev. William Crosswell Doane, bishop of Albany, one of the most distinguished prelates of the Episcopal church of the United States, assisted by his brother, Mgr. Doane, of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Newark. It was very brief but none the less impressive.

When the casket bearing the remains was rested at the chancel in the church, the edifice was filled to overflowing, yet a solemn hush pervaded while Rev. William Montgomery Downey, the rector, conducted the final service. The regular vested choir was in attendance and rendered the customary hymns. At the close the casket was removed to the North Avenue station to commence a long journey to Windsor, Vt., where the remains will be consigned to their final resting place.

As honorary pall bearers there walked the following prominent men who had been associates in business and neighbors of Mr. Perkins for many years: Charles H. Tweed, William E. Stiger and William C. Hornblower, all members of the New York bar and residents of New York City; William Parker, a Boston lawyer; M. W. Tyler, Charles W. Beebe, Leonard Waldo and Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, all of this city. Noticeable also were the vast amount of beautiful flowers which were sent by sorrowing friends. They consisted of scores of pillows, garlands and wreaths of roses, lilies of the valley and carnations, among them being a large contribution from the New York lawyers.

Included in the distinguished mourners who were in the cortege were Judge John C. Gray, a former partner of Mr. Perkins now of the New York Court of Appeals, Judge Frederick Adams, of the New Jersey Court of Errors, William R. Wilder, Gordon Gordon, John Brooks Leavitt. Edward Jackson, partner of Mr. Perkins at the time of his death, and Messrs. Larkin, Brewster, Willis and Bement, all counsellors in New York, Isaac L. Miller, J. E. Tracy, H. C. Tracy, A. H. Atterbury, Archibald Cox, William Tyler, S. St. J. McCutchen and Samuel Huntington, New York lawyers whose homes are in this city, and State Treasurer F. O. Briggs and Carl Roebling, of the Roebling bridge building firm, both of Trenton.

Unknown Man Killed.

An unknown man, presumably a German, was struck and instantly killed by a Lehigh Valley train at Picton station, Saturday morning. The body was brought to this city and awaits identification. The man was evidently middle-aged, light complexioned and dark hair. He wore good underclothes, a light overcoat and vici kid shoes.

Death of Mrs. Gibbs.

Mrs. Helen Elizabeth Gibbs, widow of the late Edwin H. Gibbs, died at her home in Fanwood, this morning, after a brief illness. She was sixty-nine years old. The funeral services will be held from the residence of Mrs. Benjamin Urner, Wednesday afternoon at 3:15. Interment will be at Watkins, N. Y.

Mrs. Jacot's Father Dead.

Anthony Parmentier, of Brooklyn, father of Mrs. Aug. Jacot, of Somerset street, died yesterday at his home. He was a retired French chef. The funeral will be held on Monday.

LITTLE CHANGE IN SITUATION

But the Political Atmosphere is Surchanged With All Sorts of Wild Rumors.

IN UNION AND SOMERSET

Strange Tales of What Opponents of Fowler Are Going to Do—Republicans Will Elect the City Ticket—Frelinghuysen Likely to be Defeated in Somerset County.

With the political atmosphere in both Union and Somerset counties surcharged with all sorts of wild tales, Election Day is at hand. It promises to be one of the most exciting elections that this neighborhood has seen for many a year. According to the weather forecasts, the day will be a cloudy one with rain in the afternoon or evening. Even a wetting will not check the heat of the battle.

In Union, there has been little change since The Daily Press' forecast was issued. There are stories which tell of a combination aimed to defeat Congressman Fowler. Opposition to him in the Republican ranks is admitted. If these reports are true, however, it means that the estimated plurality will be reduced. B. Frank Coriell is going to have a hard fight for the shrievalty. Charles L. Moffett, candidate for the Assembly, has the best show of any of the Democratic candidates of being elected.

As far as Plainfield is concerned, it will go Republican but there will undoubtedly be lots of split tickets voted. The strongest fight is being made against Assemblyman Hall. There is a fair chance that he may not carry the city. There is going to be a large complimentary vote for J. E. Martine for Senator. The Republican city ticket will be easily elected.

Over in Somerset, it looks like defeat for J. S. Frelinghuysen, Republican candidate for Senator. The rest of the Republican ticket has a chance but the majorities are going to be very close.

The Union county Republican executive committee met at Elizabeth Saturday evening and received reports from all parts of the county. On a basis of these reports it is estimated that the Republican ticket in the county will have a majority of 1,500.

MISS STONE TO APPEAR.

She Will Lecture at the Casino Saturday Evening.

Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary whose thrilling adventures and capture by a band of Macedonian brigands attracted the attention of the entire world, will give a graphic recital of her experiences during the 172 days of her captivity, at the Casino, Saturday night.

The press of the country has from time to time recorded the sufferings of this heroic woman, and of her return to her friends after the payment of a ransom of $65,000, but no written statement can compare to the story she herself relates of the trials and anxieties of her six months of mental torture. In the several cities where Miss Stone has lectured, she has been highly praised for her forcible, and at same time, free and simple manner of delivery. It will be an entertaining and intellectual treat and all attending will be amply repaid for their trouble. Tickets and reserved seats are on sale at Armstrong's pharmacy.

MISSED A CHAIR.

Hallowe'en Mischief Makers Had Put it in Bonfire.

B. R. Waldron, of Codington avenue, missed one of his porch chairs Saturday morning and found that it had been burned up during the night in a bonfire made by boys celebrating Hallowe'en. Among the other pranks played by the small boys in the borough was the hanging of a settee on the wire fence surrounding the tennis court next to the Grace M. E. church on Park place.

DR. WHITFORD'S PET PLAN

NEW MARKET'S CANDIDATE FOR ASSEMBLY WANTS STATE UNIVERSITY.

His Re-Election Will Probably Mean That He Will Bring It Before the Legislature Again.

The re-election of Assemblyman Dr. Myron J. Whitford, of New Market, means much to the future educational development of New Jersey for if Dr. Whitford is again placed in office he promises to renew his efforts to push through his pet scheme of a million dollar State university for New Jersey.

Such a university, according to the wording of the bill presented last February in the Legislature, would be under the control of the State Board of Education. Provision was made for regular and elective courses of instruction and it was further provided that no charge for tuition was to be made to actual residents of this State. The bill called for an appropriation of $1,300,000 for the establishment of the university but when it was learned that the provision was made that its location was to be outside of Trenton, there was a howl from the people of the State Capital protesting against the passage of the bill.

Dr. Whitford was ridiculed along with Prof. John B. Smith and his famous mosquito bill, with the result that both were pigeon holed and nothing was done with them until Prof. Smith showed to the Governor wherein the State would benefit by the bill with the result that a sum from the emergency fund was appropriated to assist Prof. Smith in making investigations. Dr. Whitford's bill was temporarily forgotten.

Assemblyman Whitford is confident that if re-elected and the bill was presented before the proper authorities and its favorable points brought out that he would have little difficulty in having his pet bill passed. Mr. Whitford's confidence is strengthened by the success of Prof. Smith in having his bill passed.

He has studied carefully the educational matters in this State and is very able to take a winning hand in a debate for the passage of his bill.

New Jersey is one of the few leading states in the Union which has not a State university and with such a one as he proposes with a course in normal training included in its curriculum with the understanding that a diploma from the university carry with it the same privileges as a State certificate, he claims it can not fail to be of great benefit to the educational development of this State, if it becomes a reality.

Last fall Dr. Whitford was elected to the Assembly by a plurality of 198 over Howard A. Reynolds, of New Brunswick, who was the highest Democratic candidate.

A Thanksgiving Dinner.

Heavy eating is usually the first cause of indigestion. Repeated attacks inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, exposes the nerves of the stomach, producing a swelling after eating, heartburn, headache, sour risings and finally catarrh of the stomach. Kodol relieves the inflammation, protects the nerves and cures catarrh. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia, all stomach troubles by cleansing and sweetening the glands of the stomach. L. W. CENTRAL PLANS COAL YARD OF ITS OWN

Is Trying to Secure Certain Property Along Railroad With That End in View.

TO STORE COAL THERE

HAS MADE OFFER FOR CERTAIN TRACT IN PLAINFIELD.

General Plan for Railroad Company to Establish Yards All Along Its Line and Sell Coal Direct to the Local Consumers.

That there is likely to be a change in the method of selling coal to the consumers in Plainfield is evidenced by the fact that the New Jersey Central has been endeavoring to get control of certain property along the railroad with a view to establishing coal yards of their own in the near future. Already the company has made an offer for the property in question and an answer is awaited. In case the offer should be accepted it would mean that several families would have to move elsewhere. The property needed for the purpose mentioned comprises nearly the whole of one side of a block. This would give sufficient room to carry the necessary amount of coal.

As has already been stated in The Daily Press there has been a plan on foot for the New Jersey Central to establish its own yards along the line of the road, so that if any difficulty arises similar to the recent strike in the mining region the company can make provisions for it by storing coal along the line.

It was recently stated by the operators that they would not stand for any fancy prices in the price of coal, that is, the local dealers must let the consumers have coal at a reasonable figure or they would be barred from receiving a supply. It is no doubt for this reason that the railroad desires to protect itself and have places along the line where coal can be deposited.

It has been said that if this plan should be followed out the consumer would have to pay more money than heretofore to the local dealer. This, it is said, would not be true, as the company would sell direct and there would be no middleman's profit to figure in the deal.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Rev. Everett T. Tomlinson, of Elizabeth, who has won an enviable reputation as the writer of boys' stories, has given another to the public entitled "Under Colonial Colors." The publishers are Houghton, Mifflin & Co., and this favorable comment is made of the book: "A more heroic enterprise could hardly be found than that he has chosen, Arnold's expedition to Quebec. The story of the expedition and the assault on Quebec is told with much spirit and with such mastery of historical detail that it carries the reader along completely convinced. Famous characters appear in the narrative, which is lighted by no little humor."

BUILDING PERMITS.

A building permit was granted Friday by Building Inspector Doane to J. C. M. Martonia to build a one-story stable on Hillside avenue. The building will be 18x12 feet and Mr. Martonia will be his own carpenter and builder.

James Coddington, of Mt. Horeb, was given permission to erect on Spruce street a two story residence 18x25 feet. Wm. Wyckoff is the contracting mason and Peter Thomson will do the carpenter work.

STILL VISITING MINES

Strike Commission to Spend Four Days About Hazleton.

A RECESS OF ONE WEEK TO FOLLOW

This Is to Give Time to Prepare For the Taking of Testimony—The Miners Will Have the First Hearing.

HAZLETON, Pa., Nov. 3.—The mine strike commission has arrived in Hazleton to spend four days in further acquainting themselves with the physical features of mining.

Assistant Recorder Neill was left behind at Wilkesbarre to receive the miners' statement from President Mitchell. On Thursday it is expected the operators' counter statement will be presented. The commissioners will then take a recess until Friday, Nov. 14, by which time the two parties will be expected to have completed the preparation of their cases and be ready to go on with the hearings. The commissioners will also devote the interim to preparation for the hearings by acquainting themselves with the details of the two statements.

Chairman Gray says that the object in taking a recess of one week is for the purpose of giving both sides sufficient time to prepare their cases and also to give the members of the commission an opportunity to examine the issues. The commissioners feel that the questions involved are so important that any haste may work an injury to either side. When the hearings are begun week after next, it is the intention to have the miners, who are considered the plaintiffs, submit their case first. How long it will take to hear all the testimony cannot be estimated by the commissioners. The sixty-seven individual operators will also be given an opportunity to be heard as well as all the larger coal companies.

The miners will take up considerable time in presenting their side of the case.

Bishop Spalding preached at the late mass in St. Peter's cathedral in Wilkesbarre yesterday. His fellow commissioners attended the service and occupied front pews. No reference was made to the work of the commission, and only in a most general way could the sermon be made applicable thereto.

The commission remained in their sleeping car all night. They were met at 9 o'clock this morning at Pond Creek, about nine miles north of Hazleton, by Thomas Duffy, the president of this district of the mine workers' union, who will represent the miners. General Superintendent Warriner of the Lehigh Valley and General Superintendent Richards of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre company will represent the operators. The mines which the commission will visit has not yet been decided upon. There are twenty-six mines in this region, and all but No. 40 shaft are entered by means of a slope.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Nov. 3.—T. J. Duffy, district president of the United Mine Workers for the Lehigh district, who left for Hazleton last evening, had a conference with General Superintendent Warriner of the Lehigh Valley Coal company relative to the alleged dismissal of some union miners from the collieries of the company in the Lehigh region. Neither party to the conference would give out anything for publication. The trouble at the mines of the Kingston Coal company remains unsettled. A committee of the United Mine Workers waited on General Superintendent Williams and tried to have him give his consent to allow the check weighmen employed by the miners to remain on the company's property. Mr. Williams said he would make reply in a day or two.

Prominent Railroad Man Dead.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Nov. 3.—Samuel H. Edgar, until recently second vice president of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, is dead at a sanitarium at Caldwell, near here, aged fifty-seven. Mr. Edgar had been prominent in Louisville and Nashville affairs for the last twenty years. For almost all of that time he had been the treasurer of the corporation, having been chosen vice president only toward the last of his connection with the road. The physicians say his illness, which was nervous prostration, was brought on by overwork.

American Called to China.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Alfred E. Jessup of New York, now head of the testing laboratory in the supervising architect's office of the treasury department, has accepted the position of chief assayer of the Chinese mint at Tientsin, China. The designation for the place was made through the intermediary of Minister Conger at the request of the Chinese government. Mr. Jessup is a graduate of the Lehigh university and of the School of Mines at Freiburg, Germany.

Man Shot For a Deer Dies.

AUGUSTA, Me., Nov. 3.—George H. Harvey, who was shot by a companion while hunting for deer in the woods near this city last Thursday, is dead from his injuries. The primary cause of his death was exhaustion and loss of blood. William S. Butler, who did the shooting, is suffering from nervous prostration, caused by the remorse he feels over the accident.

Fatal Freight Collision.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 3.—A freight brakeman was killed and a freight conductor slightly injured in a rear end collision between two freights five miles west of this city on the New York Central last night. The first train was running on schedule time and the second on caution orders.

ON A FAMOUS FIELD

President Visits Site of Battle of Cedar Mountain.

RETURNS TO CAPITAL IN SAFETY.

Two Days of Pleasure and Rest In Virginia—An Impromptu Reception to the People Who Followed Distinguished Party.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—President Roosevelt arrived in Washington from his southern hunting trip this morning at 11 o'clock. Several hours were passed yesterday afternoon on the battlefield of Cedar Mountain. Accompanied by Secretary Root, Secretary Cortelyou and Dr. Rixey, the president drove to the site of the sanguinary struggle and there received from an eyewitness and participant an account of the fight. It was the most interesting event thus far of his present trip. The day was perfect, and the drive to the battlefield was as pleasurable as could be desired.

The president drove to the battlefield over the road which years ago was the stage route between New York and New Orleans. On arrival at the battlefield, which is dotted here and there by monuments marking the positions of the troops during the fight, the contest was explained to the president by Judge Grimsley, who now is a member of the bench of this judicial circuit. The judge was a captain in the Sixth Virginia cavalry and was a participant in the fight. The president, a cavalryman himself, was interested particularly in the account of the famous cavalry charge made during the battle of Cedar Mountain. The Union and Confederate cavalry met in a depression not far from Cedar mountain. While the battle did not last long, it was brought on quite unexpectedly and was frightfully sanguinary, the losses on both sides being about 3,200. The president was notably interested in a monument erected last August on the anniversary of the battle by the survivors of the Twenty-eighth New York infantry, which lost in the engagement 59 per cent of its men, including nearly every commissioned officer.

In the very heart of the battlefield President Roosevelt held an informal reception. Many people had gathered from the surrounding country, and after Judge Grimsley had described the battle the president received informally those who had assembled on the field. During the reception the president was photographed by Mrs. Frances Boddie of Culpeper both alone and in a group with Secretary Root, Secretary Cortelyou, Dr. Rixey and Judge Grimsley. Subsequently the president was given a shell which had been dug up on the battlefield as a memento of his visit.

In the morning the president and his party attended religious services at the Baptist church of Culpeper, about five miles from the home of Representative Rixey. Until a short time before the service began it was not known that the president was to be present. No special services marked his presence.

Subsequently the party took luncheon at the residence of S. Russell Smith, a brother-in-law of Dr. Rixey, who is treasurer of the county of Culpeper.

At night the president was again the guest of Representative John F. Rixey at his country home near Brandy Station.

Noted Landscape Engineer Dead.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3.—Charles H. Miller has passed away at his home here after a protracted illness. He was seventy-three years old. Mr. Miller was born in England and came to this country in 1858. He resided three years in South Carolina and then came to this city. During the centennial celebration in this city Mr. Miller was in charge of the horticultural exhibit and designed the famous sunken garden in Fairmount park. At the time of his death he was consulting landscape engineer of Fairmount park. Mr. Miller designed many gardens in various sections of the country, notably at Newport and Lake Champlain.

Railway Brotherhoods Meet.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 3.—About 2,800 members of the four railway organizations the brotherhoods of engineers, conductors, firemen and trainmen gathered in convention in this city yesterday from points as far west as Buffalo, as far north as Montreal, as far south as Jersey City and as far east as the coast. The attendance was somewhat smaller than had been anticipated, but there was nevertheless considerable enthusiasm. Little was accomplished of a definite character, the meeting having been called mainly to bring the four orders into a closer working relationship.

Son Shot by His Mother.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 3.—Mrs. W. S. McLane of Covington, Va., shot to death her son William, thirteen years old, whom she mistook for a thief. Late in the night Mrs. McLane heard some one moving around the outside of the house. She called repeatedly, but noises continued, and, fearing she was about to be attacked, Mrs. McLane fired a shotgun out of a window. She opened the door and found her son dead. William was in a Halloween disguise and had just returned from a frolic with some of his young friends.

Boy Hunter Dead.

WALPOLE, Mass., Nov. 3.—Harland Graves, the thirteen-year-old son of Robert Graves of this town, who was accidentally shot Saturday while hunting with Howard Carby, ten years old, is dead at the Massachusetts General hospital in Boston.

DIGG'S UPRIGHT FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

The Best on Earth! We Challenge the World!

The Extinguishers that turn up-side-down to discharge are good of their kind, but this is far better. Read the following reasons:

Points of superior merit of the Diggs-Upright over any other machine—

1—A sealed acid bottle and an air-tight tank. No change in the conditions of the chemicals possible.

2—Can never be discharged by accident; absolutely under the control of the operator.

3—A 3-gallon machine of this type contains ONE QUART more of liquid than a reversible, because it does not require a handle underneath.

4—It does not need inspection and recharging as required for the reversible with its loose stopple.

5—The acid being released at the top of the tank, and the outlet being at the bottom, the mingling of the chemicals is so thorough before the acid reaches the outlet that it is completely neutralized, and no harm can be done to flesh or fabric. In the reversible type the acid is released within the two inches of the outlet.

6—Convenience in handling. The machine stands on its bottom, and all the operator has to do is to turn the screw in the cap, and the flow begins instantly.

7—The bottle is not broken, and no nuisance of broken glass.

NEW TREATY NEEDED.

The Present a Critical Time In History of Our Trade In China.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 3.—In reply to a request made upon him by the American chamber of commerce here, John Barrett, commissioner of the St. Louis exposition for Asia and Australia, has made a statement on the subject of American trade in China.

Mr. Barrett says the present is a critical time in the history of American trade in China and that the future, with its vast trade possibilities, depends upon the negotiation of a new American-Chinese treaty. Mr. Barrett says that American merchants in China are unanimously opposed to the adoption in such a treaty of certain provisions of the new British-Chinese treaty and that they regard the vital point of this treaty (the abolition of the likin) to be futile.

The commissioner says he favors the abolition of the likin in principle, but that he doubts whether the British treaty will become effective owing to the opposition to it of German, French and Japanese merchants. He says that the United States treaty commissioners are carefully preparing a treaty which contains a compromise on the likin provision of the British treaty.

Marconi Confident.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 3.—A dispatch from Sydney, C. B., says that preparations for the final test of the Marconi wireless system have already commenced and that the inventor anticipates the complete success of the system. Marconi said today, alluding to his experiments: "For 200 miles from Poldhu I transmitted messages on my last trip, and I received messages at a distance of 500 miles from Poldhu. As soon as the machinery is all installed in the Table head station, which will be in a few days, I will commence to experiment. I will first place the Carlo Alberto a short distance from shore and experiment between her and Table head, and when I am satisfied that everything is going properly I will send a message across to Poldhu. It will probably be a week, anyway, before I have a statement to make regarding my communication between Poldhu and Table head."

Both Sides Blame Americans.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Nov. 3.—The British seamer Trent has arrived here from Colon, Colombia. She brings reports that the Colombian rebels are still seen in the vicinity of the isthmus and that they occasionally appear in the towns along the railroad line. Considerable indignation is felt by the Colombians because American guards are still maintained on the line. Officials of the Colombian government claim that what they term the interference of the Americans prevents them from dealing effectively with the rebels who occupy certain towns, where they collect taxes and make seizures of property. The revolutionists, in their turn, claim that the presence of the Americans prevents them from bringing about a final coup in the revolution. There is much suffering on the isthmus, and the position of civilians there is becoming intolerable.

Hay Chapel Dedicated.

SIMSBURY, Conn., Nov. 3.—John Hay, secretary of state, and Mrs. Hay attended a service in dedication of the Hay Memorial chapel given by them to Westminster school of this place in memory of their son, the late Adelbert Stone Hay, formerly United States consul at Pretoria, South Africa, whose death resulted from a fall from a hotel window in New Haven in June, 1901. The exercises were marked by much simplicity and were attended only by members of the school, invited guests and a few of the prominent townspeople.

Serious Automobile Accident.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Nov. 3.—George M. Pratt, a prominent merchant, and his son Charles were badly injured here in an automobile accident. Mr. Pratt was driving the machine down an steep incline when it got beyond his control and rushed down the hill at a high speed. Near the bottom it left the road and crashed into a tree, throwing both occupants to the ground with great force. Both were severely bruised and cut, and it is feared that Mr. Pratt's son has sustained internal injuries. The automobile was wrecked.

Fire at Larchmont.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Fire at Larchmont, Westchester county, destroyed a section of the business district and wiped out houses in which a dozen families lived. The estimated loss is $75,000. The flames started soon after 5 o'clock in the morning in the large grocery store of Qunas & Quigley, a frame building. Before the fire was checked the Larchmont casino, occupied by the Larchmont Athletic club; the Alexander and the Bull flats and the J. C. Harding and the Montrose livery stables were burned.

Japanese Rescued by the Crook.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—Forty-five Japanese were rescued from a burning steamship by the transport Crook on her outward voyage from this port. On Oct. 10 when off Van Dieman strait a steamship flying distress signals was sighted. The vessel proved to be the Japanese collier Yoshimi Maru and was on fire. The Japanese were hanging over the sides of the vessel, being unable to stand the heat on deck. All were rescued by the crew of the Crook and were taken to Nagasaki.

Cholera Rages In Palestine.

JERUSALEM, Nov. 3.—There have been 494 deaths from cholera here and seventy-eight at Ghuzzeh during the past week. Great distress prevails at Lydda because of the total inadequacy of medical aid there to cope with the disease.

LADRONE OUTRAGES.

A Murderous Raid Upon a Town In Leyte.

CHURCH SECTS CLASH AT CEMETERY

Roman Catholics Refuse Burial For the Remains of a Member of the Independent Catholic Organization.

MANILA, Nov. 3.—A portion of a gang of ladrones which has been operating on the island of Biliran, just north of the island of Leyte, where they committed various outrages, crossed over to the island of Leyte last Wednesday and entered a small town near Carigara. Here they captured and beheaded the presidente of the town, murdered his wife, whom they slashed with bolos, and abducted the presidente's children. The motive of this crime is said to have been the presidente's friendliness with the Americans.

Ladrones are active again in the provinces of Rizal and Bulacan, Luzon. Members of the native constabulary engaged these bandits twice during the past week at points close to Manila and succeeded in killing a number of them. The constabulary are capable of suppressing these ladrones.

Reports received here indicate that the situation on the island of Samar is better than has been recently represented. A number of dios dios, or religious fanatics, are still operating there, but officials report that the Samar police are able to handle the situation.

The body of a native woman who was attended at her death by priests of the Catholic Church of the Philippines was refused interment yesterday at the Paco cemetery, which is owned by the Roman Catholic church. There was a scene at the cemetery, and the police were called in to maintain order. In retaliation for this refusal of interment "Bishop" Aglipay and other leaders of the schismatic movement are discussing a plan to appeal to the courts to obtain possession of certain churches and other property in the Philippines.

This independent church movement is being watched closely in government and political circles. The extent of the defection of native clergy and their lay adherents from the Church of Rome is not known, but it is claimed that a majority of the native clergy sympathize with the movement. The appointment of an American archbishop in the Philippines, however, and the Americanization of the Roman Catholic church here, with a clear definition of the status of the native clergy, would turn the tide of both clergy and laity in favor of the Roman church.

Fast Time to New Orleans.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 3.—The Southern railway's fast mail train, with a time card schedule of thirty-five hours between New York and New Orleans, has been started. The first train which reached this city made the record run in twenty-two hours. The train is routed over the Pennsylvania railroad, the Southern railway, the Atlanta and West Point and Western railway of Alabama and the Louisville and Nashville railroad. The distance between Atlanta and New Orleans is made in eleven hours. The train between New York and Atlanta will carry only mail and express, being the first train ever run in the south exclusively for this service.

The Atlantic Boisterous.

BOSTON, Nov. 3.—From the reports of the incoming steamers the unusually calm weather which prevailed in this section of the country the last month did not extend very far out to sea, and during the past ten days the north Atlantic has been particularly boisterous. Five ocean liners have just come in, all more or less battered by heavy head seas almost the entire distance across the Atlantic.

Turkey Makes Up With Great Britain

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 3.—The negotiations between Great Britain and Turkey with regard to the encroachments of Turkish troops on the hinterland of Aden have resulted in a satisfactory settlement of the matter. The porte has modified its note to Great Britain and has ordered the evacuation of the hinterland, which was formerly occupied by British troops.

Chinese Officials to Be Punished.

PEKING, Nov. 3.—The efforts made by Sir Ernest Satow, the British minister here, have resulted in the publiction of an edict ordering the decapitation of the Chinese military official who refused protection to the British missionaries Bruce and Lewis, who were killed at Chenchow, Honan province, Aug. 15 by a mob, and the punishment of other officials implicated in the crime.

Fatal Railway Wreck.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 3.—A through mail train on the Atlantic Coast Line railroad crashed into a freight train which was taking the siding at Elm City, N. C., about 12 o'clock last night. Engineer W. W. Currie of Florence, S. C., was so badly injured that he died two hours later. A mail clerk also was injured. Traffic was blocked for six or eight hours.

Cuban Finances.

HAVANA, Nov. 3.—The secretary of the treasury, Senor Montes, reports that the customs receipts for the entire island of Cuba for October amounted to $1,344,478. The receipts from the postoffice, money order department, internal revenue, incidentals, reimbursements and correctional courts bring the total receipts for the month up to $1,619,197.

TOMORROW'S ELECTION.

Although there is every reason to believe that the election of tomorrow will not remove New Jersey from the control of the Republican party, it seems very probable that the Democrats will build up to a greater or less degree their minority power. For the last few years, this section has been so overwhelmingly Republican that it is not surprising that the relation between the two great parties should return somewhat to its normal condition. No one party can expect to continue absolutely in power without a reaction, no matter whether justified or not, against it.

This condition of affairs applies not only to State but to National politics. It is responsible for the chance of Democratic victory in Congressional districts which have been giving Republican majorities during the last few years. It is one of the causes for the particularly close campaign in the Fifth Congressional district of which Plainfield is a part. It may be the means of defeating Congressman Fowler although the present condition of things points to his election by a small majority. In his case, however, there are other influences working which will undoubtedly be charged with his defeat, should it come.

The factional disturbances amongst the Republicans of Union county are too fresh in the minds of local people to need any mention. When the county convention was held, there were threats made openly. Since that time there has been gradually growing a semblance, at least, of harmony. It may be only skin deep. Will those threats be followed out? If they are, they will seriously threaten the success of the entire Republican ticket and shatter the remnant of Republican harmony. If not, Congressman Fowler and nearly all of the Republican county candidates will be carried to victory by fair majorities.

This is one reason why the present election attracts more than the usual interest. There are more interests at stake than the mere success of the county candidates. For this very reason it is unusually difficult to sum up the existing situation. The Daily Press forecasted the election Saturday as closely as it was possible to do under the circumstances. The succeeding two days have brought no material changes.

It looks like a victory for most of the Republican candidates with a fighting show for three of their opponents. But one cannot tell. If it is discovered that Congressman Fowler is being badly knifed in the county seat tomorrow, retaliatory measures may be expected here and in other parts of the county where the Congressman's friends are the thickest.

Interest in the municipal election tomorrow is literally dead except in the case of those who are directly interested. Never was there a city campaign in which the people of Plainfield showed such absolute indifference as to the probable results. It can mean only one thing, the overwhelming victory for the Republican party and the continuance in power of the present administration. As a matter of fact, the campaign does not present enough issues to arouse any great amount of enthusiasm. The opposition against the present administration has no serious blunders to point out. Nevertheless there should be more interest shown than there is and if it cannot be done by consolidating with the county and Congressional elections, then let the Legislature provide for the return to the old order of things and separate them again.

Quite strong are the probabilities of the defeat of Assemblyman William F. Hall for re-election on the Republican ticket. And his defeat, if it comes, will be directly tracable to Republicans. There is a particularly strong feeling against him right here in Plainfield and some of the best and staunchest Republicans have come out openly against him and are urging their friends to vote against him at the polls. Plainfield, Westfield and Cranford, his home town, will show a heavy vote against him and in favor of Charles L. Moffett, who has been agreed upon at this end of the county as the most available man to beat Hall.

The Daily Press will not be issued tomorrow as it will be Election Day, a legal holiday in this State. A special election edition will be issued Wednesday morning at 6 o'clock in place of the usual afternoon edition that day. Those who are anxious to have the results of the election in full will do well to make arrangements to secure a copy of that paper. It will be delivered to all the regular subscribers.

Many words of commendation have been heard regarding the forecast of the election in the Fifth Congressional district. It was given on a more elaborate scale than ever before attempted by a local paper and summarized the situation as fairly and impartially as it was possible to do it.

SUBURBAN NEWS

A Department Devoted to the Minor Events in Greater Plainfield's Suburbs by Our Own Correspondents.

DUNELLEN.

A New England evening occupied the time of the Dunellen Literary Circle at the meeting held Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. N. J. Hamilton. At roll call the members answered to their names with quotations from New England authors. Papers were presented by Mrs. Charles Mattox and Mrs. L. T. Titsworth. Mrs. Mattox's paper was on "Witchcraft" and presented many phases of that interesting subject. Mrs. Titsworth told of New England customs and names and her paper was well received. Mrs. Hamilton read the poem "The Witch's Daughter," in an able manner. It was decided to hold future meeting Tuesdays instead of Wednesdays as heretofore. By this move the membership will be considerably increased.

Mrs. Carroll, an aged woman, nearly ninety years old, residing on Front street, fell to the floor unconscious with a stroke of apoplexy, yesterday morning, and up to a late hour last night had not recovered consciousness. She was in good health when she retired last evening and was found in an unconscious condition on her kitchen floor this morning by N. B. Snell who resides in half the house. She is not expected to recover.

The borough Republicans will have their headquarters tomorrow in John Huff's store opposite the Borough Hall. All Republicans have been invited to come there and enjoy the sandwiches and coffee which will be furnished throughout the day. The election here promises to be a close one.

Mrs. William Liscomb, of New York City, has been spending a few days with Mrs. John Herbert. Mrs. Liscomb is an accomplished singer and her singing was much enjoyed by the meeting of the Literary Circle, Saturday evening.

The third quarterly conference was held in the Methodist church, Saturday evening. A large attendance was recorded.

Miss Gertrude Badum, a pupil at the State Normal School, spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents.

A party of Westfield people enjoyed yesterday afternoon sightseeing on Washington Rock.

Yesterday's beautiful weather brought large congregations to the local churches.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Giddes, of Philadelphia, spent Sunday with relatives in town.

Mrs. Howard Bird, of West Dunellen, entertained out-of-town friends yesterday.

Chestnut street is in a torn up condition and travelling is difficult there at night.

Mrs. Edward Book and children spent yesterday with relatives in Roselle.

Dr. P. W. Brakeley is spending this afternoon in New Brunswick on business.

Abner S. Coriell, Jr., entertained out-of-town relatives yesterday.

The banjo club will hold its weekly practice as usual this evening.

James Craig and family entertained Plainfield friends yesterday.

NEW MARKET.

Everything indicates that tomorrow election will be very quiet here and throughout the township. The chances favor a Republican majority. At the fall elections the Republicans generally win, while the Democrats come out ahead at the spring elections. Dr. M. J. Whitford, Republican candidate for the Asembly, will probably run ahead of his ticket.

Rev. Frank Fletcher will relate some of his war experiences at an entertainment to be given by the Plainfield High School cadets this evening and a number from here will attend.

Charles Day, Republican executive committeeman, is spending this afternoon in New Brunswick on business.

Regular services were held in the First Baptist church yesterday.

The schools will be closed tomorrow, as it is a legal holiday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Saturday afternoon saw the ending of the local ball season. The management cleared a neat little balance after paying all expenses and honoring all tickets for the postponed benefit game which was to have been played for the benefit of Mrs. Frentz. While Manager Johnston was unable to present as strong a team as has been representing the village this season, still every one was satisfied with the showing made by the boys after a two months' rest from the game. Brogan and Ahscraft, two of the teams best batters, were unable to play and Baldwin had to play in right garden instead of second base, his old position, on account of his lameness caused by his injuries at the Campbell Press Company shop several weeks ago.

The newly-elected officers of the Epworth League are: President, Miss Lulu Hollingsworth; first vice president, Miss Jennie Johnston; second vice president, Miss Helen Bruchman; third vice president, Miss Edna Nicholl; fourth vice president, Miss Josie Marsh; treasurer, Miss Florence Wade; secretary, Miss Nancy Wade.

If the weather is pleasant there is no doubt that a large vote will be gotten out the election tomorrow. Both sides have been working hard, impressing upon the voters the necessity of their turning out and supporting the ticket. From present indications the Republican ticket will be elected by 45 or 50 majority.

The Republican Club, of Fanwood borough, held an enthusiastic meeting in the fire house, Saturday evening. Plans were arranged for getting out the full Republican vote at the election tomorrow. Before adjourning a unanimous motion was carried to support the entire ticket.

The members of the Baptist Sunday-school held their Bible day exercises in the church Sunday morning. A pleasing programme of recitations and songs was enjoyed by the members and a number of friends of the school.

The monthly observance of the Lord's Supper was held at the close of the morning service at the Baptist church yesterday. The individual communion service was used for the first time.

Miss Alice Shott, who is making an extended visit with friends in New York, has been spending a week with her father, Rev. G. M. Shott, at "The Mause."

The Democratic nominee for sheriff, Chas. H. Moore, of Elizabeth, was in town Friday getting acquainted with the voters of the township.

The Misses Blanche and Maud Mercein, who have been spending a few days with their sister in Plainfield, have returned home.

THOUSANDS VISIT CEMETERY.

All Saints' and All Souls' Days Strictly Observed at Vienna.

VIENNA, Nov 3.—One-third of the population of Vienna made pilgrimages All Saints' day and All Souls' day to the Central cemetery of Vienna. The pilgrims started in the early morning and returned late at night. Some went on foot, while others used vehicles of all descriptions. It is estimated that 600,000 people visited the graves in the cemetery on these two days. The pilgrims all carried wreaths or flowers and before the tombs and in the long grass burned countless candles. The sparsely occupied parts of the cemetery presented a weird and picturesque spectacle.

The monuments to Mozart, Beethoven and Schubert as well as the plot where are buried the 600 victims of the Ring theater fire of 1881 attracted thousands of visitors. This cemetery is the largest in Europe and contains 622,000 graves.

Emperor Francis Joseph and other members of the royal family placed wreaths upon the coffins of the empress and of Crown Prince Rudolph in the vault of the Capuchin church.

Pugilists In Trouble.

WATERBURY, Conn., Nov. 3.—Austin Rice, the pugilist, arrested in New London, was brought to this city by Sheriff Rigney and shortly afterward was released on bonds of $500 furnished by John Hurley, who is associated with William Crowley in the attempt to pull off the boxing exhibition before the Waterbury Athletic club Nov. 6. Rice was taken to Unionville by Sheriff Rigney to have him identify "Young Corbett." Before their arrival, however, Corbett had been arrested by a constable and taken before a justice of the peace, who was unwilling to hold him. He was accordingly released and immediately took a train for New York. Corbett's manager promises to have him on hand to appear in the city court. It is expected that they will be put under heavy bonds to keep the peace.

Sultan Breaks His Promise.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 3.—In spite of the formal promise given to United States Minister Leishman last August in the name of the sultan by Izzet Bey, his majesty's secretary, to grant Mr. Banks, an American citizen, a firmin authorizing him to make archæological researches at Tel-Abraham, Mesopotamia, the porte has now declared to Spencer Eddy, secretary of legation and acting minister, that it is unable to grant the authorization in question to Mr. Banks, as the place where the American desires to carry on his researches is sacred ground and is supposed to contain the tomb of Abraham. The porte expresses its willingness to indemnify Mr. Banks. Mr. Eddy has forwarded this communication to Washington.

Volcanic Ashes Destroy Forage.

TAPACHUTLA, Mexico, Nov. 3.—Growers on neighboring haciendas will suffer great loss from the fact that their stock cannot procure food, the fields being covered with ashes from the Santa Maria volcano. The brooks are choked with ashes and cinders, and all the neighboring roads are covered. The coffee planters will come off better than the stock raisers. Investigation shows that there was no loss of life during the recent disturbances. Reports from towns across the Guatemala border show that the alarm was intense, everybody fearing a similar fate to that which befell Martinique and St. Vincent. Government experts are studying the effects of the eruption.

New Route to Pacific Coast.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Nov. 3.—The Gazette says that Colorado Springs is to have another outlet to the Pacific coast as well as a new road which will tap the immense coalfields at Trinidad. Within sixty days, it is said, contracts will be awarded for the building of 265 miles of railroad by the Rock Island system, connecting Pueblo and Santa Rosa, N. M. The Rock Island line from Liberal, Kan., which connects with the Southern Pacific at El Paso, runs through Santa Rosa, and the proposed line from Pueblo to Santa Rosa will be the connecting link in the Rock Island system between Colorado and the Pacific coast.

Four Killed at a Crossing.

ELGIN, Ill., Nov. 3.—Frank and Louis Schuette and Charles and James Woodrich were killed at Algonquin, Ill., when the milk express on the Chicago and Northwestern railway struck their carriage on the crossing of the main street of the village. All lived at Algonquin except James Woodrich, whose home was at Kilbourne City, Wis. The young men had started to drive to Dundee and did not see the train on account of the darkness and the cover of their buggy.

Deadly Work of Madman.

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—A dynamite bomb, the weapon of a deranged assassin, blew up the home of Joseph Kordeck in Chicago Heights, killing two members of the family outright and injuring several others. The house was set on fire and burned, while that of a neighbor caught fire and was also destroyed. Seven children who escaped were injured, but not seriously.

Bursting Boiler Killed Three.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 3.—Three trainmen were almost instantly killed by the explosion of a boiler of a Baltimore and Ohio locomotive at Halethorp, seven miles west of this city. Traffic was delayed about three hours by the accident.

Czar's Uncle Dismissed From Army.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 3.—The Official Messenger announces the dismissal from the army of the Grand Duke Paul Alexandrovitch, who is an uncle of the Czar.

TROLLEY STRIKE ENDED.

Hudson Valley Road Resumes Business—Union Unrecognized.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 3.—The Hudson Valley railroad strike has been settled by unanimous vote of the striking employees, the company accepting a proposition made by the men, who returned to work this morning. The union is not recognized.

On Saturday a committee of the Glens Falls men called on President Colvin and General Manager Josselyn and after a consultation was asked to formulate a table of terms upon which the men would return to work. This was agreed on, and the committee submitted terms which, after some amendments, were accepted by the Messrs. Colvin and Josselyn. The Glens Falls division held several conferences during the day and finally voted to accept the agreement and to return to work. The terms were then submitted to the Saratoga and Stillwater divisions, and the Saratoga men voted favorably, while the Stillwater men decided against them. A committee then went to Stillwater and brought back a committee of six which had several consultations with the representatives of the company. They went back to Stillwater, and a meeting of that division was held at which it was decided to accept the terms and return to work.

The terms upon which the strike is settled are as follows:

Men who had been receiving 16 cents an hour will receive 17 cents, and men who had been receiving 18½ cents will hereafter be paid 19 cents. Instead of having inspectors on the Stillwater division who are paid 25 and 15 cents, that work will be done at night by men from the main offices. All the former employees will be reinstated in their old positions except those who are under indictment.

The company makes no contract with the union and does not recognize it in the settlement, the men returning to work as individuals. They will abandon their present affiliation with the union on the lines of the United Traction company, and a new union will be formed to consist exclusively of employees of the Hudson Valley company and having no connection with any other union.

ST. PIERRE DEVASTATED.

Chief Town of Miquelon Suffers a Heavy Loss by Fire.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 3.—The town of St. Pierre, Miquelon, has been devastated by fire. A destructive conflagration started at night and swept the main portion of the town. The governor's house, the government buildings, the courthouse, the building occupied by the ministry of marine, the Roman Catholic cathedral, the presbytery, the schools and a number of other buildings were destroyed.

It has not yet been learned how the fire originated. There was no wind during the night, else the entire town would probably have been completely obliterated. Even as it is the extent of the disaster is very farreaching, and the financial loss will probably reach $500,000. There was no loss of life or serious accident. The rapid spread of the conflagration was due to the trifling water supply and to the fact that St. Pierre has no adequate fire fighting appliances.

The town of St. Pierre has been partly burned down three times before—in 1865, 1867 and 1879.

Two Presidents Compared.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—In an article headed "Two Presidents" La Patrie compares President Roosevelt with President Loubet. Referring to the French and American coal strikes, the paper says the energetic measures adopted by President Roosevelt brought the American strike to an end and declares that President Loubet was confronted by conditions exactly the same as those Mr. Roosevelt dealt with, but that the president of France remained passive, with the result that the French strike continues amid great misery and loss. The paper draws the conclusion that the American president, who is elected by the people, represents the people, whereas the president of France waits the slow process of parliament and that the French people suffer from the reign of parliamentarism.

Athletic Records Broken.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—James S. Mitchell of the Harlem Rowing club and M. J. Sheridan of the Pastime Athletic club broke the fifty-six pound weight and discus throwing world's records respectively at the Star Athletic club's games in Long Island City. Mitchel threw the "fifty-six" a distance of 30 feet 2 inches from a stand without follow, beating John Flanagan's world's record of 28 feet 5 inches, made on a dirt floor in Madison Square Garden last December. Sheridan, who is the world's champion discus thrower, increased his figures of 127 feet 8½ inches, made at the Metropolitan A. A. U. championship games last August, to 133 feet 7 inches.

Mine Explosion Fatal to Three.

NEW STRAITSVILLE, O., Nov. 3.—Maurice O'Brien, a miner; Charles Sampson, stable boss, and Herbert Coran, bookkeeper, were killed by an explosion of gas in Lost Run mine, near here. It is supposed the gas found its way into the mine from an adjoining mine which has been abandoned for several years. It is believed the men went in to explore the mine and that the gas was ignited by the lights they carried.

Another Football Accident.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 3.—Walter Cole, full back of the Tennessee Deaf and Dumb school football team, is reported dying as a result of injuries received in a game played at Maryville, Tenn., Saturday with the college team of that place. He has a broken collar bone and serious internal injuries. Cole's home is at McKeesport, Pa.

THE ART OF CONVERSATION

"In my day," remarked Mrs. Oldtime, "girls were taught the art of conversation just as they were embroidery or any other womanly accomplishment."

Her friend, Mrs. Uptodate, nodded approvingly, with the experience born of successful entertaining. "Give me a girl who can talk!" she remarked.

"But half of them don't know how to talk nowadays," persisted Mrs. Oldtime. "That's just the trouble; conversation is becoming a lost art."

"You wouldn't have thought so if you had heard Mrs. Chatterly at my tea."

"I understood that for nearly half an hour she held the floor and that no one else could get a word in."

"Yes. When she had to stop to take breath, she said 'and' or 'but,' and, of course, people had to wait to hear the rest."

"WE LEFT THEM IN A CORNER TO FIGHT IT OUT."

"Why didn't you match her against some one of her own strength?"

"Oh, well; Providence took pity on us and that old Miss Gossipby prodded in. Within five minutes they were watching for each other's breaths, so to speak, and we left them in a corner to fight it out."

"When I was young, girls could quote poetry very prettily"—

"Yes, and what an awful bore it must have been!"

"Better than hearing debutantes reel off cheap cynicisms and so called 'smart' sayings!"

"Yes, we're overdoing the word 'smart.' Every one is trying to be that, but some only succeed in being hysterical."

"The men like that sort of thing."

"They're getting tired of it. One of them said to me the other night: 'Do you know, Mrs. Uptodate, I wish you would put me next to a girl at dinner who will talk in a sort of smooth, gliding, sirupy sort of way without any particular attempt at saying anything. It sort of soothes a man's nerves after a hard day, while the other kind, who sit up very straight and let off a perfect string of intellectual firecrackers at once, make you feel like telling them to sit back and not earn their dinner so hard!'"

"You see, as a rule very young girls and inexperienced persons are afraid of pauses in the conversation."

"Yes, and that's where almost all the Malaprop sayings have started. People have said the first thing that came into their brains—anything to fill the breach."

"What do you consider the worst conversational bores?"

"First and foremost the people who interrupt, second the people who won't let any one else have a chance, then the ones who tell long stories without any point; who talk only about themselves; who giggle at every other phrase; who never have anything to say when a third person comes around; who skip from one subject to another, giving you the impression that you are taking fences in a breakneck cross country chase; who discuss their domestic affairs, the children, the servants, etc.; who ask one stream of questions, and, last, but greatest sinners of all—those whose sole form of wit consists in making fun of the peculiarities of others."

"And the good conversationalist, who is she?"

"The woman who not only knows how to talk, but when to talk; who can both start a subject and follow some one else's lead; who can discuss philosophy with Professor Dryasdust one minute and chiffons the next with Flossie Featherbrain, but who never by any chance will discuss the wrong subject with the wrong person or at the wrong time; the woman who avoids personalities as much as possible and then only brings them in as an excuse for saying charming and amiable things, and, above all, she who brings out the fine points of each person's mind."

COPYRIGHT 1898 BY A. N. KELLOGG NEWSPAPER CO.

"You remember," he began, "that the letter Miss Huntington showed us purporting to be Caruthers' at Philadelphia was forged, of course, since Caruthers was dead when it was written."

"I remember," said Lampkin, with a sudden start.

"You also recall that I spoke to her of certain idiomatic expressions in it, showing that it was written by a foreigner."

"Yes, quite well."

Hendricks smiled and stroked his wounded side.

"Gielow didn't write that letter. Now, what foreigner have we reason to suspect of having had a hand in this matter?"

"Bantinnj," exclaimed the doctor, rising excitedly. "My Lord, why did I not think of that before? And he is a suitor for the hand of the heiress, besides."

The detective smiled. He was at one of his old games of trying the effect of conflicting evidence on his friend.

"You have forgotten one other thing—and there you are," he grinned. "What about Gielow's confession?"

Dr. Lampkin's face fell. He was silent for several minutes.

"You are incorrigible!" he broke out suddenly. "I don't make sport of you when you come nosing around in my profession. I sit down and give you the benefit of all there is in it."

The detective smiled apologetically.

"You are at liberty to retaliate at any time," he returned. "Besides, if I let you on to the climaxes of my cases before I reached them you'd lose interest, and I'd not have the pleasure of your companionship."

Dr. Lampkin took his hat to leave.

"I must get back to the office," he said, good-naturedly. "I'll drop in this afternoon. Remember, you are to stay in this room a week at the very shortest."

CHAPTER X.

Despite his strong will and determination not to yield to weakness, Hendricks was compelled to remain in his room longer than he expected. But his mind was not idle. Every time Dr. Lampkin called he found him engaged in some investigation pertaining to the murder of Caruthers.

"You might as well go out and be done with it," remarked Lampkin one day. "Don't you know you'll never get strong again as long as you keep your brain on the race-track?"

Hendricks looked down sheepishly.

"I don't think you ought to begrudge a fellow the little he can accomplish in a room the size of this when Sergt. Denham and his aides are turning the earth upside down."

Lampkin walked to a window impatiently.

"Who is that red-headed man in the drawing-room?" he asked, sharply.

"Oh!" exclaimed the detective. "You saw him, then? I told Kitty to hide him behind a screen till you had come and gone."

"She obeyed your orders all right," returned the doctor, smiling; "but I presume she didn't know who I was, for she hustled me behind the screen also and said: 'Sor, will you plaise to sit there quiet-like till the doctor comes and goes away. Master has orders not to see anybody.'

"I sat still until the girl had gone out, then I rose to come up here quietly, but the red-headed man got up, too. 'I came first, if you please,' said he. 'I'm a busy man, and I've waited as long on that doctor as I'm a-going to.'

"'But I'm the doctor,' said I, and he fainted."

Hendricks laughed heartily, holding his hand over his wounded side.

"Who is the fellow?" demanded Lampkin.

"He is a prominent employe in a crematory near New York."

"What do you want to see him about?"

Hendricks drew himself up a little higher in his chair.

"Ring that bell there twice," he said. "It is the signal agreed on between me and Kitty. She will show him up, and you can be present at the interview."

Lampkin rang as directed, and a moment later the red-headed individual with beard of the same color entered rubbing his short fat hands. Lampkin could not keep from mentally comparing him to an undertaker.

Mr. Simpkins glanced at the doctor half inquiringly and then his eyes fell on the patient.

"They told me at the office that you had written that you were interested in our line," he said, introductively. "A great many, sir, a great many are giving cremation a thought in this progressive age. You have a mighty good color, sir, but of course you and your physician knows how you are. Many of us bear external signs of a long life before us while at the same time the germs of death are ravaging within. You have acted with commendable wisdom in taking this up while you have your mind about you and the ability to express your choice about the matter. We have an artistic selection of urns, the designs of the most famous sculptors in Europe. That's a thing that tastes differ about. Have you ever witnessed a cremation? No? I wish you had before you was—was taken down. There is hardly a man who comes out to our place and witnesses a cremation that is not a convert to it and opposed to the old order of things. Have you, doctor, seen a cremation?"

Dr. Lampkin had not, and it was with some difficulty that he kept a straight face, for Hendricks was making a laughable grimace behind the lecturer's back.

"You have both missed a beautiful sight," resumed Mr. Simpkins. "When our great retort opens for the reception of the prepared body the interior is seen to be perfectly white, like the inside of a snow cave, so intense is the heat. But the inflowing air turns it to a delicate rosiness that can't be equaled in Italian skies. I have seen people turn away and say they recognized it as the only legitimate gateway to the unseen universe—doing away as it certainly does with all horror of the grave and decay."

Hendricks raised his hand.

"Not quite so fast, please," he said, gently. "You have made a mistake. I hope I am not dangerously ill. I am only confined to my room by a slight indisposition. I may as well come to the point. I am a detective, and it is often necessary for me to make inquiries into different businesses and—"

"A detective—the devil!" Mr. Simpkins blurted out, and he flushed angrily and reached for his hat. "My Lord! what do you take me for? I'm no detective! I have to earn meat and bread for my family. You are the second detective that has tried to take up my time for nothing. Sergeant Den—Den something came to my house, and because I didn't give up my time and tell him all the ins and outs of my business he threatened to have me up as an accomplice in that Palace hotel murder. My gosh! I sent him about his business in a jiffy. I'd like to see any of your gang try it. We don't cremate one-handed men for every murderer in New York! It is plainly a conspiracy to bring cremation into disrepute, and if there is any law—any protection we'll have the benefit of it."

"Hold on, keep quiet," cautioned Hendricks, thrusting his fingers into his vest pocket and producing a $10 bill. "I don't want any man's time for nothing. If this will pay you for only five minutes more of your time I shall be glad, and we may part friends. I am a private detective, and I hope I don't approach unoffending men with threats when I seek information that they have a perfect right to withhold."

A great and humble change came over Mr. Simpkins as he reached for the money.

"I—I beg your pardon, sir," he stammered. "This is the second time I've been too fast, and if you'll overlook it I'll do what I can to help you. The other fellow had such a lordly air about him and made himself so disagreeable—"

"I know him," broke in Hendricks, and then he turned to Dr. Lampkin.

"Please hand me that little cardboard box on the table."

SKIRT WAS TOO SHORT.

Abbreviated Bathing Suit in Red, Green and Blue Leads to Breaking of Engagement.

A matter of three inches on a bathing suit that really would not be voluminous if it had 13 inches added to it has been the cause of a broken engagement.

The insidious suit, which steeled the heart of a man and put a proud girl on her mettle, is owned by Miss Sallie Kerstris, of Upper Roxborough, N. Y. The suit is made of red, green and blue cloth, and from the description would be an admirable thing for flagging trains.

A few nights ago, says the Chicago Tribune, Miss Kerstris and Wesley Kinlamb, her affianced husband, attended a small reception at the home of a mutual friend in Denver, according to the Post of that city. Miss Kerstris and her friend had ordered bathing suits together, and they were looking them over in the women's wraproom. Some one dared Miss Kerstris to don her suit and ask Kinlamb to inspect it. It was no sooner said than done, but when Kinlamb learned the nature of the summons he refused to go.

SKIRT WAS TOO SHORT.
(Dotted Line Shows How Her Fiance Wanted Suit Lengthened.)

Thereupon Miss Kerstris and her friends repaired to the room where the lover was. One glance was enough to tell him that the skirt was too inconspicuous. He turned away blushing. Everybody else in the room seemed to be delighted with the garb.

"How do you like it, Wesley?" asked Miss Kerstris.

"It's awful," he replied, ungallantly. "You can't wear that thing at Glenwood Springs."

"Well, I intend to wear it," said Miss Kerstris, with an angry stamp of her foot.

"You are not going to Glenwood Springs with me unless you have that skirt made at least three inches longer."

"Then I won't go to Glenwood Springs with you. I won't speak to you."

"Very well. Good-night," and Kinlamb left the house.

Some of Kinlamb's friends said he was right, but most of the guests sided with Miss Kerstris and the bathing suit. The party broke up and Miss Kerstris went home in a tearful mood, declaring that she would "never marry him, never!"

As she stepped on to the trolley car she carried the bathing suit, done up in a neat little package, in her hand.

HOSPITABLE HEATHEN.

When He Found That Weary Liked Fish He Invited Him to Come Back on Friday.

It was high noon, and Monday. Worse yet, it was the thirteenth day of the month. A knock was heard at the kitchen door of the Burns mansion. The Chinese servant opened the door. A tramp of long and varied experience accosted him, says the New York Times.

"YOU LIKEE FLISH?"

"I've been traveling and have played in mighty hard luck," observed the tramp. "I lost all my money in an attempt to corner oats, and now I'm hungry; very, very hungry. Can't you please give me a little bite of something to eat?"

The Chinaman comprehended the situation at once. A benevolent, placid smile spread itself over his entire countenance.

"You likee flish?" he asked of the tramp.

"Yes, I like fish first-rate. That will do as well as anything."

"Come Fliday," said the hospitable heathen.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE GRIDIRON.

Company K did not play Roselle Saturday as announced, owing to word received in the morning by telephone that Roselle would cancel the engagement.

Company K will play the Raritans at Raritan Election Day afternoon at 3 o'clock. The members of the team are requested to assemble for practice at the corner of Summit evenue and Somerset street this evening.

The Orange Field Club will play the I. C. T.'s on Election Day morning at 10 o'clock on the Orange Oval at the corner of Randolph road and Arlington avenue. A heavy practice game will be played tonight at 65 Westervelt avenue and all the members are requested to be present.

The football game between the I. C. T. and Westfield teams, at Westfield, Saturday, ended in a dispute two minutes before time was up. A Westfield player dropped the ball and Fisher, of the I. C. T.s, fell on it. The referee refused to let the Plainfield players have the pigskin, declaring he had called time before Fisher fell. Manager Apgar refused to give up the point and the game ended. The score at that time stood 6 to 6, a goal having been made by each side in the first half.

WHIST.

The third match of the season for the challenge trophy of the American Whist League was played in Philadelphia on Saturday between the Philadelphia Whist Club (holders) and the American Whist Club of Boston (challengers). The match was close up to the end of the third round, after which the Philadelphia team drew steadily ahead and won by eleven tricks, the final score being 28 to 17.

While no date has been definitely settled for the congress of the New Jersey State Whist Association, it will probably be held on Saturday, November 15. Always heretofore it has been the custom to have the congress last for three days, but it is proposed this year to limit it to one day. There will be a contest in the afternoon for pairs, in which the ladies are invited to participate. In the evening there will be two contests, one for pairs on the Howell system and one for teams of four representing the club contesting for possession of the Metropolitan challenge trophy. This trophy is now held by the Brooklyn Whist Club, which will surrender it at the congress.

The Cosmopolitan Whist Club and the Brooklyn Whist Club are tied in the contest for permanent possession of the Metropolitan challenge trophy with the Knickerbocker Whist Club and the Newark Bay Boat Club close up. It is necessary to win the cup fifteen times in order to obtain permanent possession of it, and the two leading teams each have eight wins.

The following is the standing of all the teams which have won one or more matches:

Cosmopolitan Whist Club	8
Brooklyn Whist Club	8
Knickerbocker Whist Club	7
Newark Bay Boat Club	6
Elizabeth Chess and Whist	4
Park Club	1
Jersey City Club	1
Forest Hill Whist Club	1

I am sure all who knew Mr. Perkins had a feeling of personal bereavement when the news of his death was announced.

A judicious adviser, a public spirited citizen, a corteous gentleman, a kind friend and neighbor has departed. We shall greatly miss him, and in this instance, we use the term "loss" advisedly, for the world is poorer when such an one as our late friend leaves us. I. L. M.

TOWSER HATES MEN.

Considers Himself Official Watchdog of 300 Girls.

No Man Can Ascend Front Steps of Young Woman's Home at Chicago Without His Most Emphatic Protest.

There is at least one dog in Chicago that may be said to thoroughly understand his business. This is Towser, the pride and joy of the inmates of the Young Woman's Christian association home, at 288 Michigan avenue.

A "tramp dog," originally, of doubtful family and still more doubtful antecedents, Towser turned up at the doors of the home and not only insisted upon hospitality; but actually demanded adoption. He was gaunt, hungry, wretched, miserable, with ragged coat, unhappy expression, and every sign of dejection and misery. Finding his new quarters pleasant, he absolutely refused to leave them. So the home authorities, finding it practically impossible to get rid of him, capitulated, and Towser was informally adopted. Now, fat and in the pink of condition, Towser proves daily that he not only knows a grateful spirit, but that he has also a fine sense of loyalty, courage and discrimination.

More than 300 marriageable young women, most of them pretty and attractive, reside at the association home. Masculine visitors, while heartily welcomed at proper times and within due restrictions, are allowed only in the hall, parlors and reception-room of the big hostelry, and upon the front steps. Towser was not long in becoming acquainted with the rules and regulations in regard to these matters, and he carries his care and supervision of the 300 fair damsels, to whom he has constituted himself official watchdog in all literalness, to lengths of which even the most conventional and careful of chaperons would scarcely dream.

No man so much as ascends the front steps without an emphatic protest from Towser, and this notwithstanding the fact that he is the pet and pride of almost every one of the pretty girls whom he would thus sequester from masculine admiration. The plumber, the electric light man, and workmen of similar ilk must be smuggled into the premises the back way if they would penetrate beyond the lower front hallway of the big building, and it would be a bold caller, indeed, who would dare defy Towser's excited challenge, small and insignificant as the devoted dog appears.

Most of his 300 fair charges Towser knows personally, and by most of them he is held in affectionate regard, despite his extreme attitude in regard to beaux or gallants, and few, if any, of them would admit him to be a dog of ordinary abilities or qualifications. Toward children of the kindergarten, including Miss Chandler, a kindergarten teacher who resides at the association home, Towser shows strong affections, although the pretty girls of the home proper come first in his regard.

That Towser's peculiar censorship is entirely self-taught and self-constituted, the residents and authorities of the association home are unanimously agreed. No slightest shade or degree of suggestion or training taught the odd fellow to keep men at a distance from the young lady inmates of his chosen home. But the dog evidently realizes that with pretty girls to look after it behooves him to be extraordinarily particular and watchful. To this duty, as he sees it, Towser devotes himself with an admirable faithfulness, devotion, and singleness of heart.

Towser, says the Chicago Tribune, is also remarkable because of his religious and social inclinations. He attends the services in the Home chapel almost every Sunday, and never an entertainment takes place within the home precincts but Towser insists upon taking at least a silent part in the exercises of the occasion. When, as sometimes occurs, he is ejected from the platform, his grief is extreme and unremitting in its expression, but if allowed to remain his behavior, according to many of his feminine charges, is dignified and exemplary almost beyond belief.

THE FACTS ARE MADE PUBLIC

and I, as county chairman, would be satisfactory and agreed that I would support the whole ticket to the best of my ability if that agreement was carried out, but said that from my knowledge of Somerville methods I believed it would not be. Mr. McGee said to me in effect, "Mr. Mayor, your requests and conditions are so reasonable and fair that unless they concede them you should be released from an obligations to support the ticket and no fault can be found with any position you may take." John G. MacLaughlin reported a few days later that his principals utterly refused to carry out their end of their own proposition and that while they might agree to give Brown a part of their delegates in convention they would not stand for any North Plainfield man for chairman of the committee. This confirmed our belief that they never had intended to play fair but only wanted to get some advantage pecuniary or otherwise.

In conclusion I propose to lend my influence in the future where my judgment directs for the good of the town that has so highly honored me, no matter who it strikes, keeping back for the present many more reasons why my position is the true one.

N. B. Smalley.

MR. BROWN'S LETTER.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—While not courting newspaper notoriety, not being a politician and not having attended a single meeting of either faction, still at this time when being criticised for not allowing my name to be used in connection with the nomination for surrogate of Somerset county and as the responsibility for the nomination not coming to North Painfield is laid upon Mayor Smalley it seems to me, that in justice to Mayor Smalley and myself, a simple statement of the facts in reference to whole matter should be forthcoming. Let the public be the judges as to where the blame should rest, especially as an article published in last week's North Plainfield paper tells only a portion of the truth and half the truth is always misleading and the statement in reference to the conference held at my office is decidedly inaccurate.

Several weeks before the convention, the matter was broached to me by John G. MacLaughlin, coming to me unsought and indorsed by a number of the leading citizens of the borough, naturally it was pleasing, for who does not wish to better one's condition? At another interview, I was informed as to the amount the candidate was expected to put up, viz., $2,000 to $2,500, then, as, a business proposition I spoke of the chance of election, particularly of carrying Somerville remembering the antagonism that has existed towards North Plainfield candidates, as shown in the defeat of H. N. Spencer after the borough giving him about 500 majority and he being merely elected when he ran the second time only after great expenditure of money. It was then that I stated that if harmony could be arranged between the Thompson and Reed factions, I would stand for the nomination and only on this condition. Mayor Smalley coming in at this point and learning the situation, after considerable pressure was brought to bear, agreed to give his answer the following evening.

At that time Mr. MacLaughlin, Henry McGee and the Mayor met at my office and agreed upon the following, viz., that Mr. Thompson and Mr. Reed should both keep out of this campaign and the Mayor to remain on the executive committee as its chairman, Mr. MacLaughlin distinctly stating having spent the day with Mr. Thompson and his (Mr. Thompson) saying that he was willing to do anything for harmony; that he was sick of the strife, in fact was out of politics now. These were the only pledges mentioned, both Mr. McGee and Mr. MacLaughlin making expression that the agreement was very fair and that Mayor Smalley had conceeded more than they expected and that certainly he was clear if harmony did not prevail.

The result of this conference satisfactory to all parties was submitted the next day to Mr. Frelinghuysen, meeting his hearty approval. Later on word was received from Mr. Thompson that they would not consent to Mr. Smalley acting as chairman of the committee, but they MIGHT consider Brown, thus annulling the agreement of the conference and causing me to lose faith in Somerville pledges and in the sincerity of the Thompson representatives, for had they been falsely dealt with, was not an acknowledgment to that effect due me? While appreciating the efforts of the delegates in my behalf, surely it is not just to lay any blame upon Mayor Smalley, when he stood ready to fulfill his part to the letter, until the broken pledges left him nothing to work upon, without which he could readily see it would be the old story of strengthening the ticket in North Plainfield and trading off in Somerville. Since the convention having been informed by one of the candidates himself that it was a bad year for any North Plainfield Republican to run, I am more than ever convinced that the above would have been the result.

Very truly yours,
Geo. F. Brown.

THE REPUBLICANS ELECT ALL THEIR TICKET IN UNION COUNTY

Republicans Carry County for Ticket and Congressman Fowler by Estimated Plurality of 1,000.

CITY WENT REPUBLICAN BY 1,200

IMPOSSIBLE TO SECURE ACCURATE RETURNS OF THE VOTE AT ELIZABETH, EXCEPT AS TO GENERAL RESULTS.

Fowler Kept Even With the Ticket—Coriell Was Not Far Behind—Newcorn and Hall, of Assembly Candidates, Ran Behind, But Were All Elected—Elizabeth Went Democratic From 200 to 400—Plainfield Went Republican by 1,200—Other Interesting Facts.

Every man on the Republican ticket in Union county was eleced in yesterday's election. Along with the ticket, Congressman Fowler received a plurality through the county amounting to 1,000. Many polling districts lack accurate figures at this time. It is certain, however, that the Republicans have won and by about the figures predicted in The Daily Press' forecast.

Fowler and the Republican ticket received, it is estimated, a plurality of 1,000. Judge Cross, the Republican candidate for Senator, was elected by about the same plurality, running well in Elizabeth and being cut somewhat in Plainfield and other parts of the county. Chas. H. Moore, Democratic candidate for sheriff, made a good run but B. Frank Coriell, the Republican nominee, won easily and did not fall far behind his ticket. A conservative estimate places his plurality at 800 and it may run higher.

Surrogate Parrott was elected and probably ran ahead of his ticket. His plurality may be high as 12,000.

It is almost impossible to give any correct idea of the pluralities of the Assembly candidates. Coyne was undoubtedly up to the ticket but Newcorn and Hall both ran considerably below and may not get over 400 or 500 plurality over Charles L. Moffett, the highest candidate on the Democratic ticket.

The greatest confusion exists regarding the returns in the city of Eizabeth. Many of the returns from the polling districts are missing and it is impossible to tell how the city has gone. The police are supposed to make the returns and in many cases they failed. The county leaders waited at Republican headquarters in Elizabeth until after midnight. Then it was known how the county had gone and the leaders went home with out waiting to figure out the exact majorities.

It is supposed that the Democrats succeeded in carrying Elizabeth by from 200 to 400 but that a plurality for the Republican ticket of 1,200 or more from Plainfield, with the aid of the rest of the county, succeeded in electing the Republicans by the figures already mentioned. Rahway failed to make any definite returns.

FIRST WARD, 1ST. DIST.

Republican gains were to be found in the First district of the First ward. Instead of 200 majority of last year, the Republican ticket was 234 ahead of its closest opponent. None of the candidates on the Republican ticket, except Cave, were able to hold their own with the ticket. The majority of them were but a few votes behind but Hall, Newcorn and Cross were most extensively cut. Newcorn did better than he did a year ago and was 59 ahead of Moffett, high man on the Democratic ticket. Martine ran well ahead of his ticket and second to Moffett.

A heavy vote was polled, 528 ballots being cast. The Republicans had 381 and the Democrats 147. Two were rejected. The city candidates, with the exception of Westphal, were almost up to their ticket.

FIRST WARD, 2D. DIST.

Republican gains marked the heavy vote in the Second district of the First ward. From 34 last year, the Republican pluraity ran up to 73. Pasters were used with frequency but most of the cutting was confined to the county candidates. Newcorn suffered the most, going 25 behind. Cross and Hall also suffered somewhat. The rest of the Republicans held their own except Westphal on the city ticket.

There was an increase in the vote, 210 ballots being cast where 199 were voted last year. Of that number, the Republicans had 138 and the Democrats 65. Two were rejected.

SECOND WARD, 1ST. DIST.

The expected happened in the First district of the Second ward and Assemblyman Hall was turned down in favor of Moffett by 31. Newcorn was badly cut but he was better than Hall by 56 votes although 157 votes behind his ticket. Hall was 203 behind. Lots of scratching was done, over half of the Republican tickets bearing pasters. Cross suffered somewhat as this district is the home district of his opponent, James E. Martine. The rest of the county candidates kept well up to the ticket. A little knifing of the councilmanic candidate, Garrigues, was found. Westphal also suffered but it was not enough to materially affect the general result.

Compared with last year's vote, it was a trifle lighter and the Democrats made some slight gains. There were 502 ballots cast of which 347 were Republican and 150 Democratic. None were rejected.

SECOND WARD, 2D. DIST.

A heavy vote turned out in the Second district of the Second Ward. The Republican ticket received a majority of 91 but Cross, Newcorn and Hall all ran behind. Westphal and Garrigues on the city ticket also suffered. The total vote cast was 226, 156 Republican and 65 Democratic. One was rejected.

THIRD WARD, 1ST. DIST.

The Republican ticket in the First district ot the Third ward held its own but its candidates were all more or less cut. Coriell was the only Republican county candidate who came anywhere near polling his full party vote. He ran but one behind the ticket. Then came Parrott six behind. Fowler was ten behind. Newcorn suffered the worst, being 44 behind while Hall did six better. Moffett was easily the favorite candidate on the Democratic ticket, going 63 better than his ticket. Martine received a complimentary vote.

In the vote for city candidates, party lines were very closely followed. Westphal did fall a little behind, Guttridge being the gainer.

There were 469 tickets cast, which is a few more than last year. The Republicans polled 344, the Democrats 117, Prohibition 3, Socialist 1, and Socialist Labor 2. The Republican plurality is 227 as compared with 231 last year and 199 the year before.

THIRD WARD, 2D. DIST.

It was in the Second district of the Third ward that the count was first completed. There was a decided Republican gain, the Republican plurality jumping from 65 last year to 101 this time. Hall ran the furtherest behind of any of the Republican candidates, being 25 behind. Newcorn was only three better. The expected slump against Coriell did not appear and be

STATE IS STILL REPUBLICAN

The Republican Party Will Still Hold the Balance of Power in the Legislature.

While the result of yesterday's election shows Democratic gains in the State, it is not enough to throw the State to that party. The Republicans will continue in power in the Legislature. In the Senate there will be 14 Republicans and 7 Democrats, while in the Assembly there will be 41 Republicans and 19 Democrats.

In Union county the entire Republican ticket was elected by a majority of 1,000, while in this city the Republicans made a clean sweep with a majority of 1,200.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Peter's Lutheran church will meet this evening at the home of Rev. Theodore Duensing, 119 Liberty street.

MORRIS GOES FOR FOWLER

That County Gives Him a Plurality Conservatively Estimated at 800.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Morristown, Nov. 4—The Republicans carried Morris county by respectable pluralities. Some of the leaders of the party claim it by 1,200 but others conservatively make it 800. Success came to every man on the ticket with Fowler, who ran fully as well as expected.

Dedication of Pilgrim Church.

The dedication exercises of the Swedish Evangelical Pilgrim church, located at West Sixth and New streets, will be held Sunday, November 16. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon the service will be exclusively in English and at 8 o'clock in the evening the service will be in Swedish.

WARREN IS FOR FLANAGAN

Election in Warren County Gave Democratic Nominee for Congress 1,200 Plur.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Belvidere, Nov. 4—Owing to the tardiness of complete reports it is impossible to give the exact vote in Warren county but a sweeping Democratic victory is assured. The pluralities are already much in excess of what was expected. Flanagan takes the county by at least 1,200, Dr. Barber, D., for the Senate by 600, Colonel John A. Wildrick, D., for Assembly 1,000 and W. J. Barker, D., for sheriff by a like amount.

John Denean, an employe of the Pond Tool Works, is detained at his home in Dunellen with typhoid fever.

SOMERSET COUNTY SWEPT BY THE CANDIDATES OF DEMOCRACY

Entire County Democratic Ticket Was Elected, But Majority Given to the Republican Nominee For Congress.

REGULAR DEMOCRATIC LANDSLIDE

NORTH PLAINFIELD WAS THE MOST IMPORTANT FACTOR IN AN ALMOST UNPRECEDENTED RESULT.

Borough of North Plainfield Gave Large Majorities to All County Candidates on Democratic Ticket, But Stood by Lanning, Republican Nominee for Congress—The Result in the Rest of the County—Returns Slow in Coming In—The Successful Candidates' Pluralitites.

For the first time in many years, Somerset county has wandered over in the Democratic column. The Democrats succeeded in electing their entire county ticket by varying majorities but the Republican candidate for Congress managed to poll a plurality estimated at 200. Most remarkable of all was the wonderful change which came over the borough of North Plainfield, long famed as the Republican stronghold of the county. Instead of coming to the aid of the Republican county candidates, it gave pluralities ranging from 234 to 317 for the Democratic office seekers. The Republican ticket, with the candidate for Congress, went through as usual, the Democratic pluralities being given entirely through scratched tickets.

Everybody had realized that the Republicans had a hard row to hoe in Somreset county but the strength of the Democratic forces and their friends was not fully realized until the reports began to come from the polling places. It was North Plainfield that practically changed the political complexion of the county and its course is generally charged as the direct result of the defeat of the annexation project there. It was known that many prominent North Plainfield Republicans would not support the choice of their party but the importance of the slump in North Plainfield Republican affairs was not appreciated until last night.

Owing to the tardiness of the outlying districts, the complete reports from Somerset county could not be obtained. As far as ascertained the Democrats took pretty near everything with the exception of the Congressional vote. Childs was elected by 400 majority, Swackhamer won out by 150 and DeMond is given a majority of 500. Lanning, the Republican candidate for Congress, is conceded the district by 200.

The pluralties where obtainable were as follows: Bedminster, Childs, 194; DeMond, 176; Branchburg, First district, Lanning, 17; Childs, 31; Second district, Frelinghuysen, 7; Hoagland, 17; Bridgewater, First district, Lanning, 84; Frelinghuysen, 15; Hoagland, 83; VanDoren, 25; Second district, Perrine, 35; Childs, 47, Swackhamer, 36; DeMond, 47; Third district, Lanning, 35; Frelinghuysen, 40; DeMond, 140; Fourth district, Frelinghuysen, 13; Hoagland, 34; VanDoren, 16; Fifth dsitrict, Frelinghuysen, 26; DeMond, 57; Sixth district, Perrine, 11; Frelinghuysen, 10; Swackhamer, 12; DeMond, 10; Bound Brook borough, Lanning, 11; Frelinghuysen, 21; Hoagland, 18; DeMond, 41, Toms, 35; Franklin, First district, Lanning, 56; Frelinghuysen, 57, Hoagland, 62; VanDoren, 48; Second district, Lanning, 36; Frelinghuysen, 26; Hoagland, 40; VanDoren, 30; Third district, Lanning, 36; Frelinghuysen, 26; Hoagland, 40; VanDoren, 19.

North Plainfield township, Childs, 2; Swackhamer, 13; VanDoren, 4; Warren, Perrine, 50; Childs, 51; Swackhamer, 42, DeMond, 26.

THE BOROUGH.

Very decided and altogether remarkable was the expression of opinion shown at the polls in North Plainfield yesterday. For the first time almost in its history, the borough went Democratic by majorities ranging over 200. True, the Republican ticket went through all right with a majority in its favor and carried with it, Lanning, the Congressional nominee, who even did two better than the ticket. But scratches reduced the majorities for the the Republican candidates until they became minus quantities and the Democrats came out on top of the heap.

It was generally known that North Plainfield would not come to the aid of the Republican party in Somerset this year with its customary majorities but the results were unexpected. Most of the Repubilcan leaders who have been so prominent in past years hustling for the welfare of their ticket, either stayed at home or actually worked in behalf of the Democratic county candidates. It was, as everybody knows, the direct result of the defeat of the annexation project and the refusal of the Republicans from the other end of the county to harmonize with the faction from North Plainfield.

It was thought that Childs would beat Frelinghuysen out in the borough and the belief was not unfounded. He rolled up a plurality amounting to 282. S. S. Swackhamer, the Democratic candidate for the Assembly, did even better. His plurality was 317. VanDoren, Republican nominee for sheriff, also had his troubles and his Democratic opponent, DeMond, went out of the borough with 245 plurality. The coroner followed the ticket closely and the Republican choice was in the lead by 234. Lanning's plurality in the borough was 251.

The Republican slump was fairly evenly divided between the two election districts. Swackhamer developed more strength in the Second district than in the First and thereby managed to roll up a bigger vote than Childs. DeMond, on the contrary, did better in the First. In the vote for Congress, the First district showed up the heaviest Republican vote. Great crowds surrounded the polling places when the votes were being counted and there were some pretty sorrowful men when the Republican workers, who had stuck by their ticket, saw that they had been fairly snowed under. To the public gaze at least, the retired Republicans took the news with composure. The Democrats were jubilant.

The results of the balloting is as follows:

SCHOOL CADETS GAVE TYPICAL DAY IN CAMP

Entertainment Given by City High School Cadet Battalion Monday Night.

ALL KINDS OF DRILLS

ENDED WITH A MOCK NIGHT ALARM IN THE CAMP.

Those Who Commanded Details Which Appeared in the Various Drills—War Veterans Made Addresses—Other Details.

Franklin Hall presented a military appearance Monday evening, on the occasion of the entertainment given by the members of the City High School battalion. The affair, which represented a typical "Day in Camp," was of a novel nature and aimed to present some idea of how Uncle Sam's soldiers pass their time in camp. The cadets took part in various drills and the camp routine was gone through with a swing which held the interest of the audience.

The "Day" began by the playing of reveille by the battalion buglers, Sergeant Thompson and Bugler Briggs, and the Stars and Stripes and the camp burgee, bearing the words "Camp Murphy" were hoisted on the platform by Color-Sergeant Hill and Private J. Platt. Captain R. S. Lane with a squad consisting of Corporal H. G. Lapsley and Privates J. M. Davis, P. P. Smith, R. L. Radford, gave an exhibition of litter work in the hospital corps. After this mess call was sounded and Rev. L. E. Livermore spoke briefly of his experiences in the Civil War.

Captain F. T. VanAuken with a squad consisting of Corporals P. C. Meyer and J. G. Loizeaux with Privates H. Rottberg, W. Rafferty, J. F. Loizeaux, W. Lambert, A. Codington and R. Bingaman gave an exhibition of high and low wall scaling as used in the army. "To the Color" was then sounded and the color detail under Color-Sergeant N. C. Hill and composed of J. Platt and J. Kline went through the ceremony of presenting the colors to the Major. Edgar W. Williams, secretary of the American evacuation committee, told of his Cuban War adventures. The manual of the bayonet was given by Color-Sergeant Hill, Sergeants C. F. Neagle and A. F. Yaeger, and Private T. Platt, under the command of Captain A. E. Moore. The Butt's manual drill was given by a squad under Lieutenant M. L. Moynihan consisting of Sergeants H. C. Fenno, H. G. Thompson, H. M. Slauson and Company Quartermaster Sergeants E. I. Weseman, R. R. Eckert and H. A. Brownell.

Rev. Frank Fletcher, a Civil War veteran, addressed the audience. Tattoo was then sounded and Chas. L. Lewis sang "The Two Grenadiers" and "Glory" as an encore.

The entertainment closed with a mock night attack on the camp and all turned out to repel the evening.

Those in charge of the affair were First Lieutenant A. F. Conant, officer of the day; Second Lieutenant F. K. Anderson, officer of the guard; Quartermaster J. T. Koons and Quartermaster Sergeant M. H. Long, finance committee, and First Lieutenant and Adjutant G. L. Babcock. The guard detail consisted of Sergeant H. H. Craig, Corporal H. E. Lavelle, and Privates M. St. John, P. Collier, T. G. Kline and M. Goldstein, and was under the command of Second Lieutenant F. K. Anderson.

THE CARUTHERS AFFAIR

By WILL N. HARBEN.

COPYRIGHT 1898 BY A. N KELLOGG NEWSPAPER CO.

Deeply interested in what was to follow, the doctor obeyed.

Taking the box, Hendricks removed the lid and held the box to Mr. Simpkins.

"Is it your opinion that those are the ashes of a human body, such as are produced from the retort of a regular crematory?"

The individual addressed took the box to a window and looked at the contents closely. He had the air of a man who was enjoying himself.

"Got a magnifying glass?" he asked, shaking the ashes about.

Hendricks produced his, and Lampkin took it to the speaker.

There was silence while Mr. Simpkins was focusing the lens on the ashes. Then he came away from the window, closing the magnifying glass.

"In my opinion they are not from the retort of a crematory," he said, "though to be honest I would not take oath on it."

"Why are you not positive?" asked the detective.

Mr. Simpkins' brows ran together. He smacked his lips and raised himself on his toes in pure enjoyment of his well-paid importance.

"Because my experienced eye detects traces of the ashes of clothing here. In well-run crematories such residue is always fanned away from the pure white or grayish ashes of bone which is deposited in urns for preservation. But as the ashes of cloth may, by accident, have fallen back into the bone-ash, I can't be positive."

"Ah, I see!" said Hendricks. "Is there any way by which one could distinguish between the ashes from a New York crematory or one in any other city?"

"None that I know of, sir."

"Well, that is all, and I thank you, Mr. Simpkins," said the detective, leaning back in his chair.

When the man had taken his departure Lampkin asked:

"Could the murderer have had the body cremated in another city?"

"Easier than here, and he had ample time," said Hendricks in the tone of a man in deep and perplexed thought. "He might have had a little trouble in shipping the body, but to get the ashes back here would be a very simple thing. I would not be surprised at any development in this affair. There is one point that bobs up here which is so puzzling that it almost drives me insane."

"What is that?" asked the doctor.

"It is this," answered the detective. "You see, Caruthers had been out of the city—or rather was believed to have left New York ten days before I got my anonymous note telling me where I could find his remains. Now, if the writer believed that I would get the communication without delay the ashes were in Caruthers' apartments a week before I got back from Boston."

"Of course," said Lampkin, in the automatic tone of one who speaks before deliberation. Then he ejaculated with force: "Oh, yes, certainly!"

"But," said Hendricks, with strong emphasis on the word, "if the hell-scorched demon has had free access to my office, as I think he has had to my dining-room, then he could have seen the communication which he had mailed me lying on my desk during my absence. It may really have been part of his plan to have mailed that letter, knowing I wouldn't get it at once."

"But for what reason?" asked the doctor.

"To throw me off the track as to time," said Hendricks. "I said the other day that this would prove the chief crime of all my experience. I am now afraid that it may actually be my 'Waterloo.' I have never dealt with such wonderful tact and boldness combined. The chief reason for my believing that he was on to my movements is that Gielow did not leave until the night I discovered the ashes."

CHAPTER XI.

Two days later Hendricks was declared able to go down to his office. He had just finished dressing when his mother rapped on his door.

"You have a visitor in the drawing-room, said the old lady, with a smile.

"A visitor?" grunted the detective, impatiently.

"A young lady," smiled Mrs. Hendricks. "She would not give her name, but she is about the prettiest creature I ever saw. She is dressed in the latest fashion, and drove up in her own carriage."

Hendricks turned quickly and flushed slightly.

"Tall and slender, erect, walks like a queen, golden brown hair, and heavy eyebrows over eyes like—"

"Yes, I think it is Miss Huntington," said Mrs. Hendricks when his fund of adjectives was exhausted. "She is very anxious to see you."

"Tell her I'll be right down," said Hendricks. "She is just the person I wanted to see."

A moment later when he entered the little drawing-room he found the heiress standing near a window.

"I am afraid I shall be a great intruder on your time," she began, as she took his hand, in the cordial clasp of which there was a vague reassurance. "but I have been to your office three times hoping to find you in."

Hendricks cleared his throat. He was really shocked at the alteration in her. She had grown thinner, and her great lustrous eyes shone from sockets in which there was no sign of blood.

"I am certainly glad you came," he said, leading her to a comfortable chair. "I would have been pleased to have me: you—to have come to you, but I have been confined to my room by a slight indisposition."

"So the office boy told me," cried Miss Huntington, "and I was so sorry."

"If there is any way in which I can serve you I would be delighted to do it," said Hendricks sitting down near her.

The girl took a deep breath, and when she spoke her voice vibrated with the importance of her mission.

"I went to my lawyers, Howell and Garney, last Monday. I told them I wanted to employ them and that I was ready if necessary to spend every cent of my inheritance in Mr. Gielow's behalf. They of course were glad to tender their services, but when I told them of your politeness to me the other night, and that something seemed to tell me you would help me if it lay in your power, they declared at once that you could simply do anything you wished. And then they told me they had been reading the papers and had not noticed that you were employed on the case by the police, and said if I could retain you I ought to do it at once."

NEW TEACHERS APPOINTED

LITTLE OTHER BUSINESS DONE BY THE CITY SCHOOL BOARD.

Session of Plainfield Board of Education Monday Night Was Very Short.

But little business outside of routine matters was brought before the Board of Education at its meeting Monday evening and the session was very short. All the members were present with the exception of Secretary Abbott.

According to the tax collector's report, which was read, a total of $6,757.48 had been received during the month. The custodian of school moneys reported receiving the State apportionment of $6,955.88 and that the balance now on hand is $6,825.42. Drs. Tomlinson and VanHorn reported examining 589 pupils during the month.

The committee on teachers recommended the promotion of Miss Flora Griffin from class teacher in the Whittier school to the principalship of the Bryant and Lincoln schools to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Miss Shattuck, and the appointment of Miss Harriet Parker to Miss Griffin's place. It also reported the resignation of Miss Thomas from the Washington school and asked that Miss Leilla Sheff, of the Oneonta, N. Y. Normal School be appointed in her place. The report was adopted.

The Board of School Estimate and the auditing committee both submitted reports, which will be duly printed, after which adjournment was taken.

CAPTIVE OF BRIGANDS.

Miss Stone Will Tell Her Thrilling Experiences at the Casino.

Announcements was made in nearly all the churches of the city, Sunday, of the forthcoming lecture by Miss Ellen M. Stone at the Casino, Saturday night. Much interest is being taken in Miss Stone's appearance for she has many warm friends here, who will be glad to hear from her lips, the story of her trials and tribulations during the 172 days of her captivity, awaiting the ransom demanded for her release. Miss Stone has the endorsement of the American Board of Missions in her present work, and a warm welcome undoubtedly awaits her at the hands of her auditors here. Tickets and reserved seats on sale at Armstrong's pharmacy.

People Believe In It.

It has been cynically said that anything can be sold by advertising now-a-days. This is not so. Many liniments have been advertised but only one — Perry Davis' Painkiller — has stood the test of sixty years' use. Today its popularity is greater than ever and is based not upon what anybody says but upon what the remedy does. There is but one painkiller, Perry Davis'.

The Two Trains, Put on As Experiment, Have Proved Decidedly Successful.

TO RUN EIGHT IN ALL

B. AND O. WILL INAUGURATE THIS SERVICE NOVEMBER 22.

Local Traffic on the Experimental Trains Has Been Large—Heavy Traffic Expected During the Coming Summer Months.

Continued demands on the officials for increased facilities in the recently inaugurated train service between this city and Staten Island, has resulted in action being taken by the B. and O Railroad Company, under whose supervision it was inaugurated, as was stated in Monday's Daily Press. Beginning on or about November 22, it is the company's determination to add six additional trains making eight plying in each direction. In addition to those making local stops it is proposed to have express service between Plainfield and St. George with all its conveniences.

Since the two trains commenced their trips over the Staten Island Rapid Transit and New Jersey Central roads, people all along both lines have realized the accommodation and the patronage has been far greater than expected. Originally intended for carrying Staten Island people to this city to catch the fast Blue Line trains for the south and west the cars have been well filled with business men and others who have found they could cut in half the time otherwise consumed in getting between Jersey and the Island. With the new trains, four of which will leave in the morning and four in the afternoon, matters will be faciliated and redound to the benefit of the corporation.

Business people from Staten Island are now the principal patrons but it is thought that with the New Jersey people getting accustomed to the innovation, next summer will see a great influx of excursionists to the island resorts. Heretofore it has been impossible to get to North or South and Midland Beaches except by way of Elizabethport and the antiquated ferry, a route both costly and tedious. Train service will quicken and cheapen matters and besides, open up a new route to Coney Island by way of Fort Hamilton ferry and the Brooklyn trolley lines.

THE ELECTION.

One of the most exciting elections that Plainfield has seen for several years is over. Although the Democrats made gains throughout the State New Jersey is still under Republican control. Despite the stories of dissention in the Republican ranks in Union county, that party managed to run up a plurality of 1,000. There was no wholesale cutting of Congressman Fowler or of B. Frank Coriell.

Over in Somerset county, there were some strange things happening. All the Democratic county candidates were elected and North Plainfield, a thing which never happened before, gave them a rousing majority. The Congressional candidate of the Republicans and the coroner went through while the rest of the ticket was cut to pieces.

In the city, the expected happened. All the city candidates were elected by large majorities. While there was a little cutting of a few candidates, most of the voting was according to party lines.

COURT CASES.

A Small Batch Before City Judge Runyon, on Election Day Morning.

The following cases were disposed of by City Judge Runyon, yesterday morning:

Moore Britt, colored, arrested by Roundsman Mattox and Patrolman McCarthy for carrying concealed weapons; sentence suspended.

Peter Dimarko, arrested by Patrolman McCarthy for disorderly conduct at Richmond street and North avenue; hearing adjourned until this morning at 9 o'clock.

Frank Schropfer, arrested by Patrolman McCarthy for throwing stones at an employe of the street railway company, sentence deferred until today while other boys with him could be arrested. The others implicated are Oliver Peel, George Margentino, James Buckley, Andrew Nolan, Jr., and Herbert Hand.

WON RYDER CUP.

Kenneth Bulkley Defeated T. M. Day, Jr., in the Final Match for That Trophy.

The final play at tennis for the club championship at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club courts, yesterday afternoon, resulted in a victory for Kenneth Bulkley, who played T. M. Day, Jr., holder of the cup. By this victory Mr. Bulkley is now the permanent owner of the cup. The complete scores of the matches between Mr. Bulkley and Mr. Day are as follows: 8-10, 2-6, 8-6, 8-6, 7-5. Mr. Bulkley won four of the five matches, the last two matches being played yesterday.

This cup was presented by Mrs. Charles E. Ryder in memory of her son, Henry V. Ryder, who was club champion at the time of his death. The cup was first played for in 1900, when Kenneth Bulkley won it. Last year T. M. Day, Jr., won the cup.

Two for Drunkenness.

Lawrence Wallace, of Fanwood, and Joseph Trainor, of this city, were arraigned yesterday in Recorder Doud's court, of the borough, on a charge of drunkenness. They pleaded guilty and they were each given their option of paying a fine of $3 or go to jail for five days. They paid the fine.

ANOTHER BUSINESS BLOCK.

IS UNDER CONTEMPLATION ON EAST FRONT STREET.

Would Be Opposite Woodhull & Martin's New Building—Options Secured.

An important change in real estate is about to be consummated on East Front street and when the transfer has been completed and other difficulties arising from a complicated division of the lot in question, is settled a new and handsome business structure will be erected opposite the new store of Woodhull & Martin on the city's main thoroughfare.

The property is now owned by William and Meeker Hetfield. On the front part of the lot there is a row of small stores and dwellings which are occupied by John Sayer, the harness maker and Sam Sing a Chinese laundryman. Up stairs is a private dwelling.

The total frontage of the lot is about 90 feet. Part of this lot, about 23x180 feet, has been purchased by Mrs. Withrow, of Sixth and Berckman streets, who has an option on the rest of the property.

This plot of land, purchased by Mrs. Winthrow, cuts the house now on the lot 23 feet through the middle and on each side of the property the land is owned by Meeker Hetfield, a cousin of the former owner of the lot sold to Mrs. Winthrow.

The lot purchased by Mrs. Winthrow is practically useless unless the rest of the property, which is owned by Meeker Hetfield, can be secured. With the entire row of houses the lot measures 90 feet by 180 and is an ideal location for a large store. The entire price asked for the lot, according to Mr. Hetfield's statement yesterday, is $47,000. This includes the property on which the tinning establishment of E. B. Hedden is located.

Mrs. Winthrow's object in buying this property is said to be the erection of a fine store building to correspond, in a measure, with the design of Woodhull & Martin's new store.

These buildings were erected about forty years ago for Wooden Brothers' candy factory when that part of the town was hardly dreamed of as a possible business centre.

It is said Mrs. Winthrow will start the work of erecting the new building as soon as the sale of the propery is consummated.

PERSONAL.

Grover Marsh, of Plainfield avenue will leave town in a few days to enjoy a two weeks' vacation.

Scott Terry, of West Front street, who has been away on a hunting trip in New York State, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs P. J. McAndrews, of Newark, returned home yesterday after visiting friends in this city. Mr. McAndrews was employed in the freight house in this city for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Peyton Legare have gone to Philadelphia, where they will remain until January 1. They will then go south for a time, after which they will go to Porto Rico for the balance of the winter.

THEATRICAL.

The performance of the Carter Stock Company at the Central both Monday and last evenings were greeted by packed houses. Comedy dramas of a refined nature with veins of humor running through them were presented. They were mounted with special scenery and vaudeville acts were interspersed. A noteworthy feature of the audiences was the large number of the fair sex who were present. The third performance will be given this evening.

DUNELLEN.

The dramatic entertainment to be given by the Dunellen Mandolin Club, Saturday evening, November 15, will consist of the following plays, "A Social Outcast," "By Telephone," and the roaring farce comedy "Burglars." Those taking part will be: Miss Annie Wilcox, Mrs. John Lance, the Misses Grace and Mae Linbarger, Mrs. Jennie Fesmer, Clarence N. and H. R. Linbarger and James Wotton. Music will be by the club.

Yesterday's election was unusually quiet. There was practically no excitement although Monday evening a crowd of boys livened things up considerably by forming a parade. They had drums and horns and marched around the streets for some time. The election returns were not received in the borough hall as usual. The Republican headquarters in Huff's store was fairly well patronized.

The public schools were only kept open until 1 o'clock yesterday. Election Day is generally a holiday in the school but the Board of Education thought it just as well, this year, to keep the pupils off the streets for a half day at least.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Craig, this afternoon, will take place the wedding of Edward Craig and Miss Maude Wilcox. The ceremony will be performed at 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Carroll, who had a stroke of apoplexy Monday, still lies in a comatose condition at her home and small hope is entertained of her recovery.

John McCall, of Hartford, a former old resident of this place, visited old friends here Monday. Mr. McCall is in his usual good health.

NEW MARKET.

Rev. Frank Fletcher and Rev. L. E. Livermore, both veterans of the Civil War, spoke at the entertainment given, last evening, by the Plainfield High School cadets. Both gave excellent addresses, telling of their experiences and were enthusiastically received.

Yesterday's election was about as quiet as usual in town and through the township. The division of the township into three election brought out a larger number of voters than usual but did not increase the excitement any.

Abram Nelson visited friends in Plainfield, yesterday morning.

Charles E. Johnson entertained out-of-town friends yesterday.

Paul Meyer visited in Plainfield yesterday.

The school children had a holiday yesterday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The election in the township yesterday was one of the quietest county elections held in years, notwithstanding the efforts of the leaders of both parties, the voters lacked interest enough in the election to turn out and vote in the usual numbers. Out of a total registry list of 315 only 249 ballots were cast. Of this the Republican ticket won out by a majority of twenty on tickets. This is a smaller majority by twenty-five or thirty than the township generally gives.

Funeral services of the late Joseph A. Patterson, who was found dead in bed Saturday morning were held from the bereaved home Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The services which were private were in charge of Rev. Dr. J. H. Parks, an old friend of the family. Interment was made in the family plot in the Baptist cemetery.

The borough voters turned out well at the election yesterday. Out of a possible vote of ninety-two, seventy-eight voters were cast. The Republican ticket receiving 52, Democratic, 26.

Mrs. George Virtue and children, who have been visting Mrs. Frank Hosinger, returned to their home in Newark yesterday.

The local football eleven defeated the Somersets, of North Plainfield, yesterday afternoon quite handily, the score being 15 to 0.

DIGG'S UPRIGHT FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

The Best on Earth! We Challenge the World!

The Extinguishers that turn up-side-down to discharge are good of their kind, but this is far better. Read the following reasons:

Points of superior merit of the Diggs-Upright over any other machine—

1—A sealed acid bottle and an air-tight tank. No change in the conditions of the chemicals possible.

2—Can never be discharged by accident; absolutely under the control of the operator.

3—A 3-gallon machine of this type contains ONE QUART more of liquid than a reversible, because it does not require a handle underneath.

4—It does not need inspection and recharging as required for the reversible with its loose stopple.

5—The acid being released at the top of the tank, and the outlet being at the bottom, the mingling of the chemicals is so thorough before the acid reaches the outlet that it is completely neutralized, and no harm can be done to flesh or fabric. In the reversible type the acid is released within the two inches of the outlet.

6—Convenience in handling. The machine stands on its bottom, and all the operator has to do is to turn the screw in the cap, and the flow begins instantly.

7—The bottle is not broken, and no nuisance of broken glass.

NEW CITY HIGH SCHOOL APPROVED BY COUNCIL

Chief Business Done at Monday Night's Meeting of the Common Council.

THE ROUTINE BUSINESS

STREET COMMITTEE FAILED TO GET TROLLEY COMPANY TO CHANGE.

Company Refused to Alter Its Present Method of Giving Transfers—Progress of the Suit Against the City—Other Matters.

The November meeting of the Common Council held Monday evening was taken up with the transaction of a considerable amount of routine business. In the absence of President Coriell, Councilman vanHerwerden occupied the chair, and George B. Wean acted as clerk pro tem. Councilmen Mellick, Pray and Buckle, in addition to Mr. Coriell, were also absent.

The meeting was a lengthy one by reason of the fact that the new rules and regulations for the fire department were presented by Mr. Lee and had to be read. In all there are ninety-nine sections. They were read and approved. Another matter that consumed much time was that in reference to the new Plainfield High School. The matter was presented to the Council by the Board of School Estimate through Mr. vanHerwerden, a member. The action of the board, taken upon the advice of the Board of Education, in designating $125,000 as the necessary amount for land and a new High School, was approved and the matter was referred to the finance committee of the Council for further consideration. Accompanying the report was a statement from the Board of Education explaining the present school accommodation and the need of increased room.

A petition was received from property-owners on Watchung avenue near Front street, calling the attention of the Council to the fact that Watchung avenue has not been widened as agreed to and the property-owners either want the work done or their money refunded. The matter was referred. Petitions for two electric lights on Westervelt avenue, between East Front street and the brook, one on the southwesterly side of Sherman avenue, between Grant and Monroe avenues, and one on Kensington avenue, between Watchung and Putnam avenues, were granted. The Plainfield Electric Light Company reported that all lights, five in number, have been located as ordered by the Council.

The Davis Realty Company asked the Council to cancel taxes assessed on Clinton avenue property for 1899 as the same had been paid. The matter was referred, as was also the petition of Manning & Runyon, who claimed that they were assessed for 309 feet of land adjoining their property on the east side of Berkely avenue, which they do not own. Mayor Jenkins appointed J. P. Clark a full-paid member of the fire department. He has been a call-man for some time past. The appointment was confirmed.

Corporation Counsel Marsh reported several matters to the Council. In the suit of the American Sewage Disposal Company against the City of Plainfield, he stated that the case is now being prepared for argument. Regarding the case of Edward Marcellus, Jr., by his next best friend, Edward Marcellus, Sr., against the city, Mr. Marsh stated that the Supreme Court had decided that the sentence in the case was illegal and that with the reversal of the city court's decision the cost was omitted. Mr. Marsh in explaining the matter stated that the city court's action was perfectly proper and that no authority is given for other procedure. In the case of L. M. Dunavan against the city, Mr. Marsh reported that a writ of certiorari had been granted the defendant and it was not opposed by the city, but he had not yet learned that the writ had been served. Mr. Marsh also reported that the provisions of the law in the appointment of three commissioners to assess benefits and damages for the permanent improvement of streets have been followed and the clerk will now serve notices on such property-owners who are affected.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that during the month of October 24 building permits were granted.

Mr. Daniel, acting for Mr. Mellick, chairman of the finance committee, reported back the matter of H. E. Gayle, wherein he had been assessed in error, and on his recommendation Mr. Gayle was relieved from the assessment. The same action was taken in the case of Edward L. Mack, who had paid $31.27 taxes in error. This sum was ordered returned to him. On a resolution offered by Mr. Daniel, the assessment for taxes against Chas. H. Graham, was cancelled it having been found to be in error.

On a motion by Mr. Lee two new fire hydrants were ordered. One on West Second street between Liberty street and Plainfield avenue and the other at the corner of Union street and Arlington avenue. Both were petitioned for. Mr. Lee stated further that fire alarm box No. 39 would be moved from the corner of West Sixth street and Lee place to Monroe avenue and West Sixth street, and a new box, No. 84, would be located at West Fourth street and Grant avenue. This action was taken in response to urgent need.

Mr. Tolles stated for the benefit of the Council and so that a record might be made of it, that after a determined effort, the street committee had failed to get the trolley company to change its present method of issuing transfers. The company took exception to the committee's interference, believing that it should conduct its own affairs without dictation in this matter.

Mr. Daniel offered a resolution which provided for the borrowing of $600 for the additional improvement of the sanitary sewer system, the same to be secured by notes. The same member also offered an ordinance, for Mr Mellick, which provides for the changing of the name of LaGrande avenue to East Seventh street. The ordinance was adopted on two readings and ordered advertised. This concluded the business of the evening and the Council adjourned for one week.

FREIGHT CARS IN A HEAP

FOUR TRACKS BLOCKED AT BOUND BROOK YESTERDAY MORNING.

One Brakeman Badly Bruised—A Flange on Car Broke—Twenty Cars Heaped Up.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Nov. 5—A railroad wreck occurred a mile east of here yesterday morning at 4:30 o'clock, when twenty empty coal cars were piled high and blocked the tracks for over six hours. No one was seriously hurt although a brakeman by the name of Mathison was thrown from the top of a car and received several bad bruises.

The wreck was caused by a broken flange on one of the cars in the center of the train. The car was derailed piling up the twenty cars which followed it. All four tracks were blocked. The rails were torn up for a distance of twenty-five yards.

When the "Market Express," which had been delayed for three hours, arrived here another wreck was narrowly averted. The water shute beneath the tender which is used to scoop up the water for the engine dropped down and tore up the ties and platform at the station. The tender had to be exchanged for another which caused a delay of almost an hour.

WON BY A POINT.

Orange Field Club Defeated I. C. T. Eleven by a Score of 6 to 5—Exciting Game.

The Orange Field Club met the I. C. T. football team yesterday morning on the Orange Oval and in an exciting game in which strength was pitted against excellent team work the Orange men defeated their opponents by a score of 6 to 5. The attendance at the game was large.

The I. C. T.'s were heavier than their opponents but the latter made up for the loss in weight by good team work. Captain Smith, of the O. F. C. team, did some star playing but in punting practice he is somewhat deficient.

During the game Peter Emmons and Fullback Galvin were injured and substitutes took their places.

Cured of Piles After 40 Years.

Mr. C. Haney, of Geneva, Ohio, had the piles for forty years. Doctors and dollars could do him no lasting good. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured him permanently. Invaluable for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, lacerations, eczema, tetter, salt rheum, and all other skin diseases. Look for the name DeWitt on the package — all others are cheap, worthless counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

REPUBLICANS ELECT ALL

was but seven behind. Moffett made the best showing of any of the Democrats. The vote was heavier than last year, 199 ballots being cast. Of them, 148 were Republican, 47 Democratic, 1 Prohibition, 2 Socialist. One was rejected.

FOURTH WARD, 1ST. DIST.

While the Democrats of the First district of the Fourth ward held their own, the Republicans there polled a larger vote and slightly increased their majorities over those of last year. There was lots of cutting but it was chiefly confined to the county candidates. Hall was not as badly cut as was expected, falling but 28 behind his ticket. The brunt of the paster work fell on Newcorn, who was 59 behind, and on Cross who was 44 behind. Moffett was the star candidate of the Democrats and managed to poll two more votes than Newcorn, lowest Republican Assembly candidate.

A Republican plurality of 126 was obtained out of a total of 441 votes cast. The Republicans had 278 and the Democrats 152. Four were rejected.

FOURTH WARD, 2D. DIST.

Party lines were drawn unusually close in the Second district of the Fourth ward where the cutting was not as heavy as was expected. The voting was heavy and the Republican made big gains, increasing their plurality from 68 of last year to 130 this election. Newcorn and Cross suffered alike from the use of pasters but Hall kept very close to his party vote. Westphal was the only city candidate to fall behind by any number of votes. Fowler was not quite up to his ticket, his loss amounting to 11.

The total vote was 444, of which the Republicans had 282 and the Democrats 152. The Socialist Labor ticket came to the fore with seven.

FOURTH WARD, 3D. DIST.

While higher than last year, the Republican vote in the Third district of the Fourth ward was not up to that of two years ago. This year's figures amounted to 131. Newcorn ran the furtherest behind his ticket, 40 being the number. The other candidates, with the exception of Cross and Westphal, kept very close to the figures of the ticket. Councilman Randolph ran one ahead of his ticket.

The total vote was 365. Last year it was 337. This year's vote was divided giving the Republicans 240 and the Democrats 109. There were none rejected.

LOCAL LEADERS ARE PLEASED

City Stood by B. Frank Coriell and Came Out Strongly for Mr. Fowler.

The Republican leaders, as well as the rank and file of the party, were more than pleased with the result in this city especially, and with the result in the county. The support given their entire ticket exceeded in a large measure their expectations. It had been openly charged that there was revolt in their ranks, but not until the vote was known in this city, was this rumor exploded. The Plainfield Republicans stood nobly by their son, B. Frank Coriell, showing that they were loyal to him, while in their support of Congressman Fowler they assisted in a great measure toward giving him his majority in the district.

Former Mayor Charles J. Fisk expresses himself as being delighted with Plainfield's showing, that he estimated the majority for the ticket between 900 and 1,000 and the result far exceeded his prediction. Early yesterday afternoon Mr. Fisk told a representative of The Daily Press that he felt sure the entire ticket was safe and this prophecy was verified substantially.

There was some displeasure manifested over the wholesale cutting on the part of Republicans, but the fact that it was not sufficient to bring defeat to the candidates, was a source of gratification.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Nov. 5—Congressman B. F. Howell has been re-elected by about 400 plurality over Geissenhainer and Peter F. Daly has been elected surrogate over Booraem by about 200. The indications point to Carman being elected sheriff of Middlesex county by a plurality of 50 over Serviss. The three Republican Assemblyman have been elected by a slight plurality. They are Whitford, Jackson and Montgomery.

The vote on the Freeholder bill was carried by a heavy vote which will reduce the Board of Freeholders from twenty-four to five. The city has gone Republican by a small plurality.

NEW ROAD OPEN.

Trolley Cars Running Over the Line Connecting Cities of Trenton and New Brunswick.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Nov. 4—With the opening of the Trenton-New Brunswick electric road which opened Monday, the link is formed between the different trolley lines operating between New York and Philadelphia making it possible for a person to travel by trolley a distance of over a hundred miles.

The new road is almost completed and on Saturday the first car "New York" entered New Brunswick on the first through trip from Trenton. Mayor Viehmann forbid the cars entering the city on account of the wheel breaking the new brick pavement on George street owing to the guage of the new cars being a little narrower than those in the city. This will be remedied as soon as possible so that the cars will be able to run into the city instead of stopping at Milltown as they do at present.

PLURALITIES IN UNION COUNTY

Actual Figures Obtained As to Union's Vote for the County Candidates.

CORIELL'S CLOSE CALL

Parrot Rolled Up the Highest Plurality—Fowler Received 1,128 Plurality in the County—Coriell Was Elected by 231—The Other Candidates.

For Congress, Fowler's Plurality, 1,182.
For Senator, Cross' Plurality, 1,204.
For Surrogate, Parrot's Plurality, 1,773.
For Sheriff, Coriell's Plurality, 231.
For Assembly, Coyne's Plurality, 1,263.
For Assembly, Hall's Plurality, 814.
For Assembly, Newcorn's Plurality, 649.

These are the figures by which the entire Republican ticket was elected in Union county Tuesday. While The Daily Press was able to announce in its election edition Wednesday morning that the ticket had won and gave fairly accurate estimated pluralities, it was impossible to get the complete returns from the county and give the actual figures. The complete returns have since been received and the total vote with the pluralities announced. While the closeness of B. Frank Coriell's escape from defeat was not appreciated at first, the other estimates were very close.

Congressman Fowler polled a vote in the county which fully satisfied his friends. It was expected that Flanagan would run well in Elizabeth and he carried that city by 851. His plurality of 1,198 in Plainfield and some help from the best of the county more than made up for Flanagan's lead in the county seat and gave the present Congressman a plurality of 1,182 in the county.

To the surprise of many, James E. Martine carried Elizabeth by 518 and received a strong vote in Plainfield but it was not sufficient to elect him and Senator Cross was re-elected easily with a plurality of 1,204. He made his strongest run in the townships and there gathered a large enough plurality to excell that of the Congressional candidate.

As was predicted by The Daily Press, the closest fight was for sheriff. Charles H. Moore, the Democratic nominee, came out of Elizabeth with a plurality that even his strongest supporters hardly expected. He carried the county seat by 1,778. It was Plainfield that saved him in the battle of the ballots. Here he ran way ahead of his ticket, getting a plurality of 1,286. Then the towns in the county stood by him and he managed to over come the tremendous lead which his opponent secured in Elizabeth. As it was, Mr. Coriell's plurality in the entire county amounted to 231, a very close shave.

Nobody doubted for a moment that Surrogate Parrot would not be re-elected. Nevertheless LeRoy Gibby, the Democratic nominee, managed to carry Elizabeth by 351. Plainfield and the rest of the county piled up the highest plurality on the Republican ticket, 1,773, for Mr. Parrot.

The results in the fight for the Assembly was rather surprising. While Assemblyman Hall was badly cut in parts of Plainfield, he did not suffer much through the rest of the county and polled a larger total vote than did Assemblyman William Newcorn. It was expected that Charles L. Moffett, the Democratic nominee, would make a very close fight but the Republican cuts were divided between Hall and Newcorn and thereby lost the chance of Moffett's election which might have been possible had the cutting been confined to one man. Moffett polled the highest vote, next to Moore, of any Democratic candidate. Coyne's plurality over Moffett was 1,263, Hall's plurality over the same candidate was 814 and Newcorn's 649.

Dr. Shirrefs' election to coroner was by a plurality of 1,484, although his opponent carried the city of Elizabeth by 671.

At Elizabeth, Mayor Ryan and the entire Democratic ticket was elected by varying pluralities. Mayor Ryan's plurality was 1,195.

The total vote in the county for the different candidates was as follows: For Congress, Fowler, 10,654; Flanagan, 9,463. For Senator, Cross, 1,976; Martine, 1,311. For sheriff, Coriell, 10,271; Moore, 10,021. For surrogate, Parrot, 11,083; Gibby, 9,310.

William Newcorn.

For Assembly, Coyne, 11,142; Hall, 10,693; Newcorn, 10,528; Marz, 9,209; Reiss, 9,309; Moffett, 9,879. For coroner, Shirrifs, 10,831; McCallion, 9,347.

WRECK ON LEHIGH.

Black Diamond Express Jumped Track on the Hackensack Meadows.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, Nov. 6—The Black Diamond Express, the Lehigh Valley Railroad's show train, jumped the tracks on the Hackensack meadows yesterday afternoon in a manner which the railroad men say is inexplicable. The cause of the wreck was an open switch which allowed the flyer to run in on another track and colilde with a train standing there.

Fifteen or twenty persons were hurt, three seriously, by the accident. They were well taken care of by the railroad. Among the noted persons abroad the train was Mrs. Carrie Nation. She refused to continue the journey on a special train, wishing to see the officials first.

Preparing for Entertainment.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Hope Y. M. A., held last evening, the members took preliminary steps for the second annual minstrel show. As contemplated it will be held shortly after the holidays and regular rehearsals will begin in two weeks. At a special meeting to be held shortly the various parts will be assigned. Other business transacted was the election of several new members and the acceptance of one application.

JERSEY'S VOTE FOR CONGRESS

Congressman Fowler Was Elected in Fifth District by 1,022 Plurality.

THE ACCURATE FIGURES

Seven Republicans and Three Democrats Elected to Congress From New Jersey—Fowler Did Better in Morris County Than Was Generally Expected.

Under the new re-districting plan, Congressman Fowler, together with six other Republicans and three Democrats, was elected to Congress from New Jersey, as was told in yesterday morning's edition of The Daily Press. While the results of the election were known at an early hour yesterday morning, it was impossible to obtain anything like accurate returns. Most of the exact figures have since been received and, with a few closely estimated returns from counties which have not forwarded the exact figures, are herewith appended.

The Daily Press' forecast of the result in the Fifth district came very close to what really happened. Warren gave a stronger Democratic plurality than was expected while Morris turned out to be more strongly Republican than was expected. Union did about what was expected.

BOYS STONED AN ITALIAN

YOUTHFUL ONES WERE ARRAIGNED IN CITY COURT.

Post Election Offenders Gathered Before City Judge Runyon Yesterday Morning.

At yesterday morning's session of the city court, sentence was suspended on Frank Schropfer, George Margentino, James Buckley, Andrew Nolan, Jr., and Herbert Hand, all boys, who were caught by Patrolman McCarthy stoning an Italian employe of the street railway company who was greasing a switch at Watchung avenue and East Fourth street. Oliver Peel, one of the crowd, who was ordered to appear, failed to do so and he will be arrested as soon as found.

The case against Peter Dimarko, for disorderly conduct, was adjourned for one week until necessary witnesses could be secured.

Edmund Scott, known as the "deliverer of messages" from his manner of religious exhortation every time he drinks too much, was arraigned on the old charge of drunkeness. Sentence was suspended.

Charles Murphy, arrested Tuesday morning by Patrolman Saffron, was released with a suspension of sentence.

DELAY IN COUNT.

Second District of Second Ward Did Not Report Until 2:50 o'Clock in the Morning.

The election officers of the Second district, Second ward, did not make their returns to the city clerk's office until 2:50 o'clock yesterday morning. They were the last to report and for a time it was believed that they did not intend to make the returns until later in the morning.

George B. Wean, who was on duty at the clerk's office, telephoned to police headquarters about 2:45 o'clock and gave instructions to have a police officer make a search for the missing election officers. Five minutes later they walked in. They had no explanation to offer as to why they were so late.

They had only a few over 200 votes to count and why it should take them so many hours to finish the count was beyond understanding. It seemed to be the general opinion that some more modern method of getting the result is needed.

CAPTAIN MARTIN.

Elected Last Night to Take Command of Plainfield's Crack Militia Company.

Company K held its weekly drill at Saengerbund Hall, last evening, when the members elected a captain to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. W. Kempton Browning. W. B. Martin, of Elizabeth, was elected to that office. He was formerly a staff inspector of rifle practice, but was released to accept the office to which he was elected last night.

At the business meeting, which followed the drill, it was decided to hold a minstrel performance sometime in the near future. The next game of the football squad will be played Saturday with the I. C. T.s.

MANAGER OF PAPER.

Alden E. Moore Was Chosen Head of Business Department of Paper.

The balloting for business manager for the city High School paper yesterday morning resulted in the election of Alden E. Moore, 1903, to fill this office. In the election for class reporters for the paper, a majority vote was gained in but two classes. Miss Harriet C. Randall and G. A. Brakeley were elected from the senior class and Miss Louise Klein and H. G. Thompson from the sophomore class.

The class reporters for the High School paper from the junior and freshmen class were chosen yesterday. From the junior class, Miss Mae Batchellor and Jose Tweedy were elected while Miss Ethel Boice and Stuart Freeman will represent the freshmen.

Meeting at Private House.

The Hicksite Society of Friends held its Fourth-Day meeting yesterday with Mrs. Amy Lorton, 203 Watchung avenue. This change was necessary owing to the fact that the meeting-house is being cleaned. There was a good attendance of Friends and the meeting was a helpful one. While the Friends were together Mrs. Mary Laing, of East Front street, an old member of the society, recited poems.

Social Postponed.

The social of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, which was to be held this evening is indefinitely postponed.

HOW SOMERSET REALLY WENT

The Pluralities of the Various County Candidates Who Were Elected Tuesday.

DEMOND RAN THE BEST

He Had Plurality of 508—Childs Was Next With 394—Swackhamer Was Elected by 185 Plurality—The Democrats As Well As Republicans Surprised.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Nov. 6—There is dismay in the camp of the Republican hosts, old Somerset having gone over to the enemy. Democrats and Republicans alike are wondering how it was done. The former were as much surprised as the latter at the result.

Senator Thompson, the Republican leader, was dazed when realized the result, and the North Plainfield vote was an astounder to the "'boss." There is now no doubt that North Palinfield is still a very important factor in any political battle.

After having two conventions, so to speak, and undergoing no end of mudslinging the Democrats have achieved a remarkable victory.

The only dark cloud to mar the rejoicing of the victorious host is the result on Congress, but even had Perrine received as large a majority here as the man who ran the highest on the Democratic ticket he could not have been elected, Mercer giving his opponent such a rousing majority.

As the election boards are always slow in getting the returns in to the County Clerk even yet it is impossible to secure the total vote. The figures given below are the majorities received in each voting precinct and these are as correct as it is possible to obtain at the present writing. It is believed that the majorities of all the winners will be somewhat reduced when the official vote is obtainable.

Here are the figures on Congress. These give Lanning 322 plurality:

PRAISED HER LECTURE.

What a Massachusetts Paper Says About Miss Stone.

The Worcester (Mass.) Gazette had the following to say of the story which Miss Ellen M. Stone, the ran somed missionary, will tell at the Casino, Saturday night:

"Miss Stone told her story in a free and dramatic manner, which won the hearts of the audience. Although herself the heroine of an intensely dramatic story, she told it with a modesty which is one of her most charming characteristics. She began by telling what a pleasure it was for her to be in America breathing the free air, after having been shut up with the brigands for so many long weary weeks. She gave a graphic description of her capture and the fearful suspense in which the prisoners were kept."

Tickets and a few more reserved seats can be secured at Randolph's pharmacy.

Death of Miss Boutle.

The death of Miss Elizabeth Boutle, a sister of Mrs. Mary Harding, of 222 Grove street, occurred yesterday morning at 4 o'clock after a week's illness from pneumonia. The funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the residence of her sister, 222 Grove street, and from the Church of the Holy Cross a half hour later when the rector, Rev. Mr. Downey, will conduct the services over the remains.

Classes Formed.

At the meeting of the Young Women's Club Monday evening classes in dancing and physical culture were formed with a large number of members in each. The dancing class will meet every Wednesday evening, while the other class will meet Tuesday and Thursday evenings of each week. Other classes will be formed within a short time. Next Monday evening a scrap-book social will be held.

Burned With Hot Fat.

The young son of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. French, of Grove street, narrowly escaped a serious accident yesterday. Mrs. French was cooking some ham on the stove, and the little fellow thoughtlessly took hold of the pan and pulled it off the stove. The hot drippings scalded him, but not seriously. Mrs. French hastened to the rescue of her son and saved him from a probable fatal burning.

Reception to Mrs. Kirkner.

Mrs. John Kirkner will be introduced to Plainfield society at a reception to be given by Mrs. Jacob Kirkner, of West Eighth street, Saturday evening, November 15.

BATTLED IN GREEN BROOK

Chief Kiely and a Desperate Negro Nearly Drowned in Their Struggles.

IN WATER WAIST DEEP

Mayor Smalley Finally Settled the Fight by Coming to Rescue and Knocking Down the Negro—Had to Cart Prisoner to Jail—Heavy Sentence.

Evidences of a battle royal, such as seldom occurs between a policeman and belligerent prisoner, were brought out in the city court, this morning, when Edward Washington, a burly negro, was arraigned on technical charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

He was taken into custody, yesterday afternoon, by Chief Kiely after a ten minute struggle in the deep water of Green brook just below the Sycamore avenue bridge. Time and again both officer and prisoner disappeared beneath the surface only to reappear puffing and blowing like two porpoises and renew the struggle. Mayor Smalley, of North Plainfield, also plunged into the stream and assisted to put Washington hors de combat. After hearing the testimony City Judge Runyon sent Washington to jail for 100 days.

Chief Kiely was alone at headquarters, yesterday, when a telephone message from Mayor Smalley asked him to send an officer to the Sycamore avenue bridge, where a colored man was insulting women. The Chief set out himself, approaching the structure from the borough side. Washington was standing on it and as soon as he saw the officer he struck out for Giraud avenue on the city side of the brook with Kiely in close pursuit. He crossed the Giraud bridge back to the borough side and midway between it and Sycamore avenue the Chief caught him. In their struggles both became entangled in a barbed wire and the officer nearly had a finger torn off, while Washington broke away.

He darted for the Sycamore bridge but seeing Mayor Smalley approach plunged into the brook and stood waist deep in the center. No amount of talking or coaxing from the officer or the borough chief executive could induce him to come out and the Chief cut the Gordian knot by going in after him, not even discarding his coat. The two grappled, with the advantage on Washington's side, and the officer went down. It was only for a moment when positions were reversed and the negro found himself on the bed of the brook. He was held beneath the water until it seemed as if his lungs had filled, but when he was allowed to come to the top, it was with a sinister smiler on his face and a renewed determination to fight.

The battle might have gone on indefinitely but for Mayor Smalley braving the chill water and by coming behind Washington struck him a blow which temporarily dazed him. This gave the Chief an opportunity to use his billy. A few taps sufficed to get him out of the water but on reaching the bank he again essayed a struggle and it was necessary to cart him to headquarters in a butcher wagon with several men sitting on him.

This morning the Chief was none the worse for his experience with the exception of the maimed finger and appeared as prosecutor against the prisoner. Washington denied the disorderly end of the charge but his arrester so entangled him that his guilt was clearly seen by the court.

The sentence was imposed in the form of $50 and fifty days but Washington declared he would have to serve it all. He was only released Tuesday after completing a forty day sentence for drunkenness.

Postponed Again.

The case between William Sharkey, defendant, and George Conover, complainant, on contract, came up yesterday afternoon before Justice Mattison in the borough, but was postponed again for one week. The case had already been postponed as it was slated to come up before the Justice Tuesday.

THE NEXT CONGRESS

Returns Show 204 Republicans and 179 Democrats.

HOW THE SEVERAL STATES VOTED.

Late Figures Do Not Materially Change First Estimates—Results In Three States Are Still In Doubt.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The latest returns received show that the Republicans (including in this description the fusionists elected from the Pittsburg-Allegheny districts in Pennsylvania) will control the next house by a vote of 204 Republicans to 179 Democrats, with one district, the Eighth Tennessee, and two California districts remaining so much in doubt that the official returns will be needed to decide the result. The totals given are believed to be correct, although there are a few districts, such as two in Colorado and one in Minnesota, where the Republican and Democratic party managers respectively do not concede defeat, but the general result could not be affected even should their claims prove well founded.

The table by states is as follows:

	Rep.	Dem.
Alabama	—	9
Arkansas	—	7
California	4	2
Colorado	—	3
Connecticut	5	—
Delaware	—	1
Florida	—	3

Total	204	179

According to the latest returns Republicans have carried New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Minnesota, Iowa, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Kansas, Utah, Wisconsin, New Jersey, Washington, Montana, North and South Dakota, Idaho, California and Wyoming.

Democrats won in Rhode Island, Missouri, Alabama and in all southern states.

The states of Colorado, Nebraska and Nevada are in doubt.

A deadlock in the Delaware legislature is again probable.

Close Vote In California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 6.—Complete returns from San Francisco and partial returns from all over the state indicate that George C. Pardee, the Republican nominee for governor, is elected by a majority of 2,000 to 3,000. The plurality of 9,000 given by San Francisco to F. K. Lane, the Democratic nominee, has been almost wiped out by Republican majorities in the interior counties. The Republican vote for Pardee in southern California undoubtedly elected him. The legislature, which will choose a United States senator, is largely Republican on joint ballot. The Republicans have lost two Congressmen—Kahn in the Fourth and Loud in the Fifth. The First and Second districts are still undecided, with Democratic leaning.

Democratic Gains In Rhode Island.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 6.—Substantial gains for the Democrats are shown by the complete returns for the state ticket, they electing their candidates for governor and lieutenant governor and their congressional candidate in the First district. Besides, they cut down the Republican lead in the house by securing thirty-six members as against a like number for the Republicans. The senate, however, remains Republican, with a representation of twenty-seven in thirty-seven members. The total vote for governor was: L. F. C. Garvin (Dem.), 29,825; C. D. Kimball (Rep.), 23,467, a plurality of 6,358.

The Result In Idaho.

BOISE, Ida., Nov. 6.—Returns from the state confirm figures already sent out showing the election of the entire Republican state and congressional tickets. A Republican majority on joint ballot seems assured, and W. E. Borang probably will succeed Senator Heitfelt in the senate. Democratic State Chairman Donnelly concedes the election of the entire Republican ticket, but claims that the Republicans will have one less than a majority on joint ballot in the legislature. Republican leaders claim their majority will be thirteen.

Pennypacker's Immense Majority.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—For the first time in the history of the state more than 1,000,000 votes were cast in an election. Samuel W. Pennypacker (Rep.) was elected governor by an estimated plurality of 175,000, and the Republican ticket was generally successful in the various counties. The Democrats elected two, and possibly three, of the thirty-two congressmen. The legislature will be more strongly Republican than ever before, with the exception of the 1897 session, and it is certain that Boies Penrose will succeed himself in the United States senate.

Records Broken In Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 6.—With the receipt of more complete returns the majority of Governor Van Sant assumes large proportions. It is at least 50,000 and may go as high as 75,000, a record breaking majority in Minnesota for a gubernatorial candidate. The governor apparently has run considerably ahead of the rest of the state ticket, although the entire ticket is elected by about the normal majority. Eight of the nine congressmen are Republicans, the lone Democrat being ex-Governor John Lind, who defeated Loren Fletcher in the Fifth district.

Republicans Claim Nebraska.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 6.—Returns received at Republican state headquarters show that the Republicans have elected five of the six Congressmen in Nebraska. The second district, in which Omaha is situated, is the only one carried by the fusionists, Hitchcock defeating Mercer. It is now claimed and is almost certain that Mickey (Rep.) is elected governor by about 2,000. He ran behind his ticket. The entire Republican state ticket is elected. The next legislature will be strongly Republican.

Kansas Heavily Republican.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 6.—The Republican victory in Kansas is complete. A good majority of the legislature, all the state offices and a large part of the county offices were taken by the Republicans. Returns received from every part of the state indicate the election of W. J. Bailey and the entire Republican ticket by about 35,000 plurality. The Republicans have elected every member of congress and more than ninety members of the legislature.

Ohio Republican by 100,000.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6.—With more complete returns the Republicans say their plurality on the state ticket will approximate 100,000 and that the Ohio congressmen stand seventeen Republicans to four Democrats, as in the last congress. The pluralities in all of the four Democratic districts were greatly reduced and in the Republican districts increased. The only changes were in the Twelfth and Thirteenth districts, and they offset each other.

In Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—The state of Massachusetts chose a Republican state ticket, a congressional delegation of ten Republicans and four Democrats, a state senate of thirty-one Republicans and nine Democrats and a house of representatives of 155 Republicans, eighty-two Democrats and three Socialists. The total vote was the largest ever cast for governor, reaching approximately 390,000 against 386,100 for governor two years ago.

La Follette's Majority 50,000.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 6.—Belated returns increase Governor La Follette's plurality in the state. The latest estimate brings his figures up to 50,000. As near as can be figured the next legislature will be made up about as follows: Assembly, 75 Republicans and 25 Democrats; senate, 31 Republicans and 2 Democrats.

The Vote In Washington.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 6.—The Democrats concede the election of the three congressmen at large by an average majority of 9,000. The Republicans will have a majority of thirty on joint ballot in the legislature.

No Contest In Florida.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 6.—The entire state and congressional Democratic ticket was elected without opposition. The result being in no doubt, only a small vote was polled.

A Town at Auction.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 6.—Practically the entire town of Calhoun Falls, in Abbeville county, at the crossing of the Seaboard Air Line and Charleston and Western Carolina railroads, has been sold at auction to Judge W. F. Cox of Anderson for $14,000, being 700 acres at the rate of $20 an acre. The property belonged to a syndicate of Anderson, Charleston and Atlanta capitalists known as the Western Carolina Land and Improvement company. They built a hotel and several stores, but their great auction of lots was not a success. Judge Cox, the new purchaser, says he will form a new company to develop the property.

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 6.—The steamer Shimano Maru brought news that antiforeign placards are scattered all over Chingtu and the Boxer disturbances are now rife throughout the province of Szechuen. A report that their female leader, Kwan Ying, or "Goddess of Mercy," had been captured in a battle fought outside the walls of Chingtu is untrue. The Boxer leader is about seventeen years of age, and the woman captured and beheaded was over sixty. The Boxers continue to raid out of the way villages, and several churches have been burned and converts massacred.

Commission Buys Much Rice.

MANILA, Nov. 6.—The Philippine commission has quietly purchased upward of 20,000 tons of rice in India and on the Asiatic coasts in order to avert the rice famine which is threatening many provinces. The plans of the commissioners were concealed in order to avoid a speculative disturbance of the oriental market, and so as to prevent possible combinations with the view of raising prices.

DIGG'S UPRIGHT FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

The Best on Earth! We Challenge the World!

The Extinguishers that turn up-side-down to discharge are good of their kind, but this is far better. Read the following reasons:

Points of superior merit of the Digg-Upright over any other machine—

1—A sealed acid bottle and an air-tight tank. No change in the conditions of the chemicals possible.

2—Can never be discharged by accident; absolutely under the control of the operator.

3—A 3-gallon machine of this type contains ONE QUART more of liquid than a reversible, because it does not require a handle underneath.

4—It does not need inspection and recharging as required for the reversible with its loose stopple.

5—The acid being released at the top of the tank, and the outlet being at the bottom, the mingling of the chemicals is so thorough before the acid reaches the outlet that it is completely neutralized, and no harm can be done to flesh or fabric. In the reversible type the acid is released within the two inches of the outlet.

6—Convenience in handling. The machine stands on its bottom, and all the operator has to do is to turn the screw in the cap, and the flow begins instantly.

7—The bottle is not broken, and no nuisance of broken glass.

CONTEST TALKED OF

New York Democrats Will Not Concede Defeat.

ODELL'S PLURALITY NOW 10,561.

Pre-election Estimates Wide of the Mark—Coler's Enormous Vote In New York City and Odell's Strength In State a Surprise.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Revised returns show that Governor Odell has been re-elected by 10,561 plurality, several thousand less than the first reports indicated. Coler's plurality in the city of New York is 122,970, Governor Odell's plurality up the state 128,605, though fully revised figures have not as yet been obtained.

The surprising factor in the result was the enormous plurality for Coler in the Greater New York. When Charles F. Murphy, the Tammany leader, made his estimate of 112,000 plurality for Coler below the Bronx, his statement was regarded as a campaign bluff. The most astute political observers did not think that Coler's plurality below the Bronx would be more than 85,000. That was the figure on which the Republican managers made their estimates. If New York city had not gone Democratic beyond this estimate, Governor Odell's claim that he would be elected by between 40,000 and 50,000 plurality would have been fully justified.

On the other hand, Governor Odell's strength in the state was greater than those who had canvassed the rural districts expected. Many of these men thought that if the normal Republican plurality of 100,000 up the state were maintained the Republicans would be doing well. One of the best informed Republican canvassers of the state said on the eve of election that 112,000 was the greatest possible plurality that Odell could get.

It is asserted that David B. Hill and the Democratic state committee are not going to give up New York state without a fight. The result is so close and they have received so many reports of defective ballots alleged to have been cast for the Democratic state ticket, but not counted, as well as other alleged election abuses up the state that they have determined to sift the election to the bottom.

John A. Mason, secretary of the Democratic state committee, made this plain at 11 o'clock yesterday, when he gave to the press the following statement:

"We concede nothing. The alleged defective ballots cast for the Democratic ticket and uncounted by Republican election inspectors in Republican districts up the state are more than enough to overcome Odell's apparent lead. We will keep these headquarters open, and nothing will be conceded until every defective ballot is scrutinized and every vote rightfully cast for the Democratic state ticket has been counted for it."

When the statement made by Mr. Mason was shown to Colonel George W. Dunn, chairman of the Republican state committee, he said:

"That's pure buncombe. Odell's elected by from 10,000 to 12,000 plurality, and Democratic claims cannot change the result. If they want a recount, let them have one. How about New York city? What would a recount show here? We are not disturbed by the old cry of fraud. The votes count."

The official pluralities for governor in the state as reported to Governor Odell by the county clerks of the various counties are as follows:

Paying Election Bets.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Wall street began yesterday the payment of its election bets. All wagers on Odell and on the results in Greater New York and Kings county were paid. It is estimated that lucky Wall street Republicans took from their unfortunate Democratic associates at least $150,000.

SAGAMORE HOME CLOSED.

The Roosevelts Now In Washington For the Winter Season.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—President Roosevelt returned to Washington last night from Philadelphia, where he stopped on his way from voting at Oyster Bay. Accompanying him were Mrs. Roosevelt and their two children, Archibald and Quentin; Secretaries Cortelyou and Loeb, Dr. Lung and a number of the servants from the Sagamore Hill home. The president and his family were driven to the White House, where the improvements, though still incomplete, have been advanced to such an extent as to give accommodations to meet the immediate demands of the presidential household.

The president's departure from Philadelphia for Washington was delayed by the nonarrival there on schedule time of Secretary Cortelyou and Mrs. Roosevelt, who had remained in New York city after the president left to await the coming of the children and servants from Oyster Bay.

With the departure of the president and Mrs. Roosevelt and their children and servants from Oyster Bay the Sagamore Hill home of the president has been closed for the winter.

Danish Loan Goes Slow.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Nov. 6.—The time for subscribing to the stock of the Danish West Indian company expired yesterday. Of about $1,000,000 nominal capital only one-fifth was subscribed for notwithstanding the advertisement given to the concern by King Christian and Crown Prince Frederick taking stock. The promoters, who are antisalers, are downcast on account of the weakness of the sentiment in favor of aiding the Danish West Indies. The leaders of the movement intend to appeal to King George of Greece, Queen Alexandra and the dowager czarina of Russia to buy shares. The banks and a few individuals will probably finance the matter and stand the losses since the treaty providing for the sale of the Danish West Indies to the United States was rejected partly on account of their promises.

To Investigate Freight Rates.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Members of the interstate commerce commission have assembled here to begin an investigation relative to a charge by the Chicago Live Stock association that discriminating rates against live stock are in effect in the west. The sessions of the commission promise to be interesting, as the railroad companies are prepared to defend the existing rates, which are in violation of a ruling by the commission that the rate on raw material shall not be greater than that on the manufactured product. Railroads between Chicago and the Missouri river are charging 18 and 20 cents on packing house products and 23½ cents on cattle.

Mackay's Remains Leave England.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The remains of John W. Mackay, who died here July 20, were embarked on board the White Star line steamer Oceanic before she left her dock at Liverpool without attracting public attention. The body was in an ebony coffin, with silver mountings. One of the best staterooms of the steamer had been fitted up as a mortuary chapel for the reception of the remains.

British Cotton Mill Burned.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The Vernon cotton mill at Stockport has been destroyed by fire. One operative was killed by a fall. A score of employees who sustained injuries and are suffering from suffocation have been removed to the infirmary.

VIVEROS AGAIN ESCAPES.

Colombian General Twice In Rebels' Hands Reaches Panama.

PANAMA, Nov. 6.—The government general Viveros, who was made a prisoner at Tumaco in 1901 and taken from there by the rebel general Herrera to Agua Dulce, whence he escaped in January of this year, to be captured again at the second battle of Agua Dulce, has again escaped from the rebels and has reached Panama.

General Viveros brings information that General Morales Berti, who surrendered to General Herrera at Agua Dulce; General Gomez and other government officers are now being held at Chiriqui, where they suffer much from the privations of captivity.

General Herrera's army at present consists of 5,000 men, including the government prisoners who have been incorporated in it. These soldiers must be watched carefully in order to prevent them from deserting. The rebel army, according to General Viveros, is encamped from Agua Dulce to Chorrera.

WILL ENTER COMPLAINT.

Federal Party In Porto Rico Charges Great Impartiality.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Nov. 6.—The American Federal party, through its president, Mr. Palmer, has issued a proclamation complaining bitterly of what is termed the partiality of the government in favoring the Republicans in the election Tuesday. The proclamation reviews the party's causes of complaint and declares that a manifesto will be issued to the people of the United States, accompanied by particulars and proofs of the alleged outrages.

President Palmer when questioned concerning this plan said: "The idea of the committee is to call a mass meeting in San Juan shortly and then to choose four delegates, two of whom are to be Americans, to go to Washington and lay the party's grievances before President Roosevelt and ask redress. Our principal complaints are that the laws are made for the Republicans and administered in their favor, the outrages and undisguised action of the executive council in turning over the elections to the Republicans, the general partiality of the government, the crimes of the insular police in countenancing lawlessness and mob force, intimidating and driving the best citizens away from the island, gross election frauds and the shutting out of members of the Federal party from the elections."

Prince Chowfa at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 6.—Chowfa Maha Vajiravudh, the crown prince of Siam, and suit spent the day in Pittsburg, and at the latter place he inspected the great works of the Carnegie Steel company. Later the prince was the guest of Francis J. Torrance at a luncheon at the Duquesne club. Covers were laid for fifty, and among the local guests were many of the leading manufacturers. At its conclusion the prince was taken through the Allegheny plant of the Standard Manufacturing company. The prince left for Chicago at 8 o'clock in the evening.

Arbitrators Decide Against Miners.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—The arbitrators of the miners' strike in the department of the Pas de Calais have given a decision against an increase of the present rates of wages, holding that the rates are proportionate to the selling price of coal. Annexed to the decision was a written declaration of the representative of all the companies in that district to the effect that old age pensions for workmen would be raised. The delegates of the miners were dissatisfied with the decision and expect to carry the matter to the chamber of deputies.

Farmer's Safe and Contents Stolen.

COLCHESTER, Conn., Nov. 6.—Michael Levine, a farmer of this town, was robbed during the night of a safe containing $1,100, the proceeds of a recent auction sale of farm property. The safe, which was a small affair, was in a room next to the chamber in which Mr. Levine slept, but the burglars pried open a window of the room, lifted out the safe and escaped unmolested. Mr. Levine says he heard an unusual noise in the night, but supposed that it was caused by animals in the barns.

French Murderer Must Die.

NICE, France, Nov. 6.—Henry Vidal, who confessed to the extraordinarily wanton murder of two women and to attempts to assassinate various others, has been sentenced to death here. The defense failed to obtain mitigation of the sentence on account of the murderer's weakness of intellect. Thousands of persons hissed and execrated the murderer as he was being conducted to prison.

COMMISSION RESTS.

Will Begin Taking Testimony Nov. 14.

INSPECTION OF COLLIERIES ENDED.

Seven Mines and Several Breakers Have Been Visited—Grievances of Workmen and Complaints of Companies Have Been Heard.

MAHANOY CITY, Pa., Nov. 6.—The anthracite strike commission has ended its tour of observation of the coalfields in the Panther Creek valley, and the members of the party will return to their homes today to meet again at Scranton on Nov. 14 to take the testimony of the miners.

The biggest day's work of the entire trip was accomplished when the commissioners made a complete inspection of two large collieries and a tour of the region lying between Mount Carmel and this city. Six working days have been consumed in traveling from place to place in the anthracite coal regions, and the arbitrators feel they are now qualified to sit in judgment on the controversy between the mine owners and their employees.

In all the commissioners were lowered into seven mines of varying conditions and went through several breakers. They met the general superintendents, the mine superintendents and the foremen of the various collieries visited and also personally talked with the grimy coal diggers in the dark gangways and chambers hundreds of feet below the earth's surface. They heard the grievances the workers claim they have and also heard the companies' side of the complaint. Besides this the commissioners gained a somewhat technical knowledge of mining in its many different features that will be of the greatest assistance to them. They will be able to understand questions and ask questions where they would not have been able to understand them if they had not been underground.

The commissioners held a conference in the parlor of the hotel here, at which arrangements for the holding of the hearings and also the mode of procedure in taking testimony were discussed. It was announced that Commissioner Watkins, whose home is in Scranton, has been delegated to make arrangements for the meeting in Scranton. It is likely the hearing will be held in the courthouse there.

The status of the independent coal companies in the present arbitration proceedings is not quite clear. All of them have been invited to participate in the hearing if they so desire. The Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, it is understood, has agreed to abide by the decision of the commission, as also have several small independent concerns. It is believed that all of them will accept the arbitrators' decision. If they do this, the commission is likely to take up the grievances which have arisen at some of the independent collieries since the strike was declared off. The commission has steadfastly refused to visit any collieries where the owners have not agreed to abide by the award of the commission.

Additional Aid For Boers Voted.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Generals Botha and Delarey and ex-President Schalkburger were witnesses of last night's debate in the house of commons over the civil service estimate placing the additional amount required as a grant to aid the Transvaal and Orange River Colony during the present financial year at $40,000,000, which ended in agreeing to vote the sum in question. Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, in response to criticisms of the measure from the opposition, deprecated pessimism over South African affairs. He said the fact that the Boer prisoners would all be repatriated this year exceeded the most sanguine expectations. He declared that his sole desire in going to South Africa was to bring together a kindred people.

The Fire Was Incendiary.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 6.—Reports received here by mail show the big fire which partially destroyed the town of St. Pierre, Miquelon, last Saturday night to have been due to incendiarism. The fire originated in the Catholic cathedral. An unknown man was seen leaving the building by a window shortly after the fire broke out. One priest attached to the cathedral nearly perished while trying to save some sacred relics. The vessels used in the cathedral services were all destroyed. The government will shortly rebuild its destroyed establishments. These buildings were not insured.

Jockey Reiff Sues French Paper.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—J. Reiff, the American jockey, has begun suit against a sporting paper, La Vie au Grand Air, claiming damages for an alleged defamatory article published in connection with the withdrawal of his license. The citation declares that the paper made false assertions against Reiff's professional honesty. The jockey specifically denies pulling St. Saulge at the St. Cloud races. The case will be heard Nov. 26.

Fire on Indian Reservation.

NAPER, Neb., Nov. 6.—The most destructive fire that ever visited this county has been raging on the Rosebud Indian reservation since Sunday. Three hundred head of cattle are known to have been burned, and several ranches in the path of the flames have not been heard from. Several hundred settlers are now holding the flames in check along the north line of Boyd county, where a great many cornfields were destroyed.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair and cooler; brisk south winds, becoming west.

THE REPUBLICAN VICTORY.

It must be said that the results of the election in Union county were something of a surprise to the general public. The Republican county committee professed to believe that the discords of the campaign were over and that harmony reigned. Most people took it for granted that the claim was more of a pleasantry than anything else and that the knives would be out all right when election day came. There was some cutting, of course, but it was more evenly divided that the general public had any idea of.

Both William Newcorn and William F. Hall, candidates for the Assembly, were scratched throughout the county and ran considerably behind their ticket. The recent party factional troubles cannot be held accountable for the opposition to them. Where the factional feeling was expected to get in its good work was in the vote of Congressman Fowler, Senator Cross and Sheriff-elect Coriell. As a matter of fact, the Congressman ran well, making a good showing in comparison with the ticket, but Mr. Coriell did come rather close to a defeat. Senator Cross held his own although James E. Martine naturally received a complimentary vote in his home city.

There is only one conclusion to be taken from Tuesday's election. The people of Union county are not yet tired of Republican rule. While the people may have expressed themselves as better pleased with some than with others, there was a majority that was willing to see the present administration continued. It is therefore to be expected that the county affairs will be conducted on practically the same lines as they have heretofore.

With all this interest in the county election, the vote for municipal candidates has almost been forgotten. The present administration in the city was roundly endorsed and largely the same set of men returned to office. The election served to show, however, that the present arrangement of elections with county and city candidates before the people on the same day is not the most desirable and that the coming Legislature will do well to restore the old order of things.

Nothing is truer than that to have an enduring effect advertising must be continuous, comments the Philadelphia Record. A case in point is that of a once well-known proprietary medicine which had a tremendous vogue and paid enormous profits as long as it was widely advertised. When, however, the proprietors quite advertising, thinking to do business on the established reputation, the sales diminished until they became insignificant.

Great was the wailing and knashing of teeth in Somerville when the unexpected happened and that borough gave a round majority for the Democratic ticket. The Somervillians had expected a reduction but they were not looking for such a revolution. It was certainly one of the most noteworthy incidents in an eventful campaign.

Yesterday's news items contained the startling dispatch that a Brooklyn pie wagon driver had tried to commit suicide in his vehicle. He evidently didn't try very hard or else his wares were not like the ordinary run of stomach mutiny producers.

We wagered some time ago that the coal strike would surely do a good turn for somebody. Oculists in the lower section of New York are reaping a harvest by treating patients with inflamed eyes caused by soft coal smoke.

As a result of Tuesday's municipal election, the Common Council will still continue to be composed of only Republicans. In fact Democrats are so scarce in the city's machinery that a microscope fails to reveal any of them.

The Second ward of the city of Plainfield sustained its reputation and gave Charles L. Moffett, the Democratic nominee for the Assembly, a plurality over the unpopular man on the Republican ticket.

The "told you so" man is out in force since election and he is explaining how it was done and how he predicted it long ago.

PRETTY AFTERNOON WEDDING

WHICH UNITED EDWIN CRAIG AND MISS MAUDE WILCOX IN MARRIAGE.

Many Relatives and Friends Witnessed the Event Which Took Place at the Groom's Home.

At the home of the groom's father, Former Councilman James H. Craig, of West Front street, a pretty wedding took place, yesterday afternoon, when Edwin A. Craig and Miss Maude R. Wilcox, daughter of Fred Wilcox, of Dunellen, were united in the bonds of matrimony. It may be termed a chrysanthemum wedding as great bunches of that showy flower were used with charming effect in the parlor where the ceremony was performed. Many relatives and friends from this city, New York, Newark, Philadelphia and Dunellen were in attendance.

Rev. N. J. Sproul, pastor of the Dunellen Presbyterian church, was the officiating clergyman and Miss Emma Craig, a sister of the groom, was Miss Wilcox's attendant. Fred Wilcox, Jr., a brother of the bride, acted as best man and the bridal party was completed by the ushers in the persons of Sidney R. Craig and Bertram Brandon, of this city, J. C. Keller, of Newark and Russel Wilcox, of Westfield. Miss Edith Boice rendered the wedding march.

The bride was attired in a becoming gown of grey with trimmings of pink. The bouquet she carried was made up of chrysanthemums. Miss Craig's dress was of a pink material and she carried roses to match.

Following the ceremony a reception was tendered the young couple in the course of which refreshments were served. Last evening Mr and Mrs. Craig departed quietly on a wedding trip the destination of which they refused to dvulge. On its completion they will reside in this city. The groom is connected with his father in the Craig Chair Company.

Both young people were handsomely remembered with gifts, articles of a useful nature predominating. There was also a profusion of bric-a-brac, cut glass and examples of the silversmith's art.

These stoves were made by the Cleveland Foundry Co., are absolutely smokeless and odorless and will heat a room 20 feet square in cold weather.

SUBURBAN NEWS

DUNELLEN.

Alex. Harris, who is employed by Christian Schepflin, had a thrilling experience, yesterday, which he will not forget in some time. While he was making some repairs on the roof of the house and had rested a ladder on the gutter of the roof, to climb up to the peak. When he was nearly up the ladder slipped and fell to the ground with such force as to drive one end some distance into the dirt. Harris clung to the ladder and when it struck the ground hung suspended in the air for an instant. He was quite severely bruised and scratched by the fall and walking will not be a pleasure to him for a few days. He was attended by Dr. Brakeley.

The death occurred yesterday at her home, on Front street of Mrs. Catherine Carroll, from apoplexy. Mrs. Carroll fell unconscious on last Sunday and died while in that condition. She was eighty years of age. Funeral services will be held from her late residence tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and from St. John's church at 9:30.

The marriage occurred yesterday in Godschalk's Hotel, at Westfield, of Miss Minnie Liable, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Liable, of this place, to Wm. H. Teeple, of Westfield. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Jarvis, rector of St. Paul's church.

A large crowd is anticipated at the opening of St. John's church fair this evening in Apgar's Hall. A large number of tickets have been disposed of and everything is in readiness.

A parlor meeting will be held this afternoon by the local W. C. T. U. at the home of Mrs. John Runyon, of Washington avenue.

The house on Jackson avenue, formerly occupied by Wm. Woodruff, is being improved in the interior.

The Friday Afternoon Card Club will be entertained by Miss Louise Brakeley tomorrow afternoon.

Jacob Snell will open his pool room in the Kratzel building this evening.

NEW MARKET.

The many friends and constituents of Dr. M. J. Whitford who ran on the Republican ticket as Assemblyman at the recent election, will regret to learn that the doctor was defeated. Owing to a mistake in the counting of votes at Perth Amboy it was reported that Montgomery, another Republican, had been defeated. When this mistake was rectified, it was found out that Dr. Whitford was the man who would not serve another term. The doctor's friends will greatly regret his defeat as he has served his party well and faithfully. He was not informed of his defeat until last evening and, as he had been told that he had won, had thought all day that his victory was assured.

Prayer meeting was held last evening, in the First Baptist church. Rev. Frank Fletcher was leader.

Work has been started on the interior of W. B. Smith's new house on the hill.

The cornet band will hold regular practice this evening in Recreation Hall.

Mrs. James Hallet visited friends in Plainfield yesterday afternoon.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Funeral services of the late Mrs. Elizabeth Gibbs, widow of the late Edwin H. Gibbs and mother of Wm. E. Gibbs, of the borough, were held from the residence of Mrs. Benj. Urner, yesterday afternoon at 3:15. Rev. Mr. Mulfor, rector of All Saint's Episcopal church, officiated. Interment will be made at the convenience of the family at Walkins, N. Y.

Congressman-elect Chas. N. Fowler must have been a decided favorite with the township voters at the election Tuesday, as his name was not scratched on a single ballot.

Miss Addie Johnston, of Peddie Institute, Hightstown, has been spending a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. D. Johnston, of Forest avenue.

A number from town attended a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ryno at Alton, last night. Dancing was a feature of the evening's pleasure.

Mrs. John G. McNair, who has been the guest for several days of Freeholder and Mrs. John Robison, has returned to her home in Brooklyn.

William E. VanCourt and Miss Bertha E. Hansheer were married yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Marconnier chapel by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, of Plainfield. Among the large circle of invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Laing, of this village.

The new local voting place was found to be a great convenience for those who have always been obliged to go to New Market to vote. A larger vote than usual from this district was to have been expected on account of the change.

A large hole in a plank of the bridge near the railroad station was discovered Monday morning by Melvin Teeple. It was repaired before any damage was caused.

At the New York Bargain Store on West Front street a new consignment of shoes have been placed on sale. The line of clothing at this store is especially fine this fall and the goods are all at bottom prices.

Many a cold has developed more serious consequences for the want of a preventative taken in time. Hodge, the druggist in the Y. M. C. A. building, can cure a cold in one night. He does it with his own remedies.

When looking for first-class hardware you will surely go to the Gayle Hardware Company store, corner of Front street and Park avenue. This firm has the reputation for fair dealing and all goods are as represented.

It makes no difference whether the election suited you or not. You will still be able to get suited at Weinberger's clothing store on West Front street. His latest returns shows an attractive line of goods for men and boys.

Charles Conover & Company, the painters and decorators, of Elmwood place, have commenced the work of painting Otto Arens' handsome house on Rahway road. This will be a big job, but the firm is ready to receive contracts and execute them promptly.

Just as the proof of the pudding is the eating so is the proof that the "Dorothy Dodd" shoe combines luxury in walking with comfort and style. Thousands of women all over the land are attesting to the merits of this poopular shoe made expressly for the gentler sex. M. C. VanArsdale has all the season's styles.

THEATRICAL.

Mr. Keith has been smashing all records with the good shows he has been putting on of late Chas. T. Ellis and his wife will provide the only dramatic sketch on next week's bill. All the remainder of the entertainment falls under the technical classification of "straight vaudeville." Cole and Johnson, the colored entertainers, who rank second to no team of the kind on the vaudeville stage, head this part of the bill. Their music and their comedy are both of the best. Fisher and Carroll, eccentric comedians, offer an act new in almost every particular. LaTroupeFantastique will appear in an act called "Faust in Terpsichore" one of the most decided novelties introduced in some years. The Baggassens, eccentric acrobats and comedians, do some of the most laughable and at the same time, really difficult acrobatic work. Gorman and Lawson, dancers, and the Martinetti Troupe of acrobats, all figure in one of the best and most evenly rounded bills the Union Square has seen in a long time.

Miss Homer, of Chicago, who has been spending several months at the home of her uncle, E. B. Clark, of Crescent avenue, has returned to her home.

Food for Wild Beasts.

On a large farm near Greensboro, N. C., John S. Sparks, the owner, conducts a queer industry—that of raising Angora goats as food for lions and tigers. The farm is mostly mountain land, and the 200 goats imported by Sparks have been turned loose to clear the mountain sides of shrubbery and noxious growth so that it can be turned into pasture land for herbivorous animals. Lions, tigers, camels, elephants and others will graze on this land. After the goats have properly fitted the farm for this purpose they will be turned into food for the beasts. Since the goats have been placed on the farm they have increased very fast, and show such wonderful industry in clearing land that the owner expects excellent results in his breeding of wild animals. The young kids are sold in large quantities for food to the inhabitants of the neighborhood, and quite a revenue is also derived from the fleece of the goats, which is long and as fine as silk.

London Dines at Noon.

Except in certain circles, from the upper middle class or the lower upper classes upward, among whom the custom of evening dinner prevails, the respectable English custom is to serve dinner at noon, the evening meal ranging all the way from the workman's repast of tea with winkles, bloaters, or jam, to the heavy supper of game and pastry for the rich. To this custom the restaurants cater, but to the large floating colonies of foreigners to whom an evening dinner is a necessity they pay no heed. They continue complacently to serve "dinners from 12 to 3," after which hour one may whistle in vain, for no dinner will he get. As a natural result, an army of French and Italian restaurants are doing a brisk business and amassing fortunes, not only in catering for their own people, but in bringing comfort to many an English bachelor emancipated from tea and jam. Not only in the matter of service, but also in the menu, does the village restaurant cling faithfully to old custom.—Outlook.

Stopped for Once.

A citizen from the frontier, who never had been in Washington before, was visiting a friend in the nation's capital, and was taken one day to the gallery of the senate while an important measure was under discussion.

A senator was delivering a long, prosy and apparently aimless speech, and the visitor soon grew tired of it.

"Why, doesn't he say somethin' worth listening to?" he whispered to his friend.

"Oh, he's merely talking against time."

"What's the good of that?" asked the other, aghast. "Time goes on just the same, doesn't it?"

"I suppose it does," replied his friend, looking at his watch and yawning; "but it doesn't seem to."—Youth's Companion.

Her Ingenious Scheme.

"Maggie," said the housewife, severely, "you don't seem to have breakfast on time any more."

"No, mum," replied the girl, "'Tis hard to wake up, but if you'd call me, mum, I could have it on time."

"But it's not my place to call you. I want to be called myself."

"Yis, mum," answered the girl, solemnly; "I know it, an' if you'll call me, mum, then I'll get up an' call you."—Chicago Post.

Col. Booze (from Kentucky)—Well, suh, all I have to say, suh, is that that may be all right for South Ameriky, but we wouldn't weave them that way in Kentucky, suh.—Philadelphia Enquirer.

Pa Knew.

"Pa, what does 'absent-minded' mean?"

"My boy, that's easy. Did you ever stop to think?"

"Yes."

"And your thoughts ran on?"

"Because every self-made man will insist on blowing his own horn."—Chicago Daily News.

The Mule.

If you lie awake nights, and there is a mule in your neighborhood, you will often hear him give a kick that would seem to send out half the side of a barn. We envy the mule; he can kick as hard as he wants to. Others can't.—Atchison Globe.

Distressing Gaiety.

Clara—Do you suffer from insomnia?

Alice—Yes; it's awfully mean to be kept awake half the night by another girl having a beaux on the porch next door.—Detroit Free Press.

"Nope; dey white-balled him."—N. Y. Journal.

Big Increase in Cremation.

"Cremation is one of the oldest forms of disposal of the dead, yet it is a form that lapsed from use for centuries. It appears to be in process of restoration. True, it has made but little head against the custom of burial, yet there is an increase every year in such proportion that we may look for a wide acceptance of it within the next quarter century. There are in this country but a few crematories, yet this is against but ten years ago, and the number of cremations is 2,500 or more a year. When crematories were have so ceased to be the occasion of comment that an impression may have been created which is contrary to this fact of growth, but the truth that about 14,000 incinerations have occurred in the United States, which, certainly indicates an increase.

How He Stated It.

When Representative Tompkins, of Ohio, was a young lawyer in the state, and was winning his spurs, he occasionally found it profitable to accept a case in a justice's court in the country. He tells the following story of the argument made by a rural barrister before such a magistrate. The case was one in which the plaintiff sought to recover damages from a railroad company for the killing of a cow. During the course of his argument the country lawyer used this expressive sentence: "If the train had been run as it should have been ran, or if the bell had been rung as it should have been rang, or if the whistle had been blown as it should have been blew, both of which they did neither, the cow would not have been injured when she was killed."—Richmond Dispatch.

When Hands Grow Old.

According to Sir James Crichton Browne the hand begins to lose its suppleness when the individual is about 40 years of age. The scale of wages in the button trade, for example, is a good indication of this tendency of the hand to grow old so early in life. At his very best, in his prime, a skillful buttonmaker can make 6,240 ivory buttons a day on his lathe. For this he receives 45 shillings a week. When the workman is 65 years of age he can seldom make more than 20 shillings, this providing that he still enjoys sound health.—Science and Industry.

French Water Power Project.

A prominent electrical concern of Paris, which is closely connected with the General Electric company, of New York, is now securing all the water power available in the department of the Alpes Maritimes, with the object of supplying light and power to towns on the southeastern coast of France. The company also hopes to supply power for the electric locomotives which the Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean railway proposes to test on the Cannes-Monaco railway during the winter.

Cautious.

"Yes," continued the man-who-was-telling-the-story; "there was two of 'em, and they held me up at the point of revolvers and robbed me of my watch and every cent I had but a quarter."

"Why on earth didn't you call a policeman?" queried one of the audience.

"Didn't I tell you I had only a quarter left? I wanted to keep that for myself."—Baltimore News.

Right Up with the Times.

"Our missionary tells us that the automobile is even pervading heathen India."

"So the benighted natives are learning to scorch, eh?"

"No, not to any great extent, but they have fitted the car of Juggernaut with a motor and a crack chauffeur, and the combination is doing great business."—Automobile Magazine.

Magnetic Sharpener.

An inventor claims to have perfected a device with which to sharpen razors by magnetism. He says the magnet draws the minute teeth or projections of the sharp edge, which may be seen under a microscope, back into a straight line, after they have been bent into all sorts of angles by the razor's use.—Science and Industry.

Nothing Alarming.

Sharpe—What strange sounds your wife is making! I'm afraid she has a fit.

Whealton—Don't be alarmed. She is merely trying to scold her neighbor while she has her mouth full of clothespins.—Chicago Daily News.

Sure of Him There.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure
Digests what you eat.

Fat People and Thin People are Offered a Word of Caution.

Many persons worry because they are too fat, and many more worry because they are too thin. In both cases the food eaten is not properly digested.

Fat persons digest fat producing foods and do not digest foods that give muscular and nervous strength. They are not as strong as they look, and deserve more sympathy than they get.

Thin persons cannot digest fat producing foods. Sometimes they digest nerve and muscle foods and become nervous and wiry; but usually they do not properly digest anything, and lose health and steength.

Nature has made provision for the digestion of all classes of foods; and when our digestion becomes impaired, it is wisdom to take steps at once to remedy it. Many thousands are using with marked success the preparation known as KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE. As it contains all the digestants, it digests all kinds of foods and restores the digestive organs to health.

It can't help but do you good.

A MOTHER'S DUTY.

She Generally Neglects the One She Owes to Herself.

"I'll tell your papa on you when he comes home; see if I don't!"

The voice was harsh and irritating, and I turned to look at the woman to whom it belonged. Her hair had not been combed that day and her jaws were tied up because of toothache. Her teeth had gone to pieces because she never brushed them or put them in care of a dentist. Her shoes were unblacked and untied and run over at the heel, her stockings wrinkled down about her ankles, and her gown and torn apron—my, how dirty they were! Three little children were about her feet, two of them twins. (I wonder why it is that women the least fitted for controlling and training children always have the most of them?) The infant she was trying to discipline was a puny thing of three years. She could have made it obey with a very little patience and firmness, but she was absolutely too good for nothing to attempt to exercise them. It would not be the truth to call her weak, for plenty of power was there; she simply would not bestir herself mentally.

Come to think of it, isn't it a wonder that the human race is as well off as it is with so many mothers like this one?

I looked ahead a little into the woman's future, and my prophetic soul read her finish. I saw a female creature old before her time. Her husband never appeared in public with her if he could help himself. Her children despised, defied and neglected her. She was a mere beast of burden for her family.

In my mind's eye I see her now going on an outing with her young ones. They are "dressed to kill" except that they are not overclean. The little girls are belaced, beribboned and beruffled. She herself wears a rumpled old hat, a cheap black skirt with grease and mud stains upon it, and it gapes horribly at the placket hole behind. (I wonder again why this style of mother always has her dress skirt bulging and gaping open behind?) The habit of leaving her stockings loose and slovenly and her shoes untied or buttonless has grown on her till now when she "dresses up" she goes away from home with them in the same condition. Her hair is gummy and not properly combed, and the habit of slovenliness has reached the point where she merely throws a black skirt on outside of her unclean everyday gown, and the bedraggled facing shows below.

Fine picture she makes, does she not? Yet she thinks she is a devoted mother because she never cleans herself up and because she never has anything decent to wear. She really has picked herself to the bone to clothe her offspring in the present overdressed, ostentatious fashion for children. She calls that self sacrifice!

Suppose now that she had had some respect for the dignity of womanhood and motherhood. She would have known that for a mother to display weakness before a child is to make the child despise her. She would have known, too, that the greatest mistake a mother can make is to sacrifice herself to her family in all that makes life worth living. Such sacrifice is never appreciated. On the contrary, those for whom it is made come to regard it as only their due, and they can never get enough of it to satisfy them. Suppose that this slattern mother had always dressed her children cleanly, but very plainly, and had put the time she gave to furbelowing them up on keeping her own person neat and tidy, likewise devoting a sufficient amount of it to gently but firmly making them obey her when it was necessary to give them a command. It is not often really necessary if a mother has good sense. Children are extremely sensitive to outside appearances, and they adore a mother who keeps herself clean, neat and pretty.

"I'LL TELL YOUR PAPA ON YOU!"

There, too, is the dignity of wifehood. The slatternly, picked to the bone mother's husband married her when she seemed to him a pretty, tidy girl, one whom he chose from all the world to make his and her home. She cannot preserve his respect—how can she?—unless she always strives to look well in his eyes after marriage, unless she shows him she has the strength to control her children and manage the household. He may help with the family discipline when called on, but his respect intellectually for the wife who thus calls on him will cease from that moment. KATE SHARP.

A CHAIN of WOMEN'S HOTELS and SCHOOLS

THE beseeching cry for hotel accommodations for women has been heard. No longer need the feminine sex be agitated because antediluvian, curmudgeon man hotel keepers refuse lodging to ladies arriving alone in a city at night. Hotels for women, not charity homes or yet female prisons for the time being, but real hostelries, where a woman is as free as a man, are rising here and there, and the number will soon be adequate for all the need. They are places where woman is not asked by old tabbies in black mitts where she has been when she stays out later than 10 at night. Nay; she is not even asked how old she is and what church she belongs to. Woman's world does indeed move.

Without fuss and feathers or blare of trumpets, one organization of women has established throughout this Union a series of hotels for their sister women. That organization is the Young Women's Christian association, though more old women than young ones are active in its deliberations. Briefly, when two or three small Y. W. C. A. boarding houses were opened twenty-five years ago as an experiment they were conducted still on the old timey female seminary plan. It was taken for granted that a girl was a weak and depraved creature who only wanted an opportunity to break out and do something dreadful; therefore she must be kept under and every movement spied on and nosed into lest she thus break out. There were likewise always at hand ancient tabbies ready to perform this task of nosing and repression with peculiar zest.

At first, too, the general impression of these Y. W. C. A. homes was that they were to be lived in only by poor working girls of the "lower classes." Even the ladies who managed the homes sometimes looked down from the throne of their own social state upon the women that lived in the homes.

But a beginning had been made of women's work for their own sex. After that the work itself did the rest. The spirit of love and kindliness from women to women, of understanding and consequently of tolerance and liberality grew apace. At the same time the old idea of a theological charity dropped away year by year. The Y. W. C. A. homes were transformed into business enterprises, philanthropic still, but in no sense suggestive of almsgiving. Boarders' affairs ceased to be nosed into, women found they could trust women to the utmost, and the boarders began to have liberty. This naturally drew to the homes a more intelligent class of self supporting women, who could pay good prices for food and lodging.

Today there is a chain of real hotels for women from one end of this land to the other, well kept and successfully managed under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. They are real hotels because they admit, at least transiently, all women who behave themselves. The manager of the neat and handsome house in Worcester, Mass., said to me:

"I never turn a woman away unless she is intoxicated."

Respectable women traveling alone should know that in any large city in which they arrive they have only to inquire for the Y. W. C. A. boarding house or hotel to find a place where they can be comfortably accommodated for the time provided the establishment is not already full to overflowing. The grand women of this society have in many cases started schools, which are connected with the hotels. The home in Boston conducts with great success a school of domestic service, where green girls are instructed in cookery and all other branches of housekeeping. A commercial school is also maintained. In New York and many other cities the organization conducts instruction classes. MARY EDITH DAY.

Hendricks bowed and smiled uncomfortably.

"I do not exactly understand," he said, slowly. "I—I don't exactly see how anybody at this stage could aid Mr. Gielow until we know more of the matter."

"The lawyers agree with me," replied the heiress, "that he ought to be found and brought back by his friends, and not wait till the police arrest him."

"Oh!" And Hendricks' exclamation showed that he was still in the dark.

"I happen to know some things that you are unaware of," hastily added Miss Huntington, "and my lawyers agreed that if we could possibly retain you with what I know we could help a little. I am willing to let you name your own price."

Hendricks sat up in his chair and crossed his feet.

"We'd never quarrel over money matters, Miss Huntington; and as I am not employed by the other side I pledge myself to your cause."

A glow of color faintly tinged the hitherto bloodless face of the heiress.

"You are so good!" she said, in a husky voice. "I know you will do all that can be done, and my lawyers think if we could get him to come back voluntarily, and give himself up, that we might be able to prove that he was insane."

"Insane?" cried Hendricks, his surprise driving away his timidity.

"I am going too fast," said the girl, plaintively. "I have not told you all, and my lawyers advised me to do so as soon as you promised to join us. We know that it would be folly to try to prove that he did not kill Mr. Caruthers, for, Mr. Hendricks, he actually confessed it to his servant, and I have something else that puts it out of the question to doubt Henri's word—a letter from Mr. Gielow himself. In it he acknowledges the deed."

"A letter from him?" exclaimed Hendricks.

"Yes, and in it there are absolute proofs of unsoundness of mind. Oh, Mr. Hendricks, it drives me wild to think that I have brought him to it, and that he may die for what he is morally accountable. My lawyers admit that it may be difficult to prove his insanity, but they say it is our only chance, and that we ought to begin our work at once."

Hendricks contracted his brows and shrugged his shoulders.

"May I see the letter?"

Miss Huntington produced it from her pocket and eyed him as he perused it. It ran as follows:

"Charleston, S. C., Dec. 8.

"Dear Dorothy: When you get this you will have heard of the murder of Caruthers. Go at once to the studio and make Henri tell you of my confession. Tell him I want him to testify against me, as I wish no one else to be implicated in the slightest. I regret what I have done, but it is too late for regrets now. I sail from this town to-morrow for a foreign port to begin life anew. Forget me and all the trouble I have brought on you. I had one true friend in New York besides yourself. It is Count Bantinni. He suspected that I was thinking of perpetrating a crime and plead with me almost on his knees, but I would not listen to reason. I was crazy from it all. I confessed to Henri and the count in the studio. The count tried to persuade me to turn myself over to the police, but I eluded him and got away. I have been reading stories of crime and detection, and that, coupled with my trouble, turned my head. I fancied that I could invent a plan for doing away with my rival that would in its very boldness defy detection. I even wrote a letter to Mr. Minard Hendricks to cause him to think the crime was committed by a personal enemy of his, but at the last moment I was unable to face it all. That you may forget me is the last wish of

"ARTHUR GIELOW."

"Don't you see that it is the letter of an insane man?" asked the heiress, her eager gaze resting on the face of the detective as he lowered the letter. "It is not at all like him."

"Is it his hand?" asked Hendricks, his broad brow still wrinkled.

"Undoubtedly, I know his handwriting well. See, his name is written exactly as he signs his drawings."

Hendricks glanced at the signature, his mind wandering to other things.

"We must submit it to a handwriting expert," he said. "I know a graphologist who has never made a mistake. Will you kindly send me something else that he has written, and will you let me retain this?"

"Certainly," answered the girl; then she nerved herself to ask and hear the reply to a leading question: "Do you doubt his insanity, Mr. Hendricks?"

The detective put the letter in its envelope.

"I have seen nothing in this letter to indicate insanity on the part of Gielow," he said, after a moment's pause.

"You don't? Well, it is not at all such a letter as he would have written if himself, besides you have only to hear Henri describe how he acted when he confessed to the murder to know that he was insane that night."

Hendricks smiled.

"I was behind a screen in the studio when you and your aunt came in that night. I heard Henri's description."

Miss Huntington shrank back, white and startled.

"You were?" she gasped, and then, while Hendricks was nodding with the slow movement of a toy donkey's head, she added: "And—and you still see no proof of—of insanity?"

"I must say that I do not," was the deliberate reply.

The girl sat motionless. It was as if he had deprived her of her last hope. Her great eyes seemed to expand. Then she raised her gloved hands half way to her eyes and held them there as she said:

"You must believe him out of his mind! Look at the address on that envelope. He has directed it to me at the general delivery, Charleston, S. C. He knew I was not there. Surely you see—"

"I noticed that," remarked Hendricks when he saw she was going no further. "And I also saw that the envelope bore the postmark of a railway—the Atlantic Coast line. The letter was mailed on the train. You see that road runs from New York to Charleston, and, from this postmark, it would be difficult to prove whether a letter were mailed on the train of that road near New York, or near Charleston."

"I can't possibly see what you mean," said the heiress, helplessly.

"If the letter is a forgery," explained Hendricks, "the writer of it would desire two things strongly. First, he would want it to bear the Charleston postmark to guarantee the belief that it came from that place; and, second, he would want you to get it. Now, how would a man without a confederate in Charleston succeed in gaining his point? If this letter is forged, the writer of it is an experienced villain, for he knows that the government prevents its postmasters mailing letters sent to them for that purpose. It was found to be an avenue for much secret rascality, so a law was passed prohibiting it. Well, we will grant, for the sake of argument, that this forger knew that, so what did he do but direct this letter to you at Charleston and then drop a note to the Charleston postmaster requesting him in your name to forward your mail to your street and number. I am confident there is something shady about it, for, as you can see from the postmark, nearly two days elapsed before it reached Charleston, as is shown by the postmark of that office. So you will see that I have good reasons for believing the letter was mailed near New York."

"You must pardon me," said Miss Huntington, the languid largeness of her eyes accentuating her despair; "but as I cannot believe it is not Mr. Gielow's writing I am unable to enter into your deductions."

She had risen, and Hendricks held out his hand.

"If you will post me the specimen of his handwriting at once, I'll promise to tell you something more definite as soon as I see Prof. Westcott, the handwriting expert."

"I will send it to your office at once," she replied, despondently.

Hendricks went to the window and watched her as she descended the steps. He fancied she had left abruptly to keep from showing her emotion. As she was crossing the pavement she swayed to one side and he thought she would fall, but she regained herself, stepped firmly into her carriage and was driven homeward.

"Poor girl," he muttered. "When I agreed to take the case she was almost happy, but now she has lost heart entirely. If I had told the poor little woman what I half suspect she would not sleep a wink to-night."

Plainfield people endorse this claim.

Mr. Geo. S. McGinnis, of No. 212 Somerset street, foreman of R. H. McCullough's Sash and Door Manufacturing Co., says: "I never was sick a day in my life until a pain struck me across my back and a lameness over the kidneys. I did not pay much attention to it at first, thinking it would soon pass away, but instead of this it grew worse. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended by those who had used them for such troubles that I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. I used them according to instructions and felt somewhat relieved. Continuing the treatment, by the time I had finished the third box, the pain in my back and lameness disappeared."

Trees and Temperature.

We are in the habit of seeking the shade of a tree as a means of getting cool, but that is not the only power it has of reducing the temperature. On the same principle that a lump of ice will cool a glass of water a tree will cool the air around it, because its own temperature is uniformly about 45 degrees; that is to say, the temperature of the tree as a body. This is little understood, perhaps, but it is a recognized scientific fact, and it adds much force to the argument in favor of planting trees in cities. A clump of trees is capable of making a material reduction in temperature. The woods, therefore, are cool, not only because they are shady, but because the trees are constantly fighting off the heat.—Science.

Birds in Winter.

To see all our birds in their winter homes we should have to travel from the middle states down to the Argentine Republic. We could see a great many, though, by making a midwinter trip to the gulf states. In Florida, for instance, we should find enormous flocks of robins whirling through the trees and alighting here and there to feed upon the berries of the china-tree and holly. Many birds we should find only along the coast, and many others we should have to search for in the silent cypress swamps of Louisiana and Mississippi. The herons love the solitude of these swamps, where in the numerous springs and streams they find the fish and frogs on which they feed.—Woman's Home Companion.

Insulted Her.

"Why," asked Mrs. Justgotrich of the courteous waiter at the summer resort, "why do you fold the napkin in such a queer shape?"

"To demonstrate, madam," replied the waiter, who was a sophomore from Yell college, "that in an isosceles triangle the sum of the square of the base and perpendicular is equal to the square of the hypotenuse."

Here Mrs. Justgotrich called all her new-found dignity to her aid.

"Young man," she snapped, "just because I have been kind to you, you need not be so presumptuous. I have told you twice already that I wanted you to give me the English names of the dishes, and not call them off in French."—Baltimore American.

Origin of the Cannon.

It is a curious fact that the first cannon was cast at Venice. It was called a "bombard," and was invented and employed by Gen. Pisani in a war against the Genoese. The original bombard, which bears the date of 1380, is still preserved, and stands at the foot of Pisani's statue at the arsenal. The bombard threw a stone 100 pounds in weight; another Venetian general, Francisco Barde, improved it until he was able to handle a charge of rock and bowlders weighing 3,000 pounds. It proved disastrous to him, however, for one day during the siege of Zara, while he was operating his terrible engine, he was hurled by it over the walls and instantly killed.—Detroit Free Press.

No Suicides Among Negroes.

It is interesting to note that when confined on board a slaver the negroes sought relief in suicide, against which the crew were most vigilant; yet when landed, fed and established in cabins, they abandoned all idea of self-destruction. Their native cheerfulness asserted itself and they soon sang at their toil, ready to laugh at trifles or dance after the day's work. So rare is suicide among American negroes that it is doubtful if a well-authenticated case can be shown. — Leslie's Monthly.

His Chance.

The bashful boarder saw his opportunity. He had been waiting since the soup to get in a word or two, but before he could form a satisfactory sentence the conversation swept along and the chance was lost. But now there came a sudden silence. It brought the bashful boarder's chance.

"I notice," he hurriedly said, "that President Tennis is playing Roosevelt a good deal down at Oyster Bay."

Then he wished he hadn't said it.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Physician at Fault.

A Paris physician reports the case of a patient suffering from tuberculosis whom he sent to Switzerland with injunctions to take care not to expose himself. The patient climbed a mountain, was caught in a severe storm altogether unprotected, lost in the snow, lived for three days and nights in the open and was at last found and sent back to France, since which time he has continued to improve and is now pronounced cured.—London Mail.

Miss Bertha E. Hausheer Was Wedded to William E. VanCourt—A Reception Followed.

A wedding took place yesterday afternoon in Marconnier chapel, at Oak Tree, when Miss Bertha E. Hausheer, of this city, and Wililam E. VanCourt, of Oak Tree, were married in the presence of a large assemblage.

The ceremony was set for 2:30 o'clock, but owing to a wreck, some of the relatives were late and it was 3:15 o'clock when the ceremony was performed.

The bride was gowned in white, trimmed with satin ribbons. She wore a veil and carried white chrysanthemums. She was attended by her sister, Miss Gertrude Hausheer, who wore pink and carried chrysanthemums. The best man was Fred Stover, of Oak Tree.

Mrs. Wililam Compton, of Metuchen, played the wedding march. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church. A reception was held at the home of the groom.

The couple left for Richfield Springs, N. Y. They will reside at Oak Tree, where the groom is engaged in the coal business. The couple received many presents.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

According to a number of rifle experts who have witnessed his performances, Plainfield possesses a crack marksman in Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., of East Front street. He has erected a range in the rear of his home and before a number of professionals yesterday, made a record of 97 out of a possible 100 with clay targets. He also did some phenomenal trick work. He has arranged for a moonlight shoot to be held next month to which he has invited all the city cracks.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of Madison avenue, has brought out a revised edition of "The Correct Thing in Good Society." Some of the chapters are headed "At the Writing Desk," "When Making Calls," "In the Family Circle" and "For a Wedding." Mrs. Hall treats of these and a number of other subjects in an interesting manner, telling the correct thing to do on one page and on the opposite page giving the incorrect thing to do. The chapter on the "Woman's Club" is full of valuable information, giving hints on matters with which many well-bred women would be at a loss without some guide beside their intentions.

WEDDED BY MAYOR.

Miss Elise L. Derzeraoy and Ali T. Loizeaux Were Married Yesterday.

HOW COUNTY SEAT TOOK IT

North Plainfield's Slump Was a Painful Surprise to the Somerville Republicans.

WEREN'T EXPECTING IT

County Chairman Frelinghuysen Says It Was Not a Republican Defeat—Thompson Faction Stunned—Nobody Knows or Cares to Predict What the Effect Will Be.

Somerville, November 7—Never before have the people of Somerville been made so painfully aware of the important place which North Plainfield holds in Somerset county as they were when the results of Tuesday's elections became generally known. A reduced Republican majority was generally looked for but no one here expected any overwhelming landslide for Democracy. And even a cursory glance at the returns shows that North Plainfield was directly responsible for the overthrow of the Republican party in Somerset.

If any of the local Republicans thought that Senator Reed and Mayor Smalley, of North Plainfield, were "back numbers" politically, they have reason not to think so now. If there was bitterness in the hearts of the Somerville faction before, that word does not begin to express the feeling now. The Thompson faction wasn't expecting any such happening and it hasn't fully recovered yet from the shock. When it does, nobody attempts to predict what will happen.

There were some few benighted Republicans through the county who attempted to persuade themselves that their ticket might have won out after all because the returns were so megre and came in so slowly. Time failed to bring them any hopeful news. A compilation of the actual figures showed that the Republicans had met defeat and by a rousing vote.

To the great surprise of many, W. J. DeMond, Democratic candidate for surrogate, ran the best of any man on his ticket. His opponent was an erstwhile lieutenant of Senator Reed who was expected, for that reason, to do better in North Plainfield than his running mates. Then some opposition to DeMond was expected on account of his religious belief. He had with him the younger element in Somerville and it was in a large degree responsible for his heavy plurality. De Mond polled a plurality of 508.

Probably the most interest was in the senatorial fight. J. S. Frelinghuysen, the Republican candidate, made a particularly active campaign. His efforts were successful in the rural districts of the county where he did poll an unusually heavy vote. His gains in those parts were more than made up for by the losses in Somerville, Raritan and North Plainfield.

While the course of the friends of annexation in actively opposing the Republican candidates probably accomplished Frelinghuysen's defeat, it is not entirely accountable for the opposition he received right at his own home. With his pleasant smile and hearty handshake, Frelinghuysen made friends in the rural districts where he was not so well known. Among those with whom he had lived, however, there was some opposition that made itself felt at the polls. Frelinghuysen has an unfortunate abrupt manner at times which has prejudiced some people against him. This unpopularity did have something to do with the vote he received here and in North Plainfield as the writer knows of residents of both places, with whom Senator Reed and his friends have no influence, that declared their intention of voting against Frelinghuysen for this very reason.

It has long been the ambition of Mr. Frelinghuysen to go to the State Senate. He was anxious to be elected and used every energy to forward his campaign. Besides serving as chairman of the county committee and directing the campaign, he made a personal tour throughout the county, speaking and meeting the voters personally and the end of the campaign found him almost a wreck. He expected to win and the end was a bitter disappointment to him.

On the morning after election, he said to the writer "I do not consider this a Republican defeat. It was North Plainfield's vote that did it.

ONLY LITTLE BLAZE.

Warren Boys Called Out and Extinguished the Fire With Buckets of Water.

The Warren Engine Company was called out last evening at 6 o'clock for a fire in the home of Horatio M. Clark, of Grandview avenue, which did about $25 worth of damage before the flames were extinguished. The fire was caused by the upsetting of a lamp in the kitchen. The fire was put out by the members of the company who lived near the house.

The engine company responded to the alarm very quickly and was out of the house before the second gong had sounded. At the fire the engine was not started as the firemen were able to extinguish the flames with buckets of water.

SOME REMARKABLE FREAKS

A VALUABLE COLLECTION MADE BY LATE PROF. C. K. HOWLETT.

Now in Possession of M. C. Dobbins—Collection Also Includes Some Rare Birds.

M. C. Dobbins, the tobacconist, is now located in his new store on Park avenue at the head of North avenue. The new store is a much finer one than his old store on North avenue and allows much more space for the display of the collection of stuffed birds of which Mr. Dobbins is justly proud.

This collection is conceded to be the best in the State, bar none. The specimens were collected by the late Prof. C. K. Howlett, a former resident of this city, and every bird was stuffed by him. Besides having specimens of birds from all parts of the globe there are included in the display some freak animals which are very interesting. Among the latter is a kid with eight legs, two tails, four ears, two heads and had only one heart; and another freak of nature is a family of calves, seven in number, which were gestated at one birth. All are perfectly formed excepting the last which is an embryo.

Few people in this city realize that there is a collection of this kind here and a visit to the store to look at these specimens is not only interesting but instructive.

A CLEVER SPEAKER.

Miss Ellen M. Stone is a Writer and Speaker of Ability.

When Miss Ellen M. Stone, who is to be at the Casino tomorrow night, decided to devote her life to missionary work, accepting the perils and rigors of distant lands among unchristianized races in Europe, there was lost to literature a graceful and forceful writer and to the platform an orator who would surely have taken rank with Mary A. Livermore, Miss Frances Willard, and those brave women whose voices have been lifted in the movements which have advanced civilization. Possessed of a ready flow of transparent thought, a fertile brain, awake and active, grasping the perceptions of the moving panorama of events, and clothing them in simple, impressive language, the narrative of her capture and captivity by the Macedonian brigands, in the land in which she was laboring, is one of the most thrilling tales of adventure ever told. And added to this she possesses the perfect poise of manner of the great orator, and one of the most beautiful speaking voices ever heard—a voice that commands attention the instant she begins her address, which is appealing, convincing, and inspiring.

On any other subject she would have delighted an audience, but with this recital so personal to her and to the hundreds of thousands of Christian friends who have followed her with their affection and their prayers, she displays that true eloquence which asserts her genius. She will be worth hearing and all intended hearers should secure tickets and seats at Armstrong's Pharmacy.

He has since retired from newspaper work and is now in the insurance business. His friends will wish him and his bride much success and happiness. The couple will reside in Plainfield.

BIG CONCERNS AFTER THE BABCOCK STORE?

Rumors That Prominent New York Houses Want to Locate Branch in This City.

REPORT NOT CONFIRMED

SAID THAT O'NEIL AND WANAMAKER WANT STORE IN BABCOCK BUILDING.

Reported Also That Bamberger, of Newark, Has Present Site of Woodhull & Martin's Establishment Under Consideration.

Real estate in this city seems to have sprung into sudden activity during the past few weeks and big transfers in property have been talked of, which, if carried out, will mean the building up of Front street as a greater business center. One of these transfer was the purchasing of the Hetfield property on East Front street, opposite the new store of Woodhull & Martin, as told exclusively in The Daily Press of Wednesday.

Yesterday it was reported around town that O'Neil, the big dry goods merchant of New York, was making overtures for the leasing of the store now occupied by Woodhull & Martin in the Babcock building and that he would take possession as soon as the latter firm moved into their new store on East Front street. This rumor was being discussed yesterday afternoon in a local real estate office where a prominent citizen made the statement that the New York concern had already closed for the store and was only waiting for the firm which now occupies the store to move out.

A Daily Press reporter saw Mr. Martin at his store and he said that while he had heard the report he had not been communicated with on the subject directly although he had been told that not only was O'Neil looking for the store but that Wanamaker and Bamberger, of Newark, were both desirous of locating branch stores in this city and wanted the Babcock store. Mr. Martin added that he heard that Bamberger had been looking for the store ever since the fire but he had not been communicated with directly by the Newark firm nor by any New York concern.

Bent on running the story to the truth of the rumor a visit was made to the office of W. M. Stillman, one of the executors of the Babcock estate, where it was learned that while the rumors had reached their ears that O'Neil was desirous of securing the store, no direct communications had been received at that office.

Mr. Martin said that his lease on the store had not yet run out and that it had about a year and a half to run yet. While he did not say that he would not rent the store to another dry goods concern, he said that with a larger store and a better location that he could be a powerful competitor for any other concern that could locate in this city.

LOTS OF PERMITS.

Building Inspector Doane Kept Busy for Last Few Days.

Chief Doane, of the fire department, also building inspector, has been busy during the past few days granting building permits. Miss Elizabeth A. Thickston, of Central avenue, will erect a two story residence at 507 Madison avenue. The architect will be W. H. Clum; the mason, W. Thompson, and the carpenters, Titus & Pope.

Miss Willard, of Grant avenue, will build a two story residence on West Seventh street, near Hobart avenue. The architect will be Clum & Son, the masons, Tallamy & Brothers, and the carpenters, J. Manning & Son.

A permit was granted Robert Kenny, of West Third street, to make alterations to his building at that place. W. J. Pearson will be the architect, carpenter and mason.

George L. Eager, of 919 West Fourth street, was given a permit to build a house for Belgian hares at that address and he will be the builder.

Farewell Banquet.

Harry Potter tendered a banquet, Wednesday evening, at the Westfield Golf Club to a number of his friends. The affair was a "stag" and was given in honor of his approaching wedding. In all there were about thirty guests present who greatly enjoyed the evening.

To Accept Returns.

The Union County Board of Elections will meet at Elizabeth today to consider the returns from the county.

PLURALITY FOR FOWLER GROWS

Actual Count Shows He Carried the District by the Plurality of 1,342.

A CHANGE IN WARREN

First Estimates Were Too Strong for Flanagan, Who Ran Behind His Ticket—Fowler's Vote in Morris County Was a Great Surprise to Many.

According to the latest returns, Congressman Fowler's plurality is even larger than was at first supposed. According to the actual figures given out in Warren county, Flanagan did not carry that county by as heavy a plurality as was supposed. The first estimates placed the plurality at 1,400 but the county shows that Flanagan as just 1,010 votes behind in that county.

With the returns now received, Fowler carried Union county by 1,182 plurality and Morris by 1,170 plurality. Allowing the 1,010 plurality in Warren for Flanagan, it makes Fowler's plurality in the district 1,342, which is much higher than was generally supposed. In Warren, Fowler ran well ahead of the rest of the Republican ticket. His vote in Morris was also something of a surprise.

WILL WEAR ROBE.

Consistory of Trinity Reformed Church Sanctions Plan to Have Pastor Wear Robe in Pulpit.

The Consistory of Trinity Reformed church met in regular session last evening and transacted considerable business of importance.

Geo. Gayle, for many years treasurer of the church, was unanimously re-elected and congratulated for the very excellent report presented, showing all bills paid and a neat balance on hand. At his request, Elder F. E. Smith was relieved of the duties of clerk of the Consistory, and Deacon Edgar F. Sheppard was elected.

The Ladies' Christian Work Society of the church stated that the society desired to present Dr. Schenck with a robe, but first desired the consent or sanction of the Consistory, before raising the money for the object. The request was unanimously granted and when the amount is raised by the women Dr. Schenck will don the robe in the pulpit.

Before the meeting adjourned Dr. Schecnk announced standing committees for the year as follows:

Finance: Clark, Thorp and Gayle. Wardens: Gayle, Willett and A. L. Force. Pew: A. L. Force, Smith and Oliver. Prayer meeting: VanEmburgh, Martin and B. R. Force. Endeavor meetings: Willett, Sheppard and Gayle. Benevolence: VanZant, B. R. Force and Thorp. Supply: Thorp, VanZant, Smith. Music: Martin, Clark, VanZant. Sunday-school: Smith, Martin and Sheppard. Envelope: Oliver, Sheppard and A. L. Force. Marconnier chapel: Clark, VanEmburgh and Willett.

PRIZES AT WHIST.

Won at Delightful Affair Given by H. H. Coward.

A delightful social affair of last evening was the whist party given by H. H. Coward for a few of his friends at his home in East Front street. There were six tables and the guests thoroughly enjoyed an evening of whist. At the conclusion of the games it was announced that Mrs. Samuel Hollingsworth and Mrs. C. E. Bond had won the first and second prizes for the women, while John G. MacLaughlin and H. G. Dunbar were the winners of the first and second prizes for the men.

The rest of the evening was passed in a social way, during which refreshments were served.

No Report Ready.

Owing to a lack of a quorum there was no meeting of the borough sewage commission last evening. The secretary, it appears, failed to send out notices for the meeting. It was proposed to meet last evening and prepare a report to be presented at the regular meeting of the Borough Council this evening. This is not now likely to be done before the next regular meeting of the Council.

Different Man.

Patrick Motley, of 511 Plainfield avenue desires it stated that he is not the Motley who figured in the police court news of Wednesday morning.

SOCIAL SEASON OPEN AT THE PARK CLUB

Opening Reception at Its Cosy Clubhouse Last Evening Attracted Many Guests.

WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

FIRST OF A SERIES OF EVENTS PLANNED FOR THE WINTER MONTHS.

Clubhouse Was Prettily Decorated—Dancing Was in Order Most of the Evening—The Committee in Charge of the Affair.

The opening of the social season, last evening, at the Park Club, was an event of more than ordinary interest to the society folk of the borough, as well as many from this city. That the season gives promises of being one of great success was evidenced by the generous response to the invitations issued for the opening reception last evening. In all over two hundred invitations were issued to members and their friends and by 9 o'clock the attractive clubhouse was well filled with guests. The cordiality of the reception of these people by the committee in charge was a marked feature of the affair.

The clubhouse has seldom looked more attractive than it did last evening. The main room was decorated with palms, ferns and flowers, while in the many cozy corners the effect was much admired.

There were quite a number of strangers present and they were cordially received by the members and made to feel welcome. All during the reception and later in the evening when the young folks were given an opportunity for dancing. Garland's orchestra, of New Brunswick, rendered a programme of popular music. The orchestra was located in a small room off the large hall, thus giving the extra room for dancing.

Another feature of the evening was the refreshments, served under the direction of the new steward, Charles Henry. The menu was more elaborate than usual and everyone present seemed to enjoy the innovation in this respect.

The committee in charge of the reception, and who will arrange similar affairs throughout the winter, consists of Mr. and Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. McGee and C. E. Murray. The next event at the club will probably be a dance on Thanksgiving eve.

BROOKLYN PASTOR EXPECTED.

Rev. John P. Forbes Will Preach at All Souls Church Sunday Night.

Rev. John P. Forbes, pastor of the First Unitarian Society, the Church of the Saviour, Pierrepont street, Brooklyn, will preach at the Unitarian church on Park avenue Sunday evening at 7:45 o'clock. Mr. Forbes succeeded in Brooklyn, Rev. Dr. S. A. Eliot, son of President Eliot, of Harvard, and is considered one of the most attractive preachers in the denomination. He came to Brooklyn within a few years from Taunton, Mass., and it may truly be said of him that his course in the ministry has been one of constant preferment from the start. Mr. Forbes' earnest manner and strong preaching make friends for him everywhere, and it is hoped that Plainfield people will improve this opportunity to make his acquaintance.

DEATH OF MRS. NELSON.

She Passed Away at the Age of Ninety-Two Years.

The death of Mrs. Assenath Nelson, widow of Joseph Nelson, occurred last evening at her home, 473 West Front street, follwing a severe illness of one week. She was ninety-two years of age and had lived in Plainfield nearly fifty years. Mrs. Nelson was born at Liberty Corner. For some time past she had practically been an invalid, requiring great care. She was a devout Christian woman and a member of the First Baptist church. She was the mother of Edward Nelson, for a great many years ticket agent at the North Avenue Station.

Hoosier Band Entertained.

The Hoosier Band of vocalists, professional singers, entertained a large audience at the Monroe Avenue church, last evening, with their enjoyable selections. The entertainment was followed by a social period. In charge of the affair was a committee from the Ladies' Aid Society consisting of Mrs. I. P. LaRue, Mrs. Nicholas Brouard and Miss M. E. Brower.

SCHOOL FINANCES.

City School Boad Hopes to Have the Floating Indebtedness Wiped Out in Another Year.

The annual financial statement of the city Board of Education is presented in this issue of The Daily Press. It shows that the board has reduced the bonded indebtedness about $5,000 and the floating indebtedness about $7,000. With the arrears of taxes due and uncollected and by being very economical in every way, the members hope to show next year only the bonded indebtedness.

Since July 1, $4,000 in notes outstanding has been paid off and $1,000 on hand from the Martin Act account will be used for the same purpose. This will leave about $7,000 in notes on hand.

BUSY TIME IN CITY COURT

A NUMBER OF OFFENDERS WERE ARRAIGNED YESTERDAY.

Two Argued Too Loudly Over the Payment of a Bill—Soden Up Again Soon.

Grist in the city court has been plentiful all the week and yesterday was no exception. In addition to the Washington case mentioned yesterday the following cases were disposed of:

Edward Parsons, a young man, was fined $10 for assaulting Ferdinand Hofberger, a small boy. The former was passing bills on East Fifth street when a crowd of school children followed him in an annoying way. He seized Hofberger, and according to witnesses, struck and kicked him until he was covered with blood. Parsons flatly denied the charge.

John Mottley and John Miller, got into an altercation in VanNest's restaurant over the payment of a bill. It waxed loud and warm until the proprietor called a bluecoat and had both arrested. They were released on Mottley paying the bill, amounting to twenty-five cents.

John Soden, who was fined $3 at Tuesday's session for drunkenness, was again arraigned on the same charge. He was arrested shortly after being released. This time the court made it thirty days straight.

WHAT MAYOR HAS TO SAY

Another Annexation Bill Will be Introduced Into the State Legislature.

TO BE NO REFERENDUM

Mayor Smalley Says Earthquake Which Struck North Plainfield May be Repeated If Conditions Do Not Change—But They May Change Soon.

Now that the election is over and the political Mt. Pelees have ceased their eruptions of mud and brick slinging, calmness once more reigns in and around the Martinique in Somerset county across Green brook.

Yesterday afternoon Mayor Smalley said to a newspaper man that a bill will be sent to the Legislature without the referendum clause attached to take North Plainfield from Somerset county and annex it to Union county. It is hoped, he said, that when the present Governor sees the bill he will sign it and pass upon it, but in the event of his refusing to do this there are other governors who will follow Governor Murphy who will see that the bill is passed.

Mayor Smalley said he thought there would be no objection to the repeal of the proposed bill of Lou Thompson's mentioned in the Republican platform.

He also said that an earthquake struck North Plainfield last Tuesday and was due to the seismic disturbances at Somerville which were also felt throughout the county. The results were far reaching, he said, and there might be other similar eruptions as they seem to be easily caused.

PLAYED EUCHRE.

Invitation Affair Given by Retail Clerks' Mutual Benefit Association in I. C. T. Rooms.

At the conclusion of the playing refreshments were served and afterward dancing was enjoyed. The committee in charge consisted of the Misses Justina Smith, Wilhemina Hossinger and Kathryn Carty and James McLean, and Albert Koch.

WELCOMED WITH BLOW.

Chas. Schuyrock Beat His Wife When She Returned at His Request—Heavily Sentenced.

Seldom has a prisoner been more severely reprimanded by Recorder Doud than was Charles Schuyrock, of Myrtle avenue, this morning when the Recorder sentenced him to jail for shamefully beating his wife. He pleaded guilty to two charges of being drunk, disorderly and fighting and for resisting arrest. On the first charge the Recorder sentenced him to a fine of $20 and seven days in jail and to the second charge he sentenced him to $10 and seven days.

He admitted having sent letters to his wife who had left him, asking her to come back on promise that he would treat her well and that when she entered the house he knocked her down and beat her for leaving him in the first place. The prisoner has been in court a number of times before on the same charge.

WHO WILL PRESIDE?

Retirement of Councilman Coriell Makes Choice of a New Presiding Officer Necessary.

The Common Council for the coming year will be composed of the following members: R. I. Tolles, W. L. Gloak, J. F. Buckle, Wm. A. Garrigues, Jan. vanHerwerden, W. S. Tyler, Leslie Daniel, E. E. Pray, Frank Randolph, Robert Lee and Clarence Murphy. Of these, Mr. Garrigues, from the Second ward, and Mr. Tyler, from the Third ward, are new members. The latter takes Mr. Coriell's place.

By the retirement of Mr. Coriell it will mean that a new president will have to be selected. As yet no one has been thought of especially for that position. During the absence of Mr. Coriell Mr. vanHerwerden has filled the position, but as he is liable to be away considerably during the coming year, it is not likely that he will be elected. It is generally considered that the personel of the Council is one of which the city can feel proud.

JUST MISSED DEATH.

Two Plainfielders Were at Scene of Terrible Explosion in New York.

John Hines and Charles Beiter, of this city, sustained the reputation of this city by representing it in the frightful explosion in New York election night. While both escaped injury their escape was narrow. There is hardly any great accident that happens anywhere but that Plainfield is represented and in this case it was left to these two well known men to sustain that reputation. Mr. Hines was standing very near the boxes of fireworks which exploded but had left the spot only a few seconds before, otherwise he would no doubt have been killed or seriously injured.

BIRTHDAY RECEPTION.

Given to Christian Sorensen, Jr., in Honor of Sixty-Third Birthday.

Many relatives and friends from this city, New York and Perth Amboy, gathered at the home of Christian Sorensen, Jr., of Webster place, Tuesday evening, when he was tendered a reception in honor of his sixty-third birthday. Music and dancing proved so enjoyable, the hours sped by unnoticed until after midnight when the affair broke up. At an interval in the evening Mr. Sorensen was presented with a large birthday cake by relatives from Perth Amboy.

Miss Ada VanHorne, of Grove street, has returned home from Bayonne where she was a guest of friends over Election Day.

Mrs. T. D. VanSickle and children, of Princeton, are spending a week as the guests of Mrs. William Smalley, Jr., of Somerset street.

A Thanksgiving Dinner.

Heavy eating is usually the first cause of indigestion. Repeated attacks inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, exposes the nerves of the stomach, producing a swelling after eating, heartburn, headache, sour risings and finally catarrh of the stomach. Kodol relieves the inflammation, protects the nerves and cures catarrh. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia, all stomach troubles by cleansing and sweetening the glands of the stomach. L. W. Randolph.

A HARD STRUGGLE.

Many a Plainfield Citizen Finds the Struggle Hard.

With a back constantly aching.
Daily existence is but a struggle.
No need to keep it up.
Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you.
Plainfield people endorse this claim.

Mr. Geo. S. McGinnis, of No. 212 Somerset street, foreman of R. H. McCullough's Sash and Door Manufacturing Co., says: "I never was sick a day in my life until a pain struck me across my back and a lameness over the kidneys. I did not pay much attention to it at first, thinking it would soon pass away, but instead of this it grew worse. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended by those who had used them for such troubles that I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. I used them according to instructions and felt somewhat relieved. Continuing the treatment, by the time I had finished the third box, the pain in my back and lameness disappeared."

For sale by all dealers; price 50c a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

The first bottle brought relief; several cured me. I am back to my old weight, 148 lbs. One Minute Cough Cure cuts the phlegm, relieves the cough at once, draws out inflammation, cures croup. DIGG'S UPRIGHT FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

The Best on Earth! We Challenge the World!

The Extinguishers that turn up-side-down to discharge are good of their kind, but this is far better. Read the following reasons:

Points of superior merit of the Digg-Upright over any other machine—

1—A sealed acid bottle and an air-tight tank. No change in the conditions of the chemicals possible.

2—Can never be discharged by accident; absolutely under the control of the operator.

3—A 3-gallon machine of this type contains ONE QUART more of liquid than a reversible, because it does not require a handle underneath.

4—It does not need inspection, and recharging as required for the reversible with its loose stopple.

5—The acid being released at the top of the tank, and the outlet being at the bottom, the mingling of the chemicals is so thorough before the acid reaches the outlet that it is completely neutralized, and no harm can be done to flesh or fabric. In the reversible type the acid is released within the two inches of the outlet.

6—Convenience in handling. The machine stands on its bottom, and all the operator has to do is to turn the screw in the cap, and the flow begins instantly.

7—The bottle is not broken, and no nuisance of broken glass.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

I. H. Boehm has just placed on sale at his West Front street store a new lot of women's jackets and French flannel shirt waists which have been reduced away below the former prices.

Sunny Jim would never had been Jim Dumps if his wife had gotten her Sunday chickens from Smalley Bros'. butcher shop on Somerset street, because Smalley's chickens are always tender.

There is always something natty about the scarfs and ties purchased at J. R. Blair's haberdashery on Park avenue. He has some of the handsomest shirts and ties to be found in this city.

There is no doubt about the superiority of Warnock's charlotte russe and pastry. They are made on the "know-how" plan and only of the very best materials. Warnock delivers all his orders, including ice cream.

At Dunn's Park grocery all the freshest vegetables are always in stock besides a fine line of staple and fancy groceries. People living in this part of the borough are realizing that his goods are the finest on the market.

Callahan & Son, the Richmond street grocers, call attention to the fact that they are selling splendid potatoes at a greatly reduced price. Now is the time to lay in a winter supply. This is only one of the cash features at this popular East End store.

If you have not yet seen the new fall and winter goods at Putnam & DeGraw's store it will pay you to do so. This firm has an unusually attractive assortment of dry goods to select from. They also keep a well-appointed men's furnishing goods department.

There is just one place to buy medicines, drugs, etc., and that is at a first-class pharmacy. There is no doubt but that L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, keeps such a place. This week he is making a specialty of tooth brushes in a wide variety of styles.

The problem of perpetual motion is still unsolved but the question of heating a home in a complete quick manner is no longer a mystery. Since the Backus gas heater, sold by Gavett, made its appearance, people wonder how they ever managed to get along without one. Are you numbered among the lucky owners?

IMPROVING STORE.

B. J. Schreiner is Putting His Pharmacy in Fine Condition.

There are a number of improvements going on at the drug store of B. J. Schreiner at the corner of Park avenue and Second street, which, when completed, will greatly add to the attractiveness of the store. A new window is being cut through the brick wall on the Park avenue side of the store and a store room is being made in the cellar. When the changes are completed on the outside, the interior will be repainted and decorated. The building and store is owned by Judge William R. Codington, whose law offices are located over the store.

FELLOWSHIP MEETING.

Was Held at Grace M. E. Church Wednesday Evening.

The fellowship meeting, held Wednesday night at the Grace M. E. church, was very well attended. The speaker, Dr. Claire Baldwin, of East Orange, was unable to be present owing to sickness in the family so Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, of this city, gave a talk on Christian fellowship. Miss Grace Carroll charmed the audience by her rich contralto voice in a solo. Howard Case, organist at the First Baptist church, presided at the organ.

—The Christian Endeavor Society, of the Crescent Avenue church, will meet this evening. The subject of the meeting will be "The Best Gift."

Rev. J. A. Mets, of Somerville, has been visiting friends in the borough for a few days.

Winfield Coddington, of Newark, has been visiting friends in Plainfield for a short time.

SMOOT FOR SENATOR

Utah Legislature Said to Favor Mormon Apostle.

A STRONG OPPOSITION DEVELOPS.

Anti-Mormon Fight Likely to Be One of the Features at Washington When the New Congress Meets.

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 7.—The big fight that was waged in congress about four years ago over the seating of Brigham Roberts in the house of representatives because of his Mormon religion bids fair to be renewed and fought with increased bitterness when the Utah legislature names Apostle Reed Smoot as its senatorial representative.

The present legislature of the Mormon state has been elected in the interest of Apostle Smoot, and there is little doubt that he will be named for the senate. Already a movement is under way to prevent the seating of the apostle. The Salt Lake Ministerial association is organizing to make a vehement opposition to his taking a place in the upper house on the ground that Smoot as an apostle is sworn to preach polygamy as one of the tenets of the Mormon church and that for that reason he cannot conscientiously take the oath to support the constitution and laws of the country.

Smoot has announced that no threats of opposition can frighten him into withdrawing and that he will fight for his rights to the bitter end.

The Telegram prints the following interview with Apostle Reed Smoot:

"Is it true," was asked Mr. Smoot, "that you have secured permission of the church to make the race for the senatorship?"

"I have secured the individual permission of my associates. The church has nothing to do with it."

"What are your views on polygamy?"

"The church is living strictly in accordance with the manifesto, and I voted for and approved the same."

"Have you ever practiced or countenanced polygamy?"

"I never practiced polygamy."

"Did you believe in polygamy before the manifesto was issued?"

"As an American citizen I claim the right to believe as I please, so long as it does not interfere with the rights of any other citizen."

"Are not some of the apostles still practicing polygamy?"

"That is a matter of which I know nothing."

"What are your views on the action of congress in refusing to seat B H. Roberts?"

"I think Mr. Roberts should have been seated first and tried later."

Practically complete returns from every county in the state show larger pluralities for the Republican candidates than were indicated by earlier returns. For congress Joseph Howell (Rep.) will have a plurality of 5,427. The legislature will stand as follows: Senate—Republicans, 13; Democrats, 5. House—Republicans, 39; Democrats, 6. This gives a Republican majority of forty-one on joint ballot. This may be increased one or two by later returns from senate districts.

An Elephant on Their Hands.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Nov. 7.—The smallness of the subscriptions (one-fifth of the proposed capital of about $1,000,000) to the proposed Danish West India company is discussed everywhere in this country. The leading promoters disagree on the subject, some of them insisting on the abandonment of the plan. Many former anti-salers are now wishing the islands had been sold. The prospect of assisting the inhabitants of the islands is now more problematical than ever. The folkething has chosen Joergen Jensen as a member of the commission for the islands. Mr. Jensen has passed five years in the United States.

Oklahoma Still In Doubt.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Nov. 7.—There is a bitter struggle in Oklahoma, for the election of a delegate to congress. The result is still in doubt, with the complete returns from the west and southwest counties yet to be received. The Republicans claim McGuire is elected by 1,000, and the Democrats claim Cross is by 1,400. Returns come very slowly. Both parties concede the Oklahoma senate to the Republicans by one majority, while both claim the house, the Republicans by two and the Democrats by four.

Oklahoma Homesteader Shot.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Nov. 7.—As a result, it is alleged, of the prolonged war between the cattlemen and homesteaders in western Oklahoma G. W. Lane, a leading figure among the homesteaders, was called to his door and shot dead near Shirley, Dewey county. A prominent cattleman named John Joy has been arrested, charged with complicity in the crime. Mrs. Lane, the murdered man's wife, was also brought in by the officers.

Fast Automobile Driving.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—At Dourdan yesterday Henri Fournier, driving an automobile, covered a kilometer in 29 1-5 seconds and a mile in 47 1-5 seconds, thus breaking the record, held by W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr. Fournier's time was made in spite of muddy roads. His machine traveled at the rate of seventy-six miles an hour.

An Unpublished Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—By a queer oversight an extradition treaty between the United States and Guatemala made twelve years ago has remained unproclaimed and so inoperative up to the present time. Arrangements are being made for its mutual proclamation at an early day.

BARON'S SAD PLIGHT

Munchhausen Sought a Rich Wife In America.

VICTIM OF MARRIAGE SYNDICATE.

It Took Two to Make a Bargain, and the Heiress Would Not Wed. Lawsuit Reveals Queer Proceedings.

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—The relations of Baron Burchard von Munchhausen with the so called "marriage syndicate" which financed his journey to the United States in search to obtain a rich wife have been made public through a prosecution for blackmail brought by the baron against Hermann Pincus, Moritz Mendelsohn and Adolf Mendelsohn, three tradesmen who were members of the syndicate. The trial has just come to its close.

Baron von Munchhausen is a member of a famous German family which dates from 1587.

The testimony showed that an ex-convict named Eissler, living in Stuttgart, telegraphed to Frau von Quitzow, a noblewoman residing in Berlin who undertakes to obtain wealthy wives for army officers, saying that if she had a titled officer on active service for an American fortune of $7,500,000 to let him know. Frau von Quitzow put Eissler in communication with Baron von Munchhausen, who is a lieutenant in the Prussian artillery.

The baron, according to statements made in court, agreed to give Eissler 5 per cent of the money of the heiress he was to wed in the event of the marriage taking place, and he signed conditional bills for $375,000. On these bills Eissler raised money in Berlin from a numerous group of persons which included Pincus and the two Mendelsohns, and Baron von Munchhausen was provided with the cash with which he paid the expenses of his journey to the United States.

Eissler's partner in this adventure was a lady's maid who had been formerly in the service of the rich American woman referred to by Eissler. She preceded the baron to the United States to negotiate the marriage, but her efforts were not successful. The name of the heiress in question was not disclosed in court.

Baron von Munchhausen did make the acquaintance while in the United States of Martha Washington Beckel, a widow of moderate wealth, who, according to the German peerage, he married Dec. 23, 1898. Since his marriage the baron has been living with his wife on his estate near Schwobler, Hanover.

On his return to Germany Baron von Munchhausen had to reckon with the holders of his bills. A compromise was negotiated with Pincus and the Mendelsohns, who surrendered his paper on the payment of comparatively small sums. Baron von Munchhausen afterward accused these men of blackmail, and the matter was thus brought into court. Pincus and the Mendelsohns were acquitted of the charges against them.

This total is something over $4,000,000 in excess of the Alaska output for the entire calendar year 1901, the figures for that year being $14,675,675.

BIRD'S BOLD STAND.

Surprise For Interstate Commerce Commission.

FREIGHT RATES DECLARED TOO LOW

Strange Statements Made by Vice President of St. Paul Road—Says All the Railways Should Charge More.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—A. C. Bird, third vice president of the St. Paul road, took a bold stand before the interstate commerce commission when that body began an investigation into the rates on cattle and packing house products between Chicago and the Missouri river.

Mr. Bird was the first witness of importance before the commission, and when asked if he desired to defend the reasonableness of the St. Paul's live stock rates he declared that they were not reasonable.

"Not only are our live stock rates unreasonable," he declared, "but all our freight rates today are unreasonable, because they are entirely too low to compensate for the service rendered. All freight rates should be raised, and I am surprised that the railroads don't make a combined effort and raise them."

This statement surprised the members of the commission, and they immediately started to ascertain Mr. Bird's reasons. The witness stated that it was unfair to take the past two years as a basis from which to judge the fairness of rates and the fairness of the remuneration derived by the railroads, for during that period the volume of traffic had greatly increased, whereas before that period railroading had not as a general proposition been remunerative.

With respect to cattle rates, Mr. Bird asserted that cattle did not now and had not for years paid their just proportion of transportation and that to further reduce the rates on cattle would be to make a bad situation worse. When asked what governed the scientific making of rates, he replied that he had not seen the time in twenty-five years when rates could be made on a scientific basis. On the contrary, rates are always based upon competition, comparison and compromise.

The present inquiry is at the instigation of the Chicago Live Stock exchange, which claims that the lower rate on packing house products that exists between Chicago and Missouri river points relative to the rate on cattle operate against the Chicago market. Under prevailing rates packers can better afford to convert the live stock into packing house products at Missouri river points than at Chicago.

High Figure For Horse Show Seats.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The prize boxes in Madison Square Garden for the horse show to be given by the National Horse Show Association of America beginning Nov. 17 were auctioned off in the Garden theater. Society leaders, secretaries of society leaders and a few of the nouveau riche gathered in the theater to purchase one of the coveted plums. Frank T. Clarke was the auctioneer. When he called for bids, some one in the audience offered $600 for first choice. Immediately $650 was offered and then $750, and finally the price was run up by twenty-five dollar additions until George A. Kessler secured first choice for $850. He selected box No. 39. This is the highest price ever paid, $800 being the largest amount received heretofore.

Another Presidential Tour.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—President Roosevelt will leave here next Monday at midnight and will not return to Washington until after the reception to Vice Governor Luke Wright of Tennessee at Memphis Nov. 19. He will be present at the dedication of the Chamber of Commerce building in New York on Tuesday and Tuesday night will make a speech at the chamber of commerce dinner. The next day he will go west and south. Upon his return he will stop in Washington only one day, as he has accepted an invitation to attend the Union League club banquet in Philadelphia Nov. 22.

Food Needed in Philippines.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—On Oct. 29 a cable message was received at the war department from Governor Taft saying that the food situation in the Philippines was serious and would be for a few months on account of the loss of crops and that relief was necessary. The governor suggested the possibility of sending a shipload of supplies from San Francisco or Portland to be purchased by the insular government. He asked for prices of flour, and they were sent him at once. He has made no further request.

A Flour Trust.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—Confirming previous reports, the Call says: "A deal is practically accomplished for the amalgamation of all the extensive flouring interests on the Pacific coast. It will take in the large plants of Washington, Oregon and California and will call into existence one large corporation with a capital of $20,000,000 and facilities equal to supplying the present and prospectively greater demands of the Pacific coast and of the orient.

An Antidueling Bill.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—M. Lecomte has introduced a bill in the senate making dueling a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment and fine. The bill provides, if death ensues from the encounter, for the punishment of the surviving duelist with imprisonment from one to three years and a fine of from $100 to $1,000.

SOMERSET'S SITUATION.

North Plainfield has very plainly demonstrated that it is an important factor in county Somerset affairs. From a fairly safe Republican county, it has transformed it into an enthusiastic Democratic one and with such ease as to stagger those who thought they knew what the county was doing. Whether it will continue along its present lines seems to depend largely on the future. And the future is a rather uncertain quantity.

There is no secrecy as to why this remarkable change came over North Plainfield. It was the outcome of the factional troubles and the defeat of the annexation project. It is confidently believed by the annexationists, and with much reason, that although the project was defeated fairly enough, the decision was made on other than the real merits of the question and that the influences at Somerville were brought to bear against it. When the news of this overwhelming defeat came to the Somerville leaders, it may be that they wished that North Plainfield had been allowed to depart in peace. Its departure would have certainly resulted in the complete victory of the Republicans in Somerset.

Hard as it may be to admit it, the Somerville Republicans will have to concede that North Plainfield holds the balance of power in Somerset county. Of course, the Thompson faction may continue to hold aloof but to continue such a course means sure defeat and is suicidal to the interests of its party. It is clearly up to that faction to approach this end of the county with some project of conciliation if it intends to secure harmony for the future. How the borough Republicans will receive any such overtures remains to be seen but it is certain that they will not, under the present circumstances, take the initiative.

It is to be hoped that Congressman Fowler will remember where his friends were in the last election and that Plainfield will not be forgotten by the Congressman from the Fifth district. But for the rousing plurality which Plainfield gave him, his chances in Union county would have been doubtful indeed. His home city failed decidedly to come to his rescue in time of need.

In all this talk about election, how many people do you hear talking about the city candidates elected? It is safe to guess that most of those who have met Mayor Jenkins since that time have forgotten entirely to congratulate him on his re-election. It was simply a case where the people's minds were so occupied with Congressional and county affairs that they forgot all about the municipal election. That is not the way to achieve good results in city government. By all means let the Meeker election law be repealed and without delay.

Somerville and Raritan were not up to their usual figures but in the rest of the county I made a good showing. In Franklin, particularly, I made a heavy gain."

As to the probable results of the unexpected slump in North Plainfield, Mr. Frelinghuysen was reticent. "What do you think the result will be?" he was asked.

"I am willing to put aside my political ambitions for the good of the party," he replied after some hesitation. "It is my most sincere wish that harmony shall be restored in the ranks of the Republican party in Somerset county." Further than that he had nothing to say save to express particular regret that his enemies had insisted in dragging P. V. D. VanDoren, the Republican candidate for surrogate, down with him.

Another prominent Republican in Somerville was not so careful about expressing his opinions. "We expected a reduction in the vote in North Plainfield, of course," he declared, "but we were not looking for anything like that which really happened. There was treachery here and in Raritan as well.

"Will it mean that North Plainfield will get what it wants hereafter? Not by any means. I really can't tell you though what will happen for nobody knows. We haven't recovered from the shock yet. I believe, however, that the old breech will be a pigmy compared to the one which will exist now."

All through Somerville, there was a general expression of surprise. Probably the Democrats themselves were more surprised than anybody else as they had not been looking for such assistance. It was, without doubt, the most remarkable campaign in the history of the county and the story of it will be handed down from generation to generation.

LITERARY.

The best detective story that has been written for a long time, and one on quite different lines from the Sherlock Holmes variety, appears over the well known signature of Anna Katherine Green, in the November number of Leslie's Monthly. William Winter, the foremost dramatic critic in the country, contributes an authoritative and masterly criticism on Richard Mansfield, probably the foremost actor on the American stage. Another theatrical article on "The Making of a Play," from the stage manager's point of view, is illustrated by a unique series of remarkable photographs by Byron, the well-known dramatic photographer. Agnes C. Laut, who in "Lords of the North," proved herself an authority on the Hudson Bay regions, has an article in this number on the greatest fur company of the world, a vivid and accurate account of one of the greatest companies that has ever existed. The last installment of "The Autobiography of a Thief" and one or two bright bits of fiction and verse, complete the number.

The strenuous life is the key of the November Everybody's. The magazine is brimming with movement, incident and doing. It represents the most diverse phases of living and working and has not a dull page.

The frontispiece is a portrait of the President's mother. The number begins with the first installment of Justus Miles Forman's novelette, "Journeys End," which will be found charming, readable and entertaining. Mrs. Bessie VanVorst in "The Woman That Toils" tells of life in the knitting mills at Perry. "The Round Table of Dodge City," is an exciting recital of the deeds of the bad men who flourished there during the pioneer period of western life. An intelligent and penetrating study of the career of David B. Hill, by David Graham Phillips, is a feature of timely interest. G. W. Ogden's Mississippi River stories, in which he tells about the pirates and desperadoes, who in early days infested the great waterways, is an excellent feature. In strong contrast is Mary Manner's description of the life of an athletic girl at Newport. There is another of the excellent series by Booker T. Washington on "Working With the Hands."

The November McClure's, which appears with a permanent addition of sixteen pages of reading matter, is a striking and memorable number. Undoubtedly the most important magazine article of the month is the first instalment of Ida M. Tarbell's long announced "History of the Standard Oil Company," which it is safe to wager will be the most widely-read serial of the year. In the "Birth of an Industry" Miss Tarbell outlines what had been accomplished in the oil regions before the Standard Oil was born. It is a story that finds its parallel only in the history of the discovery of gold in California. It is better reading than a novel. Following Miss Tarbell comes a tale by Conan Doyle, seductively baited with the title "The Leather Funnel," and with gorgeous illustrations by A. Castaigne. And the story is a tip-top one, too. George W. Smalley's reminiscences always make delightful reading. This time he writes of literary persons, their habits of work and talk as he has known them. His sketches range all the way from Browning and Arnold to Anthony Hope and the authoress of "Elizabeth and Her German Garden." There are two finely sympathetic tributes to the late George Douglas Brown. The writers, Robert Barr and C. Whibley, were among the few men who knew the author of "The House with the Green Shutters" intimately. Two thoughtful discussions of pressing national questions are Professor J. W. Jenks's "Two Philippine Problems," written immediately after the author's return from the far east.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 9—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—God's covenant and ours.—Ex. xxiv, 3-8; Jer. xxxi, 31-34.

A covenant is a compact between two or more persons. The covenants of the Bible are between God and His people. Inasmuch as God is so superior to man the covenants between Him and man resolve themselves into conditional promises. God makes a promise to man upon certain conditions. Man accepts the promise and agrees to fulfill the conditions. This is the character of the covenants between God and man. After they are made it is man's place to fulfill the conditions and God's place to keep the promise attached to the conditions. This He always does.

In the history of the human race God has made many conditional promises to mankind, but two of these stand out pre-eminently above all others as God's covenant with His people.

1. The covenant of works. This is the covenant of the Old Testament dispensation. By this covenant God promised man eternal life upon condition of perfect obedience to His law. This covenant was reiterated to Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Moses and the other leaders of Israel. God's people accepted this covenant. They agreed to the conditions. Upon their part they agreed to obey God's law. At Mount Sinai, when Moses had received the law anew from God, "he told the people all the words of the Lord and all the judgments, and all the people answered with one voice and said, All the words which the Lord hath said will we do." With sprinkled blood Moses solemnized their ratification of the covenant. But alas for the frailty of human nature! Swift to promise, it is slow to pay. Israel did not here nor at any other time keep its covenant vow, and hence a new and better covenant became necessary.

2. The covenant of grace. The covenant of works having failed to save man, God made the covenant of grace with His people to the end that their salvation might be assured. By this new and better covenant, which was prophesied even in the Old Testament (Jer. xxxi, 31-34), God promised to save His people upon their acceptance of the sacrifice of His Son in their stead. They had broken the law and were condemned. Christ was to keep the law and by His death pay the penalty for the broken law. Acceptance of Christ and His work under the new covenant was to bring salvation. This is the covenant of grace, and it is in operation today and should be accepted by all men everywhere. It seems incredible that such a blessing as eternal salvation could be so easily obtained. So incredible does it appear that many have doubted or rejected it. Christ crucified has been a stumbling block to the Jews and foolishness to the Greeks. But we need not doubt the covenant of grace. The gospel is the power of God unto salvation. It's God's covenant, and He will be faithful to it.

Our covenant with God should be as inviolable as His covenant with us. If we have accepted the covenant of grace, we should be strong in Christian faith and in Christian endeavor. "He is faithful who hath promised." Let us be faithful who have accepted the promise with its accompanying conditions.

Endeavor In Unexpected Places.

In an appendix to her husband's book, "Training the Church of the Future," a manual of the Christian Endeavor movement, published by Funk & Wagnalls company, New York, Mrs. Francis E. Clark says: Christian Endeavor has found its way into many unexpected places. In 1890 a society was formed in a Wisconsin state prison, and the chaplain found it a real help in his work among the prisoners. Because of the good work done in that society other societies have been organized in other prisons, notably in Kentucky, where a splendid work has been done. Other flourishing prison societies are found in Indiana, Iowa, New Mexico, New York and several other states. Societies have also been formed in schools and in hospitals among the nurses and among policemen and among traveling men, in the army and in many other places where no one would have thought of finding them, but their object is always the same, to help their members to be better Christians.

BENDER SET FREE.

Man Twice Sentenced to Auburn In Celebrated Murder Case.

AUBURN, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Twice sentenced to Auburn prison, once for life for murder in the second degree, John V. Bender of Utica has been made a free man and will again have the freedom of the outside life that has been denied to him for so long. For many years the Bender case has been called to the attention of the public at various times, and recently it was awakened when the case was taken into the courts.

Bender was proprietor of a house in Deerfield, a short distance from Utica. In Utica in 1887 Bender shot and killed Thomas Gray. He was found guilty of murder in the second degree, and on April 30 of the same year he was received in Auburn prison to serve a life sentence. On May 11, 1893, Governor Flower commuted his sentence to ten years, subject to the usual commutation of three years and six months on a sentence of that length for good behavior.

On Oct. 30, 1893, after serving six years and six months, Bender was released from the prison. He went back to Utica, became involved in a row there and shot a man. He was convicted of assault in the second degree after a prior conviction, and the judge sentenced him to five years and eight months in the Auburn prison, which he entered the second time within a year after his discharge.

The commutation granted by the governor had a clause in it that provided that in case he be convicted again within the time "now remaining unserved of the term commuted he should be deemed an escaped convict."

The wording of the commutation was somewhat ambiguous, and this has led to the litigation. Bender served the second sentence and also the time lost on the commuted sentence and then asked for his discharge. The prison officials refused to grant this, claiming that by his second sentence Bender forfeited his commutation and that the original life sentence became operative.

The case was argued before Justice Rich on habeas corpus proceedings, and he decided in favor of Bender and held that he was illegally imprisoned.

TO HARNESS GLACIAL WATERS.

Boston Engineers Undertake a Great Work at Tacoma.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—Engineers are being sent from this city to Tacoma and Seattle to begin work on a project which has for its chief aim the harnessing of the waters of the Payallup glacier on Mount Tacoma, state of Washington, for commercial purposes.

It is claimed that if successful this will be the first instance where glacial waters have been used directly to provide power. Stone & Webster of Boston, who have installed a great many street railways in all parts of the country, are undertaking the work in order to provide the cities of Tacoma and Seattle with electric light and power.

The plan is to construct from the glacier a flume fourteen miles long through which a head of water will flow sufficient to generate 50,000 horsepower. The water in running through the flume will drop 500 feet and through penstocks will be diverted into turbines connected with electric generators. A three phase alternating current will be transmitted at high voltage to Tacoma and Seattle.

Important Church Conferences.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Two important conventions will be held in this city beginning next week. They are the general missionary conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, which begins next Wednesday, and the annual meeting of the State Federation of Churches and Christian Workers, which begins on Tuesday. The Methodist conference will be attended by all of the bishops of the church excepting Bishops Foster, Hurst and Warren and will be in session for one week. The Church federation will be in session two days, and plans for co-operation between churches and Christian workers of all denominations will be perfected.

Founders Day at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 7.—The Founders day celebration in Carnegie hall attracted an immense throng, and every seat in the Music hall was occupied, while several hundred clamored for vantage points of standing room. The hall presented a pretty scene at the opening of the exercises. The speakers occupied seats directly in the center of the stage. Hon. Whitelaw Reid, editor of the New York Tribune; Richard Watson Gilder, editor of Century, and Joseph Jefferson, the veteran actor, sat side by side, while the trustees of the institute occupied chairs immediately behind the leading speakers.

Injured by Falling From Horse.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—While riding horseback on the Tennallytown road Richard H. Townsend, the husband of Mrs. Mary Scott Townsend of this city, fell heavily and suffered injuries which may prove fatal. He and his wife are among the social leaders of unofficial society in Washington.

Earthquake in Portugal.

LISBON, Nov. 7.—A severe earthquake shock has been felt at Guarda, in the province of [illegible] and at other places. There has been serious loss of life, and many houses have been destroyed.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 9, "God's Covenant and Ours." Text, Ex. xxiv, 3-8.

Three months had passed since the great horde of Hebrews had revolted from the tyranny of Egypt, forsaken their ancient homes, broken through the barriers on the frontier and poured resistlessly through the wild lands to the east until, in the very heart of the mountain crowned peninsula of Sinai, they camped in the great plain at the foot of Horeb, the holy mountain, reverenced for ages past by all the native tribes.

For generations past their fathers had lived in the midst of the idol worship of the Egyptian delta, with its vile rites deifying the powers of physical nature and debasing the human spirit to the dominion of bodily lusts. They bring traditions of a purer worship and higher ideas of the divine powers which have been derived from their Hebrew ancestry. These are to receive fresh wording and new emphasis. God is to become different to them from what He has ever seemed to any people to be.

Moses has for years known this whole region, as he has fed his sheep among these valleys. He goes up the mountain to think and receive direction from God. He gets it and gives the people a new form of religious worship based on former customs, enlarged and elaborated to higher meaning and deeper purpose. Around the new teaching he will build the nation, based on the fact of a divine covenant. They revere the memory of their progenitors Abraham, Isaac and Israel as worshipers of the one, only and true God, the Covenant Maker with men. He now appears in new relation as Covenant Maker with them as a nation, which is a far step beyond that of one who comes into agreement with individuals merely.

To catch the spirit of the times and feel the thrill of the new inspiration one needs to read carefully over and over again this section of Exodus, which recounts the incidents of that camping before the mountain. The study should begin with Exodus, nineteenth chapter, and carefully follow the narrative to the twenty-fifth chapter, dropping out the various laws recorded from the twentieth chapter, twenty-second verse, to the twenty-fourth chapter and arranging the different mountain ascents and down comings with the accounts of worship and revelation in such a way as to have a clear notion of the progress of events as they may have taken place. The fragmentary character of the section becomes more apparent the more it is studied.

The thought of supreme value in it all is the clear announcement of the purpose of God, "If ye will obey My voice, indeed, and keep My covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto Me above all people, for all the earth is mine."

Most notable is the repeated response of the people, "All that the Lord hath said will we do, and be obedient."

God's covenant with us is this same, fulfilled by Jesus fully and by us to be kept with increasing devotion and understanding.

Heartsease and Rue.

Much of our joy in life is marred by the lurking consciousness of the other side of things, the wrong side of the tapestry, where threads of the weaving dangle and the pattern is lost in inextricable confusion. The sense of unreality and sham, of a great conspiracy of silence by which society exists, a tacit agreement to cover up dark and discouraging facts and keep them out of sight through polite illusions and pretense, imbitters and hardens the mind. This state of feeling is unfortunately almost chronic in our day. Too many of our young people have tasted rue before winning heartsease. The dreadful disease of disillusion and unfaith in the great verities, the need of something to tie to, anchor upon, where there will be no dragging by contrary winds and tides, has eaten out the heart of genuine joy in life.—Christian Register.

The Religion of a Good Life.

The real test of the average man's Christianity is found not in what he does in church, but in what he does out of church. The best evidence of the worth of the Christian religion does not lie in the eloquent sermons preached by her ministers nor in the rapt attention of large audiences nor in the large enterprises pastor and people may together carry on, but in the way individual men and women live at home and in the way in which they deal with their fellow men in the shop, the store, the school and the court.—Reformed Church Messenger.

Do Not Be Discouraged.

Never be discouraged because good things get on so slowly here, and never fail to do daily that good which lies next to your hand. Do not be in a hurry, but be diligent. Enter into the sublime patience of the Lord. Be charitable in view of it. God can afford to wait. Why cannot we, since we have Him to fall back upon? Let patience have her perfect work and bring forth her celestial fruits. Trust God to weave in your little thread into the great web, though the pattern shows it not yet.—George Macdonald.

The Happiest People.

Even in ordinary life the unselfish people are the happiest, those who work to make others happy and who forget themselves. The dissatisfied people are those who are seeking happiness for themselves.—Mrs. Besant.

Immortality.

Nature supplies the corpse and man the tomb,
But God the light of hope that quells the gloom.

CHAPTER XII.

That afternoon Hendricks and Dr. Lampkin were seated in the office of Prof. Westcott, the celebrated international handwriting expert. They could see the gray-headed gentlemen in the adjoining room bending over the papers the detective had, two hours before, submitted to him.

"And if he should agree with Miss Huntington that the letter was written by Gielow, what then?" asked Lampkin.

Hendricks shrugged his shoulders.

"I'd be compelled to believe him, as much as it would upset a certain theory of mine. He knows his business; he never has been mistaken in an analysis; he has given 20 years of his life to the study of all kinds of chirography."

Just then the graphologist rose, took the two specimens of writing in his hand and came towards them.

"Well," said Hendricks, "have you finished your analysis?"

"Yes, and I have never been more thorough in my life, Mr. Hendricks. Not a single detail has escaped a careful scrutiny—every character has been examined."

"And your opinion?"

"That the two are written by the same hand."

The face of the detective fell. In a moment, however, he was smiling as if the report had been fully anticipated.

"You are quite sure?" he said.

"I'd stake my life—and all I hope to leave my family on it."

"Well, I had to have your opinion, and—"

Hendricks' gaze wandered to one of the windows. He forgot to introduce Dr. Lampkin and the professor, and when the doctor extended his hand and went through the formality himself, the exchange of platitudes between the two men did not attract his attention.

All at once he sprang up and grasped the doctor's arm.

"Come on, old man," he said, "I have lots to do before night. Professor, I am very much obliged to you. Send in your bill."

"Where to now?" asked the doctor, as they were descending the narrow stairs.

"Blame me if I know," answered the detective, with a sheepish laugh. "I guess I'll have to sleep on the new turn of affairs. But I know how we can kill time, anyway. Sergt. Denham sent me word this morning that he'd like to see me. I know what he wants. He has got hold of some clew that he is banking on, and he wants to crow over me. Let's run up to his office round the corner. While he's shooting off his mouth I bet my hat he will let out his secret—young detectives always do."

"Do you believe Prof. Westcott was right in his opinion?"

"I do not doubt it."

After that nothing was said on the way to Sergt. Denham's.

As they were shown into the anteroom they saw the young officer in the adjoining office, his feet high up on his desk, smoking.

Seeing his visitors, he called out to Hendricks:

"Oh, hello, here you are! How goes it?"

"So as to be about, I guess," said Hendricks, extending his hand.

"I heard some time ago that you were in the Gielow affair," remarked the sergeant, "and then I heard the report contradicted."

"Oh, you mean the Caruthers case," said Hendricks, with emphasis on the name, as he introduced Dr. Lampkin.

The officer's eyes did not leave Hendricks' face as he shook hands with the doctor and mumbled something indistinctly.

"I see," he said to the detective, "you object to the use of Gielow's name. Eh, boys," he turned to three of his subordinates in the other room, "did you catch on to that? The great High Mucky Muck of New York detective circles thinks we are too previous."

The three young men laughed heartily, and Hendricks slowly winked the eye which was next the doctor and just out of the sergeant's line of vision.

"Don't name the kid before it's born," he said. "If it were to turn out that Gielow is innocent, you would feel cheap."

"If, yes, if," replied Denham, knocking his heels together and puffing at his cigar, and thereupon his allies united in another chorus of merriment.

"I heard the night the severed hand was discovered that you were on the spot nosing around after a job." The sergeant said this with a grin. "Hendricks, I'll bet you thought at first that the heiress would put up a big price to run the murderer down."

Hendricks assumed a lifelike expression of embarrassment. He took out his handkerchief and blew his nose till he was red in the face. Denham pointed at him, and his companions entered the room and stood round smiling.

"I hit you there, old man," said Denham. "But later when you found out that Gielow had fled, and that the heiress was soft on him, you knew the bottom had fallen out of your prospect, so you gave up and haven't had the heart to go near your office for the last five days."

"How do you know that?" questioned the detective, with a well-assumed start.

"When my men have nothing to do I let them amuse themselves in gratifying my natural curiostiy."

"Spying on my movements," grunted Hendricks, and there was much of genuine, irrepressible contempt in his tone.

"You may call it that if you wish," said Denham, patronizingly, and he touched Hendricks' arm. "There is no harm done, I hope. I wish you well in all you undertake, I'm sure. To tell the truth, I'm rather sorry you are not working on the case, for I won't get as much glory out of it as if I had a distinguished rival."

It was now Hendricks' turn, and again he winked the eye next to the doctor.

"I don't see where the glory will come in," he said. "Anybody could run down a crazy man."

Denham was unable to conceal the effect the words had on him. He puffed at his cigar, his restless gaze averted from the face of the half smiling detective.

"Is that your belief, Hendricks?" he said, finally, with a weak assumption of amusement.

"Does it look like the work of a rational mind?" questioned Hendricks.

Denham shrugged his shoulders uneasily.

"You perhaps forget that Gielow might now want it to appear that he is and was insane."

"Perhaps so," agreed Hendricks. "You fellows are better calculated to judge than I, with the case well in hand. As for my not being at the office, I have really been laid up sick at home. This is my first day out, and this is my physician."

"Oh, I see!" exclaimed Denham. "To tell the truth, I was at a loss to know why you were not at least interested in the matter. That's why I wanted you to drop in."

"I see you have been feeding the Vultures of the Press," remarked Hendricks, with a grin.

"Couldn't help it," answered the sergeant, shamefacedly. "Some of them are warm friends of mine. Julian Mygrane is a great journalist and gives some tip-top dinners. But we have kept back a lot. The hoaxes alone would have filled pages of the papers. We received a letter from a druggist up in Harlem who confessed that he had done it and offered to explain if we would send up to him. He turned out to be off his base, but we said nothing about it."

"Because it would have made you appear ridiculous to be running after such characters," smiled Hendricks.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. The whole transaction from the time the application is made until loan is paid is entirely confidential. We give you another advantage in case you take the loan out for six months or a year, and wish to settle the same before the time expires: we charge you only for the time you have had the money. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

SHIPWRECK EXPERIENCE.

More Than a Month Adrift In a Waterlogged Ship and Open Boat.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Twenty-seven days on a waterlogged ship, working continuously to keep her from sinking, then ten days afloat for 1,450 miles in a heavy sea in an open boat before they reached land, were the terrible experiences of ten men and a woman who have just arrived in this port from Trinidad.

The woman was the wife of Captain Kay of the British bark Florence B. Edgett. The men were the captain and his crew of nine.

With the lack of observation peculiar to seamen, Captain Kay and his men failed to record their experiences in detail save in the briefest way. It does not appear to occur to them that to drift on the ocean for more than a month, nearly all the time within sight of the beaten path of steamships and not to be observed, was out of the ordinary chance of peril that a sailor takes.

"I have made several voyages with my husband," said Mrs. Kay in relating their terrible experiences, "but this is the first time we ever had any trouble. There was plenty of warning of the storm that was our undoing, but we were not prepared for the severity of it when it came on Sept. 18.

"It seemed to us that there were volcanoes erupting under the surface of the ocean. At times we were fairly under water. During the first night of the storm I was lashed to a mast, protected to some extent by the deck load of lumber. If it had not been for our lumber cargo we would not have lived out the storm.

"The vessel was simply torn to pieces inside. My trunks were broken open, and I lost my jewelry and clothes. All our provisions were water soaked, and salt water got into our fresh water, making it almost unfit to drink. Half the time while we were aboard the ship the decks were awash. We remained on the ship for twenty-seven days without sighting a sail.

"When we came to go away in the long boat on Oct. 15, my husband rigged a jury mast in the bow and screened off a sort of a little cabin with barrel hoops and pieces of sail for me in the stern. All of us were in a bad way toward the end. I was unconscious most of the time for the last two days we were in the long-boat.

"We had no nautical instruments in the boat, but my husband steered so well by the stars that we finally made the harbor of St. George on the morning of Oct. 25."

The Gilman Estate Settlement.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Notice of an agreement between the half blood and full blood heirs of George F. Gilman, the millionaire merchant, who died in his mansion, Black Rock, Bridgeport, Conn., leaving an estate over which was started a legal controversy that threatened to be interminable, has been filed in the supreme court of Brooklyn. Under the new agreement the business formerly conducted by Mr. Gilman is to pass into the hands of a corporation to be organized in New Jersey with a capital of $2,100,000, $1,250,000 of which is to be issued to the administrators of the estate. New Presidential Offices.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The president now occupies his rooms in the new office building, which is very unpretentious. It is one story, of brick, painted white and has three Roman Doric columns at the entrance. In a general way the severe classic style of architecture of the White House has been followed. Within the space has been divided strictly with a view to the transaction of business. The entrance opens into a reception room lighted from above by a glass dome. Directly behind this is the large room of Secretary Cortelyou. The president's room is in the southeast corner. It overlooks the White lot and commands a fine view of Arlington and the broad Potomac.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

Davis, of the Alis, has dislocated his wrist and Cuming has a strained tendon. With Wilson laid up with a bad knee, the Alis will have to depend on subs, Saturday, to a large degree but thanks to the training the whole team has received it will be able to hold its own with almost any of the neighboring teams.

The Alis boys are scheduled to play Roselle tomorrow afternoon at Roselle when the true mettle of the Alis team will be brought out to good advantage as it is generally considered that the teams are about equally matched. The Alis' strong point is in its team work while the Roselles have a very heavy team so the game tomorrow will be one of strength against science. The Roselle defeated the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. last Saturday by a score of 6 to 0.

The Orange Field Club will hold hard practice tonight at 65 Westervelt avenue, preparatory to the game with the Westfield Lincoln High School tomorrow afternoon at Orange Oval at 3 o'clock sharp. There will be several changes in the lineup which are: McVoy, quarterback, will play half the game and Martin will play that position in the second half; Smith, left half, will not be in the game but will act as substitute and Herman will play throughout the game in Smith's position. As Alis do not play in town Saturday the Orange Field Club will make arrangements for a large crowd. A good game is promised as Westfield defeated the O. F. C. last year. The game will be an unusually interesting one as the O. F. C. play the Westfielders for the championship of New Jersey for 130-pound teams.

INDIA MISSIONS.

Illustrated Lecture Given by Dr. C. A. R. Janvier Last Evening.

Rev. Dr. C. A. R. Janvier, of Philadelphia, gave an illustrated lecture last evening at the Crescent Avenue church on India missions for the benefit of the Sunshine Mission Band. All the views were taken among the mission stations in India and showed the work which is being done there by the missionaries. The moral condition of the country was touched upon and the results of the teaching of Christianity in the land was lucidly shown.

SAVED THE WOMEN.

Dr. J. H. Buchanan Stopped a Runaway This Morning.

Two boys were carrying a long ladder down Somerset street this morning when a horse attached to a road wagon belonging to John Benner, of Fanwood, took fright and dashed up the street at a furious rate. Dr. J. Hervey Buchannan approached from Lincoln place and seeing that the plunging animal would surely run down two women who were crossing the street at the time, bravely ran out into the center of the street and grabbed the horse by the bridle and brought it to a stop.

Musicale at Seminary.

A delightful musicale was given yesterday afternoon at the Plainfield Seminary on West Seventh street when Miss May, of New York, the musical instructor, gave a programme illustrating Russian music. Miss May's skill in execution and wonderful technique always secures an audience of delighted listeners. An informal reception followed the musicale when tea was served.

In Honor of Removal.

A surprise party was held at the home of Leonard VanCamp, of Westervelt avenue, last evening, when about thirty people were present and enjoyed the evening in playing games and singing and dancing until a late hour. Refreshments were served after which the guests departed for their homes. The party was in honor of the moving in to the new house by the host.

Cured of Piles After 40 Years.

Mr. O. Haney, of Geneva, Ohio, had the piles for forty years. Doctors and dollars could do him no lasting good. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured him permanently. Invaluable for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, lacerations, eczema, tetter, salt rheum, and all other skin diseases. Look for the name DeWitt on the package — all others are cheap, worthless counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

FORMER PASTORS TOLD OF CHURCH GROWTH

Reception Held at Grace M.E. Church Last Night As Part of the Week's Events.

PLEASANT TIME SPENT

FOUR FORMER PASTORS WERE THERE TO GREET THE CONGREGATION.

Musical Programme Given During Evening by Miss Jessie Utter, Organist; Mrs. F. M. Ward, Contralto, and R. A. McGee, Basso.

A reception was tendered the congregation of the Grace M. E. church on Park place, last evening, at the church, when a musical programme was rendered and a very enjoyable social evening was spent. The newly renovated church was filled with people, some of whom were members of other churches.

Miss Jessie Utter presided at the organ and Mrs. F. M. Ward sang several contralto solos. Raymond A. McGee sang very acceptably during the evening's programme. Short addresses were made by the former pastors of the church who were: Rev. H. F. Randolph, of South Orange; H. J. Jonston, of Bayonne; and G. W. Gardner, of Jersey City; and Dr. H. K. Carroll, who was the first pastor of the chapel. All of these speakers commented favorably on the great changes which have been wrought in this church recently and wished the church success as its starts out upon its new era.

After the musical programme had been rendered the guests enjoyed a social hour which proved to be a most enjoyable part of the evening and at which time refreshments were served consisting of cake and ice cream.

Those on the committee of arrangements were: Mrs. A. M. Most and Miss Grace Clark, chairmen; Misses May Steiner, Della Voehl, Belle Lunger, Mrs. Charles Greer, Mrs. Stein, Mrs. J. W. A. Bauersachs, Miss Emma Smalley, Mrs. A. M. Vanderbeek, Mrs. John Valiant, Mrs. H. K. Carroll, Miss Alice Carroll and Miss Minnie Steiner, all of whom are members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the church.

Family Gave Surprise.

A pleasant surprise party was tendered to Mrs. Mary Morse, Tuesday evening, at her home, 58 Jackson avenue, by a large number of her children and grandchildren numbering, with a few friends, about thirty-five people. The surprise was given in honor of her birthday, and the evening was pleasantly spent in playing games and listening to piano selections. Mrs. Morse received a number of presents.

CLEVER ARTISTS GAVE A FINE PROGRAMME

Successful Musicale of Whatsoever Circle, King's Daughters, Last Evening.

HAD A LARGE AUDIENCE

GIVEN IN LECTURE ROOM OF TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

Those Who Took Part Were Frank E. Drake, Miss Olive Lovell, Miss Zella Frost, Miss Ida Mae Pierpont, Miss Seymour and Others.

Entrancing vocal selections interspersed by instrumental solos from artists of more than ordinary merit, combined to captivate a large audience at the musicale of the Whatsoever Circle, King's Daughters, in Trinity Reformed church, last evening. Such composers as Schumann, Verdi-Lizst, Rubenstein, Phelps and many others were drawn upon for numbers that were interpreted with a personal charm and feeling that only the true musician imparts. This is better comprehended when it is known that those who appeared were Frank E. Drake, pianist, of Newark; Miss Olive Lovell, soprano, of Flemington; Miss Zella Frost, violinist, of Elizabeth; Miss Ida Mae Pierpont, soprano, of Newark; Miss Jennie Seymour, mezzo-soprano, of Elizabeth; and a male quartette composed of E. E. Runyon, M. C. VanArsdale, F. S. Cutter and W. B. Gilbert, of this city.

Each selection was followed by hearty applause and no contribution seemed to take precedence over the previous one. With Miss Pierpont, who was heard at the Joseph Hofmann concert last season, the four numbers allotted her were inadequate for her admirers and she received an ovation. Her sweet, sympathetic voice was, perhaps, never heard to better advantage especially with Hasting's "Red, Red Rose" and Lohr's "Irish Love Long." These were her best but the other two were none the less enjoyable.

Mr. Drake was named for two numbers but the first of these consisted of Schumann's Novelette F, Romance, F sharp major, and Novelette in E flat were classed as one. "Rigoletto" from Verdi-Lizst was the second. The group permitted him to display his wonderful versatility with the instrument, one demanding lightness of touch, another finger velocity, a third vigorous action, yet all assuming their proper tone. His playing was a distinct treat.

Miss Frost's violin selections were noticeable for their technique which she evidently possesses to a marked degree. She also gave three numbers in which her sympathetic rendition won for her unusual praise. Vocal selections were contributed by Miss Lovell who rendered "The Violet" from Mildenburg, Nevin's "Beat Upon My Little Heart" in the first part and afterward a piano solo, Rubenstein's "Kammenoi Ostrow." Her voice commands a wide range while her enunciations were unusually distinct.

The remaining musical numbers, were from the quartette. The initial sellection was Phelps' "Ave Maria" in which their voices blended pleasingly but it was in "More and More" and "Maid In the Valley" that the harmony was more apparent. Their time was faultless and in balance each was perfect.

Beside these, Miss Evalina DuB. Benton, one of the city's most talented elocutionists, rendered an original monologue, "Their First Quarrel." It was replete with humorous lines and Miss Benton deftly timed the action. She was seen at her best in the telephone "talk," where pantomimic ability was a necessary adjunct to the situation.

Miss Lillian A. Force presided during the evening and with her were associated the Misses Mabelle Wilson, Mabel A. Woodruff, Minnie Williams, Mrs. J. F. MacDonald and Mrs. W. F. Williams, who formed the decorating committee. At the conclusion of the programme refreshments were served the artists by a committee composed of Mrs. Fred M. VanEmburgh, Mrs. Emily Cory, Mrs. Frank E. Woodruff, Mrs. Leonard Smith and Mrs. Virginia Chickering. The proceeds of the affair will be used by the Circle for supporting the King's Daughters nurse.

HE LEFT NO WILL OR HEIRS

REMARKABLE CASE RECENTLY TRIED AT SOMERVILLE.

The County Will Hold Property of Daniel Listing in Trust in Hope of Finding Heirs.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Nov. 8—Before Sheriff McMurtry and a jury of twelve men a very rare case was recently tried. In fact, it was the second instance of the kind that is known to have happened in the State of New Jersey.

The facts are these: Daniel Listing, late of Whitehouse, Hunterdon county, died, leaving property at Raritan and having left no will or no known heirs. Accordingly a writ was issued in the Court of Chancery by the Attorney-General directing the Sheriff to ascertain by jury if Listing left any will or heirs and the yearly value of the property.

Several prominent business men of Raritan and Whitehouse testified that they knew Listing; that no will had been found; that he had no heirs. The property is valued at $2,000; yearly income, $120. Theo. Backus, of Trenton, represented the Attorney-General's office, and a verdict was given in accordance with the nature of the testimony. Now the State will advertise six months for heirs and then if none are found will sell the property and take the money, which will be held in trust in case any time any heir turns up.

The other case of this kind was in Hudson county many years ago.

HELLO CLUB.

'Phone Operators in Union County at a Social Gathering.

The semi-monthly social of the Union county "Hello" Club, was held last evening at the home of Miss Florence Leighton, of East Fifth street. The home was tastefully decorated with autumn leaves and flowers. After a short business session the members had a social time, during which games were played. Prizes were awarded the winners.

The club is composed of young men and women employed in the telephone offices as operators and there were members present from Plainfield, Westfield, Cranford, Rahway, Elizabeth and Roselle, numbering thirty-five in all. It was decided to have a bowling match at Elizabeth on Friday evening, November 21, instead of the regular social gathering. Before the evening's affair broke up refreshments were served and an informal dance was held.

WEEK'S SERVICES.

Reopening Exercises End Tomorrow and Other Services Begin.

Holy Communion will be administered at 10:30, the pastor making the address. The Sunday-school and Epworth League will be held at the usual time. The evangelistic service at night at 7:30 when the pastor, Rev. Edwin L. Earp will preach the seremon. Special music will be a feature of the day's services. Making More Lockers.

Carpenters are at work adding twenty-six new lockers in the gymnasium in the Y. M. C. A. The work in the gymnasium has been hampered somewhat by the lack of lockers and with these new lockers which will be ready for use in the near future, will be a great help to C. E. A. Heywood, the physical director.

TO AID PAYING DEBT.

The Epworth League of First M. E. Church Will Assist Dunellen.

The Epworth League, of the First M. E. church, held a regular business meeting last evening at which time matters of a routine nature were considered. The members decided to help the M. E. church at Dunellen in its effort to meet an indebtedness which must be liquidated within a certain time.

After the business meeting the literary committee, of which Mrs. James A. Stafford is the chairman, invited all to join in playing a number of literary games which were arranged. These formed a pleasing diversion and were enjoyed by all. A literary social will be held under the auspices of the league Friday evening, November 21.

WORD FROM CHILDS.

He Hopes to Serve the People So They Will Not Regret That They Elected Him.

The following letter has been received by David Carney from the next senator of Somerset county, Samuel S. Childs:

42 East 14 St.,
N. Y., Nov. 6, '02.

Mr. David J. Carney,
134 North avenue,
Plainfield, N. J.

Dear Sir—

I appreciate the fact that you rejoice with us in the happy results of the election in Somerset. I hope I will be able to serve our people in such a manner that they will never regret having placed me in the Legislature of the State as their representative.

Yours sincerely,
Samuel S. Childs.

MISS STONE'S LECTURE.

She Will Tell of Her Experiences in Captivity This Evening.

The American missionary, Miss Ellen Stone, will give her graphic recital, the suffering and agony endured during her captivity of 172 days, at the Casino tonight, and it will undoubtedly be a most interesting discourse. Miss Stone has been criticised for going on the lecture platform, but she made a statement of her reasons for so doing and her intention as to the use she proposes to make of the proceeds of her lectures. It ought to be accepted as a sufficient answer to all fair-minded critics. Before she was appointed as a foreign missionary, she had already earned an honorable reputation as a Christian worker and a journalist, with unquestioned confidence of all who knew her. She has been tested by twenty-three years of labor in foreign fields and has the full confidence of all the officials of the American Board of Missions. It is known to all with whom and for whom she has labored that she has never sought gain for herself, but has devoted herself and all that she has in ministering to those people to whom she has carried the gospel of Christ. In her visits home she has sought opportunity to tell their needs and of what the gospel has done for them. Reserved seats and tickets are on sale at Armstrong's up to 6 o'clock tonight. After that hour at the Casino.

W. C. T. U. PLANS.

Decided to Start Another "Medal" Contest Among Members.

A regular business meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held Thursday afternoon in the rooms on Madison avenue, when plans for the winter work were discussed. It was practically decided to hold another "medal" contest, similar to the one held last winter. That was a great success and enlisted considerable interest among the members and friends of the Union. Other plans will be announced later as they are perfected. Next week Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock a meeting for colored women will be held in the rooms and a full attendance of those interested is desired.

Have Returned Gate.

Hallowe'en night two young men stole a gate from in front of a house in the borough and Chief Marshal Campbell has been on their track ever since. Election night he found out who the boys were and told them that if the gate was not hung in its place before Saturday night he would arrest them. The gate is in its former position.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Garreta Staats Woodruff, of Westfield, to Fred S. Slater, of Rahway. The former is a frequent visitor in Plainfield, where she is very well known.

Returns by 'Phone.

The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, as usual, gave excellent service election night. It was the one safe and sure means of getting quick returns.

THE PROJECT IS NOT DEAD

But Annexationists Do Not Favor Radical Methods at This Time.

AS MAYOR SUGGESTED

Senator Reed Had Heard Nothing of Proposed Bill Annexing North Plainfield Without a Chance to Vote—Conservative Ones Do Not Favor the Idea.

The statement of Mayor N. B. Smalley, which appeared in The Daily Press exclusively yesterday afternoon, raised much discussion in the borough among the annexationists and those who were opposed to the scheme. The more conservative annexationists are not entirely in favor of the plan suggested by the Mayor while the antis are bitterly opposed to the scheme.

Senator Charles Reed was seen in his office yesterday afternoon when he said that he had not heard anything of such a scheme and therefore knew nothing about it. He said that the annexation question was not a dead issue and was bound to come up again, sooner or later, because those who favor the plan have good sound arguments and right arguments while those who oppose the plan are the saloon men and a few respectable citizens.

Asked if the matter would ever be voted upon again, the Senator said that he did not know. It is apparent that the plan will be brought up again for discussion at some future date when some plan would be devised to have the scheme put through but as far as putting through a bill such as is suggested by the Mayor he had no knowledge of the plan. There is no restriction on any one introducing a bill in the Legislature, continued the Senator, but he knew of no bill proposed yet.

BOROUGH WILL TAKE ACTION TO COLLECT THE DEBT.

Traction Company Owes Borough License Fee of $200 and $120.27 for Repairs.

At the Borough Council meeting last night a resolution was offered and adopted to instruct the Borough Counsel of North Plainfield, Charles A. Reed, to institute proceedings against the street railway company to compell the company to pay up its taxes and license fee to the borough.

The traction company has not paid this fee for the year so far and the town has completed improvements to the street which are to be partly borne by the traction company. This amounts to $120.27 and with the license fee of $200 the company owes the borough $320.27.

The proceedings will no doubt be started at once to recover this amount which is now sometime overdue as they are payable in the spring.

Cut With Chisel.

Edward Mundy, a student in the manual training classes in the borough school, was painfully cut on the thumb a few days ago while using a chisel in the classroom, and as a consequence he is carrying the hand in a sling. The cut extends from the knuckle to the tip of the thumb along the bone.

City Will Lay Walks.

An adjourned meeting of the Common Council will be held Monday evening for the purpose of authorizing the street committee to lay sidewalks on Woodland avenue, between Highland and LaGrande avenues, where the property owners failed to comply with the notices to flag.

New Pastorate at Summit.

Rev. E. Arnfeldt, who preached his farewell sermon in the Swedish Lutheran church, Sunday, has gone to Summit to assume a new pastorate. He will be succeeded tomorrow by Student C. Johnson, of Upsala College, until a permanent pastor is procured.

Exhibition Ping-Pong.

An exhibition game of ping-pong will be played to-night at the Y. M. C. A. rooms from 8 to 10 o'clock.

INSPECTED RELIEF CORPS.

Department President, Mrs. Vickery, Visited the Local Corps.

The annual inspection of Winfield Scott Relief Corps No. 10, took place last evening at headquarters on East Front street. Mrs. Vickery, of Trenton, department president, inspected the corps, after which she complimented the members upon the excellent showing of the corps in its work. Mrs. Vickery also gave an interesting talk concerning her trip to the National Encampment at Washington, as well as a trip to Gettysburg. After the business of the evening refreshments, consisting of ice cream and cake, were served by a committee composed of Mrs. Chas. Westphal, Mrs. Andrew Cox and Mrs. Mattox.

CHILD SAVING.

Will be Subject of Address at the Annual Meeting of the Organized Aid Association Tuesday.

The annual meeting of the Organized Aid Association of Plainfield and North Plainfield will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church. The public in general as well as the members of the association are invited to attend this meeting and it is hoped that the attendance will be large. The association has recently made a systematic effort to increase its membership, and the coming meeting will afford an excellent opportunity for those who have become interested to learn something of the real and useful work it is doing in this city.

In addition to the reports by committees and officers of their work duing the past year, Hugh F. Fox, president of the New Jersey State Board of Children's Guardians, will address the meeting on the subject of "Child Saving in New Jersey." The State Board of Children's Guardians is composed of seven persons, two of whom are women, appointed by the Governor pursuant to a law passed in the year 1899, and has a general supervision over all indigent, helpless, dependent, abandoned, friendless and poor children who become public charges. It is the duty of the board upon receiving notice of the commitment of any child as a public charge, to place such child in the care of some family within this State, to the end that it may grow up amid favorable home influences, and may be kept from the undesirable surroundings and influences which are unavoidable in an asylum or other large institution. Mr. Fox will give an account of what the board has done since its organization, and his address will undoubtedly be of great interest.

It is probably not generally known that child saving in this city is an important branch of the work of the Organized Aid Association, which cooperates with the State Board of Children's Guardians whenever it has an opportunity.

LOCATED IN THE EAST.

Everett J. Peck Returned From Milwaukee to Take a Better Position.

Everett J. Peck, son of J. C. Peck, of Myrtle avenue, returned Saturday from Milwaukee where he has been employed in the engineering department of the Milwaukee Gas Light Company. He resigned to accept a better position with the engineering department of the United Coke and Gas Company, of New York, and will devote his time to the construction of coke and gas plants. He will leave Monday for western Pennsylvania where he will assume charge of one of the plants which this company is building. Mr. Peck attended Leal's School and afterwards graduated from Lehigh University.

Going to Denver.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Randolph and daughter, formerly of Plainfield, but now of New York, will leave within a short time for Denver, Col., where they go for Mrs. Randolph's health. Mr. Randolph, who is associated with the Postal Cable and Telegraph Company, has been given an important position with the company in Denver.

No Important Business.

A meeting of the board of directors of the Young Men's Christian Association was held Thursday evening, when the different matters of the association work was brought up for consideration, but nothing of importance was done.

MISS CURRY BADE FAREWELL

HAS SEVERED CONNECTION WITH THE ELEVENTH STREET M. E. CHURCH.

Will Devote All Her Time to Day Nursery and "Mothers"—An Impressive Meeting.

A very happy occasion of Tuesday evening of last week was the farewell testimony meeting given at the Eleventh Street M. E. church by the "Mothers" for Miss Sara Curry, who severed her connection with the church to devote her entire time to her Day Nursery and the "Mothers." The church was filled to its capacity with Miss Curry's friends, including 150 mothers and many men, the latter representing the men's meeting. There were friends present from New York, Westfield, Rahway, Cranford, Elizabeth, Brooklyn and Plainfield.

There was a special programme arranged, including solos and a number of earnest talks. David M. Torrey, of this city, spoke in regard to the helpful life and work of Miss Curry, and the "Mothers" presented him with a beautiful floral piece. Among the others who took part was George E. Hall, of this city. A number of handsome floral pieces were presented to Miss Curry, including a beautiful one from the "Mothers."

There were 150 "Mothers" and thirty men who arose in body and gave overwhelming testimony of the wonderful influence for good which Miss Curry exerts in their lives. Fully two hundred men and women arose as having been led to Christ through Miss Curry's instrumentality. Each one of the speakers throughout the evening presented Miss Curry with a token of their esteem and appreciation. Particularly touching was the gift of Rev. Mr. Fairchild, who gave the only thing he had to give, he said, which was his own Bible, his stay and comfort.

At the close of the programme, Miss Curry, who had been deeply affected throughout the evening, stepped from the platform, pale and trembling, and in a broken voice, expressed her deep gratitude for the loyalty and love of her many friends.

MUSICALE CLUB.

Gave the First of a Series of Charming Events Yesterday.

A charming event of yesterday afternoon was the musicale given at the home of Miss Stewart on West Front street. It was the first affair of the kind given this year by the Musicale Club, of which Miss Stewart is a member, and it marked the opening of what promises to be a successful season.

The programme included vocal selections by Mrs. D. W. Taylor, Mrs. Mack and Irving Stewart, together with piano selections by Miss Hart and violin selections by Fullerton Waldo. The numbers rendered were all classical and were well received by those present. A feature was the recitations given by Mrs. Phillip V. R. VanWyck, which added much to the pleasure of the event. No date or place were selected for the next meeting of the club.

Pretty New York Wedding.

Many Plainfield people will be interested in the marriage of Miss Helen Drake, daughter of Mrs. Albert Alson Drake, to James Arthur Mandeville, of Newark, which took place Wednesday afternoon at St. Thomas church, New York. A reception followed at the home of the bride's mother, 878 West End avenue, to which Mrs. Joseph W. Sandford and and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Sandford, Jr., of West Seventh street, were invited.

Proposed Bowling Club.

Wednesday night was the night appointed by the bowling section of the Gesang and Turn Verein to form a bowling club but, owing to the drill of Company K, the organization was postponed for another week. It is probable that the woman's bowling section will change their bowling hours from the afternoon to the night, so that the men's team and the women's team can bowl in team matches.

Exhibition Pool.

Fred B. Hall, "champion exhibition pool player of the world," and the only one who pockets fourteen balls with one shot, will give an entertainment consisting of fancy pool and billiard play, also card tricks, at the Park Club, Thursday evening. The members are invited to be present and the women will be made welcome.

L. T. L. Meetings.

Commencing with Tuesday, the Loyal Temperance Legion will meet every week at 3:45 o'clock in the W. C. T. U. rooms.

COUNCIL MEETING WAS EIGHT MINUTES LONG

Routine Business and Resolutions Occupied a Brief Session of Borough Council.

AFTER STREET RAILWAY

BOROUGH COUNSEL INSTRUCTED TO COMPELL COMPANY TO PAY UP.

Money Owed the Borough for Improvements Made to the Streets Where Tracks Are—Was No Sewage Commission Report.

A record-breaking meeting of the Borough Council was held in the Council Chambers on the other side of the brook, last evening, when the members transacted the routine business, ordered the payment of bills, offered resolutions and adopted them, and adjourned all in the short space 450 seconds, or less than eight minutes.

All the members were present excepting Mayor Smalley in whose absence Councilman Charles Nichols occupied the chair. The meeting opened with the reading of the minutes of the last meeting by the clerk, Frank Rowley, which were approved as read.

A communication was received from Chief of the Fire Department J. J. Stahl recommending the discharge of Raymond Schenck as janitor of the Warren Engine Company. It was referred to the committee on fire, water and lamps, which recommended that the dicsharge take effect from date. A janitor will be appointed temporarily by the Mayor until a permanent steward is secured.

A long list of bills was read by the clerk amounting to about $7,550, which were referred to the committee on auditing, who passed on them and finding them correct, ordered them paid.

No report of the sewage commission was received as the chairman of that committee had not yet secured the approval of the other members of the committee in regard to the matter and the report will be received at a special meeting which will be held in the Council Chambers on Monday evening, November 17, at 8 o'clock when the bids for the new engine house will be considered and the contracts awarded.

Street Commissioner Arnold read his report of the work which has been done on the streets in the borough since the last meeting, which includes the trimming of trees, cleaning of Somerset street and Watchung avenue, and the sprinkling of the streets. The report was placed on file.

The fire, water and lamps committee reported the expenditure of $457.71, which was ordered paid. The report was placed on file. Charles Lee, chairman of the police committee, read his report and said that $21 had been received for fines.

Tax collector and treasurer, George F. Brown, read his report which was as follows: Tax and interest, $10,708.40; special school tax, $6,540.72; Board of Health, $202.50; licenses, $332.50; recorder's fines, $16; balance on hand October 1, $1,984.65; total receipts, $19,784.83; disbursements, $5,542.18; cash on hand, November 1, $14,242.65. This report was received as read.

It was resolved to instruct the Borough Counsel to institute proceedings against the street railway company to compell it to pay its unpaid bills for taxes and repairs to the street on which the cars run.

The meeting then came to a close after taking exactly 450 seconds to transact the business.

Violin Instruction.

Miss Florence C. Wohlfert, the accomplished violinist, a pupil of Franz Kaltenborn, is prepared to give violin instructions in this city on Mondays and Thursdays. Her New York address is 252 West One Hundred and Thirty-second street. Miss Wohlfert has during the past two seasons appeared with Mr. Kaltenborn at his concerts and won high praise for her work. Further information can be obtained at the above address or Plainfield postoffice.

THEATRICAL.

The most novel and sensational entertainment ever seen in the city of New York is the unanimous verdict of the crowds that have filled the vast St. Nicholas Garden, Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue, New York City, afternoon and evening since the opening of the Bostock Zoological Congress and Trained Animal Arena. One act alone, Bonavita, and his twenty-seven lions, has caused more thrills, more excitement and evoked more discussion than any performance of wild animals known to the world's history. The command this man seems to exercise over the lordliest brutes of forest creation appears as unlimited as it is marvelous. Although rather slight in build, in fact anything but stalwart in appearance or seemingly stern in demeanor, in perfect silence at this man's will, these great beasts move like so many huge automatons, assuming the most beautiful postures and groupings emblematic of history and scripture. Among the newly presented tableaux is one termed "The towering of the kings." It is as if a great castle of feudal times is being laid from foundation to turret, the base of lions, the great body itself of lions, layer upon layer of the king of animals one on top of the other, in perfect pose, until at the apex stands Bonavita erect, illustrating more powerfully than words can depict, the masterful supremacy of the human over brute world. Mr. Esau, the ape-man, not only continues to interest the general public but is the subject of dissertation by scientists and savants as to whether he is human or brute. Each day he develops some new trait, startling in itself and bringing him nearer akin to the human race. While the arena performances are thrilling there is a magnificant zoological collection embracing birds, snakes, baby lions, hybrids, bears and a nursery that permits of fondling and evokes the keenest delight from the tiniest visitor. The feasting of the carnivora, the gymnastical evolution of the comical simians, and the hundred other features, keep the interest ever alive to the child, the blase amusement goer and the student as well. In its entirety it is an entertainment not only moral in tone but instructive, educational and characteristic of a master-hand both in conception and composition.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Two colored voters who started out in a hack from their working places, Tuesday, bound for the polls, underwent an exciting period before they reached their destination. The driver of the vehicle was Christopher Maden, who between elections is the proprietor of an ash wagon and he secured his cargo at the Park Avenue hotel and started for the Fourth ward. Turning the corner of Fourth and Liberty streets, Christopher so far forgot himself as to hit his patient beast of burden a resounding thwack with the whip, causing it to give an extraordinary jump. The harness, usually meant for the ash wagon, couldn't stand the strain and almost the next instant, the horse and Maden were a half a block away while the two prospective voters sat in the wagon waiting for them to come back. After an exciting chase of three blocks the owner caught up with his horse, brought him back and after using pieces of wire to hitch up, the interrupted journey was resumed.

George Egel, of L. W. Randolph's pharmacy, will enjoy a week's vacation commencing with Monday. He expects to go over the mountains on a hunting trip.

IS IT A GOULD INTEREST?

LATEST VERSION OF PLANS FOR THE TRENTON-BRUNSWICK LINE.

That Remarkable Road Still Remains a Mystery—All Sorts of Rumors.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, November 8—The Trenton and New Brunswick Railroad, just completed, continues an enigma. Running for twenty-five miles between the capital of the State and New Brunswick, it touches no villages or towns and passes through a country from which but a small amount of traffic can be drawn.

The promoters have not expended nearly a million dollars in acquiring a 100-foot right-of-way and grading a single track line for the mere sake of being able to say that the break between New York and Philadelphia is bridged at last, and a great trunk line to eventually span the continent is to go this way; railroad men believe it is Gould's.

Gould interests have been fighting for some time for an Eastern terminal, and will soon reach Pittsburg. The extension of the Wabash to the East will doubtless mean an extension of the Wabash to the far West. There is being built through Utah a railroad to enter California and afford a new through route to the Pacific coast via Colorado and the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad. All these roads will finally form one great chain from California to Pittsburg.

For months a corps of engineers have been at work in Chester County, Pa. One day it was discovered that a charter had been granted to the Philadelphia and Western Railroad Company by the State Department at Harrisburg. The general belief is that the Goulds are back of this scheme.

Down in the southern part of Pennsylvania, almost in the direct line from Philadelphia to Pittsburg, a tunnel has been constructed to carry a single track.

Again it would be possible to extend the Trenton and New Brunswick, striking the Delaware at a point where it is narrowest and could be bridged at least expense.

All that would be necesssary then to complete the link into New York would be a line across the southeastern corner of Pennsylvania from the Delaware River to a point northwest of Philadelphia.

All of these things were taken into consideration by the firm of Philadelphia promoters who built the railroad, and its very construction, aside from the wide right of way and thorough grading, lead to the conviction that its mission as an electric road is but temporary.

LITERARY.

Notable in interest among the illustrated articles which appear in the current magazine number of The Outlook are: the first installment of a series of twelve papers by Hon. John D. Long, ex-secretary of the navy, under the general title, "The New American Navy;" "The Russian and Polish Jew in New York," by Edward A. Steiner, with original photographs—one of a series of articles in which the author is tracing the life and career of immigrants of different races after they are settled in America; "An Artist's Impressions of Malta," by E. C. Peixotto, accompanied by several drawings by this artist, whose work is comparable only to that of Mr. Pennell and one or two other of the very best "black-and-white men;" "The Earl of Aberdeen," by Justin McCarthy, one of a series on living British statesmen by author of "A History of Our Own Times," which is appearing from week to week in The Outlook; an article by Clifton Johnson on Tuskegee, considered as a typical Alabama town, with many pictures full of human interest from photographs by Mr. Johnson; a charmingly illustrated article on "The Growth of the Oak," by J. Horace McFarland, one of his series of tree biographies; and a paper on Tschaikowsky by D. G. Mason.

EVIDENCE ALL IN.

Alibi Found For Molineux—Cornish Tangled by Black.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—All the evidence for and against Roland B. Molineux is now before the jury which is to decide whether or not he murdered Katherine J. Adams, and the verdict that will mean life or death to him may be reached next Tuesday. It is expected that counsel will sum up on Monday and that Judge Lambert will deliver his charge Tuesday morning.

In the last hours of the defense the structure of circumstantial evidence that Assistant District Attorney Osborne had built around Molineux had many of its strongest timbers shattered, so that those who had been following the case expressed the opinion that there could never be a conviction.

The theory that cyanide of mercury was a rare and almost unknown poison advanced by Mr. Osborne was made to look ridiculous when persons went on the witness stand and, displaying bottles of the deadly poison, declared they had no trouble in buying it in city drugstores.

Not satisfied with this, former Governor Black, counsel for Molineux, succeeded in tripping up Harry Cornish, making him contradict testimony of a vital nature given at the former trial. Cornish swore at the present trial that he had not worn a brown overcoat, which Mrs. Stephenson swore he had on when she saw him in the postoffice, as she alleges, but when his former testimony was read he was forced to admit he had been mistaken. At the former trial Cornish swore he had worn a brown overcoat in the winter of 1898.

What the defense declares is a perfect alibi for Molineux was established by Professor Vulte of Columbia college, who swore that Molineux had been with him all the afternoon of Dec. 23, 1898, at Columbia and therefore could not have been at the general postoffice.

Cornish admitted that he had been at 16 Park place, very near the postoffice, on the day in question, but was positive he had not entered the building. His testimony was partly corroborated by witnesses who said they had been with him that afternoon, but had not seen him go to the postoffice.

Mrs. Stephenson, recalled, was as positive as ever that she had seen Cornish in the postoffice.

A FIGHT IN COLORADO.

Democrats Decide to Oppose Republican Scheme to Unseat Teller.

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 8.—At a caucus here today of a number of Democratic members of the new legislature it was decided that if the Republicans shall take revolutionary tactics to unseat Teller men in the house the senate, which is strongly Democratic, will not meet in joint session with the house and will deadlock the legislature in order that it will be impossible to elect a successor to Senator Teller.

A committee of three from the senate and five from the house was appointed at this caucus to combat the efforts of the Republicans to control the legislature by undue means.

The committee will call a joint caucus for next Tuesday of Democratic house and senate members from all parts of the state with the idea of binding them in an agreement to check the efforts of the Republicans to capture a majority vote on joint ballot.

The caucus sent word to all the Democratic candidates for the senate who were defeated by a close margin to prepare their papers for a contest and to secure evidence of fraud upon which to base their contest.

The Republicans were charged with being revolutionary in their early attempt to unseat the Arapahoe members in the house. The incoming legislature, according to the latest returns, will be constituted as follows: Senate—Democrats, 24; Republicans, 11. House—Democrats, 29; Republicans, 36. Total on joint ballot—Democrats, 53; Republicans, 47.

Should the Republican majority in the house unseat the Democrats elected in the Arapahoe district the legislature on joint ballot will stand: Republicans, 62; Democrats, 38.

Cresceus Beaten by Walthour.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 8.—The bad condition of the track at Piedmont park prevented anything like a record race between Cresceus and Bobby Walthour. An exhibition mile was given, however, Walthour's time being 2:22½ and Cresceus' time 2:32 flat. Cresceus did not go against time, as was expected, on account of the muddy track.

BOSTON'S MYSTERY.

Pawnbroker Fails to Identify Chapman.

NEGROES ARRESTED AND DISCHARGED

Police Investigate New Clew Given by a Woman Who Tells of Mysterious Movements of a Negro and Two White Men.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 8.—Joseph Nemser, the Boston pawnbroker who loaned money on the watches of the two women murdered in this vicinity within the past month, has failed to pick out A. G. Mason as the man who pawned one of the watches. Nemser, accompanied by State Officers Proctor, Neal and Letteny, arrived at the jail here shortly before 12 o'clock. He was taken into a room where six men were lined up, and he carefully scrutinized each man. He picked out one as the person who pawned the watch. It was not Mason.

Three negroes were arrested during the day in connection with the assault cases. They were examined at Station 3 in Boston, and each was discharged as there was no evidence to hold him. The police are now trying to run down a clew that a negro and a white woman had been seen together in Waverley on Saturday evening.

The story that a strange negro was in Waverley Saturday evening was made known by a woman who lives in Winchester and who, at Porter's station, in Cambridge, on the Fitchburg division of the Boston and Maine railroad, saw a negro purchase a ticket for Waverley.

State Detectives Hammond and Dexter went to Winchester and, together with Chief of Police McIntosh, interviewed the woman, who is a nurse. Her name at present is withheld. She says that Saturday evening she started for Weston and waited in the Cambridge station for her train from 7:30 until 8:01 p. m. During this time she had an excellent opportunity of observing the actions of two white men and a negro who were at the station, and she told the officers that she was positive she could identify the three men wherever she might see them.

The two white men were looking at a photograph, and one of them said:

"Well, we might as well buy a ticket."

They purchased a single ticket to Waverley, and this ticket, the nurse says, she saw handed to the negro by one of the white men as they passed out of the depot, although the white men and the negro had previously manifested no sign of recognition.

Split Gave Montana to Republicans.

HELENA, Mont., Nov. 8.—Nearly complete returns show that the Republicans made a clean sweep in Montana for the first time in ten years. There was a bitter factional fight in the Democratic party between Clark and Heinze, and the Democrats elected very few members of the legislature, while the Populists, whom Heinze marshaled, did not win a single office. Ten senators out of sixteen, who will hold over, are elected by Republicans and will participate in the election of a United States senator in 1904 to succeed Gibson.

Circus Home After Five Years.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—The Barnum & Bailey's circus has arrived on the steamer Minneapolis from Dunkirk. The circus has had a very successful tour for the last five years throughout England and the continent. The second day out a baby zebu was born, and on the following day a monkey died. No other casualties are reported. The vessel had a fine voyage, the captain said, and all the animals and birds are in perfect health.

Postmaster Seventy-five Years.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Roswell Beardsley of North Lansing, who was the oldest postmaster in point of service in the United States, having held that position for seventy-four years, is dead at his home in that place at the age of ninety-three years. He came to North Lansing when a boy of nineteen and was at once made postmaster. He was a director of the Tompkins County National bank at Ithaca at the time of his death.

Prince Chowfa In St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 8.—The crown prince of Siam and party are spending the day in St. Louis as the guests of the city and the Louisiana Purchase Exposition company. The site for Siam's exhibit will be visited by the crown prince. A cable has been received from World's Fair Commissioner Barrett, now in Bangkok, saying that Siam will make a handsome exhibit at the world's fair at St. Louis.

Charged With Assault.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Richard Cole, a colored porter, twenty years old, has been arrested here and committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury on the charge of committing the assault on Mrs. Ada Gilbert Dennis, a well known dressmaker, at her home in this city over ten months ago. Mrs. Dennis died from her injuries about a fortnight ago without recovering sufficiently to talk rationally.

Postoffice Physicians Not Needed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The postmaster general has ordered that the position of postoffice physician be abolished in all postoffices in cities under 50,000 population. There are about a dozen cities of this class where such positions exist, and a number of the postmasters reported that the office was not necessary. It is expected that this action will save the government about $10,500 a year.

REVOLUTION FAILS.

President Castro Gives Rebels No Rest.

STOCK OF AMMUNITION EXHAUSTED

Leaders of Rebellion Fleeing to the Mountains—The Sudden Change In the Situation In Venezuela Betokens Peace.

LA VICTORIA, Venezuela, Nov. 8.—News has been received here concerning the retreat of the revolutionary forces. It is to the effect that on the night of Nov. 1 the revolutionists withdrew from their positions near La Victoria and San Mateo because they were without ammunition. The fact that the rebels lacked cartridges caused a disagreement between General Matos and General Rolando, which was followed by hot words. General Rolando declared that the shortage of ammunition was the fault of General Matos and that if the success of the revolution was endangered by this condition General Matos alone was responsible. He said that all was lost, and, with his followers, about 3,200 men, he withdrew from the main body of the rebels in the direction of Alta Gracia. It is reported that General Rolando proclaimed "El Mocho" Hernandez as the leader of the revolution.

President Castro since he discovered that the revolutionists only retreated because of their absolute lack of ammunition has caused them to be pursued day and night by government soldiers.

The latest report issued by the government says that Generals Matos, Mendoza and Riera and their commands are fleeing in disorder in an effort to reach the mountainous districts. These generals are supposed to be near Barrera, a point twelve miles from the lake of Valencia.

Guerrillas in the service of the government have captured and brought to President Castro certain records and documents belonging to members of General Matos' personal staff as well as the general's personal correspondence. The contents of these papers give evidence of the critical situation of the leaders of the revolution.

It is difficult to understand the apparent sudden and complete collapse of the revolutionary movement. But a few days ago the rebels seemed to be upon the eve of victory, while today their cause seems absolutely lost.

President Castro, having sent his men in all directions to cut off the retreat of the enemy, left here for Caracas. The government soldiers who are following up the rebels scored their first success yesterday by the capture of General Ramon Luizi, who was making his way in the direction of Alta Gracia with 300,000 rounds of ammunition and 4,000 men to re-enforce the revolutionists.

From here President Castro goes to Los Teques, which point was abandoned by the rebels Thursday. From Los Teques the president will go by rail to Caracas, arriving there tomorrow morning. He will then take his place at the head of the government.

Telegraphic communication between La Victoria and Caracas has been restored.

Mad Mollah on the Offensive.

BERBERA, East Africa, Nov. 8.—Colonel Swayne, formerly British commander in Somaliland, who has been recalled to England, is ill. He started for home yesterday. General Manning, who succeeds Colonel Swayne, is pushing the preparations for an advance against the mollah, but he is hampered in his efforts by the fact that the country has so few resources and the consequent necessity of awaiting supplies. The mollah is profiting by the delay in the start of the British expedition. He has advanced to within a few miles of Bohotle. He is known to have 2,000 rifles, one Maxim gun, much ammunition, 15,000 spearmen and immense reserves of camels and sheep at his command. Bohotle is well garrisoned and has ample defenses.

Preparing the Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The conferences between Secretary Hay and Colombian Minister Concha, who are engaged in the preparation of the projected Panama canal treaty, continue at stated periods. The negotiations are proceeding satisfactorily, and the prediction is made that the terms of a treaty will be agreed upon very soon, probably within a fortnight. If such be the case, the president will be able to deal with the treaty in his annual message to congress.

Sites For New York Postoffice.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Propositions for the sale to the government of sites for the proposed new postoffice building in New York city will be received until 2 p. m. Nov. 15, when the commission appointed to consider the question will meet at the treasury department. There are twenty-one of these cites already filed, and most of them have been made public.

Says She's the Virgin Mary.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 8.—At Yorkton a young Doukhobor woman of attractive appearance dressed herself in white cotton, with white canvas shoes, and proclaimed herself the Virgin Mary. Many of the Doukhobors believe her story, and she may cause trouble if her advice shall be in the wrong direction.

Killed by Falling Coal.

SHENANDOAH, Pa., Nov. 8.—Martin Yanis and Enoch Sisavage, mine laborers, were killed by a fall of coal at Cambridge colliery. They were sitting in the gangway eating a lunch from their dinner pails when the fall occurred. Both died instantly.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Good Reports From All Sections—October Failures.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Trade and industry are making steady progress, reports from all sections of the country containing evidences of wholesome development. An unusually large fall distribution occurred and current transactions in heavier goods are liberal considering the mildness of the season. Complaints of slow freight movement are still heard, testifying to the enormous volume of business handled by the railways, which report earnings for October 5 per cent larger than last year and 14 per cent above 1900. It is the exception when manufacturing plants have not contracts assuring activity for many months, and annual inventories will be taken with difficulty owing to importunate customers.

Commercial failures in the United States during the month of October numbered 963, involving liabilities of $10,851,534, while in the corresponding month last year there were 864 failures, with an aggregate indebtedness of $10,680,627. Manufacturing defaults numbered 257 for $5,370,187, against 205 a year ago, for $4,537,281. Trading failures were 632 in number and $4,649,552 in amount, compared with 610 in 1901 involving $4,311,788. Other commercial insolvencies numbered fifty-four, against forty-nine last year, and liabilities were $831,795, compared with $1,831,558. Banking and other fiduciary defaults were ten in number, with liabilities of $3,432,276, two-thirds of this exceptionally large amount being furnished by a single overcapitalized corporation.

A few very large failures also account for 45 per cent of the total commercial liabilities, the average of the remaining 947 defaults amounting to only $6,248, an increase of but $264 over last year's average and less than in any other year of the decade if all failures for $100,000 or more are omitted in every case.

Heavy rains at a number of farm centers were the only unfavorable grain reports received, and the effect was fully neutralized by further postponement of frost. This delay has undoubtedly added much to the total yield of agricultural products, and the general level of quotations has responded. Liberal domestic consumption, however, prevents any return of the low record prices of previous years when banner yields were harvested.

The only development of note in the iron and steel market has been the 10 per cent reduction in price of tin plates to take effect Dec. 1. While some change was anticipated, the trade was not prepared for so large a cut.

RURAL FREE DELIVERY.

Large Sums Needed to Complete Service—Aim to Make It Universal.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The annual gross cost of a complete rural free delivery service throughout the United States will approximate $24,000,000, according to the annual report First Assistant Postmaster General Wynne has received from August W. Machen, the general superintendent of the service. The remaining 700,000 square miles not now covered by rural free delivery service, according to the report, will require the employment of 26,000 or 27,000 carriers in addition to those now employed, making the entire force of carriers when the extension of the service is completed within the next three years 40,000. After this extension is completed the annual rate of increase in the appropriations is expected not to exceed 8 or 9 per cent, the rate maintained in other branches of the postal service.

To extend the service 12,000 routes a year until it becomes universal, the report says, will require such largely increased appropriations that the annual postal deficits for the ensuing two or three years will probably reach $8,000,000 or $10,000,000, if not more, but once the service is completed the additional revenue derived will soon reduce the deficits to present figures, if not entirely wipe them out.

During the year 1902 12,103 petitions for the service were filed, making a total on July 1 last of 22,646, which exceeded by over 2,000 the total number the preceding four years. Since July petitions received have averaged over 600 a month. With the amount required for routes to begin Dec. 1 the entire appropriation has been absorbed, leaving on Dec. 1 fully 1,700 routes for which there is no appropriation available. This number probably will be increased by Jan. 1 to at least 2,500.

Mr. Wynne and Mr. Machen say that to comply with the demands of the people and of members of congress the department will require an additional appropriation, otherwise further establishment of the service will be deferred until July next. If additional funds are granted, 15,000 rural free delivery letter carriers will be in active service by May 1. The estimates call for ten division superintendents, an increase of three.

Underwear Factory Burned.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 8.—Hoffman & Shelton's underwear factory at Williamstown has been destroyed by fire. The goods, the building and the books of the firm were all burned. The loss is placed at $60,000, with an insurance of less than $30,000.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

Digests what you eat.

Many persons suffer frightfully from indigestion, and are in torture when they eat anything; the heart palpitates and they can't sleep. They try pepsin, soda tablets and almost everything else, and half-starve themselves, and still get no better. Isn't there anything to help them?

Many doctors know their patients suffer this way and don't know what to do. But here is how some doctors secure the gratitude of their patients;

"I suffered terribly from indigestion for fifteen years till my family doctor recommended KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE. The first dose relieved me, and I continued its use till now I am sound and well."—John H. Ellenberger, Helixville, Pa.

It can't help but do you good

"My family physician recommended me to use KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE for chronic indigestion that had tortured me for years. Formerly I couldn't eat anything or drink even a glass of water without distress. Now I can eat and drink whatever I want."—Mrs. R. F. Buffington, Xenia, Ill.

DIGG'S UPRIGHT FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

The Best on Earth! We Challenge the World!

The Extinguishers that turn up-side-down to discharge are good of their kind, but this is far better. Read the following reasons:

Points of superior merit of the Diggs-Upright over any other machine—

1—A sealed acid bottle and an air-tight tank. No change in the conditions of the chemicals possible.

2—Can never be discharged by accident; absolutely under the control of the operator.

3—A 3-gallon machine of this type contains ONE QUART more of liquid than a reversible, because it does not require a handle underneath.

4—It does not need inspection and recharging as required for the reversible with its loose stopple.

5—The acid being released at the top of the tank, and the outlet being at the bottom, the mingling of the chemicals is so thorough before the acid reaches the outlet that it is completely neutralized, and no harm can be done to flesh or fabric. In the reversible type the acid is released within the two inches of the outlet.

6—Convenience in handling. The machine stands on its bottom, and all the operator has to do is to turn the screw in the cap, and the flow begins instantly.

7—The bottle is not broken, and no nuisance of broken glass.

STRUGGLE WITH BURGLARS.

Plucky Defense of Monroe County Man Saved Heavy Loss.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 8.—Masked burglars entered the home of Ezra Clint in the village of Hilton at 1 o'clock in the morning, shoved a revolver into his mouth, beat him over the head with an iron bar and, securing a sum of money amounting to $100, left the place. Clint has always been credited with having money concealed about the house. It was just before 1 o'clock a. m. that a noise at the side of the house awakened Clint, and a moment later he heard a man exclaim, "Quick, light that match."

At the same time he heard his sister call, and as he raised himself from his pillow he was pounced upon by two masked men, who demanded his money. Clint tried to struggle, but, encumbered as he was with the bedclothing, made but a poor showing. Grappling with one of his assailants, Clint tried to bear him to the floor, but the other man shoved a revolver into Clint's mouth and ordered him to remain quiet under pain of being killed. To this demand Clint responded by redoubled vigor in his attack and was struck on the head with a bar of iron. He dropped to the floor, and the robbers stood over him, threatening him with further injury unless he surrendered the money which they insisted he had hidden in his bedroom. While the thieves were giving their attention to the securing of their plunder he managed to stagger to his feet and ran from the house in his night clothing, calling for help.

In their haste to make their escape the burglars failed to secure a much larger sum of money which Clint had hidden in his room.

TO CHECK EMIGRATION.

Hungary and Austria Propose Stringent Laws.

VIENNA, Nov. 8.—The Hungarian government has introduced in the reichstag an emigrant reform bill of sweeping character. One of the main provisions of this bill strikes a heavy blow at the north Atlantic steamship lines by empowering the government to route emigrants through the Hungarian port of Fiume. Up to the present time Hungarian emigrants have sailed chiefly from the ports of Hamburg, Bremen, Rotterdam and Antwerp, and last year a total of 70,941 Hungarian emigrants left these ports. The prospective loss to the German and other steamship lines sailing from the ports mentioned is likely to be even greater, because Austria is now preparing a bill similar to the one introduced by Hungary, by which it is expected to send Austrian emigrants through Triest.

The Hungarian bill specifically prohibits the emigration of certain classes of the people, including men who have not performed military service, parents who leave behind them children under fifteen years of age and persons without adequate traveling money or whose expenses are paid by foreign states or colonization societies. Under the bill the government can forbid emigration to certain countries entirely or provisionally, and it can prevent the emigration of certain classes of artisans when this is deemed expedient. The bill provides strict regulations for emigrant transportation and for the regulation of emigration agencies under heavy penalties.

ALL ABOUT THE ARMY

Adjutant General Corbin's Annual Report.

RESTORATION OF CANTEEN FAVORED.

Old Exchange Contributed to Sobriety, Health and Contentment, Say the Majority of Officers and Men.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—The annual report of Major General Henry C. Corbin, adjutant general of the army, deals with every feature of the army and begins with a statement showing how the army is to be reduced by Dec. 1 to 60,020 men, of which 2,877 belong to the staff departments.

The report shows that during the fiscal year there were thirty-five officers killed in action or died of wounds and disease, twenty-one resigned and sixty-eight retired. Of the enlisted men 1,227 were killed or died of wounds and disease, 35,806 were discharged on the expiration of service, 5,698 were discharged for disability or dismissed by order of court martial, 4,667 deserted, two were missing and 203 retired.

General Corbin in calling attention to his former recommendation that the rank and pay of military attaches abroad should be increased suggests that retired officers of high rank might be selected for this service.

General Corbin discusses the various schools of the army and points out the advantages which will accrue through them.

In reviewing the reports of the officers who participated in the army and navy maneuvers last September General Corbin says that much valuable information was acquired. He says:

"The maneuvers have proved that the rank and file of our army can be depended upon in every emergency, that apparently impossible tasks can be accomplished under the spur of necessity and that there is an immeasurable gulf between practice and theory. The lessons learned by both officers and men were of more practical value than years of ordinary garrison routine and instruction."

He strongly recommends that similar exercises be conducted annually and made to embrace each year a new theater of operations, so that the benefit may be shared by the different garrisons in the several fields of defense.

The adjutant general has obtained the number and kind of arms in the hands of the national guard in the several states and finds less than 4,000 United States magazine rifles in their possession. Of the multitude of other types he says: "This heterogeneous collection of obsolete arms is a very serious detriment to the efficiency of the entire national guard, which in organization, drill, instruction, etc., assimilates closely to the regular army and should be armed with the same arms as the latter. If called into service under this deplorable condition, much trouble and vexatious delays are involved in providing the different kinds of ammunition required and in urgent or unforeseen contingencies may lead to disastrous results."

General Corbin recommends legislation providing that Major Generals Merritt, Brooke and Otis, now on the retired list, be given the rank of lieutenant general and that Colonels Gilmore and Williston be given the rank of brigadier general on the retired list.

General Corbin has the following to say regarding the canteen:

"The restoration of the exchange as it existed prior to the passage of the act of Feb. 2, 1901, prohibiting the sale of beer is desired and urged by the great majority of officers and men and by none more than those of pronounced temperance views. Numerous reports confirm the view, long held by this office, that the old exchange contributed to the sobriety, health and contentment of the men. The increase of desertions and of trials for infractions of discipline is by those best informed attributed to the abolition of the former privileges of the exchange."

In conclusion he says:

"The instruction of our men in vocal music would be a step in the direction of contentment and better discipline. Every regiment should have its marching song. Frequent practice in singing, particularly during the long winter evenings, would do much to make our men satisfied to remain in quarters and away from the baleful influence of the barrooms that exist in too great numbers in the vicinity of all our military posts."

Cornell Professor Resigns.

Fuertes, who for thirty years has had charge of the department of civil engineering at Cornell, has tendered his resignation to the executive committee of the board of trustees, giving ill health as his reason. The resignation was accepted. Before coming to Cornell Professor Fuertes was chief engineer of the Croton aqueduct and later was for three years consulting engineer to the city of New York.

CHANGING ITS NAME.

One great trouble which strangers have in making their way through the eastern part of the city is due to the fact that the streets have the most unaccountable way of changing their names without any particular reason for it. While it is certainly true that it would be a rather peculiar state of affairs if East Ninth street should cross East Seventh, that difficulty could be remedied without changing the names of both of them. Councilman George P. Mellick is now agitating a movement which aims to change the name of LaGrande avenue to East Seventh street as it was originally.

There is an East Seventh street but it only runs from Park avenue to Watchung avenue and the same thoroughfare, east of Watchung avenue, passes under the title of LaGrande avenue. East Ninth street circles around and crosses this thoroughfare, but before that comes to pass it has changed its name to Franklin place. What would be Tenth street and its neighbors have been changed to Richmond street and a series of avenues and places. The return to the title of East Seventh street would, therefore, not complicate matters in that way and would simplify things by extending the general scheme on which the rest of the city is laid out.

Mr. Mellick believes that the change would be an improvement and would be of decided benefit to those who happen to be strangers here and want to find that street. East Seventh street would mean something and give a direct clue to its location while LaGrande avenue would suggest nothing. There are a number of residents of that thoroughfare who favor this change. It is probable that the subject will be brought to the attention of the Common Council, probably by petition, and that an effort will be made to have the name officially changed and LaGrande avenue wiped off the map.

Many words of praise have come to us regarding the special election edition which was issued by The Daily Press Wednesday morning. The news was there in simple and concise form and the figures then given were very close to those which the actual count has shown. The fact that the county table had to be published in such incomplete form was the only regrettable part. The unprecedented delay in counting throughout the county was responsible for that and the figures which were published were more complete and more accurate than those which appeared in the morning edition of any other paper. Everybody expected that The Daily Press would outdo itself in covering the election and they were not disappointed. Despite the fact that 1,000 extra copies were run off, they were all sold out early in the morning and it became necessary to run off 1,000 half sheets with just the election news to supply the demand.

It is interesting to note the attitudes taken by the different newspapers published at Somerville as to the recent election. The Democratic papers are rather humorous in their claim of victory for their principles when everybody knows that it was the Republicans who put them in power and that Democratic principles hadn't a thing to do with it. The Thompson papers appear rather dazed and are mild in their editorial lashes compared with what one might venture to expect. It looks as if they hadn't recovered from the blow sufficiently to realize what actually did happen.

Union county will have a worthy citizen as sheriff for the next three years. B. Frank Coriell, who was elected to the office by the Republicans, is well and favorably known in Plainfield. For the last year he has been president of the Common Council. As deputy county clerk he is known throughout the county and there seems every reason to believe that he will fill his new office as conscientiously and satisfactorily as he did the lesser one.

The success which met the use of voting machines at Paterson makes it likely that the coming year will see the movement for the general installation of them thoughout the State advance materially. There certainly is great need of them as the sorry times in some of the polling places in Union county gave evidence.

According to the Philadelphia Record a western railroad man who spends nearly all of his advertising appropriation for newspaper space is quoted as saying: "Not one man out of every five I meet ever saw the fine booklets I got out and distributed; but four men out of every five are newspaper readers."

After the most successful season in its history, the Park Golf Club has closed its active competitions for the year. There is every reason to believe that next year will see that club just as flourishing as ever.

The Republican leaders in Union county will have something to be proud of in the State Legislature this winter. How they must admire Assemblyman Hall.

There seems to be some doubt as to who it is that is really dead politically in Somerset county.

Puritan Oil Heaters

Worth 5.00 — 2.98 — Worth 5.00

Part of a lot of Oil Heaters that we bought last May and which we never expected to receive, owing to the extremely low price we bought them at, have just arrived. At the time we bought them the coal strike was in its infancy and the price was low, but these stoves are worth today 5.00 and we could readily get that price for them, but its our custom whenever we get anything under price to give you the advantage of it. These stoves were made by the Cleveland Foundry Co., are absolutely smokeless and odorless and will heat a room 20 feet square in cold weather.

The Breath of the Vineyard

Every one knows that Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure. Hence the housewife uses it with implicit confidence and without question, and she is justified in so doing.

But how few realize that Royal Baking Powder is in its chief ingredient a direct product of the healthful and delicious grape! It is the mild acid of grapes, which crystallized and ground to an impalpable powder is called cream of tartar, that forms the active principle of every pound of Royal Baking Powder.

Fruit acid is indispensable to the healthfulness of the body, and the acid of the grape is the most valuable and healthful of all.

Hence it is that Royal Baking Powder produces food remarkable both in flavor and wholesomeness.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

It may be of interest to the lovers of the national game to know that the expenses of maintaining the baseball team during the past season has been about $700, while the receipts from all sources have run over $900, leaving a balance on hand of over $200. When one stops to consider the size of the town, with a population of a little over 1,500 in the entire township, this is remarkable, and it is doubtful if there is a town in the State of the same size that has supported as strong a team or that has as good a record, twenty-four wins and only three defeats.

Chas. Sheelen, of Sheelen Brothers, of Fanwood, had a narrow escape from serious injury Friday afternoon, while delivering groceries on Mountain avenue. A passing automobile frightened the horse he was driving and the animal attempted to run away. Mr. Sheelen kept a firm hold on the animal's bridle but before he could be quieted he had upset the wagon and broken the harness.

This evening's performance begins at 8 o'clock and one of the strongest comedy dramas in the company's repertoire will be featured.

RAIDED COAL CARS.

Patrolman Mattox Captured the Offender in the Act.

Complaints from the railroad officials led to Patrolman Mattox visiting Terrill road just before daylight, this morning, in quest of coal thieves. People in general are troubled with colds at this time of the year. Powers, the Somerset Pharmacist, guarantees to help you or refund your money if you give his Honey, Coltsfoot and Tar a trial.

If your valuable watch or jewelry gets out of repair take it to a jeweler who knows how to repair it. If you want to get fine jewelry go to L. Moraller & Son, on Park avenue, where the best repairing is done.

You do not forget where you keep your money and why should you forget where you can get the best cigar on the market. If you do not know already it is at Dobbins' cigar store on Park avenue, at the head of North avenue.

Shaw, the West Front street druggist, doesn't promise the earth for a nickel, but he does promise a dollar's worth for 100 cents. Have your prescriptions filled there or purchase your toilet articles of him and see if his assertion isn't verified.

Charles E. Vail, the Park avenue jeweler, is already making preparations for the holiday trade and he will present a line of goods second to none in the State. He will have the kind of goods suitable for presents and all will be guaranteed in every particular.

LAST KENTUCKY DUEL.

Recalled by the Recent Death of One of the Participants in the "Affair of Honor."

The death of Capt. Jo. Desha at Cynthiana a few days ago recalls a duel which was fought in Scott county soon after the close of the civil war—a cold day in March, 1869—in which Capt. Desha and Lieut. Kimbrough, of Cynthiana, were the participants, reports the Leadville Herald-Democrat. Capt. Desha had served in the confederate army and Lieut. Kimbrough was in the federal service. The duel was fought on the line dividing Fayette and Scott counties, on the James K. Duke farm. Lieut. Kimbrough was the challenging party. Two shots were exchanged. At the second shot Kimbrough was shot through the upper part of the thigh, the ball passing through the body. He recovered from the wound, but always limped afterward. He died a few years ago in Texas. At the time of the duel Capt. Desha's left arm was useless in consequence of a serious wound received during the war.

Desha and Kimbrough were neighbor boys and schoolmates, and the trouble began between them when at school. It was renewed after the war, the duel resulting. Maj. Harvey McDowell, of Cynthiana, was Desha's second, and Maj. Long acted for Kimbrough. Dr. Benedict Keene, then a priminent physician of Georgetown, was surgeon to the latter. The duel was witnessed by Warren Smith and George W. Downing, of Georgetown. This was probably the last duel ever fought in Kentucky.

LIGHTING FOR PICTURES.

A London Scientist Pronounces the Incandescent Mantel the Best for the Purpose.

What mode of lighting is least injurious to pictures? This question, which concerns not merely public art galleries, but also private collections, has been experimentally examined by Prof. Percy Frankland, F. R. S., of Mason college, Birmingham. His tests were applied to electric arc lamps and incandescent gas lights, and his decision, to the surprise of the electricians, is in favor of the incandescent mantle, says a London paper.

It is charged against the arc lamp that it generates a small quantity of ozone and nitrogen oxide; but the gas-burning mantle gives off carbon dioxide, and to some extent sulphur compounds, however perfect the combustion. The very best mantle light will blacken a ceiling. No combustion of gas, where the products of combustion mix with the air, can be otherwise than deleterious either to man or picture. If the burning is within a chimney and the fumes are led out into the open, the gas mantle is perfect; otherwise its products are and must be poisonous, only diminished in mischief by the amount of ventilation.

DEATH-ROLL OF THE ALPS.

Over Three Hundred Lives Have Been Lost in Last Ten Years in Perilous Ascent.

Recent fatal accidents to Alpine climbers recall the gloomy fact that in the last ten years 275 accidents, involving 301 deaths, have occurred to people climbing the Alps. Yet for every death recorded between 3,000 and 4,000 persons make the journey in safety.

The eastern Alps account for fully half the accidents; the central Alps, including Switzerland, claiming 37 per cent., and the western Alps the remainder. Germany and Austria have paid the heaviest toll in lives, 190 deaths having occurred as the result of the expeditions; the Swiss come next with 48; Italians follow in order, with 23, and England with 18. Seven women are numbered among the victims, not a surprisingly large number, considering how many women risk the climbs nowadays. Over 70 guides and close upon 20 porters have sacrificed their lives in ministering to the pleasures of those who braved the perils of the mountains.

EMANCIPATION OF THE HORSE.

Introduction of Electricity Has Lightened the Animal's Burden But Not Eradicated Him.

Although the prediction freely made a few years ago that the development of electric traction would quickly drive horses from the field of labor have not been fulfilled, yet the Electrical Review cites statistics to prove that the disappearance of the horse is actually taking place, although so slowly as not to attract much attention. In Paris the number of horses fell off about six per cent. between 1901 and 1902. In London the decrease in the same time was ten per cent. In Berlin, Vienna and St. Petersburg a similar falling off is shown by the census of horses. In New York it is estimated that the number of horses has decreased 33 per cent. in the last 20 years. But although horses may be relieved of the burden of hard labor, it is not likely that man will ever banish his ancient friend and servant wholly from the circle of his pleasures.

Demand Still Continues.

In spite of the fact that the typewriter has displaced the pen in many business offices, the demand for pens and pencils still continues. During the year covered by the census report, one gold pen, ten steel pens and 15 lead pencils were made in the United States for each family of five persons.

Sleeping After Eating.

Sleeping after eating is condemned by a German physician who has shown experimentally that stomach movements are lessened and acidity is induced.

Plant Medicine Chests.

In past ages it was almost a religious belief that though man was subject to endless diseases, there was for every one a certain remedy. Many of these were to be found in the plant world, and it was supposed that nature had so marked different plants that every sufferer could discover for himself the particular plant that would meet his special need. All that it was needful to do was to look at a plant, and if you could find anything that in shape or color resembled the part of the body that was diseased, or the disease itself, that was proof positive that the plant was good for you. Thus a heart-shaped leaf was a sovereign remedy for heart disease, a spotted leaf was good for diseased lungs, a plant with swellings at the joints was good for gout, the walnut, with its outer skin, its hard, brittle shell and its peculiar kernel, was a sure cure for all diseases of the brain. We laugh at this now, but the fact remains that we obtain from some plants poison elements and from others preparations that effect what seem to be wonderful cures.—Nature.

An Old Story.

A struggling, modest lawyer near Stroudsburg, this state, received a call from a well-to-do farmer who was in need of professional advice concerning his rights, which he thought ignored by a section gang on the D. L. & W. R. R. The lawyer looked up the statutes, told the farmer exactly what he should do, and, when asked as to the fee, replied:

"Well, let's call it just three dollars."

The farmer passed over a five-dollar bill, which seemed to embarrass the lawyer, who searched through his pockets and the drawer of his desk. Then he pocketed the five dollars, reached for a digest, sat down, and remarked:

"I guess, Neighbor ——, I'd best give you two dollars' worth more advice."—Philadelphia Times.

To Locate the Rat.

This is not a pleasant theme to touch upon, but much may be forgiven to one who has recently passed the trying ordeal of having a rat die under the floor. Search for the inconsiderate rodent was unavailing for several hours, and it seemed as if the whole house would have to be torn down to find the malodorous cause of our woe. "Wait," said an Englishman, who happened in, "until I go to the butcher's and get some blue-bottle flies, then I'll locate the beast for you." We waited. In an hour he was back with three or four flies in a bottle. These he liberated in the rooms, having first taken the precaution to close doors and windows. In a few moments the flies settled down in one spot on the floor. "Take up that board," said the Briton, "and you'll find your rat." The board was lifted, and there, sure enough, was the long-sought rat.—Washington Star.

Old-Fashioned Tea Parties.

An attractive entertainment to give in a cottage settlement of friends is an old-fashioned tea party. The girls are asked to come, bringing their work, at 4 o'clock. The men arrive at 6, when supper is promptly served. This meal is spread upon the table "all at once," in lavish profusion, of fried chicken, cold ham and tongue, hot biscuits, waffles and maple sugar, berries and cream, "cut-up" peaches, and several sorts of rich cake. A fiddler and country dances follow the feast.—Detroit Free Press.

Wouldn't Enjoy the Funeral.

A newly made widower of this city was being consulted by the undertaker in regard to the arrangements for the funeral.

"Will you ride with the clergyman?" he inquired of the bereaved husband.

"By no means," said he.

"Then," said the undertaker, "you can go with your mother-in-law."

"Well, I will if I have to," he sighed, "but it will spoil my day!"—St. Paul Globe.

Cuba Not All Explored.

After more than 400 years it appears that Cuba has not yet been entirely discovered. Much of it and many of its treasures are yet unknown, assording to the recent report made by Gov. Gen. Wood. He says that after the centuries of Spanish occupancy there are large portions of the island that have never even been prospected and practically remain undiscovered so far as knowledge of what they contain goes.—Geographical Magazine.

No Fake.

Mrs. Crawford—Did you really find all the comforts of home at that country place?

Mrs. Crabshaw—Yes, indeed! There were autos, trolleys, blasting, hand-organs and all the other things.—Puck.

A Versatile Husband.

Mrs. Bjones—Your husband, I hear, is quite versatile.

Mrs. Brown-Smith—Versatile is no name for it. Why, he can actually stay out late every night in the week and not give the same excuse twice.—Philadelphia Record.

His View of It.

Deacon Jones—About all women go to church for is to show their new clothes.

Mrs. Jones—Well, they don't make a cloak of religion, anyway.

"Of course not. It's too plain and inexpensive."—Chicago Daily News.

Odd Japanese Industry.

Fireflies are sold legally by peddlers in crowded quarters of Tokio and other Japanese cities. The insects sell for three rin apiece, a rin being equal in value to the twentieth part of a cent.—Nature.

THE WINTER'S FURS.

Siberian Squirrel Very Popular—New Capes and Coats.

Poor little squirrels! Lovely woman has suddenly decided that she wants your pretty skins for her own adornment, and therefore you must try to be philosophical and think yourselves lucky, like the kid who gave up his life for Lockyer's Geraldine that she might have dainty boots. Cloaks for automobiling and for all sorts of other uses are to be made entirely of the soft gray skins of the Siberian squirrel. The fur of squirrels has always been used to a certain extent for children's wear and for linings to other furs, but never before has this particular fur been employed for the whole outside of a long or short coat. The Siberian is the only kind exactly suitable for this purpose, as the skins all seem to have precisely the same markings and tint. The center of the back is slightly shaded with black, and at the end of each there is a shade darker, so that the line of demarcation is very distinct. This gives the garment the appearance of being made in layers or flounces. Full sets, consisting of a three-quarter coat, with full sleeves, high storm collar and wide revers, cap and muff, are shown.

Chinchilla is still considered very desirable, especially for revers and collars and also for the pretty neck pieces. I saw one stole made of picked skins, so that down the center there was a line of irregularly shaped diamonds produced by the dark shade of the fur. Chinchilla is the most easily injured of all furs, and to have rain or snow fall on it is to have it virtually ruined.

Seal, like sable, is always in fashion; but, unfortunately for those who love this rich and beautiful fur, it has grown very costly during the last few years, so that now a seal garment with a border of pointed and dyed beaver is one of the most expensive garments, aside from Russian crown sable. Seal is made most often in cape form. Squirrel coats, with facings and collar of ermine, are smart and much affected. The revers are immense, and the storm collar is quite as high as it was last year.

Nearly all the coats, jackets and even blouses are made with deep shoulders and wide sleeves, generally finished in bishop shape. The long, sloping shoulder is like the ungainly form of the coat wraps this season. They may be stylish, but they are certainly not pretty.

One baby lamb blouse jacket of white—which really means cream colored—is brought in at the waist without any perceptible belt, but it is pointed at the front. The sleeves are open, but not what one might call flowing, and at the neck there is a turndown collar of glossy black bear fur. The effect of this garment is very striking and beautiful.

The stylish blouse coat illustrated here shows a short basque below the belt, full bishop sleeves, a high collar and with medium sized revers. So many turbans and hat trimmings are made of fur that it is impossible to enumerate them. But some of the soft, woolly beaver hats with a small shaded brown animal curled around the top are simply beautiful, and this in spite of the fact that we would scarcely expect to find such an animal asleep on the tops of our hats.

In one place I found a superb dark blue velvet dress made with a blouse of the same, with a short basque below the belt. There was a wide sailor collar of ivory satin of the richest quality, and this was bound with a roll of mink, and around the sleeves at the elbows and wrists went other bands of the same fur. The skirt had a deep and full shaped flounce, headed with two rolls of mink fur all around. A fancy muff with a double ruffle at each end and a bow of ribbon in the middle completed the whole save the hat, which was of dark blue beaver and trimmed with a band of the fur, through and around which was intwined a piece of fine lace, and this and one tall hung slightly in the back.

Bands of fur, generally mink or something on that order, are set around the lower portion of the skirts about six inches from the bottom. When this is done, it is to be expected that the rest of the costume will be similarly trimmed.

After all, if the animals could know how very desirable women find their furs and how pretty they make the women look they might find some consolation in the loss of their skins.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

THE NEW WOMAN HERE AND THERE

A WOMAN suffrage argument that ought to convince even Dr. Lyman Abbott has been made by Alice Stone Blackwell in the Woman's Journal. She simply sums up the results of full suffrage in the states in which it has been granted to the feminine sex, marshals the facts and leaves them without note or comment to speak for themselves. Women enjoy full suffrage in four states of the Union—Wyoming, Colorado, Utah and Idaho. In Wyoming and Idaho woman suffrage has abolished the licensing of gambling houses, and in all four of the states it has raised the age of protection for girls to eighteen. In Wyoming it has enacted a law that all men and women in the state employ shall receive equal pay for equal grades of work, and this includes public school teachers. In Utah public school teachers having the same grade of certificate receive by law the same rate of pay, irrespective of sex. Colorado owes much to her women, among other measures the laws for founding a state industrial school for girls and a state home for dependent children, making mothers and fathers joint guardians of children, enlarging women's property rights, preserving forest trees and establishing the indeterminate prison sentence. Denver has been particularly cleaned up because of woman suffrage. In the city expectoration in public places is forbidden; drinking fountains are in the streets, and smoke consuming chimneys must be attached to large buildings. In all four of the states one result has been to enlarge the property rights of women and increase the pay of those earning wages. Woman suffrage has also wrought powerfully in favor of increased educational facilities and of good moral character in candidates for office.

Facts cannot be blinked and the results of equal suffrage show enlightened and progressive legislation in every state where it has been tried.

The most ingeniously and vivaciously advertised show since P. T. Barnum passed away was the Woman's Professional league exhibition in Madison Square Garden. It was projected to raise funds for the organization. At first the newspapers declared it was wicked, oh, so wicked, that it curdled the blood of those estimable ladies who elect themselves guardians of other folks' morals. Then of course all the town rushed to see what had outraged the sensitive feelings of high toned moral propriety. The night after the announcement was made that the show was running female ropewalkers whose lives were in danger every time they performed and that there were exhibition booths which powerfully suggested Midway plaisances and the like, that some of the uniformed lady policemen employed in the building were tall enough, powerful enough and nervy enough to throw an average man outdoors at need—this night the great Garden was so crammed the box office had to be closed on late comers. And the spectacle was not so very bad after all, visitors found. Every device that stopped at the line of mere notoriety, but went quite up to it, was resorted to, and the result was a financial success the plucky, clever and independent women who planned and conducted the affair may well be proud of.

The success of the Professional Woman's league exhibition in New York proves that women make unsurpassed advertising and advance press agents.

The expression "a person of strong likes and dislikes" means generally an individual with strong dislikes and no likes to speak of.

You have seen the sentence "Eat some air" going the rounds through advertisements and mental science literature dozens of times without ever a credit or reference to the gifted author of it, who is Eleanor Kirk, editor of Eleanor Kirk's Idea. How people will steal, even respectable people! And all Eleanor Kirk, the generous and sweet tempered victim of this highway robbery, ever said about it was that she was glad she had furnished so useful an expression to her fellow men and women.

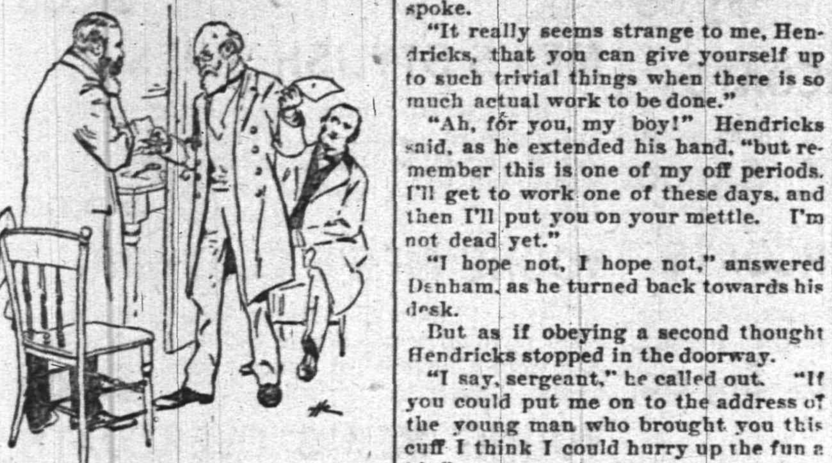
The Goddess of Liberty, now much smooched with soft coal smoke, still stands in New York harbor enlightening the world. Seeing what sort of a tangle men have made of affairs in this country the past six months, isn't it about time liberty was enlightening the nations on the woman question?

Queer things are man made divorce laws. Where a married couple are dying to get away from each other and both want a divorce more than they want anything else in this life, our perspicacious divorce law says they shall not have it because there is collusion, so they must stay together and instead of collusion have constant collision. On the other hand, if one of the married firm wants a divorce and the other is strongly against it, the member who wants it can generally get it without trouble. The gaps in the masculine intellectual equipment begin to show with painful frequency.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER

COPYRIGHT, 1898, BY A. N. KELLOGG NEWSPAPER CO.

"We don't bother with them," answered Denham, sharply. "In this case



"THE TWO ARE WRITTEN BY THE SAME HAND."

we have had three hoaxes attempted on us. Only this morning a young man brought in a linen cuff with some words written on it in blood over Gielow's name. The fellow said he had picked it up somewhere. One of my young men questioned him closely, and being satisfied that it was a joke perpetrated by some one on the man who brought the cuff to us, he let him go."

Lampkin saw Hendricks' eyes flash involuntarily, and then his face became impassive again.

"What were the words on the cuff?" he asked, indifferently.

"Oh, I don't remember. I was very busy at the time and only heard the boys laughing about it. It was the work of a crank. Gielow was made to say something about being innocent and starving, and confined by a bantam chicken or something equally as ridiculous."

The stonelike attitude of Hendricks as he listened showed absorbing interest, but in a moment he had thrown it off and he said, lightly:

"Let me see the thing, if it's lying round."

Denham knocked the ashes from his cigar.

"Oh, it isn't worth your notice! We threw it away. You see, Hendricks, I don't mind telling you that we have our case in tip-top shape. No hoax of any kind can lead us from the work in hand. We know exactly where Gielow is, and will have him in the Tombs in 48 hours."

"Ah!" exclaimed Hendricks. "You have actually located him?"

"Beyond a shadow of a doubt," said the sergeant, and then one of his men called him into the other room. "I'll be right back," he said to Hendricks "Don't hurry away."

When they were alone in the room Hendricks laid his hand firmly on the doctor's knee.

"My God!" he whispered, impressively, "I must get possession of that cuff. It may now be on its way to the city trash piles, and heaven only knows its importance. Think of a man's fate being in the hands of such idiotic, boasting blockheads. Hush, he's coming! If you want to learn to lie, listen to me now. If lying fails I don't know what I shall resort to. I'll have that cuff by fair means or foul!"

"Sorry to leave you," apologized Denham, coming back.

"Got a match?" asked Hendricks, taking a cigar from his pocket and biting the tip off it.

Denham gave him one, and Hendricks struck it on the sole of his boot.

"I was just thinking of something recalled by your hoax of the cuff," he laughed. "It is a big joke on me, which I'll never tell unless I can absolutely prove who perpetrated it and get even."

"So they actually work 'em on you, do they?" grunted the sergeant, proffering a cigar to the doctor. He was almost jovial.

"I should think so," said Hendricks, smoking. "This one got me out of bed at three in the morning and cost me cab fare to Brooklyn, and not only that, but it kept me there on a false scent for three days and nights."

"Tell us about it," said Denham, with a horse laugh.

"Never!" said Hendricks, shaking his head. "Never, unless I can jail the joker, and I'll do it some day or break my neck trying. Now, it may surprise you, but I see a sort of connection between this cuff joke and the one worked on me. In fact, I think, if I had the cuff I could run my man down. It may furnish me the very clew I need."

"Oh, that's the way the land lies!" laughed the officer. He leaned back in his chair till he could look into the other room. "Oh, I say, Trimble," he called out to a stenographer at a desk in the corner. "Come here a minute."

The young man approached and stood in the doorway.

"Do you know what became of that bloody remnant?"

"It was in the waste basket this morning," said the young man; "it must be there yet."

"Bring it to Mr. Hendricks, please."

When it was handed to him, Hendricks took it to a window and looked at it carelessly, then he smiled and put it into the pocket of his top coat.

"It's exactly what I am looking for," he said. "I am going to have some fun with a reputable citizen of New York, and if you have time, sergeant, I'll let you make the arrest."

Denham smiled. There was vast condescension in his tone when he spoke.

"It really seems strange to me, Hendricks, that you can give yourself up to such trivial things when there is so much actual work to be done."

"Ah, for you, my boy!" Hendricks said, as he extended his hand, "but remember this is one of my off periods. I'll get to work one of these days, and then I'll put you on your mettle. I'm not dead yet."

"I hope not, I hope not," answered Denham, as he turned back towards his desk.

But as if obeying a second thought Hendricks stopped in the doorway.

"I say, sergeant," he called out. "If you could put me on to the address of the young man who brought you this cuff I think I could hurry up the fun a bit."

"That is out of the question," the officer replied. "We let him go without making any record of him. We'd be a pretty lot of fools to spend our time keeping a set of books to fill up with the insane whims of all the cranks in New York."

Hendricks laughed pleasantly.

"Well, I guess you are about right." he said.

He did not speak again until they were in the street, and then he chuckled:

"How was that, doctor?"

"Sir Henry Irving could not have done it better," said Lampkin. "My friend, my pride in you is as boundless as interstellar space. You are more than a detective—you are an histrionic genius. Have you really made a find in this bloody message?"

Hendricks grunted and his brows met.

"There is a chance for it to mean nothing. I will not know till I can see Gielow's servant. Come with me. It's more than worth looking into."

CHAPTER XIII.

As they hurried towards Broadway to take the cable cars up town a heavy snow began to fall.

"This is really no day for you to be out," counseled the doctor. "You might take cold, and—"

"Take the first car, and here she comes," laughed Hendricks.

During the ride up town the face of the detective was the battle ground of many inward emotions. Lampkin believed he read in it a great impatience at the slow progress of the car, for it took on almost a scowl as each stop was made. So deeply engrossed in his thoughts was Hendricks that he allowed a beautiful young woman to stand holding to a strap directly in front of him.

As they were alighting from the car at Fortieth street within sight of the Rembrandt studio building Hendricks exclaimed:

"As sure as you live that's Miss Huntington's carriage. I know the coachman's livery. She is up there now, trying to get something out of Henri. Poor girl, she is almost insane, and it's nothing but natural. For all we know her sweetheart may never lay eyes on her pretty face again."

"Could it be so bad as that?" asked the doctor.

But Hendricks' only reply was to point towards the entrance of the studio building.

"There she is now. I think I can make her useful, and she would like to be of service."

The Adirondack Forest.

The state of New York now has a baby forest in the Adirondacks where trees are being raised to reforest a denuded tract. This has brought the state fish, game and forest commission to the consideration of a project to establish tree nurseries in the woods on much the same principle of the state fish hatcheries. After trees have had the proper growth they would be given free to citizens and municipalities, and used where needed on state lands. In this way it is hoped to reclaim much denuded land. The proposition is commendable. It emphasizes, however, the folly of permitting what remains of the Adirondack forest lands to be cut over, if the state later is to be at considerable expense to undertake the slow process of reforestation.—Rome Sentinel.

They Break the Avalanche.

In Switzerland the people have entered upon effective plans to defeat the avalanche in its devastating work. No more need the traveler be told: Beware the awful avalanche," for these rolling, pitching, sliding bodies of snow that accumulate into masses of destruction are now broken up before they gain an amount of material or velocity sufficient to make them dangerous. Along the mountain sides, where avalanches form, earthworks in the form of a V are constructed, with their points upward, and when moving mases of snow come in contact with them they are broken apart and so deflected as to be rendered harmless.—Chicago Chronicle.

How to Give Away an Orange.

When giving away an orange it was formerly considered that all that was needed was to say: "I give you this orange." The real modern up-to-date was is as follows: I give you all, and singular, my estate and interest, right, title, claim and advantage of, and in, this orange, together with all the skin, rind, juice, pulp, and pips; with full power to bite, cut, suck or otherwise eat the same or give the same away; together with all the rind, skin, juice pulp and pips anything heretofore or hereinafter or in any other deed or deeds, instruments of whatsoever nature to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding.—Woman's Home Companion.

His Business Was Looking Up.

A young man who had been born and raised in Towanda, this state, recently returned there after an absence of six or seven years. As he walked from the station to the home of his relatives, he encountered the old negro who had attended to the town's whitewashing from time immemorial. There was an exchange of greetings, after which the returned native said:

"Well, I see that you and the whitewash brush are still in partnership. How is business—looking up?"

"Yes-a! yes-a!" chuckled the old fellow. "That be the way jus' now, sah. Yo' see, Ise kal-so-min-in' the ceilin' ub de Baptis' church, sah."—Philadelphia Times.

Friars Still Own the Lands.

The friars are still the real owners of the vast estates in the Philippines from which they were driven by the natives four years ago, and the impression sought to be created in the dispatch from Rome printed the other morning is characterized as distinctly erroneous. The dispatch is not accurate in the statement that information has been received that the Vatican that almost all the real estate belonging to the friars was sold to syndicates headed by Americans living in New York, and the allegation that although the friars hold some shares they do not hold controlling interests is distinctly untrue.—Albany Journal.

What the Cakewalk Really Is.

By the time of the Louisiana purchase, the negroes, especially those of the interior, had lost all recollection of Africa, and with the failure of the mothers to teach their children even a few words of their old speech that tie disappeared. Being an imitative race, they soon learned to adopt the songs, dances and customs of their masters applicable to their conditions. For example, the "cakewalk" is but a grotesque variation of the stately minuet of long ago.—Leslie's Monthly.

Fish Flour in Norway.

The fisheries represent one of Norway's chief industries, and quantities of fish are sold at very low rates, particularly during summer. One way in which these are utilized is by means of an invention which quickly dries and pulverizes the flesh of fresh fish. The resulting product, called fish flour, is easy to transport from one place to another and has great nutritive value.—N. Y. Sun.

Pertinent to Impertinent.

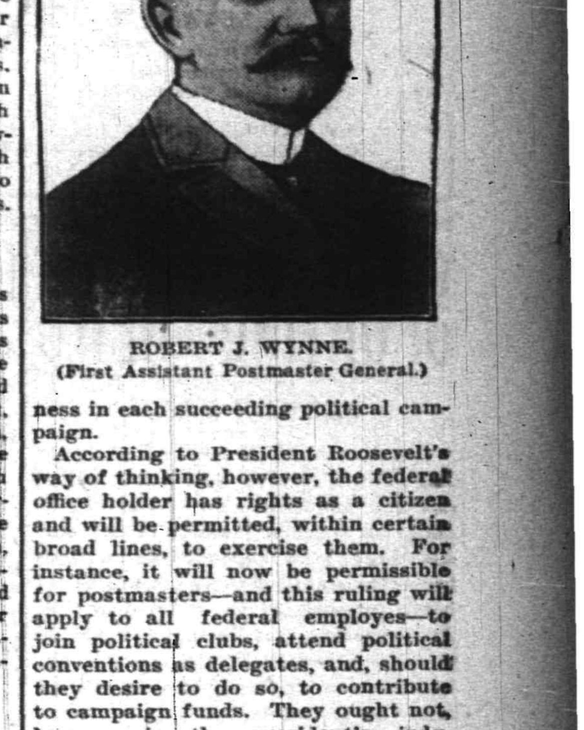
PLEASES POLITICIANS.

Assistant Postmaster General's Order Relating to Partisan Activity of Office Holders.

The recent order of Assistant Postmaster General Wynne, defining the lengths to which postmasters may go in their desire to render service to the political party of their choice, is based upon a letter written by President Roosevelt, and therefore correctly interprets the views of the administration on this important question. Under some of the presidents, postmasters as well as other federal office holders, have practically been deprived of many of their inherent rights as citizens and required to maintain a pose of absolute neutrality and non-combativeness in each succeeding political campaign.



ROBERT J. WYNNE.
(First Assistant Postmaster General.)

According to President Roosevelt's way of thinking, however, the federal office holder has rights as a citizen and will be permitted, within certain broad lines, to exercise them. For instance, it will now be permissible for postmasters—and this ruling will apply to all federal employes—to join political clubs, attend political conventions as delegates, and, should they desire to do so, to contribute to campaign funds. They ought not, however, in the president's judgment, to become unduly active in campaign work. In other words, he would not have them acting as the chairman of political conventions, or of campaign committee, or in any other way setting the pace within their parties as leaders. But as followers—high privates in the rear ranks of partisanship—they will have full rights and be protected in their exercise.

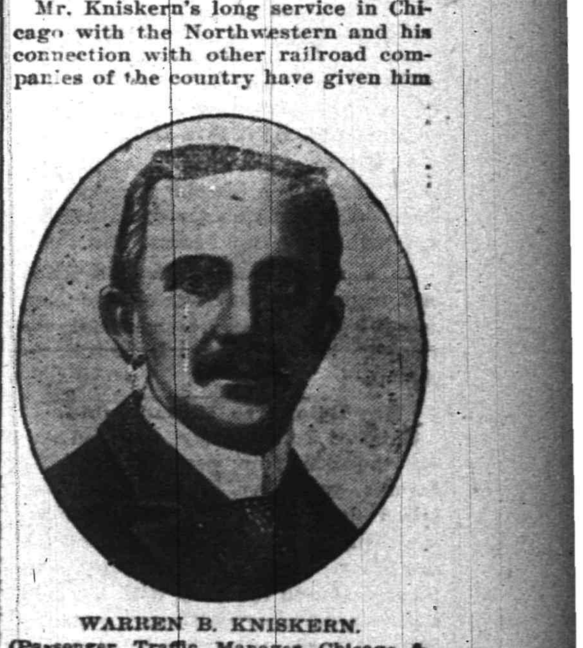
This new ruling is much more liberal than any that has been made on this question for many years, and it will be welcomed by thousands of postmasters, big and little, in all parts of the country.

WARREN B. KNISKERN.

Position of Passenger Traffic Manager Created for Him by the Northwestern System.

It was announced recently from the Chicago & Northwestern railway headquarters that W. B. Kniskern had been promoted to the position of passenger traffic manager of the system, an office created for him.

Mr. Kniskern's long service in Chicago with the Northwestern and his connection with other railroad companies of the country have given him a wide acquaintance. His standing in the railroad world has been of the highest.



WARREN B. KNISKERN.
(Passenger Traffic Manager Chicago & Northwestern System.)

His regular promotions from the small beginning as office boy to the head of the passenger department of the company with which he is now connected is an evidence of the ability and business qualifications which have won him his reputation.

Mr. Kniskern has devoted his entire business life to railway work. He was first with the Illinois Central railroad, by which he was employed as office boy in 1869. His first connection with the Chicago & Northwestern railway was from 1873 to 1876, during which period he filled various clerical positions with the general passenger and general ticket departments of that company.

From 1876 to September 1, 1885, he was employed by the Louisville & Nashville Railroad company at Louisville, Ky., and New Orleans. He reentered the service of the Northwestern on September 1, 1885, coming to Chicago as assistant general passenger agent. He was appointed assistant general passenger and ticket agent January 1, 1890, and general passenger and ticket agent January 1, 1895. He has held the last named position up to the present.

BASKET BALL.

Captain R. W. Meeker, of the City High School basket ball team, called out the candidates yesterday afternoon for the first practice of the season. Eight men responded and a number more signified their intentions of being present at the next practice. The practice was light but some of the new material showed much promise and it is expected the team will be fully as strong as last year's team. Meeker, Conant and Thompson, of last year's team are left in school and will play, leaving two positions to be contested for by the new candidates. A scrub team will be formed and practice will begin regularly shortly. Practice will be held in the Hope Y. M. A. gymnasium, which has been so kindly proffered for the use of the High School.

FIGHT OVER A CIDER MILL

A LEGAL CONTROVERSEY REGARDING SILENCE'S MILL AT OAK TREE.

Dispute As to Who Holds Prior Claim, Which Court of Chancery is Trying to Settle.

The final disposition of the injunction proceedings between Mrs. Ella R Walcott, of Brooklyn, and James A. Beggs, of New York, restraining the latter from foreclosing on the cider mill property of William Silence, at Oak Tree, will come up before Vice Chancellor Emery at Newark Tuesday. The proceedings are interesting in that the case is somewhat tangled.

In 1896, William Silence bought the Armstrong property at Oak Tree on which was a cider mill with machinery inside. Then Silence borrowed $500 from Mrs. Walcott, of Brooklyn, on a mortgage for the purpose of putting in the machinery so that the plant could be operated. In 1899, Silence gave a chattel mortgage to James A. Beggs & Company, of Dey street, New York for $1,600, which was subsequently reduced to $1,000. This mortgage covered the machinery.

Last November Beggs & Company notified Silence that he would foreclose and sell and remove the property from the barn. Robert M. Clark applied on behalf of Mrs. Walcott before the Court of Chancery asking for a bill of injunction to prevent the sale of the property under the chattel mortgage. October 25 the Vice Chancellor granted permission to Mr. Clark to file a bill of injunction and also granted a rule to show cause why the injunction in the matter should not be granted. This bill was returnable on November 5.

In this bill a retraining order was enclosed preventing the sale of the property pending the disposition of the case. November 5 a partial hearing was given the matter but will be continued Tuesday in order to allow the filing of necessary affidavits regarding the value of the property. F. P. McDermott, of Jersey City, is the attorney of Beggs & Company.

Motors in Auto's Wheels.

During the last few weeks, an electric automobile of strange appearance has been seen on the city streets. The rear wheels are solid and there is no apparent means of locomotion. The machine is one of which Ralph K. Miner, of LaGrande avenue, is making a test. It is built on a new principle, the motors being located in the rear wheels, thereby doing away with all gearing and making it perfectly noiseless.

SNOW WOULD CRIPPLE LOCAL TROLLEY LINE

New Dynamo Being Installed to Give the Power That is Needed to Run the Cars.

A LACK OF POWER NOW

CHANGE WILL PERMIT CARS TO MAKE MUCH BETTER HEADWAY.

In Case of a Storm Some of the Cars Would Have to be Taken Off to Get Enough Power to Run the Snow Sweepers.

The Plainfield Gas and Electric Company is pushing the work of installing the new engine and dynamo at the power house at the corner of Second street and Madison avenue, as rapidly as possible in order to secure more power for the different lines of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company before the winter weather sets in.

Superintendent Brown, of the trolley company, said yesterday afternoon that the company is greatly crippled at present on account of lack of power to propel the cars on the different lines and that is the reason the cars make such poor headway through this city.

In speaking of the scarcity of power on the road, Mr. Brown said that in the event of early snows the company would be obliged to take many of the cars off the line in order to secure power enough to operate the heavy snow plows. This would cripple the line considerably in case there should be a heavy fall of snow before the new generator is in working order.

The new engine is a gigantic one and will supply power enough to operate the cars at a faster speed through the town and to operate the cars and the snowplows in the winter time when the tracks are always more or less slippery.

MORE NEW BUILDINGS.

Building Permits Granted This Morning for Three Others.

Applications for building permits continue to come into the office of Building Inspector T. O. Doane, and the following were those disposed of today: Moses Carey, of 313 Filmore avenue, to build a barn in the rear of his premises.

Woodhull & Martin were granted a permit to erect in the rear of their new store on East Front street a barn. The mason will be S. Williams.

Mrs. A. G. Dunham, of 372 East Sixth street, will build an addition to her residence. The carpenters will be Titus & Pope, of 39 Summit avenue

Didn't Like the Car.

Frightened by the wierd-looking construction car of the local street railway, a horse belonging to Carpenter W. H. Bohl ran away at East Front street and Watchung avenue, this morning. It took the sidewalk along the Y. M. C. A. building but, after colliding with a pole and getting entangled with other obstructions, it was caught without further damage.

To Entertain Ministers.

Nobody Seems to Care.

For the fifth time since the complaint was made, the Board of Health's case against Ferdinand Brown for a violation of the garbage ordinance was adjourned. Nobody seemed to know just when it would eventually come off and nobody seemed to care a whole lot.

People Believe In It.

It has been cynically said that any thing can be sold by advertising now-a-days. This is not so. Many liniments have been advertised but only one — Perry Davis' Painkiller — has stood the test of sixty years' use. Today its popularity is greater than ever and is based not upon what anybody says but upon what the remedy does. There is but one painkiller, Perry Davis'.

Didn't Elect President.

Owing to the small attendance at the regular November meeting of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, yesterday afternoon, it was impossible to elect a new president to take the place of Miss Shreve, who resigned a few weeks ago. THEY CLOSE THIS MONTH

E. T. NEWKIRK TAKES THE LEAD FOR THE GOLF COMMITTEE CUP.

Newkirk Won First Honors and Now is in the Fore by a Sixth-of-a-Point—H. deP. Wright Stands Second.

There were only three contestants for the Boys' cup in the weekly competition on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course, Saturday, Arthur L. Wills won first honors and W. T. Glenney, who leads for the trophy, finished second, while Arthur Peterson won the one remaining point. W. T. Glenney is still in first position, while Arthur Peterson is second. This competition which will conclude on the last Saturday of this month, has been one of great interest and has had a tendency to bring out the best players among the younger members of the club.

The scores for the Boys' cup are as follows:

Arthur L. Wills, 118, 22-96; W. T. Glenney, 109, 6-103; Arthur Peterson, 115, 10-105.

Howard deP. Wright finished third with an 80. This competition will be continued every Saturday this month. WRONG HOUSE.

James Smith Tried to Force His Way In and Police Took Him to Jail.

Bewildered by an overdose of "red eye", James Smith, lately arrived from Providence, R. I., lost his bearings, Saturday night, and forced an entrance to a residence adjoining fire headquarters under the impression that it was his own opposite the West Second street engine house. When the occupants were aroused and called Patrolman Saffron, Smith wasn't to be bluffed and challenged the policeman to mortal combat. He was escorted to police headquarters without any blood being shed.

This morning Smith faced City Judge Runyon in a penitent mood and promised readily to refrain from drinking. His plea resulted in suspension of sentence.

HAS REGAINED HER PENSION

MRS. SQUIRES DISCOVERED THAT SHE COULD DRAW IT UNDER NEW LAW.

Justice Mattison Made the Discovery of the New Law and Secured Pension for Her.

While reading an article in the National Tribune, some time ago Justice William E. Mattison, of Somerset street, read an extract from a law which was passed in 1900 which made it possible for a widow who has lost her pension through a second marriage to recover that pension in full at the death of her second husband, providing proper application be made and proof established that the applicant is the proper person to receive the pension.

Mrs. Harriet Squiers, of 186 Grove street, at once made out the necessary application papers before Justice Mattison. This application was sent to the War Department some time ago and Saturday Mrs. Squires received in a check $147.60 for back pension and will receive a regular pension of $12 a month.

Mrs. Squiers was the widow of Abram Bush, who fought in the Thirtieth New Jersey during the Civil War and who died in the Regimental Hospital at Belle Plains on February 14, 1863. Shortly after her husband's death Mrs. Bush married Isaac Squiers which obliged her to give up her pension.

Dr. Richards will usually be at home, 14 East Thirty-seventh street, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at which time he will be glad to meet anyone for consultation.

ALIS BEAT ROSELLE BY SINGLE TOUCHDOWN

With a Sadly Crippled Team, the Alis Eleven Managed to Hold Roselle Down.

PLAYED AT ROSELLE

GAME WAS SOMETHING OF A DISAPPOINTMENT TO THE CROWD.

The Odds Were Against Alis Which Scored at the Start of the Game—Then the Ball Seesawed Up and Down the Gridiron.

The football game, between the Alis A. A. and the Roselles at Roselle Saturday afternoon, was played under conditions which were anything but conducive to victory for the local team and, while the Alis team came out victorious, the game was in a way a disappointment to the local football enthusiasts which went down to witness the battle. The score was 5 to 0 in favor of the Alis but the game was not finished owing to the darkness.

The odds were decidedly against the Alis as nearly all of the best men on the team were either disabled before the game or were hurt during the playing and the game was really won by substitutes secured from the Cranford football team. Besides this the Roselles outweighed the local players and the fact of their losing the game was because of their inferior team work.

In the first half the Roselles kicked to Alis and the ball was caught by Radford who fumbled. The ball was recovered and carried back to Roselle's ten yard line and then brought over the line, the Alis scoring a touchdown. Phillips failed to kick the goal making the score 5 to 0. The balance of the first half was composed mostly of see-saw playing in which neither side had the advantage. Shortly before the end of the first half Phillips was obliged to retire from the game. From that time the local team had its troubles. That the Alis did not lose the points gained was directly traceable to Waring's fine work.

When the second half opened the Alis worked the ball down the field slowly when Wilson stained his ankle and was obliged to retire. James Hulm, of the Roselles, made one good run but was crowded out of the side lines by the Alis tackles. Nearly all the gains during the rest of the second half were by short plays. Owing to the darkness the game was called leaving the score 5 to 0.

MRS. JOS. M. MYERS PASSED AWAY SUNDAY

Originator of Local Chinese Sunday-School Succumbed to Fatal Illness.

SHE WAS WELL-KNOWN

HAD LONG BEEN AN INDEFATIGABLE CHRISTIAN WORKER.

But Her Special Interest Was the Chinese Sunday-School With Which She Labored to the Last—Leaves Two Children.

The death of Mrs Joseph M. Myers occurred last night at her home, 517 East Front street, following an illness of one week. Of late she had not been at all well and during her last illness, her condition was such that her death was not unexpected.

There is probably no Christian worker in this city who will be missed more than Mrs. Myers. She was a very active force in charity enterprises and Christian effort, and especially in a Chinese Sunday-school, which she organized in this city several years ago, did she labor with indefatigable zeal and energy. She conducted this work with much success and a number of Chinamen in this city have learned to love and esteem her for her interest in their behalf. When her death became know this morning the members of the Sunday-school expressed their profound regret and gave sincere testimony to her Christian character and devotion. In other ways Mrs. Myers assisted in works of charity and there are many who have received help from her.

Mrs. Myers was the widow of Joseph M. Myers, who was the first cashier of the City National Bank. He died a number of years ago. She had lived in Plainfield a great many years and she made a host of friends. She was an earnest member of the Crescent Avenue church and devoted a portion of her time to the various departments of the work there. Her last effort was a week ago yetserday when she taught her Chinese Sunday-school class. Yesterday, while too ill to attend to this duty, she had the class in remembrance.

During her last illness, she had the constant care and attention of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Lee Scribner, wife of Prof. Scribner. Besides a daughter, Mrs. Myers leaves a son, Joseph L. Myers, who is engaged in business in New York.

Tonight Miss Stone will speak at South Norwalk, Conn.

ONE OF WORCESTER'S PROMINENT MEN DEAD

Jeremiah Evarts Greene Died at Home of His Sister, Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, Saturday.

HE WAS POSTMASTER

CAME TO PLAINFIELD TO STAY WITH HER THREE WEEKS AGO.

Remains Removed to Worcester, Mass., Yesterday, Where Funeral Was Held Today—He Had An Eventful Career.

Jeremiah Evarts Greene, who for many years was postmaster at Worcester, Mass., died Saturday afternoon at the home of his sister, Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, of West Eighth street, where he had been for the last three weeks. He was taken ill prior to that time and Mrs. Tracy went to Worcester to assist in the care of him. As soon as he was strong enough, to travel he came to Plainfield with his sister. During the last few days of his illness he failed rapidly. The remains were taken to Worcester, yesterday, where the funeral services were held today. The interment will be at New Haven, Conn.

Mr. Greene was born in Boston, Mass., November 27, 1834, and was graduated at Yale College in the class of '53. Later he taught in a seminary and spent three years surveying in Kansas. Afterwards he studied law in the office of Lewis H. Boutell in Worcester and after three months' study was admitted to the bar there. He practiced in North Brookfield, Mass.

He enlisted in the Civil War in 1861 for three years as first lieutenant in Company F, Fifteenth Massachusetts Volunteers, Col. (afterwards) Brig. Gen. Charles Devens, Jr. He was in the battle of Ball's Bluff, taken prisoner, carried to Richmond, and after four months was released on parole. He received a captain's commission but, not being exchanged for a long time, he resigned and resumed the practice of the law. Later he retired from practice and became editor of the Worcester Spy and so continued for a long series of years.

During President Harrison's first term, Mr. Greene was appointed postmaster at Worcester and continued in office up to the time of his death. When President Cleveland was elected he told Senator Hoar, a cousin to Mr. Greene, that the latter need not worry about his position as he would be continued as postmaster. He was a man of marked ability and he conducted the office at Worcester in a highly efficient manner.

Mr. Greene leaves no family. His wife died several years ago. He is, however, survived by four brothers and four sisters. The brothers are Hon. Roger Sherman Greene and Samuel Greene, of the State of Washington; Rev. Daniel Crosby Greene, a missionary in Japan, and Henry Hill Greene, of New York. The sisters are Mrs. Henry Loomis, of Yokohama, Japan; Mrs. L. H. Boutell, of Washington; Mrs. S. W. Boardman, of Bloomfield, N. J.; and Mrs. J. Evarts Tracy, of this city. In all there were twelve children, four having died some years ago.

AFTER NEW SCHOOL.

Somerville Will Take Up the Subject Again Despite the Defeat of New School Plan.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Nov. 10—The Board of Education and many people of the town are making a grand fight for better school accommodations even though the proposition to erect a $60,000 structure was voted down by the townspeople sometime ago.

Great interest is manifested in the matter and it is expected that tonight's will be a largely-attended session.

MISS STONE SPOKE.

Addressed the Christian Endeavor Meeting at the Congregational Church Last Evening.

Miss Ellen Stone, the American missionary who was captured by Macedonian brigands and who lectured on her experiences at the Casino Saturday evening, was the guest over Sunday of Rev. and Mrs. Charles L. Goodrich at the parsonage on West Seventh street. Sunday evening she addressed the Christian Endeavor meeting at the Congregational church. Although that fact had not been publicly announced until yesterday morning, the congregation grew to such proportions that the service had to be held in the main auditorium which was not large enough to accommodate all.

While Miss Stone did not attempt to tell the whole story of her captivity, she related many incidents which were listened to with great interest. Most impressive was her word picture of the final release and the great happiness of the captives when they were free once more. After the service many crowded to the front of the church to get an opportunity of meeting her personally and hearing something more of her remarkable adventures.

Promised to Do Better.

Martin Roth, of Exchange alley, was arraigned before City Judge Runyon, this morning, on a charge of disorderly conduct made by his father-in-law, Charles Zimmer. HEARD MISS STONE'S STORY OF CAPTURE

She Lectured to a Very Large Audience at the Casino Saturday Evening.

SHE GAVE EXPERIENCES

THRILLING TALE OF HER TRIP WITH THE MACEDONIA BRIGANDS.

Eventful Times From the Capture to the Release Dramatically Pictured to an Interested Plainfield Audience.

Miss Helen. M. Stone, the American missionary in whose personal safety the entire civilized world interested itself when she was a captive in the hands of Macedonian brigands for 172 days, related her thrilling experiences during the trying ordeal before a large audience at the Casino, Saturday evening.

Gifted with a fluency of speech and possessing a well, modulated voice, she held the rapt interest of her audience throughout. Announced as a lecture, it was more like an absorbing novelette made more dramatic from the fact that the heroine was not the creation of an author's brain but real flesh and blood.

Early in her narrative Miss Stone said that it was with feelings akin to familiarity that she found herself in Plainfield as her companion captive, Mrs. Tsilka, spent a portion of her early life in this city. Again, while she was laboring in the mission field, one of the young Bible students connected with the party was a Plainfield boy and he often spoke of the place to her, so much in fact, that she came to know a great deal about it.

Plunging into her story Miss Stone described in detail the existing conditions that surround the missionaries in the part of Macedonia where she was laboring and by degrees led up to the day a party of ten, of which she was one, took its departure for a visit home. She described the path traversed until it came to a rocky pass. So firmly was the spot impressed on her mind, as there it was the brigands seemed to rise from the earth and surround them, that a mammoth oil painting could not have revealed a clearer picture than the one she gave. She told how the fierce looking captors took but herself and Mrs. Tsilka, allowing the rest to go with exception of one male member who resisted and was put to death, and then of a weary night ride into the mountain fastnesses to baffle pursuit. Their agony of suspense as to what was to become of them was hardly alleviated when the chief declared that they would be freed only when friends gave a ransom of $110,000, in default of which death was to follow.

Thus the two women were hurried about from one point to another for six months, undergoing treatment and conditions that many strong men would have succumbed to. To make their agony worse, Mrs. Tsilka's baby was born and the care of the little one was added to their hardships. At one period when it seemed as if the ransom money was not forthcoming indication was made that all would be murdered and it seemed providential that a quarrel in the band was all that prevented. It was only at the expiration of 172 days that they were eventually set down near a village, free again, a ransom of $65,000 having been accepted.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Mr. Flanagan, the brewer who ran for Congress in the Fourth district and was defeated by Congressman Fowler, had no less distinguishing advocate than ex-President Cleveland. Mr. Cleveland recommended his friend to the voters on the tariff reform issue. One might adduce from Mr. Flanagan's defeat that the voters of the Fourth district don't want tariff reform, but it is more probable that they declined to take Mr. Flanagan's platform seriously and defeated him because they thought Congressman Fowler a better man. A Congressional contest comes pretty nearly being a local fight and homes issues and personal feelings decide voters.—New Brunswick Home News.

The need of voting machines was never more keenly felt than at the recent election. The tickets were long, combining the Congressional, the county, the city and the ward candidates. It was a severe task to count the ballots, and an unusually slow one. Few of the polling districts were through counting before 11 o'clock on election night, and some were not through until after 6 o'clock the following morning. With voting machines the totals are seen the moment the last voter records his ballot. There is no waiting. All the election officials have to do is to open the back of the machine and read off the figures. With these machines the full returns from every district and ward in this city would have been known in half an hour, and in an hour or two at the most the whole county would have been heard from, with the absolute accuracy of an official count. The State ought to have the voting machines as soon as they can properly be put into operation. — Elizabeth Journal.

For the presidency of the new State Senate there are several men who are exceptionally well qualified to perform the duties of that position. They are Senators-elect Bacheller, of Essex; Cross, of Union; Wakelee, of Bergen, and McKee, of Passaic.

Bacheller is new to the Senate, but he has served three terms in the House, in which he was the Republican leader, and he has been a member of the Newark Common Council since 1897, and is Republican leader in that body, too. Wakelee was elected Senator in 1900, to fill a vacancy, and was re-elected in 1901, after having served two terms in the Assembly. McKee was Assemblyman for three years, and was elected to the Senate in 1900. Cross served three terms in the Assembly, and was Speaker in 1894 and 1895. He was elected Senator, to fill a vacancy, in 1898, and was re-elected for a full term the following year.

Senator Hutchinson, of Mercer, who has made a claim for the presidency, served two terms in the Assembly, and is serving his second term as Senator. Mr. Hutchinson does not size up with any one of the Senators named in the necessary qualifications for presiding officer. The two best equipped men are Cross and Bacheller, and either would do credit to the Senate as its president.

Senator Hutchinson's claim on the ground of a little longer service than the other Senators is not worth considering. The Republican majority in the Legislature has been considerably reduced, and the reduction conveys a strong hint that it must hereafter be upon its good behavior. With ability and experience in the chair, the Senate next winter can have a dignified as well as useful session and afford no ground for just censure.—Newark Advertiser.

Cured of Piles After 40 Years.

Mr. C. Haney, of Geneva, Ohio, had the piles for forty years. Doctors and dollars could do him no lasting good. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured him permanently. Invaluable for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, lacerations, eczema, tetter, salt rheum, and all other skin diseases. Look for the name DeWitt on the package — all others are cheap, worthless counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

MANY CUT TICKETS.

More Than a Third of Republican Ballots in City Had Pasters on Them.

An interesting fact in connection with the vote in this city on election day was the figures showing the number of straight tickets polled by each of the two leading parties and the number of splits. These figures were obtained in all but the Second district of the Second ward and owing to the very primitive method of counting and tallying the vote there it was impossible to get it. However, the total vote from this district of the Second ward is added to the total vote of the other wards.

On this basis there were 1,475 straight Republican tickets cast in the city and 829 split Republican tickets. There were 871 straight Democratic tickets and 177 splits. In all there were nine rejected ballots.

As for the other tickets the following shows the total received by the remaining parties: Prohibition, 19; Socialist, 11; Socialist Labor, 21; Independent Labor, 3.

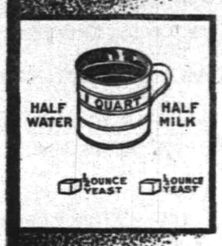
Here's a Recipe for Making Bread.

1.
WHEN a well bred girl expects to wed,
'Tis well to remember that men like bread.
We're going to show the steps to take,
So she may learn good bread to make.

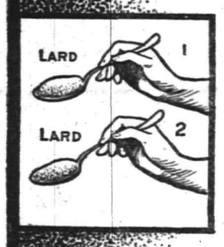


2.
FIRST, mix a lukewarm quart, my daughter,
One-half of milk and one-half of water;
To this please add two cakes of yeast,
Or the liquid kind if preferred in the least.

3.
NEXT stir in a teaspoonful of nice clear salt,
If this bread is n't good, it won't be our fault.
Now add the sugar, tablespoonfuls three;
Mix well together, for dissolved they must be.

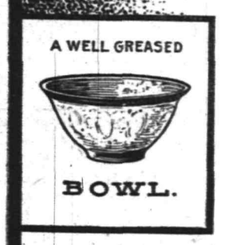
4.
POUR the whole mixture into an earthen bowl,
A pan's just as good, if it hasn't a hole.
It's the cook and the flour, not the bowl or the pan,
That—"Makes the bread that makes the man."

5.
NOW let the mixture stand a minute or two.
You've other things of great importance to do.
First sift the flour—use the finest in the land.
Three quarts is the measure, "GOLD MEDAL" the brand.



6.
SOME people like a little shortening power,
If this is your choice, just add to the flour
Two tablespoonfuls of lard, and jumble it about,
Till the flour and lard are mixed without doubt.

7.
NEXT stir the flour into the mixture that's stood
Waiting to play its part, to make the bread good.
Mix it up thoroughly, but not too thick;
Some flours make bread that's more like a brick.



8.
NOW grease well a bowl and put the dough in,
Don't fill the bowl full, that would be a sin;
For the dough is all right and it's going to rise,
Till you will declare that it's twice the old size.

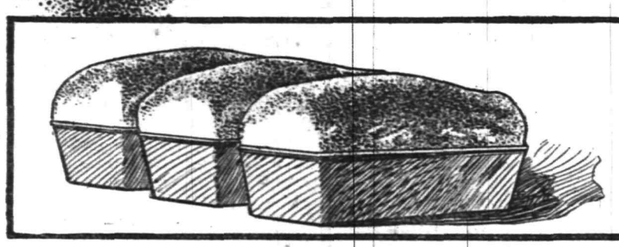
9.
BRUSH the dough with melted butter, as the recipes say;
Cover with a bread towel, set in a warm place to stay
Two hours or more, to rise until light,
When you see it grow, you'll know it's all right.

10.
AS soon as it's light place again on the board;
Knead it well this time, Here is knowledge to hoard.
Now back in the bowl once more it must go,
And set again to rise for an hour or so.

11.
FORM the dough gently into loaves when light,
And place it in bread pans greased just right.
Shape each loaf you make to half fill the pan,
This bread will be good enough for any young man.

12.
NEXT let it rise to the level of pans—no more,
Have the temperature right—don't set near a door.
We must be careful about draughts; it isn't made to freeze,
Keep the room good and warm—say 72 degrees.

13.
NOW put in the oven,—it's ready to bake,—
Keep uniform fire, great results are at stake.
One hour more of waiting and you'll be repaid,
By bread that is worthy "A Well Bred Maid."



Here is the Same Thing in Prose.

GOLD MEDAL FLOUR.

BREAD RECIPE.

To one quart of lukewarm wetting—half water and half milk, or water alone—add two half-ounce compressed yeast cakes, or the usual quantity of liquid yeast, and stir until dissolved.

Add one teaspoonful of salt and three tablespoonfuls of sugar and when well dissolved, stir in with wooden spoon, three quarts of well sifted flour, or until dough is sufficiently stiff to be turned from the mixing bowl to the moulding board in a mass.

If shortening is desired add two tablespoonfuls lard.

Knead this dough, adding if necessary from time to time, flour until it becomes smooth and elastic and ceases to stick to fingers or board.

Do not make dough too stiff. Spring Wheat Flour needs a little more working than Winter Wheat Flour, and should be a little softer to make it rise properly.

Put dough into well greased earthen bowl, brush lightly with melted butter or drippings, cover with towel and set in warm place, about 75 degrees, for two hours, or until light, then knead well and return to bowl, cover as before and set for another hour's rising or until light.

When light, form gently into loaves or rolls, place in greased bread pans, brush with butter or drippings, cover again and let stand for one and one-half hours, then bake.

DIGG'S UPRIGHT FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

The Best on Earth! We Challenge the World!

The Extinguishers that turn up-side-down to discharge are good of their kind, but this is far better. Read the following reasons:

Points of superior merit of the Digge-Upright over any other machine—

1—A sealed acid bottle and an air-tight tank. No change in the conditions of the chemicals possible.
2—Can never be discharged by accident; absolutely under the control of the operator.
3—A 3-gallon machine of this type contains ONE QUART more of liquid than a reversible, because it does not require a handle underneath.
4—It does not need inspection and recharging as required for the reversible with its loose stopple.
5—The acid being released at the top of the tank, and the outlet being at the bottom, the mingling of the chemicals is so thorough before the acid reaches the outlet that it is completely neutralized, and no harm can be done to flesh or fabric. In the reversible type the acid is released within the two inches of the outlet.
6—Convenience in handling. The machine stands on its bottom, and all the operator has to do is to turn the screw in the cap, and the flow begins instantly.
7—The bottle is not broken, and no nuisance of broken glass.

HITCH IN PEACE PLAN

Director of Colombian Revolution Rejects Proposals.

REASONS FOR SPURNING CONFERENCE

Orders Issued to Continue War on the Government Because of Its Failure to Recognize the Rights of Liberals.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Nov. 10.—The reason why General Vargas-Santos, military director of the Colombian revolution, did not go to Panama to attend the conference arranged to take place on board the United States battleship Wisconsin in Panama harbor between representatives of the Colombian government and of the revolutionists is because the government of Colombia, according to advices received here, intended to limit the subject of the conference to the acceptance of the decree of amnesty recently promulgated by the president of Colombia, Senor Marroquin.

General Santo Domingo arrived here last month, bearing peace proposals from the Colombian government to General Vargas-Santos. He said the purpose of his government in calling the peace conference was to establish an effective and lasting peace which would harmonize the interests of the several political parties concerned in the revolution. The matter was discussed between General Vargos-Santos and the Colombian representative, who exchanged a number of cablegrams with the Colombian authorities at Panama, with the result that General Vargos-Santos accepted the proposals made by General Santo Domingo and promised to attend the conference at Panama with Generals Perdomo and Salazar of the Colombian government and General Herrera of the revolutionists.

At this point of the negotiations General Vargos-Santos received advices to the effect that notwithstanding the proposals of the Colombian government made through its representative here Colombia purposed limiting the conferees to the acceptance of the decree of amnesty. General Vargas-Santos thereupon refused to accept such a proposition and decided to withdraw from the conference, which, he says, he considers futile.

At the same time the military director of the Colombian revolution learned that the Colombian government had issued orders to General Tovar to imprison the revolutionary general Uribe-Uribe and sentence him to death without mercy. This order was given in spite of General Uribe-Uribe's capitulation to the government forces, which occurred at Rio Frio, Colombia, last month. The result of this news, which is considered in Colombian revolutionary circles here to be a shameful violation of public faith, further decided General Vargas-Santos not to attend the peace conference at Panama, and he issued orders to the Columbian revolutionary army to continue its warfare.

General Vargas-Santos declares he is willing to make peace provided that the Colombian government will recognize the civil and political rights of which the Liberal party has been deprived for the last seventeen years, but not otherwise.

No Trace of Egan.

KALISPELL, Mont., Nov. 10.—There have been no new developments in the Egan search, notwithstanding the reward of $1,000 has attracted more men into the district. Another party has left Columbia Falls for Hungry Horse creek and will be out several days. It is now almost impossible to get through the country except on snowshoes. The return of two parties now out is anxiously awaited. One went up to the cabin on Pyramid peak and another into the South Fork country. It will be at least three days before they can make their report. Dr. Houston has given up all hope of Egan being alive.

Prominent Dentist Dead.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 10.—Dr. Jarus Searle Hurlbut, one of the best known dentists in this country, member of the international dental congress, the Odontological Society of New York, the American Dental association, the American Academy of Dental Science, the Massachusetts and New England Dental societies, the state board of registration and president of the American Association of Dental Examiners, is dead here from a sudden shock of apoplexy. He was a native of West Springfield and had practiced here since 1860.

Mine Foreman Dies From Wound.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Nov. 10.—Daniel Dorris, the mine foreman for the Susquehanna Coal company who was shot by Patrick Hennessy, a demented fireman whom he had discharged and refused to reinstate, is dead in the hospital of his injuries. Hennessy is in jail awaiting trial on the charge of murder, and his actions make it clear that he is irresponsible. The murdered man was one of the best known mine foremen in the region. He was forty years of age and leaves a wife and several children.

Shot Her Husband.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Mrs. Enoch Hink shot and killed her husband at their home, about three miles above Port Dickinson. The act was done in self defense. Hink at the time being intoxicated and engaged in a murderous assault on his wife with an open clasp knife. It is not thought that Mrs. Hink will be arrested. The coroner says that he looks on it as a case of justifiable homicide, although Mrs. Hink claims she merely took up the gun to frighten the man away.

LADRONES MUST GO.

Vigorous Measures Adopted In Luzon Province.

MILITARY TO BE PUT IN ACTION.

Territory Around Manila Is the Scene of Constant Petty Depredations of Bands Which Find Refuge In the Mountains.

MANILA, Nov. 10.—The govrnment is adopting vigorous measures to suppress ladronism in the provinces of Cavite, Rizal and Bulacan. A zone embracing these provinces and surrounding Manila is the scene of constant petty and sometimes serious disorder. Several armed bands, some of them numbering 200 or 300 men, are operating in the described district and have committed various depredations. They find a safe refuge in the mountains.

The plan of the government contemplates securing the assistance of the military, which has been inactive since the end of the insurrection. The extent of the army's participation in the work of suppression depends upon developments. It is probable that the military authorities will request the garrisons to protect the more important towns, while the constabulary conducts the field operations. It is thought that martial law in a modified form will be declared and the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus suspended in Cavite province, which has been the home of ladrones for ages.

Military control of Cavite province is not contemplated. It is intended that the military and civil authorities shall work in conjunction. The belief is held that advantage has been taken in some parts of the islands of the complete inactivity of the soldiers, and it is thought that the use of the army by the civil authorities will have a beneficial effect.

The vigorous campaign against the ladrones which has been conducted by volunteers in Bulacan province has resulted in driving many refugee bandits into Rizal, where the campaign is now opening.

THE SUMNER IN A TYPHOON.

Vessel Bearing Chaffee and Wright Had Terrible Experience.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—Latest advices from Honolulu say that the transport Sumner arrived there Oct. 30 en route to San Francisco with General A. R. Chaffee and Vice Governor Luke E. Wright of the Philippines on board. The steamer had a terrible experience in a typhoon soon after leaving Manila. She lost one of her boats and had several damaged and for a number of hours was in grave danger.

In an interview Governor Wright had the following to say of conditions in the Philippines and their future:

"The developments following the inauguration of the civil government of the islands have been most satisfactory. They now have civil government almost everywhere, and the people seem to be learning its advantages. The system of provincial and municipal power government has worked well. During the past year there has not been a single defalcation and very few thefts. The government is strictly one of civil service.

"There is a degree of peace and safety in the Philippines now that was never reached under the Spanish rule. The Spaniards used to pay the brigands to keep the peace, but we have refused to continue this system. After the passage of the Philippines bill last year we established the insular consabulary, and we now have 6,000 of these police. We find that they are the best men for the business, and they have cleared the provinces of lawbreakers with great activity. The service is one which appeals to the natives, for the police are chosen from the tribes where they must serve.

"The future of the islands will be a great one. What are needed most are railroads, and these may be built soon by American capital. There is a trunk line on the island of Luzon now under consideration, and its building will help matters greatly."

Fire at Beaver Falls, Pa.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Nov. 10.—The extensive plant of the Keystone Driller company has been almost totally destroyed by fire. The loss will be fully $100,000, with insurance on the plant of $55,000. The portions destroyed are the blacksmith shop, the machine, erecting and pattern departments. Much valuable machinery was ruined. Over 100 men will be thrown out of employment. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

Express Messenger J. C. Edwards of Salem, Va., was fatally injured, and his helper, William L. Snyder of Pearisburg, Va., was killed and his body burned up in a fire which consumed the mail, baggage and express cars and one coach. Mail Agent Park and Flagman Jones were badly hurt. Beyond a shaking up none of the passengers was hurt. The freight had stalled, and a flagman was sent ahead, but owing to a fog the passenger engineer did not see his signal.

Westbound passenger No. 1 left Roanoke at 10 a. m., and three hours later, while running thirty miles an hour, at a point near Ingleside, the engine and tender left the rails and rolled down an embankment. Engineer Charlie Pate of Bluefield and Fireman John Deyerle of East Radford, Va., were caught under the locomotive and killed. It is not known what caused the engine to leave the track.

STRIKE RIOTS FEARED.

French Government Prepared to Resist Miners.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—The government is taking precautions to handle another outbreak on the part of the striking miners in case the decision reached Saturday night to continue the strike is followed by violence.

Troops are active in the mining regions, but no serious disorders have as yet been reported. The authorities believe that the crisis in the strike is near and that the next twenty-four hours will settle the question whether the men hold to their decision to continue the movement or straggle back to the mines.

Following the decision of the miners' congress to continue the strike there were disorderly occurrences in Lens, Pas de Calais. The cavalry charged repeatedly a crowd of 15,000 riotous miners and succeeded in preventing them from advancing. Considerable minor damage was done.

At Courrieres, Pas de Calais, houses of nonstrikers were sacked and a number of coal wagons burned. A clash between strikers and gendarmes and cavalry is reported from Clermont Ferrand, Puy de Dome. It was not attended with serious results.

Forty Empty Graves.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 10.—Rufus Cantrell and John McEndree, leaders of the gangs of ghouls, have pointed out between thirty and forty graves which, they said, were robbed by them to detectives. The ghouls were taken to the Ebenezer and Anderson cemeteries for the purpose. The detectives wanted the names of other bodies stolen in order that other warrants might be sworn out. At the Anderson cemetery the sexton told the detectives that about forty graves in the place were empty. In the Anderson cemetery Cantrell pointed out the graves of a woman and her daughter as among those he had robbed. Cantrell said he stole the body of the woman by agreement with her husband and paid him half of the $30 which a prominent local physician paid for the body.

Hudson Valley Cars Run to Troy.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 10.—For the first time since the strike on the lines of the Hudson Valley railway on Aug. 30 cars are being run into Troy today by that company over the lines leased from the United Traction company. The traction employees receive 20 cents an hour and at first offered vigorous objections to the proposition of letting seventeen and nineteen cent Hudson Valley men run cars in their city. They receded from their position, however, and no difficulty is expected.

Hay's Note Criticised.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—Rabbi J. Krauskopf, D. D., of the Reform Congregational Keneseth Israel, a leading Hebrew of this city and one of the best known Hebrew clergymen in the east, delivered a sermon entitled "Secretary Hay and the Roumanian Jew," in which he criticised the note sent by the secretary to the European powers on the question of the Roumanian Jews. Dr. Krauskopf said three months have passed since the note was issued, and the results that were anticipated have not yet come to pass.

Texas Bank Robbed.

ROCK ISLAND, Tex., Nov. 10.—The safe of the H. S. Lundy bank was blown into during the night by professional burglars. They secured all the money in the vaults. The proprietor refuses to say how much this was, though estimates place it at several thousand dollars. The bank carried burglar insurance.

Six Hurt In a Wreck.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 10.—An eastbound Missouri Pacific passenger train ran into a switch engine here, and six persons were injured, two seriously. The most seriously injured were George P. Griffins of Chicago and C. H. Dietz of New York, both hurt internally.

Cholera In the Philippines.

MANILA, Nov. 10.—The cholera continues to be intermittent in different parts of the archipelago. The recorded total of cases is 15,000 and of deaths 67,000. It is believed that the actual number of cases exceeds the recorded number by 20 per cent.

FANATICS SENT HOME

Doukhobors' March Stopped by Canadian Authorities.

THE POLICE DESPERATELY RESISTED

After Long but Bloodless Struggle the Russians Who Were "Seeking Jesus" Are Put In Cars and Started For Deserted Homes.

MINNEDOSA, Man., Nov. 10.—After one of the most exciting incidents in the history of the northwest the Doukhobor fanatics have been forcibly entrained, loaded in cars like cattle and were guarded by a large detachment of mounted police, who were kept busy preventing the Russians from throwing themselves from the car windows.

A military special of ten coaches left here with the army and unloaded it at Yorkton. Then the mounted police began to drive the Doukhobors to their northern yillages. This has been one of the most remarkable experiences in Canadian history.

The Doukhobors arrived here Friday night on their way to Winnipeg. They attempted to resume their journey the following day, with the mercury standing at 10 degrees below. Government officials held them with difficulty in the byroad until the military special train arrived with 500 mounted police.

The fanatics were addressed by the officials and told they would have to go home. They cried, "No; we go to seek Jesus." Zibroff, their leader, harangued his followers, instructing them not to resist.

Two hundred farmers who gathered at the train to see them and 500 other citizens surrounded them and offered assistance. Fifty of the fanatics got out and made a rush on the road to go east. Surrounded by the crowd, they resisted desperately, and the police grappled with the leaders and carried them bodily to the cars. Zibroff had to be taken to the cars.

The Doukhobors encircled each other with their arms, and while they struggled they gave voice to their weird chant. Some struggled so hard that their clothing was literally torn from their backs. For over an hour the ground to the station was filled with seething crowds, and excitement was intense. The Doukhobors refused to strike, but struggled blindly for freedom.

Their captors shouted and cursed as the bloodless battle became more exciting, and when the cars were reached stalwart police handed up the kicking Russians, who were thrust into dark, cold coaches like cattle. During the enforced entraining of the men the weather became intensely cold.

The Doukhobors have been living on wheat and raw oatmeal. On the train small quantities of bread were thrown to them. Only about twenty out of 500 escaped, and they are on the prairie in a temperature that means death to them. The action taken was on instruction of the federal government, which said the pilgrims must be sent home if they had to be carried.

Colima Threatens to Erupt.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 10.—A special to the Constitution from Guadalajara, Mexico, says that violent eruption of Colima volcano is threatened and the people living in the valleys at the base of the mountain are fleeing to Manzanillo and other points. A dense volume of smoke has been pouring from the crater for several days, and during the last forty-eight hours deep rumbling and sharp reports have come from the interior of the volcano. It is reported that an order has been issued to suspend construction temporarily on the Colima extension of the Mexican Central railroad, as the native laborers cannot be induced to work so near the volcano.

Bursting Boiler Kills Two.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Two men were killed and one of the pumping stations of the city's water supply system in Queens borough totally destroyed by the explosion of one of the two big boilers which furnished power for the pumps. The building was ripped to pieces. Bricks from it flew a distance of 1,000 feet or more, while the boiler which exploded was hurled 200 feet from its bed. The other boiler, which was not in use at the time, was lifted from its foundations and thrown 100 feet in the other direction.

Two Safes Dynamited.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 10.—The office of Walker & Stratman, soap manufacturers on Herrs island, was looted by burglars during the night. Two of the four safes in the office were dynamited, about $600 stolen and fully $6,000 damage done to the buildings. The office building is some distance from the manufactory proper, which enabled the burglars to do their work unmolested by the watchman and the dozen or more workmen who were on the night turn. No clew to the robbers has been found.

Well Known Homeopathist Dead.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Dr. Robert Newton Tooker, one of the prominent physicians of Chicago and president of the Illinois Homeopathic Medical association, died suddenly here of apoplexy. When a servant found his body lying on the floor in the bathroom, the physician had apparently been dead several hours. Dr. Tooker, who was sixty-one years of age, was widely known as a writer on medical subjects.

Four Shiploads of Coal.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Sixteen thousand tons of anthracite coal imported from Great Britain reached this port on the steamships Marquette from Newcastle, Earlswood from Penarth, Ramleh from Liverpool and Atbara from Glasgow.

PLENTY OF TIME.

It seems generally conceded that last Tuesday's election in Somerset county will have some direct bearing on the future of the annexation question. Along exactly what lines it will work out it is hardly possible to say now. There is no likelihood, however, of any attempt being made to repeal the laws on the subject which were passed last winter. As to the chance of a new bill going before that body, it is entirely too early to say anything. No plans with that idea in view have yet been formulated.

It may be that the result of the election will materially change the attitude of the people of Somerville on the annexation question but it is hardly probable. Some of the Somerville politicians, on the morning after election, declared that they wished that North Plainfield had been allowed to depart. Their remarks may have been made on the impulse of the moment and more careful thought may change their stand.

One thing is certain, however, Greater Plainfield is coming some day. It may not be this year or next, but it is bound to come some day. And from present appearances it will be brought about by the annexation of North Plainfield to Union county. There are people in North Plainfield who, if the question were put to vote today, would vote in favor of it where they voted against it before. Time is going to win the battle for it is a just cause and the arguments in favor of it cannot in the long run be successfully combatted. There is a great deal of truth in that saying that you can fool all the people some of the time and some of the people all of the time but you cannot fool all the people all the time. So it will be with the annexation question. It will only require time to bring a great majority of the residents of the borough to a realizing sense that they have much to gain by the change.

There is not likely to be any immediate move. It was generally understood that a period of rest would eliminate some of the bitter features and serve to materially aid the cause. But it is going through some day and the opposition must recognize that fact.

It it not often that the so-called political "bosses" give the people an opportunity to cast their ballots for or against them. The recent candidacy of Major Carl Lentz for the shrievalty of Essex county was one of those exceptions. It is significant to note that while other Republican candidates were elected, Mr. Lentz went down to defeat. There are many who have wondered what kind of a showing U. S. Senator Kean would make if he ran for re-election by popular vote.

All over the city, there seems to be a general feeling that the Meeker election law ought to be repealed. While it appeared to work fairly well the first year, the results this time have been just what its opponents predicted. It was an experiment and it has not been proven satisfactory. It is therefore the duty of the next Legislature to repeal that law without delay.

Had the Lehigh Valley Black Diamond express wreck on the meadows, Wednesday, been more of a smash-up, Mrs. Carrie Nation, who was on board, might have been put to some use. Just think how the splinters would fly when she and her hatchet started to hew things.

At the meeting of the New York Chamber of Commerce held Thursday, the aged secretary was presented with a check for $10,800. Considering the exaggerated price of coal and other commodities it will come in handy before the snow flies.

The wife of the man who wrote "Dolly Gray" is suing him for absolute divorce. If some of us could have laid hands on him while the song was being dinned in our ears she would have been saved the trouble and expense.

Mascagni, the much heralded imported Italian composer, has abruptly terminated his American tour, because of a question of wages, with his managers out $100,000. And yet they talk about buying things for a song.

A burning question—the high price coal problem.

Lump of Coal Broke Leg.

He was standing along the railroad bank, near Plainfield avenue, when a companion threw a large block of coal off a car. It struck him just above the ankle inflicting the break.

DUNELLEN.

Burglars made a visit to a number of Dunellen homes Friday evening and although they did not secure any booty of much account, they will cause the people to be careful about looking up at night now. The houses visited were those of Mr. Maurer and J. H. Fleming, some distance from town, near Greenbrook. In each instance, entrance was effected through a lower floor window. Several small articles of clothing were taken and at Maurer's $2 in money was secured. The thieves evidently became scared as they dropped a coat of Mr. Fleming's near Lincoln school.

HORSE HELD UP TROLLEY.

Laid Down on Track and Wouldn't Move for Nearly an Hour.

A few days ago Mrs. H. A. Weber, of 140 Liberty street, purchased a new horse, and Friday her father, Louis C. J. Randolph, took the animal out for a trial. While driving along West Front street, near Lafayette place, the horse deliberately laid down in the road across the trolley tracks. He refused to be removed for some time and it was nearly an hour before trolley cars were able to pass that point. Everything known to science was used to persuade the horse to change his location, but it was not until a bystander whispered something in his ear that he decided to move.

ORANGE FIELD CLUB VICTOR

DEFEATED THE ELEVEN FROM SCOTCH PLAINS BY SCORE OF 11 TO 6.

Strengthened by Several of Company K's Players, the Visiting Team Played a Close Game.

A fine game of football was played on Orange Oval Saturday afternoon between Orange Field Club and Scotch Plains. The Westfield Lincoln High School, which was to have played the Orange Field Club, Saturday, forfeited the game as that team has disbanded for the season so the O. F. C. arranged to play Scotch Plains but no one was disappointed as it was a fine game. Scotch Plains had the heavier team including four of Company K's players but their playing did not outclass the O. F. C.

The Orange Field Club made both touchdowns in the first half. Smith made them, one around the end for fifty yards in a double pass and the other through tackle for six yards. Emmons kicked one goal. The second was a very difficult one and was not kicked.

Hellyer played a fine game at center and Kenyon at left guard. Galvin made several good plays through center which enabled the O. F. C. to roll up a score at the end of the first half of 11 to 0.

In the second half Scotch Plains scored by steadily working the ball down the field on line plays for a touchdown which was made by Alberts. Whitney, of Company K, kicked the goal. Score: 11 to 6.

KAISER IN ENGLAND.

Crowds About Royal Palace to Catch a Glimpse of Royalty.

SANDRINGHAM, England, Nov. 10.—The weather here yesterday was perfect and mild, and the bright sunshine brought crowds of visitors to Sandringham on the chance of seeing Emperor William.

The approaches to the church were lined with spectators. Queen Alexandra, the Prince of Wales and Mrs. Chamberlain arrived at the place of worship together. Half an hour later King Edward, Emperor William, Prime Minister Balfour, Colonial Secretary Chamberlain and other distinguished persons arrived and stood chatting outside the church.

King Edward talked with Mr. Chamberlain for a few minutes. Then the emperor of Germany approached, and for a quarter of an hour the emperor and Mr. Chamberlain stood apart and conversed earnestly. The service had begun and the anthem had been reached before the royal party entered the church, the king taking the emperor's arm.

The bishop of Ripon preached on the possibility of the disappearance of race distinctions and the attaining of the grand brotherhood of man. He referred to King Edward's recovery from his illness, to the visit of his kinsman monarch and to the ties which have long united Germany and Great Britain. The bishop said that, however these countries were divided by the German ocean, a race blended of both peoples was continuing to grow on the other side of the Atlantic where Germans and Englishmen were becoming one nationality. The service was closed by the singing of the national anthem. Afterward the two monarchs walked together through the gardens.

During the day King Edward received a host of birthday congratulations and gifts. Emperor William gave him a valuable vase.

After dinner at the palace the royal party heard Jan Kubelik, the Austrian violinist.

Sir Henry Irving and Arthur Bourchier have been commended to act before King Edward and Emperor William at Sandringham palace next Thursday night. They will each present a one act play.

"THE STRENUOUS LIFE."

Roosevelt's Book Brought Out In France Attracts Much Attention.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—A translation into French of President Roosevelt's book, "The Strenuous Life," which appeared here last week under the title of "La Vie Intense," has attracted widespread interest. The translation is by Princess Ferdinand de Faucigny-Lucinge and Jean Izoulet, who declare that their work has the authorization of Mr. Roosevelt.

The preface of the translation pays a glowing tribute to the United States and compares President Roosevelt's book to James Bryce's "The American Commonwealth," saying the latter gives the views of the outside observer, while "The Strenuous Life" gives the views of the observer on the inside. President Roosevelt is described as "the virile champion of a nation which has become powerful in deciding the destinies of the world," and the high standards which President Roosevelt has introduced into public life in America are dwelt upon.

Another work, by the Vicomte de Noailles, which appeared last week, gives a detailed account of the operations of the French soldiers and marines who participated in the war for American independence. The information contained in this volume was obtained from official archives.

Fatal Newspaper Office Fire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Two men were burned to death, two boys were overcome by smoke and the pressroom of the New York Times was wrecked by a fire in the cellar of the Times building. The fire did not prevent the Times from issuing its regular edition. Several neighbors of the Times offered assistance, and the offers of the Evening Post and Staats Zeitung were accepted. According to Deputy Fire Chief Cruger, the fire was caused by a gasoline lamp which had been hanging on the inside of the tunnel excavation and had burned through a wooden partition that separated the tunnel from the Times pressroom. The pressroom extends under the Park row sidewalk almost to the tunnel limit.

Detroit Church Dedicated.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 10.—Right Rev. Thomas F. Davies, Episcopal bishop of the diocese of Michigan, in the presence of a vast congregation and with impressive ceremonies, dedicated the new St. Andrew's Episcopal church erected as a memorial to the late Right Rev. Samuel Smith Harris, D. D., LL. D., second Episcopal bishop of Michigan. Prominent in the dedication service was a beautiful eulogy of the departed prelate by Bishop Henry C. Potter of New York, who knew Bishop Harris personally and in a deeply affecting way summed up the many charms of the man for whom the church is to stand as a monument.

Merger Hearing In New York.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 10.—Some of the most important testimony that has yet been taken in the case of the United States against the Northern Securities company et al. probably will be taken this week in New York city before Special Examiner Frederick G. Ingersoll of St. Paul, who has left for New York. The traffic officers of several of the big eastern roads will be called by the defendants. The hearing is a continuation of the session held in St. Paul three weeks ago.

PERRY POINTS OUT MASON.

Young Negro Says He Is the Man Who Gave Him the Watches.

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—After having given out Saturday night the confession made by the young negro George L. O. Perry with reference to selling the watches taken from the murdered women Miss Clara A. Morton and Miss Agnes McPhee the police now admit that Perry declares that Alan G. Mason is the man from whom he received these articles. This admission of the police was made just before young Perry was taken to the jail in East Cambridge, where Mason, the prominent Boston man under arrest on the charge of killing Miss Morton, is confined pending a hearing in the Cambridge court. In one of the jail corridors Perry positively identified Mason as the man who had given him the two watches. Mason by look or word betrayed no knowledge of having seen Perry before. When questioned by Sheriff Fairbairn, Mason merely said: "I do not know this man. I never saw him before."

During the day Chief Ryan and Officer Argy of Belmont talked with Perry, and later State Officers New, Dunham, Dexter and others took Berry to the jail. The callers were shown into the room where Mason and six others were in line. Perry walked straight up to Mason, who was second in position and, pointing his finger at him, said, "This is the man who gave me the watches to pawn."

He was about to leave the room when Sheriff Fairbairn asked him if he would not like to talk with Mason in order that he might make himself sure that Mason was the man.

Perry replied there was no need of that, as he knew who the man was and had known him for a long time.

While sitting in the jail for an opportunity to see Mason Perry was given a Sunday paper to look at. He seemed highly pleased with the big headlines in which his name figured prominently.

It is thought by some that Perry had to account for his possession of the watches, and the most reasonable way was to say that they were given him by a man already under arrest and by a man whom he had seen on the streets of Cambridge and could easily identify.

The fact that the negro accused Mason of giving him the watches did not give the police any false confidence that the mystery of the series of brutal crimes had been solved. They recognize that the Perry confession does not establish that Mason is "Jack the Slugger."

Ball Player Shot and Robbed.

MASON, W. Va., Nov. 10.—Harry Allemang, a ball player, who pitched in the Southern league this season and who had signed with Cincinnati for the coming year, was shot and mortally wounded here in the early morning. Allemang had been out with friends and was returning home at 3 o'clock. He found burglars at work in the postoffice. A sentry on the outside ordered Allemang to halt. No attention was paid to the command, and the sentry fired on him, the bullet entering his back and lodging in the left lung. Physicians state that the wound is fatal. When Allemang had fallen to the ground, the robbers took $980 from him.

Coman Does Not Concede Defeat.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Henry B. Coman, Republican candidate for attorney general, spent the day in this city conferring with local Republicans as to ballots alleged to have been thrown out of the Fifth judicial district as void on account of the Davies-Rogers contest. Coman said last night that he did not concede his defeat. He talked with Colonel George W. Dunn by telephone and was told that Cunneen's apparent plurality on returns so far received does not exceed 1,000.

Another New York Subway Death.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—One man was killed, another injured, perhaps fatally, and several others were cut and bruised in the subway trench at Elm and Franklin streets. One of the huge iron buckets which travel back and forth on a cable had not been properly hooked, and as it passed a gang of men working in the excavation it emptied its contents, crushing the life out of one workman and injuring Joseph Sabbeti of 115 Elizabeth street so badly that he may die.

Chicago Fears Railroad Strike.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10. — Chicago is threatened with another railroad strike. About 6,000 switchmen have voted on what means to take to enforce their demands for higher wages. The result of the vote is not yet known; but, according to First Grand Master W. G. Lee of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, the sentiment of the men is overwhelmingly in favor of radical action. A strike, he thinks, may be ordered in a day or two.

Colonel Davidson Under the Knife.

BATH, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Dr. Roswell Park of Buffalo has performed an operation on Colonel Andrew Davidson, formerly of Cooperstown, commandant of the Soldiers' home, for stricture of the pyloric and of the stomach. He found cancer in the stomach. The operation was successful, and hopes are entertained of Colonel Davidson's recovery. He is sixty-five years of age and has been in poor health for some time.

Three Men Drowned.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 10.—A special to the Free Press from Alpena, Mich., says that three men were drowned in White Fish bay by the capsizing of a sailboat. There were two lads in the party, who were rescued by two men who saw the accident and put out from the shore with another boat. The boat capsized over a sand bar.

AFTERNOON TEA.

A Function Which May Be Either Simple or Elaborate.

Afternoon tea is one of the most charming features of modern hospitality. It can be a practice both of the rich and of those in extremely modest circumstances. In fact what more simple than the cup of tea handed with the dainty cracker or sandwich?

The tea table should be kept in one corner of the drawing room. It is a rather low and broad table, with a little shelf under it for extra cups, spoons, etc. It should be covered with a pretty doily, and on it should be placed a brass teakettle over a little alcohol burner, a teapot, creamer and sugar bowl, a couple of little cut glass dishes for the salted almonds or bonbons and the tiny cups and saucers.

THE HOSTESS POURS.

Have the maid, who is dressed in a black wool gown and spotless white cap and linen collar and cuffs, bring in the kettle freshly filled, light the alcohol lamp and talk to your guests while the water is boiling. Put into the teapot a spoonful of tea for each guest and one for the pot, cover this with the water as soon as it boils and let stand for a few minutes. Then fill the teapot with boiling water and pour at once.

Place the lumps of sugar in the bottom of the cup, then the cream and last the tea. Slices of lemon thinly cut should be at hand for those who prefer their tea Russian fashion. As each cup is poured the maid takes it and passes it to the guest, and when all are served she retires from the room, but stays within call. At an informal afternoon affair sandwiches, little cakes, salted peanuts and the lighter forms of bonbons can be served. When these afternoon teas become more pretentious affairs, with engraved cards sent out a week beforehand, the table may be larger, banked with flowers, and on it besides the tea things there may be several chafing dishes of silver filled with creamed oysters, crab meat, hot bouillon, etc. Besides tea, chocolate and coffee with whipped cream may be served, together with ices or salads. Sometimes the hostess is assisted by her friends in pouring, or the daughter of the house and two or three pretty girls do the honors. At larger affairs the refreshments are simply passed around by two or three well trained servants, whose duty it is to move noiselessly and see that every one is served. Music forms a pleasing accompaniment.

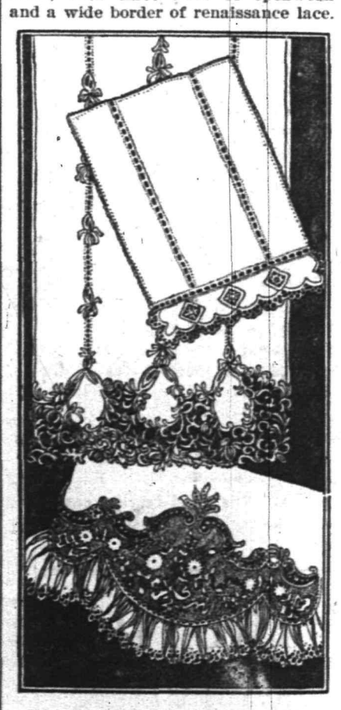
WINDOW SHADES.

They Are Made Elaborate With Embroidery and Lace.

The accompanying illustration shows the newest styles in window shades. The time is past when these were considered necessary evils. They are now as daintily fashioned as the fluffy lace curtains themselves.

The largest shade shown is of white satin, with three lines of openwork and a wide border of renaissance lace.



THREE NEW WINDOW SHADE MODELS.

The most elaborate is of dotted muslin, with a wide scroll of net above the full frill. This scroll is of ecru net, with bunches of flowers and their leaves worked on it in narrow satin ribbon.

The third and cheapest is of casement cloth, with two lines of openwork done in flat braid and a wide scalloped hem, with three diamond shaped openwork figures in the flat braid also.

Two Women.

The character of the woman who is sweet tempered and who does favors to all around her as she goes along is like a house adorned with beautiful flowers in and around it. The character of the woman of the opposite sort is like a house bare and unsightly.

THE CARUTHERS AFFAIR

By WILL N. HARBEN.

COPYRIGHT 1898 BY A. N. KELLOGG NEWSPAPER CO.

At the carriage door she looked up and recognized them, and, buttoning her heavy fur wraps, she stepped towards them to keep the coachman from overhearing her words.

"I have been up trying to give Henri a bit of encouragement," she began. "He is almost broken-hearted. He has written me twice to-day to let him see me. Poor fellow! he thinks I ought to be able with money to do something. He is like a faithful dog. He has scarcely touched a bite to eat since his master went away."

Against the white feathery background her complexion seemed almost sallow, but her eyes shone with intense brilliance.

"I am glad I happened to meet you," began Hendricks, putting on his hat again after his head had grown white with snow.

"You have the opinion of that handwriting expert," she said; "but even his opinion will not change mine. The letter was written by Mr. Gielow."

"You were right," answered Hendricks, "it was."

"And you now see that—that his mind was wrong, don't you?"

Hendricks' eyes went to the pavement.

"I have not a moment to lose," he said with awkward evasion, "and as I know you would be glad to lend a hand—"

"Oh, do, do give me a chance," broke in the girl, eagerly.

"Well, come back to the studio. I must have a talk with Henri, and if you will assure him that I am all right it will be a great help."

"Thank you so much," she said, preceding both of the men into the hallway and to the elevator.

When they had reached the retired corridor leading from the main hall to the studio Miss Huntington laid her tapering, gloved hand on Hendricks' snow-covered coat.

"Can you give me one single bit of hope?" she pleaded, in a voice full of quavers.

Hendricks flushed to the eyes.

"Not now—not until—I can't tell which way the wind will blow till I talk to Henri on a certain point."

"You are so good and kind," she said, huskily. "If you do not restore him to us, I shall always love you for trying so hard."

The restraint he had put on his feelings forced a sort of moisture into the eyes of the detective, and when he walked on after her he struck one of his feet against the other and he almost fell.

Henri opened the door.

"I have come back, Henri," said Miss Huntington. "These are good friends of your master's. They are trying to aid him. You must freely tell them all you know."

Henri bowed and muttered his willingness to comply with her wish as they passed him, going into the reception-room.

Hendricks paused before a picture in oil, standing on an easel. It represented a thin-faced, black-eyed Italian woman bent almost to the earth under a great load of rags and scraps of paper. Beneath the picture was written the title, "Ambition."

"Nobody but a genius could have conceived that deep human lesson," he said to Lampkin, who was at his elbow. "It is just like that in life. That woman is as ambitious in her way as a candidate for a throne, and if she were to get 50 cents for her load she would be as happy as a millionaire over a new yacht. You waste time pitying poor people; they would pity us if they had the time."

Then, drawing Henri into an adjoining room, Gielow's sleeping apartment, Hendricks closed the door carefully.

"Did your master leave any of his linen here?" he asked.

"Yes, sir, nearly all of it."

Hendricks deliberated a moment.

"Henri," he said, finally, "I think it barely possible that it may throw a little light on our case for me to know something about the sort of linen your master wore. Did he ever wear cuffs separable from his shirt sleeves?"

"He did, sir. It is not considered exactly good form by men of fashion, but those cuffs saved Mr. Gielow a lot of trouble. You see, when he wanted to give a touch to a piece of work while dressed to go out, or when he had just come in, he could detach the cuffs in a minute and have his hands free to handle the brush without taking time to get into his knockabout suit."

"Ah, I see; and do you suppose, Henri, that you could identify one of his cuffs if it were shown to you?"

"I think so, sir; I didn't mark his things, but they were always laundered by the same people, and they have a way of their own for marking the linen of a customer."

"What is that?" asked Hendricks, delaying the hand he had put into his pocket for the blood-stained cuff.

"They had a different number for each customer, sir. Master's number has been 1286 for several years. I'll show you. Some of his things are in the next room."

When Henri had gone out the detective took out the cuff from his pocket and examined it. He now saw what he had hitherto regarded as a manufacturer's trade-mark—the very number Henri had mentioned. Hearing the servant coming, he quickly restored the cuff to his pocket and indifferently inspected the articles Henri spread on a table.

"I am fully satisfied on that point," he said. "Now, I want you to give me all the information you can, and if I am able to bring him back he shall know that you helped."

"Bring him back?" gasped Henri, paling. "Do you think if he was found that it would go hard with him?"

"No, I do not," answered Hendricks, reassuringly. "The main thing now is to find him."

"I didn't think they would blame him much when they know it all," said the servant. "He was certainly out of his mind."

Hendricks gave an impatient shrug.

"I want you to tell me all you can about this Count Bantinni. What sort of man is he?"

"I never did like him, sir. He seemed to have such a strange influence over my master. I never could understand it. We always knew his peculiar sort of ring, and master would make a face when he heard it. But it wouldn't be a minute after they met till they would be drinking and laughing together like close friends."

Hendricks' face changed and a strange eagerness lighted his piercing eyes.

"That was queer," he said, tentatively. Then, as if weighing his next question, he paused for two or three minutes. Finally he asked:

"Did the count seem to have that sort of influence with anyone else?"

"He could make you do whatever he wished, sir, and you'd never know you did it."

"You are joking now," said Hendricks, but his eyes were blazing. "How do you know this?"

"I was never more serious in my life, sir. They amused themselves one

"CAN YOU GIVE ME ONE SINGLE BIT OF HOPE?"

night by making me play the fool. It was this way. They called me into the studio, and master told me they were going to try a harmless experiment on me, and that I must pay close attention to the count, and let nothing take my thoughts away. Then the count held up something bright before my eyes and kept shifting it about until all at once I fell asleep, or something happened, for I never knew a thing till I found myself lying in the corner and the count was telling me to wake up."

"Hypnotism!" involuntarily escaped the lips of the detective.

"That is it, sir; I was trying to think what they called it."

Hendricks stood up quickly.

J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $300 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

Hedgehog Worsted Viper.

M. Guiguet, a French scientist, contributes an account of a fight which he recently witnessed between a hedgehog and a viper. The two enemies knew very well at first sight who was who and eyed each other as if they knew a moment's inattention would be fatal. The viper was the first to get tired of gazing and it began to glide away. Just then the hedgehog rushed for the viper's tail, and having nailed it fast with its teeth it rolled itself up. The hedgehog was very careful, however, not to cut the tail off. The viper curled back and delivered furious assaults on its aggressor, wrestling and rolling with the curled-up hedgehog all over the place. At length the snake, wounded in a hundred places, died. The hedgehog began its repast on the tail of its victim and was careful not to eat the head.—Nature.

The Sultan and the Beans.

If the report can be believed the new sultan of Zanzibar is fond of Boston baked beans, but whether this indicates esthetic longings or merely a low grade of simianlike imitation, it is impossible at this distance to say. Probably there are Boston scientists who will study the developments of the sultan's character as a ruler, and if it proves creditable we can rest assured that the bean pot will receive full credit.

The noble sultan of Zanzibar is calling again for his beans. His clamor is echoing near and far with a terrible rumble and rumpus and jar, as back on his throne he leans.

The noble sultan of Zanzibar is calling again for them hot. The silence of night gets a terrible scar. His howl rises up to a shuddering star—and down goes the entire lot!—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Traveling in West Africa.

The absence of horses and of other beasts of burden, combined with the density of the tropical jungles and forests, renders locomotion, at all events for Europeans, especially difficult on the west coast of Africa, writes a correspondent. No roads from the coast exist through the forest and swamps; only narrow paths, like sheepwalks, which the natives traverse in single file. "We mount," adds the correspondent, "on a very light trap, drawn by six negroes, and accompanied by others. In this way we traverse all the open country; when this terminates we leave the trap, and are carried in hammocks, four men carrying each hammock, and when the bush becomes too thick for this method of transit we get out and walk."—Golden Penny.

Second Naval Lieutenant—Yaas. It's so deuced smoky.

"And it's so stwaining to the eyes."

"Yaas. And it makes your back so dweadful lame standing wound so stiffly."

"And I knew well enough that walking up and down the deck is just suah to make my feet so pwecious tendah that I cawn't dawnce the german, don't you know, for souah gwapes."

"Don't you wish the beastly war was ovah?"

What a Horse-Power Is.

A horse power is the force required to lift a dead weight of 33,000 pounds one foot a minute. To find the horse power of an engine multiply the area of the piston in inches by the average steam pressure in pounds per square inch. Multiply the product by the travel of the piston in feet per minute and divide that product by 33,000. If an engine is rated at 73-horse power it will raise 33,000 pounds one foot 73 times in one minute.—Industrial Journal.

Why He Rejoiced.

"I understood you are soon to receive a legacy of $10,000," remarked the victim in the chair.

"Yes," replied the barber, "and I'm glad of it, if only for one thing."

"What's that?" queried the victim.

"When I get it I can retire from business and eat onions for breakfast whenever I feel like it," rejoined the knight of the razor.—Chicago Daily News.

Minnesota's Legal Lacking.

The state of Minnesota has no valid inheritance law on its statute books, Judge Bunn, of the Ramsey county court, holds that the law of 1901 is unconstitutional and invalid, and decisions of other courts have already found irreparable flaws in the laws of 1897 and 1902, so that there is no inheritance law whatever.—Indianapolis News.

Difficult Part.

"What is the most difficult feature of your art?" asked the inquisitive person.

"Finding a victim who is willing to give up real money for a picture," replied the undiscovered artist.—Chicago Daily News.

TWO DEAD SHOTS.

Returned Soldiers from the Philippines Play Havoc with a Shooting Gallery's Targets.

A wiry-looking bronzed youth in a khaki uniform walked into a Philadelphia shooting gallery the other day and, picking up a rifle, began to make things hum, says the Philadelphia Press. There were four stationary bulls-eye targets, representing men and animals, at the rear of the gallery, and on these the marksman rapped out a series of clangs that resembled realistic rendition of the anvil chorus. Then he took a fresh rifle and beat a tattoo on a pair of swinging targets. A row of several scores of clay pipes next received his attention, and the proprietor of the place spent a bad five minutes figuring out the time and money it would require to replace the dhudeens that were snapped off. Several glass targets in motion were pie for the youth behind the gun. The only thing breakable remaining was a glass ball supported by a dancing water jet. This the marksman failed to smash, though he spent half an hour and considerable ready money in an endeavor before leaving. "Darn those fellows from the Philippines!" exclaimed the shooting gallery man. "That's the second one to clean me out to-day. If it hadn't been for that glass ball on the water I'd have come out to the bad both times."

NATIONALITY IN FEET.

Peculiarities of the Pedal Extremities of Some Races of the Old World.

National characteristics are many and varied and scientists are always discovering new things in which we differ from our neighbors on the continent. The latest of these is feet, says London Answers.

The French foot is narrow and long. The Spanish foot is small and elegantly curved—thanks to its Moorish blood—corresponding to the Castilian's pride of being "high in the instep." The Arab's foot is proverbial for its high arch. The Koran says that a stream of water can run under the true Arab's foot without touching it. The foot of the Scotch is high and thick; that of the Irish, flat and square; the English, short and fleshy.

When Athens was in her zenith, the Grecian foot was the most perfectly formed and exactly proportioned of that of any of the human race. Swedes, Norwegians, and Germans have the largest feet, Americans the smallest. Russian toes are "webbed" to the first joint. Tartarian toes are all the same length.

BAR BIG BANANAS.

The Large Fruit Is Nearly Always Selected by Purchasers, But It Is the Poorest.

It comes natural to everyone to get "as much as he can for his money," but in endeavoring to do so he is often led astray. The biggest is not always the best, and this applies even to such a common thing as the fruit sold in shops and streets, says London Answers.

A London dealer who has handled tons of fruit said recently: "It is often amusing to see men, women and children picking out, as they believe, the choicest fruit at the shops and off barrows. If there are half a dozen big oranges within sight, they will have them, even if it is necessary to overturn all other varieties that are sold by the piece of dozen.

"They invariably get the poorest specimens of the whole lot, and yet are not aware of it. It is only rarely you find a person who is a good judge, and he will at once size up the heaviest oranges, lemons or bananas, regardless of size, and gets the choicest fruit."

TROUBLES OF MAP-MAKING.

Although Government Has Been Engaged in the Work 20 Years, It Is Uncompleted.

The geological survey of the United States has just issued a report showing that although 20 years has been devoted to mapping out the country the larger part of it is still unsurveyed. In some of the western sections the work is attended with the greatest difficulties and dangers. Recently a party sent to map northern Montana was obliged by the severity of the weather to climb Calf mountain no fewer than eight times—the last 1,300 feet on foot—before an opportunity was presented to get a photograph of the surrounding country. The photographic method is employed in all such wild regions. When the negatives were finally secured it was after waiting all day in a driving snowstorm. Then there was a lull of a few seconds, during which six snapshots were made. During the other seven days the snow was unremitting.

The Kaiser's American Stocks.

The German emperor is reputed to have nearly $3,000,000 invested in Union Pacific and other American railway stocks, lately acquired; his experiences in German investments under the recent collapse of speculation and industry having proved costly to him.

The King of Spades.

Prof. William Petrie, the eminent English Egyptologist and explorer, is known by his London intimates as "the king of spades" on account of his mania for delving after archeological specimens.

Bogus Butterflies.

Artificial butterflies are sometimes manufactured for sale as rare specimens to natural history museums and private collectors.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The Orange Field Club football team will assemble Tuesday and Friday nights of this week for practice in preparation of the game with the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. next Saturday.

Fred Brown, of Somerville, who is a graduate of Leal's School, and who is now a student at Princeton University, has been doing some fine work on the 'varsity football eleven this fall.

The scheduled football game between the I. C. T. and Company K elevens did not take place Saturday afternoon. Seven of the I. C. T. players had not yet recovered from hurts received in a previous game and it was impossible to secure substitutes.

The Leal's School football team did not play the Rutgers Preparatory School Saturday as the Leal's team has practically disbanded for the season. It is said, however, that the Leal boys are trying to arrange a game with the Orange Field Club, which will probably be played before the season closes.

GOLF.

Miss Ashmore, the well-known golf player, was the guest of Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, of this city, last week. During her stay here she played on the Hillside course.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers, who has made an excellent record in playing golf, has been ordered by her physician, Dr. G. W. Endicott, to give up playing for a time, on account of her health.

In all probability the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will engage a professional for next year so that the members of the club will be able to improve their game. It is understood that the club has several persons in view for the position and that one will be selected early this winter.

THEATRICAL.

High class vaudeville will again be the offering at the Central Theatre, this week. Six of the best acts obtainable will be featured. The success of the Carter Stock Company's engagement, which concluded Saturday night, has induced the management to close negotiations with the Ethel Dryffin Company for a week's appearance, commencing Monday next. It is conceded to be one of the strongest repertoire organizations on the road, presenting nothing but the best dramas.

The North Plainfield fire department was called out this afternoon at 1:30 to put out a fire in a large pile of leaves at the corner of Prospect place and Washington avenue. The flames were mounting high and threatening to burn a large tree near by. The flames were quickly extinguished before they did any damage.

TO CALL PASTOR.

Marconnier Chapel Decides to Extend Call to H. J. Tulpt, Student at Rutgers College.

A congregational meeting was held at Marconnier chapel last evening, for the purpose of making arrangements for the winter's work and also to secure a pastor for the chapel. Robert Clark, Jr., and George L. VanEmburgh, of Trinity Reformed church, were in charge of the meeting, which was largely attended. It was unanimously decided to extend a call to H. J. Tulpt, a student in the Theological Seminary at Rutgers College, to become the pastor. He will be communicated with and a favorable reply is anticipated.

It was also decided that during the winter the Sunday-school will meet at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and instead of holding an evening preaching service, to hold it after the Sunday-school in the afternoon. This was considered wise in view of the bad weather usually accompanying the winter months.

ENTERED EVANGELISTIC WORK.

Rev. Mr. Leggett Left This Morning to Take Charge of Work Out West.

Rev. Lester Leggett started this morning for the west where he will enter the evangelistic field as State representative in Minnesota of the General Assembly committee of the Presbyterian church, of which Rev. Dr. Henry VanDyke is chairman and Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman secretary. Rev. Mr. Leggett was formerly a resident of Plainfield and has been spending a few weeks at the home of his wife's mother, Mrs. L. L. Martin. He resigned his pastorate at the Third Reformed church at Albany but the congregation at first refused to accept and only did so finally at his particular request.

AT HORSE SHOWS.

T. S. Wheeler Won a Number of Prizes in New York State.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Wheeler, of Park avenue, are home after an absence of several months from the city. After leaving their houseboat and yacht at Alexandria Bay, they spent two weeks at Mr. Wheeler's place in the Berkshire hills and then attended the horse shows at Lenox, Mass., Millbrook, Poughkeepsie and Goshen, N. Y. They exhibited three road horses and secured four blue ribbons, five reds and one yellow. They afterward drove home to Plainfield.

Chance to Say Good-Bye.

The Royal Blue Line train carrying Mr. and Mrs. Geo. F. Randolph on their way to Washington, was detained in this city for over a half hour Saturday afternoon owing to the blowing out of cylinder head in the engine. It gave the relatives of the departing ones a good opportunity to have a chat and say good-bye.

Hunting Season Opens.

The crack of the rifle and the roar of the shot gun in the surrounding woods and on the mountain side today was evidence in plenty that the hunting season had opened and that the huntsmen were on the alert for the squirrel, rabbit, quail and ruffled grouse on which the law has lifted its protection for a few weeks.

Senator-Elect Will be Host.

State Senator-elect S. S. Childs will entertain his friends this evening at his home in Bernardsville, when there will be a grand time for the friends of the Senator in the Democratic party of Somerset county. The affair will be an elaborate one.

A Thanksgiving Dinner.

Heavy eating is usually the first cause of indigestion. Repeated attacks inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, exposes the nerves of the stomach, producing a swelling after eating, heartburn, headache, sour risings and finally catarrh of the stomach. Kodol relieves the inflammation, protects the nerves and cures catarrh. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia, all stomach troubles by cleansing and sweetening the glands of the stomach. L. W. BOROUGH OFFENDERS APPEAR

A BATCH HALED BEFORE RECORDER DOUD THIS MORNING.

Fred Parsch Had a Heavy Sentence for a Change—The Others.

The police of North Plainfield were very busy Saturday evening and in court this morning Recorder Doud had his hands full of repentant lawbreakers.

Fred Parsch has been up before the court so many times of late on the charge of drunkenness and disorderly conduct that Recorder Doud has become tired of dealing out light sentences to him so, when Chief Marshal William Campbell was handed a warrant for his arrest Saturday morning, he started out to hunt for him and in the evening at 6:30 he had him and the prisoner was given a sentence of seven days in jail and a fine of $20.

Arthur J. Upson was arraigned before the Recorder this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct and intoxication. Sentence was suspended.

A stranger entered the Somerset Hotel Saturday night and defied the proprietor to fight him and raised considerable trouble until Officer Frank Winn came in and arrested him. His hearing will be held tomorrow evening.

COAL DROPS.

The Local Retail Price Went Down From $7 to $6.50 a Ton This Morning.

Local dealers lowered the price of coal this morning to $6.50 a ton for all household grades. It has been dropping in price by degrees for the past two weeks and up until today the price had been stationary at $7.

Shipments are beginning to come in with more regularity and it is anticipated that Plainfielders will have no trouble shortly in getting the winter supply at the same rates which prevailed before the strike.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Given for Miss Anna Bond by Her Mother Friday Evening.

Mrs. William Bond, of 104 Jackson avenue, gave a party Friday evening in honor of the fifteenth birthday of her daughter, Anna, at her home which was a very enjoyable affair. The evening was spent in playing games and listening to music. Refreshments were served during the evening. Among those present were: Misses Lizzie and Mamie Davenport, Nettie Quimmer, Mazie Maag, Clara Laushe, Buster Brown, Carrie Corson, Katie, Laura and Elsie Bodine and Herbert Conover, Fred Emmons, Bert Gray and Carl Smith.

In Justice Nash's Court.

The landlord and tenant case of Laing against Snediker will be tried before Justice Nash Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Printing in Persia.

Printing from type in Persia is not regarded with popularity. This country is at the present day entirely dependent upon lithography for the native production of books and journals—which are very rare. A short time ago a press with movable types was set up, and upon which a certain number of books were printed. The effort, however, met with no encouragement, and had to be abandoned. The unpopularity of type-printing in Persia is due to two principal causes: First, the straightness of the lines offends a Persian's artistic sense, and, secondly, in printed books the characters of the letters is entirely lost. The Persian reader prefers a well-written manuscript, and, failing this, he contents himself with a lithograph, which is usually the facsimile of the writing of some fairly good scribe.—Scientific American.

Do Stars Explode?

The appearance of a new star in the constellation of Perseus, and its rapid expansion into a nebula, which has been going on for some time past, has revived among astronomers the theory that some nebulae may be formed by explosion. About 170, Prof. Bickerton, of Canterbury college, New Zealand, showed that, if two stars should graze one another, the abraded parts, if relatively small, would have so high a temperature that they would at once become nebulous, and that the nebula so formed would, under certain conditions, continue to expand until dissipated in space. The present expanding nebula has been growing at the extraordinary rate of several thousand miles a second, and is, in many ways, one of the greatest celestial wonders of the times.—Success.

The Social Event of the Season
THE HORSE SHOW

Begins Monday, Nov. 17, at Madison Square Garden.

This Society event will attract thousands of New Jersey's gentlewomen and gentlemen. It has always been considered "a survival of the fittest" from a modish standpoint; and each season finds a steady increasing desire on the part of our good people in New Jersey to outshine the ladies of New York in the manner of apparel. This store today is the Ideal Shopping Centre, from which emanates style pre-eminent. We are showing choice productions of the world's most famous designers, and while many of the ideas are confined to us for Newark, it is a fact borne out by comparison that New York stores that have been as fortunate as ourselves ask anywhere from 20 to 50 per cent. more for identical modes.

Our Assortment Embodies Finest Tailored Gowns, Coats and Walking Suits, made from all the new cloths, weaves and imported mixtures, velvets, etc., at 29.50 to 98.00; Lace and Silk Waists, for dinner, evening and general wear, made in all the newest weaves of silk, etc., copies of imported models, at 25.00 to 57.50; Costumes and Gowns, suitable for carriage, promenade, evening and general wear, made from the newest materials and all the latest trimmings, from 35.00 to 275.00; Evening Coats and Wraps, made of white, cream and tan broadcloth, velvets, silks, etc., handsomely trimmed with laces, fancy Persian braids, furs, etc., at 39.50 to 150.00.

The Fur Section Is so complete that an attempt to describe it would be next to impossible. All the best furs, dyes and fashion's fancies are here, and marked at prices that deserve recognition, not only from the economical, but also the woman who delights in having the best at a fair profit.

SECOND FLOOR
MILLINERY for the HORSE SHOW.

Our exhibit of Imported Hats, as well as our own exclusive designs, far surpasses all other collections, either in Newark or New York. This is a broad assertion, and the one and only way to prove it is to visit our salon and examine to your entire satisfaction the superb examples on view. The leading Parisian designers have contributed their best creations and, combined with the efforts of our staff of millinery experts, present an aggregation of STYLISH MILLINERY that cannot be duplicated outside our store. No matter what price you pay us for a hat you are saving money over prices quoted by New York stores, and aside from this pleasant feature you are securing the very swellest and strictly up-to-date millinery procurable. COME IN THIS WEEK.

OUR RESTAURANT is a delightful spot to spend an hour or two between purchases. Foods are rightly prepared, and prices reasonable.

MISS COOLEY MARRIES CAPTAIN OF ENGINEERS

Wedding of Miss Grace Webster Cooley to Captain Mason Mathews Patrick.

HELD AT GLENORAN

CAPTAIN AND MRS. PATRICK WILL MAKE THEIR HOME AT WASHINGTON.

Ceremony Performed by Dr. Taylor, President of Vassar College, at 1:30 o'Clock This Afternoon at Home of the Bride's Parents.

The wedding of Miss Grace Webster Cooley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin I. Cooley, to Captain Mason Mathews Patrick, of the Engineers Corps U. S. A., took place this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the home of the bride, Glenoran. Dr. James M. Taylor, president of Vassar College, of which the bride is a graduate, performed the marriage service.

At 1:30 the bridal party descended the broad staircase to the library and from thence to the parlors where they passed down an aisle formed of white ribbons held by the Misses Helen Martin, Blossom Fitz-Randolph, Marie Honeycutt and Eleanor Lusk, to the alcove where the minister stood waiting to tie the nuptial knot.

In the bridal procession were the maid-of-honor, Miss Annie H. Gilman, of Newton, Mass., and the best man, Captain Frederick P. Reynolds, of the Medical Corps, U. S. A., now stationed at Washington. The bride's gown was of Brussels net over white satin with trimmings of point lace applique which was worn by her moher on her wedding gown. At the head a long white veil was caught which hung in graceful folds about her while in her hand she carried an handsome bouquet of lilies of the valley. The maid-of-honor's gown was of white China crepe. Mrs. Cooley wore a hansdome gown of gray satin with embroidery trimmings.

After the ceremony had been performed the bride and groom received the guests and following the reception a wedding luncheon was served.

At 3 o'clock Captain and Mrs. Patrick left the house for the depot where they boarded a train for the south where they will spend three weeks on a wedding tour. On their return they will reside at the Malborough Hotel at Washington where they have very handsomely furnished apartments awaiting them.

The decorations at the home were very handsome. They were of smilax, chrysanthemums and roses. The array of presents received were very handsome and included many sets of silverware, cut glass and pieces of furniture.

Silas D. Drake, manager of the Columbia Realty Company, of Trenton, received a letter yesterday from Jerome W. Leary, superintendent of the Trinity Syndicate, which is really the Aluminum Plate Company, stating that the latter company received yesterday before 3 o'clock the deed and guarantee title for the land at Dewey Park, upon which the new works are to be erected at once.

It will be remembered that the officers of the Aluminum Plate Company decided to change the location of its plant and through the efforts of S. D. Drake the company was led to purchase land at Dewey Park. Now that the company is in possession of the land it is proposed to build the new works as soon as possible.

HIGGINS A HERO.

Patrolman Higgins Stopped a Runaway Horse in Its Wild Career.

Patrolman Maurice Higgins did the hero act in grand style, yesterday afternoon, when he stopped a wildly plunging runaway horse at the risk of his life.

The animal belongs to George Tobin and ran away from the corner of New and West Third streets, where it had been left standing. It was tearing along at a terrific pace, when at Liberty street the patrolman ran out and grasped it by the bridle. He was dragged for many feet, but triumphed in the end and brought the panting animal to a stop within a short distance of another vehicle into which it would have crashed. The damage was nominal.

ESCAPED THE BOXER.

Missionary John Cooper Told His Experiences to Plainfielders.

John Cooper, one of the few American missionaries who passed safely through the "Boxer" uprising in China two years ago, related some of his experiences before the Missionary League of the Y. M. C. A., last evening.

Although escaping himself, Mr. Cooper lost his wife and child and suffered greatly from the atrocities of the friends who killed so many of his colleagues. The story of his wanderings, hunted from place to place, formed a thrilling narrative and it served Mr. Cooper to illustrate the marvellous grace of God. Helpful lessons were drawn from it and a visible impression was made on all who heard the story.

UNION COUNTY COUNT IS FINALLY COMPLETED

Union County Board of Election Finished Its Labors Yesterday Afternoon.

THE RETURNS DELAYED

THE TOTAL VOTE IN THIS COUNTY NUMBERED 21,367.

Total Vote for All the Candidates Who Ran for Office in Union County—The Board Has Made Its Official Announcement.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Nov. 11—The County Board of Election completed its official canvass of Union county's vote polled last Tuesday, late yesterday afternoon. Not in many years have the returns been in such a muddle and it was only by working early and late that the officers completed the count just ahead of the day when several of the officers must take office.

Following is the total vote for the various offices: For Congress—Charles N. Fowler, R., 10,722; Flanagan, D., 9,581; Beeman, S., 351; Grieb, S. L., 188; VanCise, P., 191. Senator—Cross, R., 10,717; Martine, D., 9,532; Pollak, S., 358; May, S. L., 194; Massett, P., 185. Sheriff — Coriell, R., 10,285; Moore, D., 10,054; Winkler, S., 343; Keerner, S. L., 182; McLeod, P., 179. Surrogate—Parrot, R., 11,159; Gibby, D., 9,176; New, S., 351, Mergulen, S. L., 194; Meyer, P., 178. Assembly—Newcorn, R., 10,537; Coyne, R., 11,168; Hall, R., 10,772; Moffett, D., 9,905; Marz, D., 9,178; Reiss, D., 9,330; Rost, S., 339; Cramer, S., 351; Takke, S., 334; Cullen, S. L., 190; Brandt, S. L., 193; Maeder, S. L., 195; Runyon, P., 184; Fletcher, P., 189; King, P., 184. Coroner—Sheriffs, R., 10,942; McCullion, D., 9,316; Wister, S., 354; Samer, S. L., 192; Myles, P., 177.

The total vote in the county was 21,367 and in addition there were 133 rejected ballots.

Saturday should have seen the completion of the count but even at that time returns were missing from Elizabeth, Rahway and Plainfield. The tally sheets of the Second district of the First ward and the Second district of the Third ward in Plainfield failed to give any figures for sheriff, surrogate or coroner. It is the opinion of all the officers that another method of getting the count should be arrived at.

BAGGED THE HOUND.

Inexperienced Hunter Thought He Was Shooting a Cotton-Tail.

Assuming the task of instructor for an inexperienced hunter cost Isaac Sanderson, of Washington Valley, a valuable hound, yesterday. The amateur Nimrod hails from the metropolis and was among the horde of invaders who headed for the valley at the beginning of the rabbit season. He became acquainted with Sanderson several seasons ago and the latter started out with him, taking the dog along. They had hardly been out an hour when the New Yorker banged away at what he thought was a cotton-tail scurrying through the grass. The report of the weapon was followed by a canine howl and Sanderson's dog rolled over dead.

FOUND HOUSE OCCUPIED.

But the Occupants Were Guests at a Surprise Party.

Many guests gathered last night at the home of Miss Anna Metler, of Second street, tendered a surprise to her in honor of her birthday. Miss Metler was out when the fifty odd guests arrived and when she returned home she was greatly surprised at the large number of guests there to welcome her. The evening was spent in playing games and listening to music after which refreshments were served. Many handsome presents were received by the hostess.

SHOT FRIEND BY ACCIDENT

First Fatality of Hunting Season Occurred Near Bound Brook Yesterday.

DIED AT HOSPITAL HERE

Harvey Garretson Fatally Injured by Load of Shot From Gun Carried by Friend, Albert Ord—He Tripped and Accidentally Discharged Gun—Brought Here.

The first fatal accident of the local hunting season was reported this morning when Harvey Garretson, a young man eighteen years of age died in the Muhlenberg Hospital as a result of injuries received by the accidental discharge of a shot gun.

Harvey Garretson, the son of Howard Garretson, a well-known citizen of South Bound Brook, in company with Albert Ord, a neighbor's son, went hunting yesterday afternoon for rabbits near Middlebush armed with two heavy shot guns. When near Middlebush they both spied a litter of young rabbits and started across the field in pursuit of them. The field was littered with broken corn stalks and young Garretson, who had the lightest gun, ran ahead of Ord. Suddenly Ord tripped on one of the stalks and the gun went off.

The next instant there was a piercing scream from Garretson and young Ord was horror stricken to see his companion fall to the ground with the blood streaming from his leg. Lewis Carr, who had joined the two lads a few minutes before and who had taken a round about detour of the field to head off the rabbits, heard the shot and the piercing scream and ran over to see what the trouble was.

The two companions of the injured boy saw at once that their friend was seriously injured and while Ord started out to run the two miles to the home of Dr. Cooper at Middlebush, Carr with presence of mind tore up his handkerchief and tied it about the injured member just above the injury to stop the flow of blood.

The injured boy was brought to this city where he was taken to the home of Dr. Ellis W. Hedges who ordered his removal to the hospital where the leg was amputated just above the knee. The young man gradually weakened and this morning in spite of careful nursing the patient died.

The accident was purely accidental and the father of the dead boy absolves young Ord from any blame.

A Provisional Schedule Adopted Which Will be Amended to Suit All the Clubs in the League—Season Opens December 2.

With the approach of cold weather, interest in the bowling grows again and the members of the clubs in The Dairly Press Bowling League have been hard at work for several weeks getting in good form for the opening contests in the league. To formulate plans for the season, the annual meeting of The Daily Press Bowling League was held in The Daily Press office last evening.

It did not take long to discover that the league will continue this winter with the same membership as before and on the same lines. President S. C. Greves, of Roselle, and Secretary-Treasurer Charles B. Morse, of this city, were unanimously re-elected. The membership of the league will consist of the Park Club, of this city, the Westfield Club, the Roselle Casino, and the Cranford Casino. There will be a team prize, valued at $20, for the winning team, and individual prizes for the highest average scores and highest average number of spares, valued at $10 and $5 respectively.

The Daily Press trophy is now held by the Westfield Club. It was the won two preceding years by the Roselle Casino. It is to become the property of the club winning it three times.

A provisional schedule was arranged which will be amended so as to conform with the open dates at the Roselle and Cranford Casinos, which could not be announced at last night's meeting. The opening game will be rolled Tuesday evening, December 2.

The clubs were represented at last night's meeting as follows: Park Club, William R. Faber; Roselle Casino, S. C. Greves; Westfield Club, H. R. Forster and F. W. Condit. While Cranford Casino was not represented, that club sent word that it would have a team this season and would accept the arrangements made by the other clubs.

NEARLY LOST LEG.

James O'Keefe Injured While Working on a Planer at Pond's.

James O'Keefe, a planer in the employ of the Pond Tool Works, was the victim of a serious accident Friday afternoon while at work at the factory. He was engaged in placing a heavy piece of iron on the machine and had just started the machine in operation when the rachet bob on the lathe flew out and caught in the leg of the workman, tearing out a large quanity of the muscles of the leg leaving the bone exposed. He was removed to his home on West Second street where he is reported as rapidly recovering.

GIFTS FROM DR. COLES

WERE PRESENTED TO THE NEW JERSEY HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Pictures and Curios Presented by Dr. Coles Are Now on Exhibition.

Many valuable donations have been received by the New Jersey Historical Society during the last few months, and they now help to adorn the quarters of that institution at Newark. They consist of pictures, books, manuscripts, maps, curios, etc. All of the pictures are more or less valuable ecause of the subjects. The books include comparatively recent publications and some that are quite old. Many of the curios are interesting because of their previous owners or associations, while some of them may be highly regarded because of their antiquity.

One of the most prominent of the pictures is a large portrait of Dr. Abraham Coles, presented by Dr. J. A. Coles, of Scotch Plains. Dr. Abraham Coles, who was born in 1813, in Scotch Plains, lived many years in Newark, where he was a member of the Board of Education, a trustee of Newark Academy and a director of the Newark Library Association.

Besides the portrait mentioned, Dr. J. A. Coles gave several curios. One is a French mirror, made in the time of Louis XIV. It belonged at one time to Colonel Josiah Ogden, the founder of Trinity Episcopal church. Quite awe-inspiring are the manacles and anklets taken from a slave ship that was captured by a United States man-of-war in 1850. The manacles are locked by a screw that holds them close together. The anklets, which are heavy, are connected by a thick steel chain about eighteen inches long. Dr. Coles also gave a block of polished marble that came from Nazareth.

LAND OWNERS OBJECT TO STREET WIDENING

So Proposed Improvements to Sycamore Avenue Not to be Made at Present.

REPORT TO THE COUNCIL

ADJOURNED MEETING OF COMMON COUNCIL HELD LAST NIGHT.

Little Routine Business and Report of the Street Committee Came Before the Meeting—To Accept Evergreen Avenue.

There was little business of much importance considered at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last evening. All the members except Councilmen Mellick and Murphy were present. F. A. Barnaby, of Plainfield avenue, petitioned the Council for additional electric ilghts on that avenue between Stelle and Pemberton avenues, and later in the evening, the members granted the petition, by giving an extra light and moving another one to a more desired spot.

E. G. Wilson and others petitioned for three electric lights, at Park and Moffett avenues, Moffett and Marion avenues and Marion and South End avenues. The matter was referred to the proper committee. Residents of Clinton avenue asked the Council to improve that avenue, between Third and Fourth street, with flagging, curbing, electric light, etc. In reply to this Mr. Tolles stated that these improvements are now underway and will be completed before winter sets in.

Mr. Tolles reported back the petition of G. S. Alpaugh regarding the widening of Sycamore street, and stated that nothing could be done in this matter at present. Some of the property-owners would not consent to the improvement and Mr. Tolles said that the only way the widening could be accomplished would be to have commissioners appointed.

Mr. Tolles also presented a communication from the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, signed by the president, C. J. Fisk, in which the Board asked the Council to grade and repair Randolph road near the new hospital grounds. The matter was referred to the street committee.

In accordance with the request of property-owners on Evergreen avenue, between Hillside and Woodland avenues, an ordinance to accept the avenue as a public street, was adopted on its first and second readings, and ordered advertised. There being no further business the Council adjourned, after which the street committee held a meting to consider several matters coming under its jurisdiction.

MINISTERS MET.

After the Meeting, Clergymen Were Entertained by Rev. Mr. Shaw.

The Plainfield Ministers' Association met yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, where Rev. John MacMurray, of the Monroe Avenue church, presented an interesting paper on "Twentieth Century Problems," which was followed with a helpful discussion by those present.

After the meeting the association adjourned to Mrs. Truell's on Central avenue, where its members were the guests of Rev. George B. Shaw at dinner. This part of the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all. Among those present were Rev. E. M. Rodman, Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Rev. L. E. Livermore, Rev. Edward Love, Rev. John MacMurray, Rev. L. R. Howard, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass and Rev. George B. Shaw. The time and place for the next meeting were left with the secretary, Mr. Howard, to arrange for.

HOW STATE FIGHTS AGAINST THE CARP

Active Campaign Being Pursued Against This Fish in Jersey Waters.

THIS SEASON'S WORK

HOW THE CARP WAS FIRST INTRODUCED INTO AMERICAN PONDS.

Fifteen Tons of Carp Have Been Removed This Fall by Contractor Baudenistel, of Harrison —He Visited Here.

Under the supervision of the State Fish and Game Commission, over fifteen tons of carp have been taken from the waters of this State by Gustave Baudendistel, of Harrison avenue, Harrison, and a corps of assistants, within the last few weeks.

Experience has taught the commissioners that the existence of this fish in the ponds, lakes and rivers is a serious hindrance to the cultivation of game fish, such as bass, pickerel, pike and trout. The carp is a native of China, where it has domesticated for centuries. Nearly 300 years ago it was taken to Northern Europe, where it is said to be now regarded as a valuable, good fish. Several years ago the United States Fish and Game Commission introduced it into the waters on this side of the Atlantic. It was expected to do well here and to materially add to the supply of good fish. Its introduction, however, like that of some other importations of fish and game, has, at least as far as the experience of the commissioners of this State goes, proved a nuisance of the most aggravating kind.

The carp is a dull, sluggish fish, preferring shaded, tranquil and weedy waters with muddy bottoms. It is a very hardy fish, grows rapidly and has an immense fecundity, 700,000 eggs, it is said, having been found in a single fish. It is almost superfluous to state that the carp multiplies very rapidly, easily accommodating itself to the waters here. It is the belief of the fish and game commissioners of the State that in a great many of the ponds, lakes and rivers the carp have practically driven out the superior indigenous fish, and it is maintained by them that unless a stop is put to their propagation it would be only a question of time before there would be no fish in New Jersey's waters but carp.

The edible quality of the fish is not appreciated here, and, viewed from the standpoint of an angler, the fish is a failure. Not only, it is said, do the carp destroy the clearness of the streams, so necessary to the development of native fish, but they have shown a decided liking for the spawn of the native fish. Although the bass and other fish may successfully defend its young against the ordinary intruder in their nests, they stand no chance against the bulky carp, which, on account of its strength and size, easily overcomes the weapons given by nature to them.

Under these circumstances the Commissioners of this State, some years ago, deemed it necessary to take energetic measures toward putting a stop to the further importing of carp here. The Legislature was appealed to for help, and passed a law making it an offense to liberate carp in any of the waters of New Jersey. It is said that this law was not passed a day too soon, for the State was threatened with the introduction of the English tench, in reality, it is claimed, nothing but carp of a very inferior quality to those already imported.

The commissioners immediately set to work and had fishermen net the carp in places where they most abounded. The work has been prosecuted with untiring zeal, but to a great extent the evil was already done, and carp are still on the increase in the State.

Mr. Baudenistel and his assistants are at present the only fishermen netting the carp in the State. His work recently has been chiefly in Passaic, Bergen, Essex and Union counties. Much interest is manifested in the work of the fishermen wherever they go.

At Tier's Pond, in this city, hundreds of curiosity seekers, attracted by the large catches, collected on the banks and watched with undisguised interest the operations. This was also the case at New Market Lake, the Rahway Reservoir, Seivis's Pond, in Dunellen, and New Brooklyn Lake, in South Plainfield. At Tier's Pond Mr. Baudendistel caught 1,900 pounds, and at New Market Lake he caught 1,800 pounds. One of the fish netted at the former place weighed, it is asserted, thirty-one pounds.

The fishermen used different kinds of nets, according to the nature of the place in which they fish. Some of them measure from 150 to 400 feet in length. The most commonly used is the "pound" net, a drag net for deep water. The "fike" net is a set net, as is also the tangle net. The latter has three separate parts, of which the meshes of the two outer measure about twelve inches, while the meshes in the inner measures about one inch. The "bag" net is used for dragging. It is formed like a bag in the centre.

As soon as the fish are caught they are put in tank wagons filled with water and carted away. Just now, during the Hebrew holidays, Mr. Baudendistel has sold hundreds of pounds to dealers in Fulton Market, New York. It is said that during these days is the only time that there is any demand whatever for carp. The great bulk of the fish, however, is sold for fertilizing purposes.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The overwhelming defeat of Meeker, author of the act consolidating city and State and Federal elections, and the defeat of Major Lentz in Essex, meant that the people want separate local elections. Will the Republican party in the Legislature obey the popular decree? There was no issue in last Tuesday's contest more clearly defined than this. Shall not the people be obeyed?

There were scores of illustrations of the evil effects of the combined election scheme, but if there were none the duty of the Republican party to the people would remain the same. The election declared against the Meeker act. That should be enough for any Senator, for any Assemblyman, who believes in popular government.

Newark, East Orange, Orange, Elizabeth, Jersey City, Paterson all spoke with decision last Tuesday. Let not their voice be ignored. The people have spoken. Repeal the Meeker act.—Newark Call.

The returns of the election from North Plainfield on Tuesday last have in a great measure removed the political reason for keeping that borough in Somerset county. The Republicans there have shown that they will not vote for their party so long as they are denied the privilege of joining fortunes with Plainfield. With North Plainfield out of Somerset county at the recent election, the Republicans would have carried the county and elected their senator and assemblyman. When this fact is brought to the attention of the Legislature there will not be so much doubt on the part of the majority as to the wisdom of passing any legislation needed to transfer the borough to Union county. It may not be possible to secure the passage and approval of a law to do this without the referendum, as the annexationists wish to do, but with the issue open and aboveboard, with no charges of crookednses to combat, the annexationists ought to win when the people are again asked for their verdict.—Newark News.

A BIG BRIDGE ON FIRE

Temporary Work of New East River Structure Burned.

RUMORS OF MANY FATALITIES.

New York Fire Department Powerless, and Flames Are Allowed to Burn Themselves Out—Damage to Steel Cables Feared.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The temporary wooden structure around the upper portion of the western tower of the new Brooklyn bridge took fire yesterday afternoon and burned fiercely for several hours. When the fire was discovered, several water towers were dispatched to the bridge. It was found impossible for the water towers to cope with the flames, and it was decided to allow the fire to burn itself out. A crowd of from 5,000 to 10,000 people assembled, and there were wild rumors that many persons had been killed.

The fire started in some unknown way among the wooden superstructure near the top of the New York tower, 355 feet above the water.

A number of workmen are known to have been there when the fire started, and it has not yet been ascertained whether they escaped with their lives or not. It is feared that they were dropped that fearful distance with the parts of the superstructure which were burned away by the flames.

Ferryboats plying between New York and Brooklyn were crowded with excited throngs, all pushing and crowding for points of vantage.

The fire lit up the sky and attracted thousands of people to Brooklyn bridge, where an excellent view of the spectacle was to be had.

All the way up the great tower from the pier out in the river to the top there were the yellow pine wooden platforms and stairs along which the men did their work.

All this structure was blazing in a geyser of flame which it was practically impossible for the firemen to combat.

Swinging from the tower to the west toward the Bowery was a great festoon of flame and blaze from the burning footwalks and other wooden structures along the cables.

Even if the flames do not destroy the structure so that it falls it is feared that the temper of the costly steel work and cables will be entirely ruined by the fierce heat.

The fire was one of the most spectacular ever seen. From the top of the towers, the sides of which were wrapped in fire, rose floating streamers of flame and smoke. Drawn against the black sky were the four loops of flame along the cables.

To Boom Canada.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The Canadian emigration office in London, which was recently promoted to the dignity of a special bureau, with a commissioner of its own, is preparing to branch out on an extensive scale, with the view of popularizing emigration to the northwest. Two floors have been secured in a new building going up at Charing Cross in the midst of the railroad and steamship offices. Contracts have been placed for fitting up the office exclusively with Canadian woodwork, office furniture and a steam heating plant. It will contain a complete exhibit of Canadian products. Commissioner Preston said, "We expect next year to place 100,000 emigrants in western Canada, and we shall probably draw a third each from the United States, the United Kingdom and from the rest of Europe."

May Contest Cunneen's Election.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Colonel George W. Dunn, chairman of the Republican state committee, and Deputy Attorney General Henry B. Coman will confer and decide on the methods to be pursued in contesting the election of John Cunneen of Buffalo as attorney general. The Republican leaders contend that Mr. Cunneen's name was illegally placed on the ballot as the candidate of both the Prohibition and Democratic parties and that Judge Bischoff erred when he issued an order directing Secretary of State McDonough to print Mr. Cunneen's name under the Prohibition emblem.

Lippincott Pleaded Guilty.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 11.—Thomas C. Lippincott, until recently cashier and head bookkeeper of the Montclair Water company, pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with embezzlement. Lippincott was sentenced by Judge Skinner to an indefinite term in the Rahway reformatory. The court remarked that the young man's stealing covered a period of five years and amounted to $8,000. Lippincott moved in the best society in Montclair and was a member of the Essex troop, the Montclair club and the Montclair Athletic club.

Cannon Indorsed For Speaker.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—A majority of the Illinois delegation to congress gathered here and indorsed Congressmen Cannon of the Eighteenth Illinois district for speaker of the United States house of representatives to succeed Speaker Henderson. A committee, with Congressman Mann as chairman, was appointed to further Cannon's interests. Headquarters will be opened in Chicago.

Governor Odell Returns.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Governor and Mrs. Odell returned last night from the Adirondacks and proceeded at once to the executive mansion. The governor stated that he had enjoyed his few days' rest. He left for New York early this morning to be present at the exercises in connection with the dedication of the new Chamber of Commerce building in that city.

THE ISLE OF PINES.

President Orders Investigation of Affairs There.

ALARMING COMPLAINTS PRESENTED.

Citizens of United States Residing on the Island Say That Anarchy Is Threatened—No Schools or Courts.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—President Roosevelt has asked the secretary of war to make a report on the situation regarding the Isle of Pines as it was at the time of the withdrawal of the United States from Cuba and also of the government of that island during the time the United States was in control in Cuba.

In an interview Mr. T. J. Keenan of Pittsburg, who is president of the American Residents and Property Owners' association of the island, said that the condition of affairs on the island was so bad that United States Minister Squiers had virtually advised a delegation of American Pine islanders who recently called on him in Havana to take matters into their own hands and establish a provisional government. Continuing, Mr. Keenan said:

"The Isle of Pines is on the verge of anarchy, having no governor, no courts or magistrates, no schools and no revenue. All taxes and customs dues paid by the islanders go into the Cuban treasury, and not a cent is expended for their benefit. All property and other records are kept in Cuba, and transfers of real estate are rendered well nigh impossible by the enormous fees demanded by Cuban officials. All elections have been suspended, and American interests are absolutely unprotected, and yet American citizens own nearly one-half of the island and are a majority of the tax paying population."

The question of the control of the Isle of Pines was brought directly to the attention of President Roosevelt by a delegation consisting of S. H. Pearey, J. H. H. Randall, T. J. Keenan and J. H. Hill, all citizens of the United States residing in the Isle of Pines.

It was shown that the party represented more than 300 citizens of the United States who have taken up residence in the Isle of Pines. Many have made large investments on the island in land and improvements under the belief that the United States would control it. The president was informed that more than half of the island is owned by American citizens.

As a result of the turning over of the Isle of Pines to the republic of Cuba for administrative purposes things are said by the delegation to be in a chaotic state on the island.

Cubans Hanker For Cockfights.

HAVANA, Nov. 11.—A heavy rain interfered with the public demonstration which was held here in the interest of legalizing cockfights in Cuba and rescinding the military order prohibiting it. There were five bands of music in the procession which marched through the streets of Havana, but only 500 countrymen, on foot and on horseback, turned out for the occasion. Banners proclaiming cockfighting to be the national sport of Cuba were much in evidence. Several winning gamecocks were proudly exhibited in the procession. The demonstrators were refused an audience by President Palma, but presented their petition in favor of cockfighting to the senate. Other petitions in favor of the sport have been presented to congress from all parts of the island.

A Raid by the Bears.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Under the guidance of one of the biggest operators in the state the bear party in the Stock Exchange yesterday raided stocks for five hours without opposition and had the market entirely under their control. So great was the financial stress on the Stock Exchange late in the afternoon that three big financial institutions loaned from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 at the current rate of 5½ and 6 per cent. The National City bank loaned $4,000,000 at 5½ per cent. This great slump in the stock market, which extended to all listed issues, cost the bull contingent many millions of dollars.

Freedmen's Aid Society.

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 11.—The annual meeting of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Educational society opened at the State Street Methodist church in this city yesterday, Bishop Daniel A. Goodsell presiding. The meeting opened with a devotional service conducted by Rev. J. C. Arbuckle of Cleveland, O. The afternoon session was almost entirely used up on a discussion of the amount of money to be appropriated for the schools committee. It was finally agreed that the amount of the conference collections for the present year, $195,850, be appropriated.

The Corn Crop.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The preliminary estimate of the average yield per acre of corn, as published in the monthly report of the statistician of the department of agriculture, is 26.8 bushels as compared with an average yield of 19.7 bushels in 1901, 25.3 bushels in 1900 and 1899 and a ten year average of 23.4 bushels.

GYPSIES MAKE TROUBLE.

Band at Rochester Arrested For Killing a Boy.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Last week a band of gypsies arrived in this city and took quarters near the Driving park. There were about seventy-five in the party. They told fortunes, and on Sunday at least 10,000 people visited the camp. Sunday night a free for all fight took place, brought about by one of the men striking a boy with a horsewhip. One man had his scalp cut open with a club, and during the melee one of the gypsy women was struck and her arm broken. The Fifth precinct police quelled the riot, but made no arrests.

The police then gave notice to the gypsies that they must move. Last night another crowd was about the camp when an altercation started between the gypsies and the gang of boys. In the darkness a gypsy standing beside a tent fired a shot into the crowd. The bullet took effect in the abdomen of Raymond Banks. He fell to the ground, but his companions picked him up and carried him some distance away. An ambulance was called, and the boy was removed. Before the ambulance reached the City hospital Banks died, and the body was taken to St. Mary's hospital and news of the murder sent to the Fifth police precinct. Fears of a mob caused a riot call, and every available policeman in the city was sent to the camp. An immense crowd gathered, but no violence followed.

The police have put every man in the camp under arrest and taken them to the central station. The murdered boy was eighteen years of age and had taken no part in the disorder.

VICTIM OF WITCHCRAFT.

Fearful Atrocities Inflicted Upon an Alaska Indian.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 11.—Advices from Skaguay via Juneau give brief details of a horrible example of witchcraft and superstition in the Hoonah Indian village forty miles from Juneau.

Though quiet and peaceable, the Hoonah Indians are very superstitious, and nearly every year one or more members suffer violent death. Several days ago the Indians took a man who was believed to be possessed of a devil and made him the victim of frightful atrocities. His ears were cut off and his body was frightfully hacked in an unsuccessful effort to drive out the demon.

The victim was troubled with epileptic fits, which continued. He was buried alive in the earth and his scalp cut off inch by inch. Officers have hurried to the scene from Juneau on a special steamer.

Only Homesick, Says Dole.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Secretary Hitchcock has received from Governor Dole of Hawaii a statement denying reports of ill treatment of several thousand Porto Ricans on Hawaiian sugar plantations. The laborers went to Hawaii at the solicitation of the Sugar Planters' association, and the complain was made by Pedro J. Agostini, father of one of the workmen. The governor says after an investigation that the desire of some of the laborers to return to Porto Rico arises from homesickness, influenced by imaginative persons, and will subside with time and that the condition of the industrious Porto Ricans is satisfactory and their health has improved.

Liberal University to Be Moved.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 11.—The Liberal university of Silverton, Ore., is to be removed to Kansas City after the first of the year, and the fall term will be opened here Oct. 1 next. The university directors have purchased the Pepper building, owned by the Pepper estate of Philadelphia and one of the largest structures in the city, as a home for the university, paying $85,000 cash for the property. The Liberal university was established several years ago and has received endowments from freethinkers in various parts of the country.

Praise For the "Scab."

BOSTON, Nov. 11.—It was a great surprise to the members of the Economic club of Boston at their banquet to hear President Eliot of Harvard denounce the labor unions of the country as opposed to the education of young men and what he termed "their fight against the development of manly instincts." In closing he characterized the strike breaker or "scab," as he called him, as "a good type of the American hero."

DIGG'S UPRIGHT FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

The Best on Earth! We Challenge the World!

The Extinguishers that turn up-side-down to discharge are good of their kind, but this is far better. Read the following reasons:

Points of superior merit of the Diggs-Upright over any other machine—

1—A sealed acid bottle and an air-tight tank. No change in the conditions of the chemicals possible.

2—Can never be discharged by accident; absolutely under the control of the operator.

3—A 3-gallon machine of this type contains ONE QUART more of liquid than a reversible, because it does not require a handle underneath.

4—It does not need inspection and recharging as required for the reversible with its loose stopple.

5—The acid being released at the top of the tank, and the outlet being at the bottom, the mingling of the chemicals is so thorough before the acid reaches the outlet that it is completely neutralized and no harm can be done to flesh or fabric. In the reversible type the acid is released within the two inches of the outlet.

6—Convenience in handling. The machine stands on its bottom, and all the operator has to do is to turn the screw in the cap, and the flow begins instantly.

7—The bottle is not broken, and no nuisance of broken glass.

MARKLE MINES OPEN

Independent Operators and Employees Finally Agree.

ALL SAVE THIRTEEN REINSTATED.

The 2,500 Men Had Refused to Make Individual Applications For Reinstatement—Trouble at Coxe Collieries Unsettled.

HAZLETON, Pa., Nov. 11.—G. B. Markle & Co. and their 2,500 men who refused to return to work because they were asked to make individual application for their positions have come to an agreement, and operations at the four Markle collieries were resumed this morning.

The company offered to reinstate all the employees except the thirteen recently evicted and not to discriminate against members of the union on condition that the men agree to abide by the decision of the arbitration commission and answer questions as to their age and other details before resuming their places. These terms were accepted. The thirteen evicted employees who will not be taken back according to the company officials under any consideration will be provided for by the United Mine Workers. Among this number are the president, the secretary and the treasurer of the Jeddo local union.

A conference was held at Drifton between the officials of Coxe Bros. & Co. and a committee of the company's employees to bring about if possible a settlement of the difficulty at the Coxe collieries, which have not yet resumed operations because of the refusal of the men to apply individually for their old positions as required.

The mine workers' committee presented a demand that all the men be reinstated and that the company give a guarantee that it will abide by the decision of the arbitration commission. It is understood that President Stearns agrees to reinstate all men for whom places can be found, but declines to discharge any nonunionists to make room for strikers.

President Stearns has returned to New York. His proposition, it is said, is not satisfactory to the men and will probably be rejected.

Another Strike Threatened.

TAMAQUA, Pa., Nov. 11.—At a meeting of the employees of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company a committee was appointed to wait upon W. D. Zehner, the superintendent, and inform him that unless the 218 officials of the various local unions in the Panther creek valley who, it is claimed, have been blacklisted are reinstated in their old positions before the end of the week a general strike will be ordered.

Last of the Troops Called Home.

HAZLETON, Pa., Nov. 11.—The remainder of the First regiment, eight companies, which have been kept here since the other companies left for home, returned to Philadelphia this morning at 9 o'clock. The miners and owners of the individual mining operations in this section having reached an agreement on their differences, it was concluded to release the entire eight companies of the regiment.

Miners Indicted For Murder.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 11.—True bills have been returned against Harry Simrauth, Thomas Pristosch and Harry Shubah for the murder of James Winston at Grassy Island on Sept. 25 last. The trio were strikers, and Winston was working at the Grassy Island colliery during the strike. A crowd set upon Winston as he was going to work and clubbed him to death.

Compromise on Cuban Rebate.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—While the Cuban reciprocity treaty remains in Havana, President Palma has supplied Senor Quesada, the Cuban minister here, full instructions as to the representations to be made to the United States government respecting it, and these have already been made known to Secretary Hay. It is gathered that the main issue between the negotiators is the rate of rebate to be allowed upon Cuban sugar and tobacco entering the United States, and, as indicated last week, it is probable that there will be a compromise between the 25 per cent which the United States government is willing to allow and the 50 per cent which the Cubans demand.

Steamer Wrecked; Ninety-six Lost.

MELBOURNE, Nov. 11.—The British steamer Elingamite, bound from Sydney, N. S. W., for Auckland, has been wrecked on Three Kings islands, thirty-eight miles northwest of New Zealand. Forty-one of those on board the steamer were saved, and ninety-six are missing. The steamer Elingamite belonged to Huddart-Perker & Co. of Melbourne. She was used in the general passenger and mail service carried on by this company between the colonies and along the coast of Australia.

Dove Fifty Feet to Save a Man.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 11.—John Perew dove fifty feet and rescued a drowning man here. John Dugan fell from a boat at the Pittsburg Coal company's plant. Perew was at work on the machinery fifty feet above the water. Dugan was going down for the third time. Perew sprang and cleared the boat. He seized Dugan just in time. The men were hauled on board, the water was pumped out of Dugan, and he revived.

AN OBJECT LESSON.

Plainfield and North Plainfield have been occupying somewhat similar positions in their respective counties. Each municipality is strongly Republican and has been counted on to furnish sufficient plurality for the Republican county ticket to elect it. Despite this fact, both city and borough have been coming out the little end of the horn as far as nominations on the Republican ticket are concerned. In the election of last week, however, North Plainfield demonstrated in rather forcible manner that if it did not get what it desired, there was going to be trouble in the camp for the offending party. Plainfield, on the contrary, fell in line and gave the Republican candidates the pluralities which ensured their victory.

This object lesson in Somerset county has not been without its effect on the politicians of Plainfield. From time immemorial, the local delegation has been accustomed to attend the Republican convention at Elizabeth, make a fight for certain nominations only to be defeated and accept such remains of the slate as Elizabeth was willing to concede, and then come back to Plainfield and elect that ticket. Now some of the local Republicans are wondering what would happen if Plainfield followed North Plainfield's example and bolted if things didn't happen to come her way. Such a bolt would defeat the Republican candidates and might open the eyes of the Elizabeth contingent.

While this talk about bolting is only of a most vague nature, yet it may be the means of making some material changes in the situation at Elizabeth. There are some prominent in local party affairs, who are still sore over the results of the last county convention. It would not require a great deal to start these workers along the same lines taken by Mayor Smalley and his borough assistants. If, therefore, the wishes of the majority of the local leaders are ignored again next year, it is not beyond the bounds of possibility that something may happen in Union county next year that will surprise people as much as did the happenings over in Somerset this fall.

An ordinance is now before the Common Council which provides for the changing of the name of La Grande avenue to East Seventh street. The reasons for the change have been given in this column already. So far little or no opposition has developed and it seems likely that the Council will pass the ordinance. As in all other questions of public nature, the columns of The Daily Press are open to those who desire to express themselves on the subject.

Very apropos was the comment of the Newark News on the recent election in Somerset. It was: "Senator Charles A. Reed stuck his head out of his political grave on Tuesday just long enough to chuckle over the stab in the back inflicted on Lew Thompson. Now is the time to screw down the coffin lid to prevent another such grewsome spectacle."

U. S. Senator Kean owes the voters of Plainfield a debt of gratitude for electing his choice to the State Senate. He ought to show his appreciation of that fact by allowing the patrons of his water company to pay for their water supply by meter instead of according to the number of taps as at present.

For years a pie man at Pittsburg had a pretty steady business, but it did not grow, relates the Philadelphia Record. Two years ago he began to advertise in the newspapers and since then he has had to double the number of his delivery wagons. The relation of cause and effect in this case is very clear.

Next week will see the opening of the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League. This triangular league promises to arouse more interest than ever in that popular sport. Unfortunately, neither of the local gymnasiums, where the games will be played, are prepared to accommodate any great crowd.

North Plainfield will learn the details of the sewer question in a short time for the report of the Sewage Commission is practically ready and will soon be presented to the Borough Council. North Plainfield must have sewers. The only question is when and how.

DUNELLEN.

On Thursday and Friday, November 20 and 21, the women of the Presbyterian church of Dunellen will hold a "Fair of Holidays." Great preparations have been making for weeks and in many respects this will doubtless be the event of the season. Every visitor will receive without charge a plate of ice cream and in addition, each woman will be presented with a copy of the now famous souvenir cook book, to which the women of the congregation have contributed receipts over their own names, or initials. A superior chicken supper will be served Thursday evening and a big oyster supper Friday evening, each from 6 to 8 o'clock. The display of articles will be large and choice. Every thing points to this being a charming affair and a great success.

A special meeting of the Borough Council was called last evening for the purpose of investigating if there was any impediment to the Aluminum Press Company erecting its new plant on the old Pope property. It was claimed by some that North avenue, properly, went through that property. All the borough records and minutes were searched but there was nothing to show that any part of the Pope property had been declared a public highway. Therefore Borough Counsel Willis, who was present, advised the Council not to take any action and to help further the plans of the company. Mr. Leary, the superintendent who was present also, said that work would now go rapidly forward.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Craig arrived home after their wedding trip, Sunday evening. They will reside on Craig place, Plainfield.

A meeting of the committee of arrangements for the Presbyterian fair was held last evening at the home of Miss Emma Craig.

THE BALDWINS MAY CHANGE

THE GREAT LOCOMOTIVE WORKS MAY GO TO PHILLIPSBURG.

Talk of Locating Close to the New Plant of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Company.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Paillipsburg, Nov. 11—Many residents of Phillipsburg have formed the opinion that the Ingersoll-Sergeant Drill Company, of which former Mayor Grace, of New York, is president, only intends locating its foundry department on the new site near Phillipsburg. Official statements prove that such is not true, but on the contrary it is stated that the plant when completed will give employment to at least 4,000 men.

Representatives of the Baldwin Locomotive Works at Philadelphia have visited Phillipsburg and in company with an Ingersoll official, inspected the land where the Ingersoll plant will be located, with a view, it is said, of moving its plant to that place.

It is learned that the Baldwin company has had an option on the Thomas Iron Company's farm at Bingen, and the option expires November 20. So far no favorable action on the acceptance of that site has been taken.

An Easton, Pa., attorney, who was included in the party of officials, said after the Baldwin people left, that there was strong reason to believe that the Baldwin Locomotive Company would be in possession of options on a large tract of land near the Ingersoll site, within a few days, and that with the influence of the heads of the latter company, the company might be induced to locate close by.

It is suggested that now is the time for Phillipsburg to amend its charter and become a city, by taking in adjoining territory which would immediately add about 3,000 to the population of the town.

DUNELLEN'S FAIR.

Close of Three Day's Fair of St. John's R. C. Church at Dunellen.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Nov. 11—The three days' fair of St. John's church closed Saturday evening. On the whole the fair was the most successful the church has ever held and the proceeds will be very large. Great credit is due to the committee of arrangements and Rev. Father Dumphy, who supervised the whole as it was because of their efforts that the fair was such a success.

Dancing, as usual, was the most popular amusement Saturday night and hundreds of the pretty ribbon fans have been sold. Very acceptable music was furnished by Prof. O'Reilly. Although a number of prizes had been given before the most interest centered in the drawing for the Morris chair and the $10 gold piece. The lucky winners were Ludlow Frazee, who got the chair and Mrs. Campbell, who secured the money. A number of other prizes were Rev. Father Dumphy, securing a handsome silk umbrella and others a sack of sugar and other groceries.

The wheel of fortune and the fish pond have been the two greatest means of revenue, during the fair, and have netted a good sum by themselves. People from Somerville, Plainfield, Westfield and other places thronged the fair Saturday evening.

THEATRICAL.

The bill at Keith's Theatre, New York, will be headed by Eddie Girard and Jessie Gardner, who will present a comedy sketch. Mr. Girard is best known to the theatre going public as the star of "Natural Gas." Tom Ryan and Mary Richfield appear in a sketch by Will M. Cressy entitled "Mag Haggerty's Father." The Andersen Brothers, acrobats, are about the best in their line of work, and Edward Latell, with his musical specialties, needs no introduction to the patrons of the better class of vaudeville houses. Bruno and Russell, have a dancing act, and Simmons and White have a very laughable blackface skit. Fyne and Dandy, barrel jumpers and acrobats, supply no small measure of the comedy. Clarice Vance, who bills herself as the "The Southern Singer," and who is probably the best known singer of coon songs in America; Sailor and Barberetto, vocalists; the Lucadors jugglers; Howley and Leslie, singers and dancers; Pauline Saxon, the originator of "Sis Perkins Girl," an unique type of rural character, has also some very clever straight comedy work; Pelot, the juggler, and seven-teen other strong turns.

Made Favorable Impression.

Prof. Thomas C. Hall, of Union Theological Seminary, who is at present occupying the pulpit at the Crescent Avenue church, has made a favorable impression. He will continue to occupy the pulpit the rest of this month.

Wm. J. Luckey is spending a week among friends in Sullivan county, N. Y., where he went Sunday.

- Muncy Blankets -

— Opening Window Display Today —

All the desirable kinds made by the Muncy Woollen Co., now on sale in our blanket department—Each Pair Bearing the Muncy Woollen Co. Ticket as a guarantee of their genuineness. The merits of these Blankets have been so well presented by the Muncy Woollen Co. in yesterday's paper that other mention in this connection would possibly be superfluous. The statement, however, is made—following their letter, that this make of blankets are under the exclusive control of other people. In this connection we should possibly say that this store does not advertise anything that is not properly represented in their stock. The Crosby & Hill Syndicate of Stores, of which the Hill & Shupp Plainfield Store ranks among the strongest, are recognized as heavy substantial buyers by all the important manufacturers and importers, and there is no important line of goods that cannot be secured by them, and their large outlet for merchandise places them on the jobbers buying bases. This line of Muncy Blankets you will find here in complete variety and undoubtedly at Better Prices than can be offered by stores who buy as single retailers.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL URGED.

Chief of Naval Equipment Reports on Wireless Telegraphy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Government control of all wireless telegraph stations along the coasts of the United States is recommended by Rear Admiral Royal B. Bradford, chief of the bureau of equipment, in his annual report. Foreign governments, it is pointed out, are exercising careful supervision over the location of wireless stations within their waters, thus insuring prompt transmission of messages at all times. Admiral Bradford says it is proposed to establish wireless telegraph stations for the purpose of instructing officers and men at Newport, New York, San Francisco and probably other naval stations. In order to ascertain the effect of heat, which is said to be injurious to the successful working of wireless apparatus, a station will be established at Key West, Fla.

Although other naval powers are far in advance of the United States in the installation of wireless telegraph appliances on board naval ships, Rear Admiral Bradford does not think any ground has been lost by the United States in pursuing a conservative policy in the adoption of some particular system for use in the navy. Many vessels are now ready for the installation of wireless apparatus, and others are being prepared. No satisfactory results have yet been obtained by the board of officers in charge of the tests of the various systems, and it is proposed to purchase other instruments for trial before a selection is made.

Four systems of wireless telegraphy have been developed in Europe which seemed promising. The bureau has purchased two sets of each and certain appliances from the makers which appeared promising. Attention is called to the need of officers for studying the wireless system, only three having been engaged in this work thus far. In foreign navies commissions of distinguished officers are engaged solely in this service.

THE PRESIDENT'S TRIP.

Roosevelt's Southern Itinerary Made Public.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—After attending the exercises and banquet in connection with the dedication of the new Chamber of Commerce building in New York today President Roosevelt will leave that city on a special train over the Pennsylvania railroad for Memphis, Tenn., going by way of Pittsburg, Cincinnati and Louisville and arriving at Memphis on Thursday morning.

From Memphis the president will go to Mississippi on a bear hunt as the guest of President Fish of the Illinois Central railroad. He will be absent on the hunt five days. No itinerary of that part of the trip is made public. Indeed, it would be impossible at this time to indicate even approximately the route to be followed by the president after he leaves Memphis.

The president will return to Memphis on the morning of Wednesday, the 19th inst., and during that day and evening will participate in the celebration in honor of General Luke Wright, vice governor of the Philippines. He will deliver a speech on that occasion.

At midnight of the 19th the president and his party will start for Washington, arriving here on the morning of Friday, the 21st inst. That day will be spent here. On the morning of the 22d the president will go to Philadelphia to attend the exercises of Founders' day, returning again to Washington on the morning of the 23d inst.

A Promoter Indicted.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 11.—Theodore Stegner of this city, a well known promoter, has been indicted by the grand jury on a charge of promoting a mining fraud. The case was worked up by a local postoffice inspector, who presented evidence to the jury tending to show that Stegner, who had advertised for sale shares in a copper mining company in Arizona, represented that the company owned four mines, whereas it is alleged it controlled but one. Stegner's company was known as the Pittsburg Copper Mining and Reducing company and was capitalized at $2,500,000. Stegner, the finding of the jury says, sold stock to persons and induced them to purchase stock and turn money over to him which, the indictment alleges, he converted to his own use.

Colorado to Connecticut In Wagon.

MILFORD, Conn., Nov. 11.—George E. Fitzsimmons has arrived at his old home here in a prairie wagon from Colorado City, which place he left on the morning of July 4. Mr. Fitzsimmons left here in May, 1901, with his wife and three children for the west because of his wife's ill health. When she had recovered, the trip east in a wagon was begun. When Fort Madison, Ia., was reached, Mrs. Fitzsimmons and the children left the wagon because of the cold nights and made the rest of the trip by rail. A pair of horses made the entire trip and were in good condition at the finish.

A Big Crop of Potatoes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The preliminary estimate of the yield per acre of potatoes is 95.4 bushels against an average yield per acre of 65.5 bushels in 1901, 80.8 bushels in 1900 and a ten year average of 75.9 bushels. Of the states having 100,000 acres or upward in potatoes all except New York and Michigan report a yield per acre considerably above their ten year averages. The average as to quality is 90.4 per cent as compared with 78.4 per cent in November last.

Poultney Bigelow Injured.

MUNICH, Bavaria, Nov. 11.—Poultney Bigelow, the author, was thrown from his horse yesterday and broke his collar bone while hunting with the officers of the garrison.

HERE AT HOME.

Plainfield Citizens Gladly Testify.

It is testimony like the following that has placed "the little conqueror" so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Plainfield citizen:

Mr. Charles Giese, a cigar manufacturer of 25 Elm place, says: "I was subject to attacks of kidney complaint for two or three years. Most of the pain was in my back and hips and I could not stoop or straighten without feeling sharp, shooting twinges. When I sat for any length of time I grew so stiff and sore and was compelled to get up and move about. I grew so bad I had to do something for it. I had read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills being such good medicine for kidney troubles so I got a box of them at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I used them according to directions and after two or three days I felt better. I continued their use until the pain disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

Letters from Women
Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.
If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.
Kodol Cures
This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each.
Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.
I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me.

paint is usable. To be worth putting on it must be durable, and to be durable it must be top quality. The general war of wind, sun and rain upon houses knows no cessation or truce. FOR GENERAL UTILITY.

Flannel Waists—Waist and Skirt Costumes of Heavy Wool.

Flannel waists are a winter necessity, and the demand for smart woolen materials is decidedly on the increase. The new printed flannels are charmingly trimmed with quaint rings and strappings of black glace. Dark blue flannels are ornamented with rich oriental designs down the front and on the cuffs. Plaid flannels are returning to popular favor. They are made up most stylishly, fastening on one side with three buttons. Pale green flannels are printed with delicate designs of violets, and delicate pinks and blues are similarly treated.

A USEFUL GOWN.

For steamer and sporting wear the new sweaters in cream wool are very smart and very becoming to those having good figures.

Useful shirt waists are made of rough cheviot. The waists are strapped, and the skirts, laid in stitched plaits, reach a little above the ground.

A smart walking gown made in a Fifth avenue shop was of tweed in a heather mixture strapped in suede leather, which also appeared on the cuffs and belt. The coat also had small leather buttons in groups of three.

The useful dress in the illustration is of dark red cheviot, trimmed with black braid over white silk.

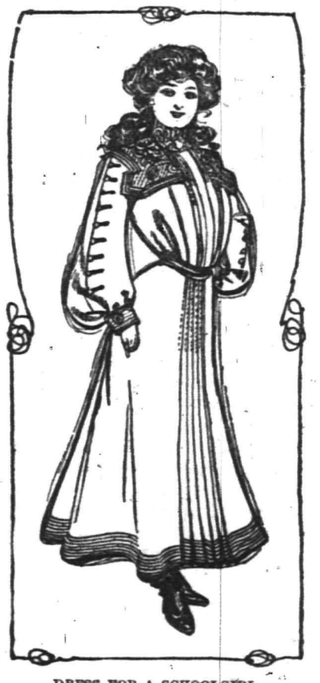
JUDIC CHOLLET.

HEAVY MATERIALS.

Zibeline Coverts—Boucle Cloth and Friezes.

There is a decided fancy for white cloth and white fur coats. In fact, white is decidedly the rage, while very smart women are as usual addicted to black and white.

For coats and skirts the zibeline covert coatings are greatly to be commended in terra cotta shades. French blues, greens, reds, browns and fawns all having a hairy surface, the boucle sedan cloth in green, blue and red and fancy zibeline striped materials all make up well.



DRESS FOR A SCHOOLGIRL.

Irish friezes in some ten different shades are to be found among the favorite autumn materials, together with granite suitings, friezes and cheviots.

Charming robes come in green, blue and black panne cloth. These are all ready for appliquing with chine panne outlined with black glace in a floral design.

The schoolgirl's dress shown is of royal blue cloth. The waist has full sleeves decorated with tiny gilt buttons. The collar is of all over tucking appliqued with lace medallions. The front is of the same color as the medallions—a deep cream. The belt is of blue velvet. The front of the skirt is in narrow plaits, and there are groups of tucks on the hips. There is a narrow band of stitching around the bottom.

COPYRIGHT 1898 BY A. N. KELLOGG NEWSPAPER CO.

"Do you know of his ever having tried it on your master?"

"Not to my knowledge, sir."

Hendricks went to a table, and tearing a leaf from a notebook he wrote something hurriedly. When he had finished it he folded it and gave it to Henri.

"Take this to the Herald advertising office," he said. "It is very important. See that it is inserted in the Personals in the morning paper. Be sure to have it done."

"I shall not fail, sir."

Henri reached for his hat and overcoat.

"Just a minute," said Hendricks, thoughtfully. "There is one other minor point. Your master seemed to be rather sensible about his dress. I presume he wasn't one of those fellows who let their fingernails grow long and have them manicured to points."

"Not him," answered Henri. "I heard him making sport of the count for that very thing."

Hendricks glanced indifferently out of the window.

"Was the count—did he wear his nails that way?"

"His fingers was almost repulsive, sir. You may have noticed that he is almost as dark as a mulatto and with them long, hooked nails he was anything but a pleasant sight. I have never understood, as I said, how master could—"

"If you cannot leave the studio," interrupted the detective, "I will take that to the office myself," indicating the scrap of paper.

"Oh, I can go, sir. We often leave the studio open, and if it is the same to you I'd like to feel that I had my hand in the investigations."

"As you like, Henri."

Hendricks turned into the reception-room where Lampkin and the heiress sat exchanging desultory remarks. The doctor noticed a strange fixity in the detective's eyes and wondered what was coming as Hendricks advanced slowly and stood before Miss Huntington.

"You are a very courageous young woman," he said. "I have been deliberating whether I could reveal something to you of rather an unpleasant nature."

Miss Huntington stared steadily and folded her gloved hands tightly in her lap.

"I think, no matter what it is, that you had better tell me," she said. "I shall try to bear it."

Hendricks drew up a chair and sat down. He glanced towards the doctor as if for help, but evidently gave up any idea of relief from that dignified quarter.

"Matters have reached a very grave stage," he said, mopping his perspiring brow. "Perhaps I ought to begin by saying that Mr. Gielow is innocent of even the slightest participation in the murder, for that must be a comforting thought."

Miss Huntington leaned towards him like some stiff inanimate object.

"He—he is dead?" she said, under her breath.

"No, not quite so bad as that." Hendricks raised his hand as if his gesture would correct her surmise. "But I have reasons for believing that he is in a very, very critical position. The fact is, that he succeeded in getting a written message to the police to the effect that he is confined in some place unknown to himself by Count Bantinni, and that he is starving to death. It is clear to me now that Bantinni is the murderer; that, through hypnotic power, he has made Mr. Gielow confess to the murder both to Henri, in person, and in letters to the police and yourself."

For a moment the heiress stared, speechless.

"It is indeed serious," went on the detective, turning his uncomfortable gaze on the doctor. "Bantinni is undoubtedly the guilty party, and Gielow is the only witness against him. In order to carry his point—of making it appear that Gielow was guilty, and of his own accord a fugitive—he would not hesitate to—"

"Oh, my God!" cried Miss Huntington, covering her face.

"Is there no course open?" asked Lampkin, wrought to a painful height of sympathy by Miss Huntington's emotion.

"It all depends on our capturing Bantinni and forcing him to reveal Gielow's place of imprisonment," replied the detective, "but that is more easily talked about than accomplished. Already I have turned every stone to trace him, but without a particle of success. He is the deepest villain on earth. If his own flight were questioned, he would claim that he disappeared to keep from bearing testimony against his friend, Gielow."

Just then Henri passed through the room, the advertisement in his hand. Hendricks nodded after him as he disappeared.

"I have sent him with a 'Personal' for the morning Herald. In it I offer a substantial reward for information regarding the finding of Mr. Gielow's message. I have worded it in such a way that it may bring us the young man who picked it up. That blockhead Denham was too busy to question him, and now he must be found by us. I now know why Denham had no eyes or ears for any other clews than the mysterious one of which he boasted. He has had a letter from Gielow such as Miss Huntington received, and has had its genuineness guaranteed by experts. His fall will be great and sudden."

Hendricks rose.

"I shall have to leave you both," he said. "Time is too valuable to spend it in useless explanations. I can do better alone just now, doctor. I am going to make another strenuous effort to locate the count. Meet me at the office at eight o'clock, and"—he turned to Miss Huntington—"do try to bear up. I promise, as soon as I hear one thing, favorable or unfavorable, that I will telephone you."

The young lady stood up and leaned on the back of her chair.

"I shall sit near the telephone till I hear," she said. "Please don't forget."

It looked as if Hendricks was about to object to that, but he shrugged his shoulders, and, bowing low, moved backward till he was out of the room, and then they heard him walking rapidly away.

CHAPTER XIV.

At half after seven o'clock that evening Dr. Lampkin was waiting for Hendricks at the latter's office. Promptly at the time set by the detective he hurried into the room out of breath. At a glance it was plain to Lampkin that he had met with no success.

"It's no good," said Hendricks, fuming. "I can't get the slightest hint as to his whereabouts. They say he has left the city, and there it ends."

"What are you going to do next?" questioned Lampkin. "This case is fretting the life out of me. I never felt so much concern over anything in my life."

Hendricks' brows ran together and, without making a reply, he went into the adjoining room and Lampkin heard him ring the telephone. There was a pause; then he heard the voice of the detective calmly asking for the connection. Then tensely:

"Is that Miss Huntington?"

Pause of a moment. Then Hendricks' voice:

"But you ought not to sit up there like that. I want to say that Dr. Lampkin and I are going out into the country, and that you need not expect to hear from me again to-night."

Another pause, then the voice of the detective broke the silence:

"Yes, really, I can tell you nothing to-night. I am sorry to say that so far I have been unsuccessful, but while there is life, you know, there is hope."

Then there was silence for a moment and Hendricks rang off. When he entered the room he was white in the face, and his fat hands—the hands which had tightened about the throats and wrists of a hundred criminals—were trembling.

"Old man," he said, "I heard her fall to the floor just now. I heard her aunt scream and run to her." Hendricks sat down and leaned on his desk. There was something in his eyes that Lampkin had never seen in the eyes of any human being.

"Doctor," Hendricks added, "if I do run across that dirty scamp, I—I am afraid I never can wait for justice to take its course. I am satisfied that he is not only Gielow's abductor, but that he is the man who has tried twice to do me up in such a cowardly fashion."

Then Hendricks shook himself, as if ashamed of his outburst, and leaned back in the light of the green-shaded lamp.

"I heard you telephone Miss Huntington that you and I were going out into the country," said Lampkin. "Was that only a pretext?"

"No, I am going out to have a talk with Kola, and as you said you'd like to see his big rambling den, I want to take you along for company."

"Nothing could please me more."

"I have ordered a carriage to meet us at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street elevated station. Come on, I'm ready."

As the carriage, after having passed through a rather dense wood for about half a mile, drew up at the old brick mansion with its three and a half stories and massive fluted columns reaching from the ground to the rather flat roof, Lampkin remarked:

"Rather an isolated place. No bad place for the gang of robbers of which you spoke."

"It just suits Kola, as I said once before," answered Hendricks. "By the time his hoodwinked customers get here they are prepared for anything imaginative."

Telling the driver to wait for them at the door they alighted. There was but one light in sight and that was a dismal red one which could be seen through the old-fashioned side lights of the big door on the stone veranda. There was no bell on the door, but simply a quaint old knocker.

CAPTAIN TOOKER SHOT.

Sought to Take Revenge on Man Who Ruined His Home.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 11.—Captain Winfield Scott Tooker of the Merritt & Chapman Wrecking company's service, who had charge of the expedition which attempted to tow the captured Spanish cruiser Maria Theresa from the southern coast of Cuba to Hampton Roads at the close of the Spanish-American war, which expedition resulted in the stranding of the cruiser on Cat island, was shot three times in the body and fatally wounded here by J. M. Cahoon, a motorman of the Norfolk and Atlantic Terminal company, in the depot of that line on City Hall avenue.

Captain Tooker had been on bad terms with Cahoon for some months. The latter had boarded with the Tookers at Lamberts Point previous to the beginning of the trouble which resulted in the victim's separation from his wife.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon as Cahoon was bringing his car into the station Tooker was standing on the depot platform. "There is the man that ruined my home!" he cried out to Constable Ferguson of Princess Anne county, who was with him, and at the same time he drew a pistol and started toward the car.

Cahoon was too quick for him, however, and before Captain Tooker had got his weapon from his pocket the motorman had fired the first bullet into his adversary's throat. Two others entered Tooker's stomach and arm.

Cahoon was arrested, and Tooker was carried to St. Vincent's hospital, with Dr. James G. Riddick, mayor of Norfolk, attending him en route. He cannot live.

He enlisted as a private in August, 1862, and was commissioned first lieutenant in the Thirteenth United States (colored) infantry. He rose to be acting inspector general on the staff of General Charles J. Paine. At the battle of Salem Church he was shot through both legs, was wounded in the hand at Hatcher's Run and in the face at Petersburg and received a medal of honor for bravery. He was state senator in 1884-85 from the Herkimer-Madison-Otsego district, was first deputy commissioner of pensions in 1894, was deputy secretary of state under Palmer and deputy state treasurer.

HUMAN ILLS OF ALASKANS.

An English Physician Tells of the Diseases Most Prevalent in That Country.

After a residence of 16 months in Alaska an English physician has made a report of the diseases which most afflict the people of that cold region. There are, he says, two seasons. Winter, the season of pack ice; summer, the season of swamps. The winter lasts for nine months, the summer for three. Among human maladies cerebro-spinal meningitis is very prevalent, sometimes in epidemic form, sometimes in sporadic form. It is often difficult to distinguish from the cerebral form of typhoid. Scorbutus is also widespread.

Rheumatism is frequent and usually takes the neuralgic type; inflammatory rheumatism is rare. Pneumonia is almost unknown, strange to say. Affections of the digestion are very frequent, owing to poor food; nervous diseases, such as locomotor ataxia, etc., are also frequent. Alcoholism and the like are prevalent, due to the ennui of the long winter, but, on the whole, intemperance is less harmful in Alaska than in more southern climates. Insanity is by no means rare, and it declares itself most frequently in winter, owing to ennui, absence of occupation, lack of exercise and isolation. Its usual form is acute melancholia, almost always followed by acute mania. Suicidal mania is also frequent. Taken altogether the catalogue of Alaskan diseases is a long one and indicates that a vigorous physique and morals is required to resist them.

THE BRITISH LOAD LINE.

Vessels Are Not Permitted to Carry Surplus Cargoes in English Waters.

A short time since the captain of a Dutch vessel here took the singular step of making application to one of the bodies authorized to assign the load line to have the line marked on the side of the vessel, says London Fairplay. This was carried out and the vessel was then loaded. The captain found that the disk was submerged, and in the coolest way possible appears to have waited on the board of trade officials and to have asked them for permission for his vessel to sail in her overloaded condition. To his great surprise he was told by the officials that his vessel would be detained until the surplus cargo was taken out of her. He urged that the load line act applied to British ships only and that consequently his vessel could not be interfered with. It was explained to him that the act referred to foreign as well as British ships and that at any rate he had "given himself away" by actually adopting the British loadline.

The officials visited the Dutch vessel when it was discovered that the disk had been incorrectly assigned, being a trifle higher up the ship's side than it should have been—so that in fact she was more overloaded than she even appeared to be. A quantity of cargo was ordered to be discharged—four times the quantity that brought the vessel to her incorrectly assigned loadline. The Dutch captain sailed a sadder man.

ST. VINCENT ERUPTION.

A Curious Feature Observed by Prof. Russell After the Volcanoe's Upheaval.

In Century Prof. Russell prints the following bit of personal observation among his conclusions concerning the West Indian eruptions:

"The distribution of hot material discharged from La Soufriere in a belt across the island of St. Vincent, instead of over a V-shaped area as at Martinique, seemed to have an intimate connection with the position of the crater near the summit of La Soufriere and the influence of the trade-winds on the distribution of the material discharged from it. As is well known, the depth of the layer of the atmosphere affected by the trade-winds is comparatively shallow, and above it the air is moving from west to east. The stones and dust shot upward from La Soufriere rose through the trade-wind layer, and were carried eastward by the upper air-current. On falling, however, they again met the influence of the westward-blowing trades and were given a slant in a westward direction sufficient to allow them to pass through windows and enter houses. The windows of some of the houses near Georgetown which face eastward have the appearance of an abandoned house which has served as a target for stones, while the westward-facing windows, or those looking toward the volcano, are but little injured."

Bad Hand Made Him Money.

When Lord Curzon, now viceroy of India, was at Oxford, he wrote an abominable hand. One day he penned two letters, one of them to a relative and one to a chum with whom he always discussed the faults of their respective relations, and accidentally put these letters into the wrong envelopes. He was about to write a profound apology to his relative when he received the following note from him: "Can't read a word of your four pages, but guess you want some money, you young rascal." Inclosed was a Bank of England note for a good amount.

WHIST.

The match for the American Whist League Challenge trophy, last week, between the Walbrook Whist Club, (holders) and the Baltimore Whist Club (challengers), resulted in a victory for the Baltimore Whist Club by the large margin of 17 tricks. The gain of five tricks by Baltimore on deal eleven, was due to a low opening of Baltimore from five trumps, headed by ace, king, jack, his partner winning with the ten and then starting a long plain suit, headed by king, queen, jack, instead of returning trumps. This made all the difference between bringing in the suit and not. The Walbrook player opened the trumps high, freeing the queen, and lost the long suit because his Baltimore opponent stayed off with his ace until the second round. The Pennsylvania Whist Club, of Philadelphia, is next on the list of challengers.

GOLF.

Only three more Saturdays remain for play in the weekly competitions for the Golf Committee and Boys' cups at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. The contests are growing in interest as the end draws near. In the Golf Committee competition but a few points separate the leaders and there is likely to be some changes before the final play.

BIG COAL DEALER.

Canada's Most Prominent Coalman Took Dinner in Plainfield.

Plainfield was honored yesterday by a visit from a personage who, although a stranger in this vicinity, is one of the most widely known men in Canada. He is Francis Beaumont Dupre, of Halifax, N. S., who controls the greater part of the Canadian coal fields and many of the best developed iron mines. Just previous to the termination of the recent great strike, he closed contracts for the delivery of many tons of hard coal and it was to arrange for these that he came this way in person. He was returning from Philadelphia to New York in his automobile and stopped off at this city for dinner.

NORTH RIVER TUNNEL.

Greatest Secrecy Maintained as to the Progress Being Made There.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Jersey City, Nov. 11—The utmost secrecy is maintained by the New Jersey Tunnel Company as to the operations now going on in the North River tunnel at the foot ot Fifteenth street. In spite of this, it is known that the plans for the aproaches to the tunnel on this side of the river will be radically changed, but absolutely no information can be had from any of the officers of the company concerning the proposed changes and their scope. The sliding doors to the big iron building inclosing the tunnel shaft and machinery are kept continually closed, except when material is being taken in or out. On each door is a sign bearing the words, "Positively no admittance, except on business," and day and night watchmen keep a sharp lookout on strangers who may seem to them to be unduly prying. The employes are under instructions not to reply to questions relating to the work going on in the tunnel.

So great is the pressure of the compressed air in the tunnel that it is impossible for the men to work for more than four hours at the very most in it, and the workmen who are employed are subjected to a careful physical examination by Dr. Loomis before being engaged.

After each shift the men who lay off are given a nourishing meal.

Churches at Auction.

In Denmark parish churches can be put up to public auction like any other chattels. Two have just been sold on the island of Morsoe. They formed part of the estate of a bankrupt feudal proprietor, and without any sentiment or fuss were just disposed of under the hammer. The bargain had more to recommend it than some would think, seeing that the proprietor has tithing rights over the parishioners.—Church Monthly.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD HAS AN IMPORTANT WORK

Was Described by Mrs. J. W. Stuart, One of Prominent Factors in That Movement.

AT ANNUAL MEETING

PLAINFIELD BRANCH OF THE NEEDLEWORK GUILD MET YESTERDAY.

A Thousand Garments Made by Members During the Year—300 More Than Last Year—The Officers Were Elected.

Evidence of greatly increased interest in the Plainfield branch of the Needlework Guild, within the past year, was apparent at the annual meeting of the organization, held yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church. The attendance was extemely large while 300 more articles than were collected last year, or 1,000 in all, were presented by the members. An exhibition of the garments was afterward held which displayed somewhat the amount of work necessary to bring them to completion.

Previous to the exhibition and following the business session, the Guild listened to an excellent address given by Mrs. John W. Stuart, of Glen Ridge, who organized the first Guild in the United States and has since been identified as a leading factor in the movement. It dealt in the main with a complete review of the organization as a whole, its origin, scope, needs and extension. The speaker explained minutely the great work being done throughout the country and the blessing it has proved to the needy poor, supplying them with warm garments where they would otherwise be lacking.

One of the latest methods of distribution taken up by the Guild and which was referred to by Mrs. Stuart, is by presenting articles of apparel to outgoing patients from hospitals. This is a need that has long been recognized as, in nine cases out of ten, patients leaving an institution must don the same clothes they possessed when entering and these are inadequate in their weakened condition. Hospital authorities as a rule are barely able to meet the demands for clothing for use in the wards and thus the Guild relieves them of the responsibility.

Another thing made plain by the speaker is the method adopted in sudden collections, that is, securing a great number of articles at almost a moment's notice. So complete is the system as it exists at present that where a sudden fire or flood spreads suffering in a community an ample supply of clothing can be rushed to the scene to relieve the most pressing demands. Mrs. Stuart's talk lasted nearly an hour and was greatly enjoyed.

The articles collected yesterday, will be held and distributed in the course of the year at the discretion of the officers. Every garment is well made of the best material.

During the business session of the meeting officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Mrs. J. Parker Mason; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Corlies; vice president, Mrs. E. E. Ryder.

GIFT TO LIBRARY.

George LaMonte and Family Have Given Bound Brook's a Home.

At a meeting of the directors of the Public Library at Bound Brook, a few days ago, George LaMonte announced that his wife, his daughter and his son's wife would present to the library association the corner lot at High and Hamilton streets with the large dwelling now on it, making a gift of 100 feet front on Hamilton street by 150 on High street. The library will probably be moved from its present quarters in the Bank building to its new home, April 1.

It is proposed in connection with this generous deed of the LaMonte family to raise an endowment fund of at least $10,000, the interest of which can be used to help defray the running expenses of the library.

Want to Pay Debts.

The trustees of the Mount Olive Baptist church ask that all persons having bills against that body present them without delay. It is proposed to pay all outstanding indebtedness before December 29.

Now He's Sheriff.

Sheriff-elect B. Frank Coriell, who has been deputy county clerk for six years, gave up that position yesterday, and this morning he entered upon the duties of his new position.

MANY KNEW ACCIDENT VICTIM

HIS GRANDPARENTS WERE MUSICIANS OF NOTE IN THIS VICINITY.

This Was His First Hunting Trip—He Lived With His Mother at South Bound Brook.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Nov. 12—The tragic death of Harvey Garretson, the fourteen-year-old boy who lost his life as the result of the accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of a friend while out hunting Monday afternoon, near Middlebush, has cast a gloom over South Bound Brook where the lad was very well known and also over Middlebush where the boy's grandparents lived. The boy was well liked by those who knew him and Monday was the first day he had ever ventured away from home with a gun on a hunting trip.

The boy lived at South Bound Brook where his mother is a music teacher. The lad's grandparents were musicians of note. His grandmother was a famous harpist and at the time of Queen Victoria's coronation she, with her husband, played the harp at that ceremony. When Mrs. Toulman and her husband returned to this country they settled in New York and resided there for a number of years where Mr. Toulman was the chime ringer in Trinity church for over fifty years. Later they moved to Middlebush where they lived for many years afterwards moving to Bound Brook where Mrs. Garretson now resides.

PARTOOK OF PUMPKIN PIE

SOCIAL GIVEN BY LADIES' AID SOCIETY OF HOPE CHAPEL.

After a Literary Programme, the Guests Were Treated to That Famous Delicacy.

New England's favorite delicacy, pumpkin pie, was king at Hope chapel, last evening, when the Ladies' Aid Society gave a social in its honor. Honor may not be exactly the proper term as many of the best specimens were brought to view only to be admired and then be disposed of. The attendance was so large that the demand almost exceeded the supply.

A conspicuous part of the affair was the decorations that were in keeping with the occasion. Shocks of corn with ears peeping out and grinning jack-o'-lanterns were to be seen everywhere making a very pretty effect. Paper lanterns of many colors suspended from the ceiling shed a softening glow on the surroundings.

During the evening a literary programme was rendered consisting of piano selections and vocal solos by Miss Lydia Edgar, of Westfield, recitations by Miss Clara Weber, Miss Try Mattox and John Manley and vocal selections by Madame Menzelli-Bartlett.

Mrs. Margaret Sweeney acted as chairman for the entire affair while she was assisted by the following committees: Cake, Mrs. W. G. Gray, Mrs. Fred Wharton, Mrs. John Rittenhouse, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. J. B. Higgins, Mrs. Henry Hoffman, Mrs. F. A. Weber, Mrs. John Johnson; pies, Mrs. Thomas Wallace; coffee, Mrs. Henry Mowinkle, Mrs. David Bowden, and Mrs. O. F. Pearson; entertainment, Mrs. John Turner, Mrs. Zachariah Kinsey and Mrs. Harry Corliss: decorating, Mrs. William Gray, Mrs. Thomas Chamberlain, Mrs. Samuel Smith, Mrs. Ravinia Rushton; ice cream, Mrs. George Radford, Mrs. Joseph Brown.

PUBLIC LIBRARY AFFAIRS

RESOLUTIONS OF CONDOLENCE WERE PASSED ON DEATH OF E. C. PERKINS.

Routine Matters Looked After by Directors of the City Public Library.

An adjourned meeting of the Board of Directors of the Public Library was held last evening. There were present Mason W. Tyler, Alex. Gilbert, J. H. Case, J. W. Yates and W. H. Larrabee. After the reading of the treasurer's report, which was ordered placed on file, the president offered the following resolution:

"Whereas God in His providence has taken from us our friend and associate, Edward C. Perkins, in sorrow and with reverence we enter upon our minutes this note of our appreciation of the loss we have suffered. Mr. Perkin's death marks the too early close of a life of unusual attractions and of rich promise. In public and in private life he was greatly respected as a gentleman of rare culture and fine gifts. His connection with our Board of Directors was brief, but he has already put his impress upon our work and given promise of much larger usefulness. In his professional life he had the respect of the judges, was admired and beloved by his associates and implicitly trusted by a large and important body of clients. In social and domestic life he had a charming personality.

"Taken from us in the prime of life we mourn his death as a serious loss to the State, to the community in which he lived and to a large circle of friends and associates. We tender to his family our sincerest sympathy in this hour of their bereavement."

It was ordered that the foregoing resolution be entered in the minute book and a copy be engrossed and transmitted to the family.

The request of the president of the Stillman High School for a meeting place for the pupils at the library was granted. The librarian was authorized to purchase coal as needed.

The purchase of bound sets of Cornhill and Longman's, and of second hand books of Mudie of London was referred to the library committee with power. The librarian was authorized to have 5,000 "out" slips printed. The matter of replacing the wood top to the case of birds with glass was referred to the art committee. The treasurer reported bids for painting Babcock buildings, and this matter of painting was referred to him with power to make contract. The board then adjourned.

RETURNED THE VISIT.

Independent Fife and Drum Corps Guest of Elizabeth's Crack Corps.

The Independent Fife and Drum Corps went in a body to Elizabeth, last night, to attend the dance of the Liberty Fife and Drum Corps, of that city, which was held in Turn Hall. Among the guests who went down with the drum corps was Councilman William L. Gloak. The musicians went down to return the visit of the Liberty boys who attended the fair of the local drum corps held here last month. The return trip to this city was made early this morning.

Remembered the Sheriff.

James Morrison and a few friends of Sheriff-elect B. Frank Coriell, presented the lattter with a large and handsome basket of roses and other flowers, this morning, when Mr. Coriell assumed his position. The basket of flowers was arranged and made up by Stanley, the North avenue florist, and was a masterpiece. Mr. Morrison took the gift to Elizabeth this morning and made the presentation, which was responded to in a happy vein.

Y. M. C. A. Week of Prayer.

Week of prayer services are being held at the Y. M. C. A. this week. G. M. Rittenhouse, chairman of the religious work committee, led the meeting last evening and Stephen Cahoone, president of the association, will be in charge tomorrow evening. There will be no meeting tonight on account of the regular mid-week services at the local churches.

Getting Coal.

During the past few day the local coal dealers have been receiving supplies of fresh mined coal in the various sizes. The nut size seems to be the hardest to get, but other sizes close to it are obtainable in good quantities.

Invitation Dance.

An invitation dance will be given in the I. C. T. rooms, tomorrow evening, under the auspices of Harry DeMeza and Harry Blimm. The attendance promises to be very large and a successful outcome is already assured.

CHARITY WORK IN PLAINFIELD

Year's Work of the Charity Organized Aid Association Reviewed at Its Meeting.

HELD LAST EVENING

Reports of Officers and Committees Presented—Thanks to Generosity of Agent, Miss VanBoskerck, There is Balance in Treasury—Address by Hugh Fox.

The annual meeeting of the Charity Organized Aid Association was held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church last evening, when a goodly numbers of the members were present to hear of the progress made by the association during the past year.

President H. M. Maxson occupied the chair and called for the various reports, the first of which was that of the treasurer, Boardman Wright. He stated that his report this year would include all items between October 1, 1901, and October 1 1902, and with the permission of the chairman of the finance committee he would recommend that hereafter the report include that time in comprising the year's work. This recommendation was adopted

Mr. Wright stated that at the last report the balance was $49.76, and the receipts for the year amounted to $727.07, which included $620 received as dues from members. The disbursements amounted to the same, and a deficit of a trifle over $100 had been liquidated by the generosity of the agent, Miss Zaide VanBoskerck, who had given her three months' salary for that purpose. The present balance is something over $7.

The secretary, W. S. Tyler, reported that during the past year four meetings of the executive committee were held with an average attendance of eight. He spoke of the part that Plainfiled had in securing the appointment of Mrs. Emily Williamson, of Elizabeth, as probation officer for Union county and of the recent distribution of coal to the small wage earner in this city. The sale of this coal commenced on October 27, and 119 families had been supplied with 100 pounds or less. The first car of coal lasted eight days and the second car is now being distributed.

Mrs. Tiffany, chairman of the committee on co-operation, reported that there are nineteen representatives of churches and twelve from various societies in the Charity Organized Aid Association, and she referred to the very helpful conferences held during the year whereby much success was obtained through the proper administration of charity.

Isaac L. Miller, chairman of the legal committee, reported on the case of the three children who were put into the custody of Charles Place, of the borough, by Judge VanSickel, through the influence of Rev. A. C. Nickerson and Dr. W. H. Murray. The mother was unable to properly care for them.

H. C. Tracy, chairman of the committee on printing and publication, reported that five hundred copies of the year book, comprising the work of the association for the past three years, were printed and distributed.

E. H. Ladd, Jr., as chairman of the finance committee, reported that the books of the treasurer had been approved. He also reported that forty-six members were added to the roll during the past year, an increase of 40 per cent. In all there are 161 members, seventy-seven being added during the past fourteen months.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson, chairman of the district committee, gave a brief report of the work of his committee and he took occasion to praise C. A. Marsh, legal advisor; Overseer of the Poor Ayers and Miss VanBoskerck, agent, for their earnest work in behalf of the association.

Possibly the most interesting report was that of Miss VanBoskerck, who is the agent or general secretary for the association. It showed, among other things, that during the past year there were 704 applications for aid, representing 234 individual families. Among these applications there were seventy-seven new ones. Sixty-six persons received advice and loans were made to eleven persons. Miss VanBoskerck made 1,510 calls during the year and she received 989 calls at her office. Of those who applied for aid eighty-four were Americans and the rest for-

SOMERVILLE MERCHANTS KICK

FIGHTING AGAINST THE MACADAMIZING OF LINE ROAD.

Residents Along Road Between Franklin Park and New Brunswick Urged It.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Nov. 12—The Somerset County Board of Freeholders, at its regular meeting in the Court House here yesterday, was kept very busy, although very little important business was transacted.

Residents along the line road between Franklin Park and New Brunswick, which has been applied for to be improved under the State Aid act, were out in force and used every plea imaginable to have the board listen to their tale of woe. Speeches were made by Rev. Clifford P. Case, pastor of the Franklin Park Reformed church, former candidate for Assembly Irving Hoagland, Justice George Logan, Howard Schureman and other prominent residents of that section. Their remarks were pregnant with the great benefits this would be not only to that section but to the county at large.

Freeholder DeHart, of Middlesex county, was on hand and he was in favor of the improvement of the road. He invited the Somerset board to meet with the Middlesex Freeholders Wednesday of next week to inquire more deeply into the matter. The Somerset board accepted the invitation and the matter was dropped for the time being.

The merchants of Somerville are quite indignant about the improvement as they believe it will be the means of taking some of their best customers to New Brunswick.

Counsel Frech was authorized to petition Judge Schenck for the appointment of commissioners to assess the ten per cent. from the residents along the Pluckemin, Skillman and Wood's Tavern roads.

The County Collector was given leave to borrow $10,000 in anticipation of taxes.

HIGH SCHOOL PAPER.

The First Issue is Expected to Appear December 3.

The first issue of the new City High School paper will appear Wednesday, December 3. Great interest is being shown by the pupils in the selection of a name for the publication and the board of editors will doubtless adopt one from the list suggested by the school within a few days. The different editorial departments are working hard and there is every reason to suppose that the paper will be a success as a bright, newsy publication.

Big Boom at Dewey Park.

As it is a settled fact that the Aluminum Plate Works, of Plainfield, is to locate at Dewey Park, and is to erect a very plant there, comprising several large modern brick buildings, and the fact that they will commence to do the grading for the buildings at once, it is a rare opportunity for conservative investors to purchase a few lots at the low prices that are now offered. Dewey Park has the advantage of 5-cent trolley fare to Plainfield or Bound Brook, also 12-inch water main with artesian water and other advantages, Drop a line or call at S. D. Drake's office, Lincoln, for prices of lots, etc,

Half Yearly Meeting.

The half-yearly meeting of Friends of the New York and Shrewsbury meeting will be held tomorrow and Friday in the meeting house on Watchung avenue. The meeting house has been thoroughly cleaned and renovated and a new carpet laid, presenting an attractive and inviting appearance. The meetings will be of special interest and will no doubt be largely attended.

Taken by Surprise.

A happy surprise party was given to Miss Laura Wikoff, of Richmond street, Monday evening, by a number of her relatives and friends. They all called at Miss Wikoff's home about 8 o'clock and took her completely by surprise. The evening was spent in playing games, after which refreshments were served.

Men Will Do It.

A supper and entertainment will be given tomorrow evening in the First Presbyterian church by the men of the congregation to help defray the expenses of the new kitchen recently erected. Tickets may be secured at Hodge's drug store or at Woodhull & Martin's carpet department.

Learned of Father's Death.

John Slover, of this city, received word this morning of the death of his father, William Slover, an old-time resident of Asbury Park, who has resided there for the past fifty years.

GAME CAUGHT BY HAND

BOROUGH CITIZENS HAD UNUSUAL HUNTING EXPERIENCE.

Shot Some Game and Captured One Squirrel by Hand—Now a Game Supper.

A. J. Leader, W. H. Kirch, Peter Voorhees and John Ross, all good citizens of the borough, visited the farm of Mr. Kirch's father near Martinsville, on Monday, to hunt game. That they were successful will be shown by the fact that they shot twenty-two rabbits, three quail, one woodcock, three mud hens, one grey squirrel and one red squirrel.

With the exception of the grey squirrel, the rest of the game was shot. In the case of the latter, there was a lively experience. The little grey fellow ran up a tree into a hole, and at the suggestion of the hunters a fire was built with some leaves. Thus the squirrel was smoked out. As he ran down the tree, Mr. Leader caught him and with a quick turn of the wrist threw him on the ground. He believed that the animal was dead and at his suggestion the squirrel was placed in his game bag.

An hour later, Mr. Leader had a queer feeling about his back and calling to some of his companions asked them to investigate. They then found the squirrel trying to make his escape over Mr. Leader's shoulder. A few sharp raps soon put the squirrel out of business and this ended the trouble.

This evening the quartette of hunters will meet at the home of Mr. Kirch, 66 Duer street, and enjoy a game supper.

WANT THE LAWS REPEALED

SOMERVILLE REPUBLICANS APPEAR AGAINST GREATER CITY MEASURES.

Urged Governor Murphy to Secure Repeal of Bills Passed Last Winter.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Nov. 12—A delegation of Somerset county Republicans called on Governor Murphy, yesterday afternoon and urged that he give his aid in securing the early repeal of the North Plainfield annexation bills. In the delegation were former Chancery Clerk Lewis A. Thompson, Postmaster George Cooper, of Somerville, and former Assemblyman P. V. D. VanDoren, of Millstone, who was defeated for surrogate Tuesday.

The Somerset men told the executive that while the defeat of the bills at the recent special election seemed to have settled the question, and there was no chance of the proposition being again submitted under the same acts, they were anxious to get the measure off the statute books.

"The annexation acts are regarded as Republican measures," said Thompson, after the interview with the Governor. "The Democrats charge the party with responsibility for them and we want them wiped out. While the laws remain in existence they are a menace to the Republican organization in the county."

BROTHERS SEPARATE.

The Firm of Love Brothers Has Dissolved; Robert Love Retiring.

By mutual consent the partnership heretofore existing between Robert Love and James L. Love, grocers, on West Front street, was dissolved yesterday. The business will be continued by James L. Love, who will receive and pay all bills. For the present Robert Love will take a much needed rest and it is likely that later on he will engage in evangelistic work. Mr. Love has special talent in this direction and he has been very successful in his previous efforts. The firm of Love Brothers was formed seven years ago and a successful business has been conducted.

Valued Pet Died.

Jack, the dog owned by John Powers the druggist, which was operated upon a few days ago for a cancer in the leg died last evening. The dog was a Boston terrier and was valued highly by the druggist who did everything possible to save the animal's life.

First Conference.

The first charity conference of members of the Charity Organized Aid Association, under the auspices of the co-operation commiitee, will be held Friday afternoon, when a noted worker in the College Settlement, New York, will be present and speak.

BASKET BALL SEASON BEGINS NEXT WEEK

Three Clubs in the Local League Are Getting Into Condition for the Contests.

ALL ARE PRACTICING

Y. M. C. A. HAS THE ADVANTAGE OF HAVING TEAM ALREADY ORGANIZED.

But Teams of Alis A. A. and Hope Y. M. A. Are Fast Developing a Good Game—The Season Starts Next Week.

With the opening game in the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League less than a week away, the local basket ball teams are gradually rounding into condition for the contests. It was not such a difficult matter for the Y. M. C. A., which has had a five playing for several years, to decide on the men. Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood has known practically for almost a month just how his team would line up. With the other two clubs in the league, the Hope Y. M. A. and the Alis A. A. it is a difficult thing as neither club has had a team before.

Since the physical work department of the Y. M. C. A. opened, the candidates for the association team have been practicing. They will be in condition to play a strong game when the season commences. The candidates for the Alis A. A. turned out for the first time Monday night when they gathered at the Fanwood clubhouse for practice. They will practice there regularly and play such games as are not included in the league there. Hope Y. M. A. boys have been turning out regularly for practice at the gymnaium but the fact that the game is new to most of their players will handicap them somewhat at the start.

A meeting of the executive committee of the league will be held Friday night when the managers of the three teams will present the lists of players from which the teams may be drawn. Each club has the privilege of sending in fifteen names. After the first announcment, no extra players can be untilized by any of the teams and their choice must be confined to those of the original fifteen.

TALK OF REPAIRS.

Citizens and School Board Confer on the School Problem at Somerville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Nov. 12—The citizens' meeting in the Court House, Monday night, to hear the report of the committee appointed to confer with the Board of Education and discuss better means for the increasing number of scholars, was well attended. Various suggestions were made.

Many people seemed to be in favor of fixing up the old building and erecting an eight-room addition. Those in favor of the new building thought that this would do all right for a year or two, but in the future a new structure would surely be needed and believed it should be erected now.

The report of the committee, which favored a new building, was received and another meeting will be called by the chairman, Joseph W. Ballantine.

Funeral of C. Howard Lance.

The funeral of C. Howard Lance, who passed away early Monday morning took place this afternoon from his late residence at 2:30 o'clock. The funeral was largely attended and a delegation from Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., of which the deceased was a member, was present to pay their respects to the memory of their departed brother. The interment was in the Methodist cemetery.

Is Building of Brick.

John M. Schorb, Jr., is building a large brick barn on the property in the rear of Charles Tallman's grocery store. The owner wanted to erect a wooden barn on the premises but objection was raised in the Borough Council so the structure was built of brick.

THEATRICAL.

The management of the Central Theatre announces a novelty in next week's attraction, when the Ethel Dyffryn Company will be there for one solid week. Matinees Wednesday and Saturday. Little Ethel Dyffryn, the star of the company, is ably supported by a company of metropolitan artists, and the line of plays they will present during the week are all standard scenic productions. The specialties which are introduced between the acts are all high-class and include Little Ethel, the Baby Patti; the famous Dyrffyn Trio; Master Tommy Dyffryn in character songs; the Mozart Double Quartette in classic selections; Waldo Whipple, bone soloist, buck and wing dancer; Emma Boulton and W. D. Reed—making a continuous performance and one which is well worth witnessing. Women's tickets, Monday night, for the sensation play, "Pinkerton Gray, Detective."

The popularity of the Proctor theatres continues on the increase. For such reasonable prices the entertainments are noteworthy. None better could be presented. William Bramwell, right from another local company, opened his engagement as leading man at the Fifth Avenue Theatre Monday, in a fine revival of "The Last Appeal." Mr. Bramwell has been for four seasons a leading man in New York stock companies, and his personal popularity is widespread and daily increasing. The Fifty-eighth Street is presenting revivals of some of the best American dramas. The Permanent Stock Company has been especially selected for their fitness in melodramatic presentations, and Ralph Cummings and Edna Archer Crawford, the leading players, are daily increasing their popularity. Up in Harlem the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street is enjoying a remarkably prosperous season, and Adelaide Keim and Ned Howard are becoming exceedingly popular. Proctor's theatres in Albany, Newark and Montreal are enjoying a season of unusual prosperity. Newark presents exclusive vaudeville bills, and continuous vaudeville is given at Proctor's Twenty-third Street, in New York. The Proctor Stock Company has possession in Albany and Montreal.

One Minute Cough Cure

Is the only harmless cough cure that gives quick relief. Cures coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, pneumonia, asthma, lagrippe and all throat, chest and lung troubles. I got soaked by rain, says Gertrude E. Fenner, Muncie, Ind., and contracted a severe cold and cough. I failed rapidly; lost 48 lbs. My druggist recommended One Minute Cough Cure. The first bottle brought relief; several cured me. I am back to my old weight, 148 lbs. One Minute Cough Cure cuts the phlegm, relieves the cough at once, draws out inflammation, cures croup. An ideal remedy for children. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The Republicans of North Plainfield, in Somerset county have not done fairly by their party, nor by themselves. This fact is apparent enough to outsiders now, it will be apparent to themselves when they have cooled down sufficiently to exercise their calm judgment and to see facts without distortion. In the recent election in Somerset county, the Republican candidate for Congress, Judge Lanning, was given 424 majority, while the Democratic candidate for State senator, S. S. Childs, was given a majority of 311; and the Democratic candidate for assembly, Mr. Swackhamer, was given 180. The Republican majority in the county for coroner was 478. This discrepancy is largely accounted for in North Plainfield, which gave Judge Lanning 729 votes, and Mr. Frelinghuysen, the Republican candidate for senator, only 453 votes. These votes were not thrown away. They were cast for the Democratic candidates. In North Plainfield Mr. Childs received 737 votes; eight more than were cast for Judge Lanning. This was wholly unwarranted. It was bitter revenge and retaliation, yet it had no reasonable foundation. The bitterness grew out of the controversy over the proposed annexation to Union county and consolidation with the city of Plainfield. The law passed by the last Legislature was called the "crime of 1902," but it was nothing more than a referendum law, authorizing the voters of North Plainfield to say for themselves, by ballot, whether they would be annexed or not. Yet over this the Republicans of North Plainfield worked up such bitterness that they deliberately wrecked their own party in the county and defeated excellent men who had nothing whatever to do with the enactment of the law. One of these days they will see how foolish they have been.—Elizabeth Journal.

The commission appointed by the Governor, under authority of an act of the Legislature, to investigate as to the necessity for reform in the manner of conducting primary elections, will give a public hearing at the city hall on the eighteenth instant, at 11 o'clock. It is to be hoped that at this hearing the commission may learn the views of others besides party politicians. Most of these gentry are satisfied with present conditions, because they are afforded every opportunity of defeating the popular will without incurring any legal responsibility.

No reform in the primary election law will prove permanently satisfactory which stops short of the direct primary. So long as the management of the primaries is left to the respective party machines, just so long will there be objectionable nominations, no matter how drastic the penalties affixed to violations of the law. Place the primaries under State control, as the general elections are now held, permitting every man to vote for the candidate of his choice, and there will be fewer split tickets on election day. Had the party masses been given untrammelled freedom of choice prior to the recent election, it is certain that in more than one county of the State the tickets would have been very different from those presented by the different parties. Candidates were named by the methods known to and practised by the machine who were obnoxious to a majority of the voters. These being deprived of their right of choice in the nomination took the only course left them by scratching the objectionable candidates at the polls. In every instance the party would have fared better had the opportunity to object been given at the primaries. In the long run there is little doubt that the politicians themselves would be the gainers by the adoption of a system which would allay factional discontent and prevent the nomination of candiates doomed to certain defeat. —Newark News.

A Thanksgiving Dinner.

Heavy eating is usually the first cause of indigestion. Repeated attacks inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, exposes the nerves of the stomach, producing a swelling after eating, heartburn, headache, sour risings and finally catarrh of the stomach. Kodol relieves the inflammation, protects the nerves and cures catarrh. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia, all stomach troubles by cleansing and sweetening the glands of the stomach. L. W. MOLINEUX SET FREE

Jury In Famous Case Out Only Thirty Minutes.

UNANIMOUS VOTE FOR ACQUITTAL.

After Four Years of Prison Life the Young Man Returns to His Father's Home Amid Great Rejoicing.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Roland B. Molineux, freed of the charge of murder, was the object of a most remarkable demonstration of public sympathy. From the Tombs prison to his father's home in Brooklyn he was cheered at every step by crowds which followed the carriage containing him and his father and which gathered at every street corner.

It took the jury which tried Molineux for the murder of Mrs. Katherine J. Adams only about four minutes to reach a verdict of acquittal yesterday afternoon.

Only one ballot was taken, and then word was sent to Judge Lambert that a verdict had been reached. But the judge had left the bench and others in the court had scattered, and it was half an hour after the jury retired that the foreman solemnly pronounced the words "Not guilty!" The jury was out just thirty minutes.

Molineux seemed speechless with joy. As his father, brother, counsel and friends crowded around him and congratulated him he could not articulate his thanks. His aged father was delirious with joy. The judge had previously warned those in the courtroom against a demonstration.

Mrs. Molineux was elated over the news when it was conveyed to her.

Assistant District Attorney Osborne would not talk about the verdict, but the foreman of the jury said it was unanimous on the first ballot.

After the verdict former Governor Black was given an ovation by the crowds. They nearly carried him off his feet trying to shake his hand and congratulate him.

The result was not a surprise, as the charge of the judge gave a fair indication of the way the verdict would go.

The jury went out at 3:15. For nearly two hours Judge Lambert had addressed them. He laid stress on two points in the testimony—one that the prosecution had never clearly proved that Molineux had the famous bottle holder in his possession and the other that the prosecution had not clearly established the connection of the prisoner with the poison package.

He, however, directed careful consideration of the fact that there had been bitter feeling between the prisoner and Cornish and directed that the testimony as to the similarity of the admitted specimens of the Molineux writing and those on the poison package must be considered.

All through the charge the court referred to the defendant as "Mr." Molineux. With few exceptions he referred to Harry Cornish as "that man Cornish."

French Strikers Weaken.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—At a council of ministers Premier Combes communicated the contents of dispatches he had received from the strike regions, showing that the movement to resume work which began Monday has been greatly accentuated. At some places, such as Bruay, work has been entirely resumed, and M. Combes gave his colleagues to understand that the movement on the part of the miners to take up their work would soon extend to the department du Nord and other districts.

Mason's Discharge Ordered.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 12.—The discharge of Alan G. Mason, the Boston clubman accused of the murder of Clara A. Morton at Waverley a week ago last Saturday night, has been ordered by Judge Charles Almy of the Third district court of eastern Middlesex. The government lawyer said that an investigation had failed to disclose evidence sufficient to hold the accused man, and the court at once announced the failure to find probable cause and ordered the discharge of Mason.

A DINNER TO WHITE

Great Men of Germany Honor Our Ambassador.

TWO HUNDRED PERSONS PRESENT.

Farewell Banquet Held In the Same Hall That Was Used Twenty-one Years Ago Upon a Similar Occasion.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—Members of the cabinet and of the reichstag, scientists, authors, journalists, financiers and manufacturers, comprising as representative an assemblage as Berlin has seen in years, gave a dinner last night at the Kaiserhof in honor of former Ambassador Andrew D. White. Home Secretary Posadowsky-Wehner presided. More than 200 persons were present. The dinner was given in the same hall that was used twenty-one years ago upon the occasion of a similar dinner to Mr. White.

ANDREW D. WHITE.

Professor Harnack eulogized the spirit of Mr. White's work on the conflict of science and theology and said the Prussian Academy of Sciences was proud to number the author of this book among its members. "Scholars are seldom diplomats, and diplomats are seldom scholars, but you," said Professor Harnack, "stand on the list with Wilhelm von Humboldt, Niebuhr, Bancroft and Waddington. The United States, like Germany, has its face turned toward the light."

While Mr. White spoke in reply to Count von Posadowsky-Wehner and Professor Harnack Professor Mommsen left his seat and stood at Mr. White's side, listening to every word he said and nodding his head in approval. Professor Mommsen, who is considered the most eminent living German, presented an extraordinary figure with his long white hair falling over an old fashioned broad linen collar and his bosom covered with decorations from all countries.

Mr. White said: "As I look over this assemblage, representing so much that gives strength and honor not only to this city, but to the empire; as I recall the personal assurances which have been made to me and the greetings which have come to me during the past week not only from Germans at home, but from Germans beyond the seas, I can only thank you all, both those present and those absent, from the depth of my heart and assure you that so long as my life shall last the remembrance of these days will remain among my most precious possessions."

Continuing, Mr. White said that during the life and death struggle of the American Union Germany was the one nation which, throughout all classes of society, took the side of the Union, while everywhere else in Europe hostile feelings were expressed and malignant prophecies were made. Germany understood the deep meanings of the contest and gave its aid through sympathy with the Union. "Therefore," said Mr. White, "when some of my fellow citizens endeavored to reproach Germany with anti-American feeling in the more recent military struggle in which my country was engaged with another power I reminded them that this more recent estrangement was infinitely outweighed by the fact that in the struggle for our very existence one nation, Germany, stood by us through evil and good report."

Mr. White during the remainder of his speech interpreted America to the Germans and sought to give them views of the United States which are seldom expressed here. He said that while the United States on a superficial view appeared to be the most materialistic of nations the people of America were among those most powerfully swayed by beliefs and ideals of sentiment. In no country could the action of these two forces, apparently so antagonistic, making on the one side for the practical and on the other for the ideal, be seen more vigorously acting and reacting upon each other. He traced the influence of ideals in political struggles in the United States and said he knew no other country where money was less worshiped as money. Mr. White alluded to the gifts made in America during the last year to colleges, libraries and universities, which, he said, amounted to $70,000,000.

Important Philippine Appointment.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—A cable dispatch received at the war department from Governor Taft announces that he has appointed Elmer B. Bryan, formerly of Bloomington, Ind., superintendent of education for the Philippines. The appointment was made after conferences with General James F. Smith and was requested by the Filipino schoolteachers. It was indorsed by the different classes on the island. Mr. Bryan has been identified with the schools of the Philippines for some time as superintendent in the city of Manila.

READING'S DEFENSE.

President Baer Denies All Charges and Blames Miners' Union.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The reply of President George F. Baer of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal company to the charges of President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers which has been presented to the anthracite coal strike commission has been given to the public. President Baer makes no reference to Mitchell as the president of the miners' organization, but refers to him simply as an individual. Taking up the specifications in Mr. Mitchell's charges seriatim, Mr. Baer first admits that his company owns thirty-seven collieries and that before the strike it employed 26,829 people. Following is a brief summary of the response to Mr. Mitchell's other specifications:

The demand for 20 per cent increase in wages on piecework is denounced as "arbitrary, unreasonable and unjust." The company contends that after making all necessary allowance for different conditions that the rate of wages paid for the mining of anthracite coal is as high as that paid in the bituminous coalfields.

The company denies that the present rate of wages is lower than is paid in other occupations in the same locality and is controlled by like conditions. Mr. Baer denies that the earnings of the anthracite workers are less than average earnings for other occupations requiring skill and training and also the charge that the earnings are insufficient because of the dangerous character of work in the anthracite mines.

Replying to the fourth demand made by Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Baer says since the advent of the United Mine Workers' organization into the anthracite fields business conditions there have been intolerable, that the output of the mines has decreased, that discipline has been destroyed, that strikes have been of almost daily occurrence, that men have worked when and as they please and that the cost of mining has been greatly increased. He also takes the position that the jurisdiction of the commission is limited to the conditions named by the coal company presidents, which excludes the United Mine Workers from any recognition in the proceedings.

Another Mining Difference Settled.

HAZLETON, Pa., Nov. 12.—The trouble at the Silver Brook colliery of J. S. Wentz & Co., where the men refused to return to work unless taken back in a body, has been satisfactorily settled, and the mine was started up this morning. The settlement was effected at a conference between Thomas Righter, a member of the company, and a committee of the men, all of whom, with the exception of two, will be reinstated by the company. These two will be taken on as soon as the company finds room for them. The company has also agreed to give the employees occupying its houses ample time in which to pay their back rent and coal bills. About 450 men are employed at Silver Brook.

Underbosses Reinstated.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Nov. 12.—All underbosses who went out with the pumpmen and engineers during the recent strike have been reinstated at the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company's collieries in the Shamokin-Mount Carmel region. One thousand miners are still idle here because of mines not being in good working condition.

Education Bill to Go Through.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Premier Balfour's motion to apply automatic closure by compartments to the government's education bill was agreed to in the house of commons by 222 votes to 103. Following this method the bill must be passed by Nov. 28. A vigorous amendment to the motion made by Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the Liberal leader, which drew fighting speeches from Colonial Secretary Chamberlain, Mr. Balfour, Mr. Asquith and many others, was defeated by 284 votes to 152.

Murder and Suicide In Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 12.—Dr. W. H. Kimberlin, a pioneer citizen and a prominent oculist, was shot and killed in his office in this city by John Scanlon, formerly a policeman, who then shot and killed himself. The bodies of both men were found in the doctor's office. Dr. Kimberlin was shot three times, and both men must have died almost instantly. Scanlon, who was a brother of a prominent local politician, asserted, it is said, that Kimberlin had caused him to lose his eyesight.

Votes For Cunneen Not Counted.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Nov. 12.—The Saratoga county board of canvassers has met, but will not complete the election canvass until Thursday afternoon. Several districts have been found in which the inspectors of election had omitted to count the Prohibition vote for Cunneen for attorney general. The inspectors have been summoned before the board of canvassers.

DIGG'S UPRIGHT FIRE EXTINGUISHER.
The Best on Earth! We Challenge the World!

The Extinguishers that turn up-side-down to discharge are good of their kind, but this is far better. Read the following reasons:

Points of superior merit of the Digge-Upright over any other machine—

1—A sealed acid bottle and an air-tight tank. No change in the conditions of the chemicals possible.
2—Can never be discharged by accident; absolutely under the control of the operator.
3—A 3-gallon machine of this type contains ONE QUART more of liquid than a reversible, because it does not require a handle underneath.
4—It does not need inspection and recharging as required for the reversible with its loose stopple.
5—The acid being released at the top of the tank, and the outlet being at the bottom, the mingling of the chemicals is so thorough before the acid reaches the outlet that it is completely neutralized, and no harm can be done to flesh or fabric. In the reversible type the acid is released within the two inches of the outlet.
6—Convenience in handling. The machine stands on its bottom, and all the operator has to do is to turn the screw in the cap, and the flow begins instantly.
7—The bottle is not broken, and no nuisance of broken glass.

NOTABLE GATHERING

New York Chamber of Commerce Dedicated.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT ATTENDS.

New Home of World Famed Organization Visited by Representatives of Many Nations—The Structure Described.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The formal dedication of the splendid new building of the New York chamber of commerce took place in the presence of great crowds and with imposing ceremonies dignified by the attendance of scores of world known sponsors. These included President Theodore Roosevelt, ex-President Grover Cleveland, Governor Odell, Mayor Low, representing the national, state and city governments; great men of the financial and business world—J. Pierpont Morgan, John D. Rockefeller, Morris K. Jesup, Cornelius N. Bliss and Levi P. Morton—Bishop Potter and the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix and special delegates from the British, German and French governments. The bar, the army and navy, arts and letters, education and science were all amply represented, making a galaxy of famous men such as had not been gathered together in a long time.

Of the foreign representatives Sir Albert Kaye Rollit and Sir Vincent Kennett-Barrington were sent by King Edward, Prince Henry of Piess by Kaiser

MORRIS K. JESUP.

Wilhelm and Count Raoul Chandon de Briailles by President Loubet of France. Other delegates to the dedication were sent by the lesser powers.

The notable guests gathered at 65 Liberty street, the imposing marble pile which is now the center of America's commercial interests, where they were received by Morris K. Jesup, president of the chamber.

After the president and the other dignitaries had been received ceremoniously the Rev. Morgan Dix offered the dedicatory prayer.

President Jesup made the opening address, reviewing with justifiable pride the great progress made by the United States in its commerce and the part played by the chamber since its inception in 1768.

Mr. Jesup told how in that year twenty of the leading business men of the city, then of about 20,000 souls, met in Fraunce's tavern and formed the first chamber of commerce. He recited the growth of the body and dwelt on the great influence it has now attained among the business nations of the world.

President Roosevelt followed, speaking for the nation. His eulogistic address was loudly cheered. People stood on chairs and waved handkerchiefs, ending with three cheers and a tiger.

Mayor Low then spoke for the city.

The principal oration of the day was that of ex-President Cleveland. He recalled the commercial, martime, financial and industrial development of the city, state and nation through the efforts of the chamber of commerce and closed with a glowing tribute to the members of the chamber of the past and present.

A ceremonial luncheon lasting an hour followed, in which more than 1,000 guests participated. The exercises were then adjourned until evening, when there was a magnificent banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria.

This banquet was one of the most sumptuous of all those given in recent years on similar occasions. There were 600 guests at the tables, each of whom had paid $50 for the privileged honor.

The new building on Liberty street is the first real home of the chamber of commerce, as it is the first one the chamber has ever owned. From Fraunce's tavern, in 1768, the organization has been housed in cramped and inadequate quarters in many different places in the business section. From its first meeting place in the old tavern, where the merchants paid "a shilling apiece" for rent, to the fine edifice on Liberty street seems no far cry, and the institution reached nearly its sesquicentennial before completing the journey.

The cornerstone of the new Chamber of Commerce was laid a year ago last Saturday. The site and building cost more than $1,000,000.

Morris K. Jesup was the largest individual subscriber, giving $51,000. J. Pierpont Morgan and John D. Rockefeller each gave $50,000. Cornelius Vanderbilt, D. Willis James, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., John S. Kennedy, William E. Dodge, S. D. Babcock and Andrew Carnegie contributed $25,000 apiece. Mayor Low gave $5,000 and Bird S. Coler $1,000.

The building is of white Vermont marble, with a white granite base. The design is classical, and, considering the limitations of the site, architects pronounce it a superb piece of work.

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION.

In conformity with the day named by the President of the United States, I appoint Thursday, November 27, as a day of public thanksgiving and prayer—of thanksgiving for blessings received, and of prayer, for their continuance. I do this partly because it has been an honored custom in this State from its foundation, which I hope will continue as long as the State shall endure, to set apart at least one day in the year for this purpose, and partly because it is right and proper to make public as well as private acknowledgment to an ever living, merciful God for His constant and unfailing care. No nation has ever been blessed with all the material blessings of life as our nation. No State in our nation has been more favored than the one in which it is our happy lot to dwell. We are a God-fearing and God-loving people. Let us get together in our public places of worship on the day named and render public thanks and prayer to Almighty God for all His mercies.

FRANKLIN MURPHY,
Governor.

WHERE TO SKATE?

With the first touch of real cool weather, the thoughts of the young people naturally turn to their favorite winter sport, skating, which is not many weeks away. Every year, there has been more or less agitation in behalf of a public skating pond more suited to the general use of the lovers of that exhilirating sport than the present ponds and at a location convenient to the majority of city and borough folk. It usually appears at the close of the season so that nothing has ever been done along those lines. If something is really to be accomplished, this is the time to start it before the season has begun.

For years, the meadows on the Hyde estate were flooded every winter and offered a fair opportunity for good skating. For the last few years Tier's pond has been utilized despite the occasional protests of the property owners along its banks. New Market and South Plainfield have plenty of room for skating but it is difficult to reach either one and the majority of the skaters do not care for the long walk or wheel ride before and after a spin over the ice. So it is that the local enthusiasts have bemoaned the fate that has left a city the size of Plainfield without any suitable skating pond.

Several plans have been suggested in past years. There was talk of several private individuals taking hold of the scheme and establishing such a place to be used for a nominal charge. In this way it could be kept in proper condition and good order maintained. An organization of interested ones with small dues to maintain a pond was also suggested.

If anything is to be done, now is the time to do it. We make no suggestions as to the proper lines but there were several plans suggested in the past which ought to work well now. The Daily Press will be glad to give space to any suggestions which may be made along this line. Skating is certainly a healthy sport and one to be encouraged among the young people of city and borough.

No attempt is to be made at present to widen Sycamore street and make a proper approach to the North Avenue station. Several of the Councilmen were interested in the project and hoped to materially improve the approach to the railroad station. Since the railroad company has so improved its own property around the station, they have felt that the city ought to do its share and this project to make Sycamore street an important thoroughfare leading to the station instead of a side street, as at present, was one step along that line. One would think that property owners would be glad to see that thoroughfare come to the fore and divide with Watchung and Park avenues the place of feeders for the station.

The collapse of a large warehouse in New Brunswick has shown the great need of a proper building ordinance there. That city may well pattern after Plainfield in that respect. This city has a building ordinance which some people have claimed was entirely too strict but it has the great advantage that it prevents catastrophes similar to the one in New Brunswick which possess such serious possibilities.

Eighty nice plums are ready to be distributed by Governor Franklin Murphy with the beginning of the new year. Mr. Murphy has a faculty of selecting his men according to their ability rather than their political pull and this fact is apt to interfere somewhat with the politician's idea of the proper distribution of these good things.

Just when the Plainfield Board of Education has started on the new High School project, some ill-advised mortal over in Jersey City has to come out with the statement that he believes the present school law unconstitutional. Certainly the School Board has had hard luck in trying to get that measure through according to law.

Nobody seems to be able to explain what happened in Morris county during the last election. It was expected by Republicans and Democrats alike to be very close. There were certain features in the canvass, however, which both sides admitted they did not understand. Time seems to have enlightened them.

Plainfield's little experience with political primaries this fall has served to demonstrate the need of State control of those meetings. As a means of securing the honest opinions of the properly qualified ones, they did not seem a great and howling success.

Bowling promises to be a popular indoor sport this winter and The Daily Press Bowling League is already responsible for more than the usual interest in the game among the members of the four clubs which make up its membership.

It really looks now as if the baseball season had come to an end. One hardly dares say so, however, for fear of hearing somebody has arranged another game for next Saturday.

All sorts of comments are being heard from all over the State regarding the remarkable strength which those "dead politically" displayed in Somerset.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

In the Wethersfield notes of the Hartford Courant, October 25, there appears an item of interest to Plainfield concerning Mrs. Jane Davis, mother of Mrs. Mary A. Mulford, now of Chicago, but for some years a resident of Plainfield. The item is as follows:

"On Saturday evening Mrs. Jane Davis, the much honored mother of Mrs. Mary A. Mulford, of Chicago, Ill., celebrated her ninetieth birthday in Wethersfield at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Haven, the latter being one of the several nieces who, with the nephews and their families, were present. Mrs. Davis was remembered with gifts and expressions of endearment from these and also from her relatives in California, Chicago, Newport, Fall River, Norwich, etc. A supper was an enjoyable feature and the event was full of interest. Mrs. Davis is in perfect health and her gentleness of manner, her meekness of spirit is surely a high example for her children to follow."

As a result of special religious meeting recently held at Lowell, Mass., recently, Rev. Asa R. Dilts, formerly of the Park Avenue Baptist church, and Prof. Stout, the singing evangelist, who are great friends, happened to meet. They were boyhood playmates and close friends. In the early days young Stout would often sing to his friend as even than talent manifested itself. The paths of the two separated and only occasionally did they hear anything of each other. A few months since they were providentially brought into correspondence, resulting in association together in special services. In other days they enthusiastically played baseball together on the home team and one as a pitcher and the other as catcher made a strong combination. As they are now associated they prove to be true yoke-fellows, one as a speaker, the other as singer, each doing well his own part. Many Plainfielders will remember Mr. Dilts as one of the best ball players in this city at one time.

THE OLDEST VETERAN AT THE THROTTLE

America's Oldest Locomotive Engineer Now Lives at Paterson, N. J.

WAS HERE RECENTLY

HIS CAREER HAS BEEN AN ACTIVE AND EVENTFUL ONE.

Some of the Events of His Life—A Picturesque Character—Where He Began and How He Has Since Been Honored.

On of the most interesting characters in New Jersey, if not in this country, is John Casson, of Paterson, the oldest locomotive engineer in the United States, if not in the world. Mr. Casson was in Plainfield the other day calling on his friend, Hugh Boyd, of East Fifth street, and while here a representative for The Daily Press met the aged engineer and had a pleasant chat with him.

It was learned that Mr. Casson was born in Preston, Lancashire, Eng., eighty-four years ago. Sixty-nine years ago last September he came to this country, where he secured a job as an apprentice in the machine shops of Rogers, Ketcham & Grovenor, at Paterson. On July 3, 1838, his time was out and he then went to work in Seth Boyden's machine shop in Newark. Seth Boyden was then the master mechanic on the Lackawanna Railroad, and in that shop the first engines in New Jersey were built. Mr. Casson remained there a few months during which time he did repair work. It was then that he learned to run an engine and he was put on a run between Newark and Madison. This job he held for a year. He then applied for a job as engineer on the Erie Railroad, but there was no opening at that time.

Mr. Casson then left railroading for a time and in 1840 he secured a job with the contractor then working on Trinity church, New York. He run a stationary engine at Little Falls, Essex county, where the stone for the church was obtained. From there Mr. Casson went to Brooklyn, where he secured a position in a machine shop, where he remained three years. After that he secured another job in Fairbanks & Company's machine shops at Elizabethport, where he worked for a year. He then got a job with the New Jersey Central, when John O. Stearns was at the head of its management. From 1846 to 1847 he was the master mechanic of the New Jersey Central, being the first man to hold that position with the road. He had charge of the shops at Somerville. At that time there were four engines on the road, none of them weighing over fourteen tons.

From Somerville Mr. Casson went to Ohio, where he railroaded for four years. At the end of that time he returned east and secured a position as engineer on the Erie Railroad and he remained with that company fifty years. He had runs between Susquehanna and Port Jervis and on the Delaware, Susquehanna and Eastern division. It is his boast that he never had an accident while running an engine. Fifteen years ago he retired from active work. He visited the Pan-American Exposition on "Railroad Men's Day," and operated the miniature railroad trains for a few hours. He was given a great reception as the oldest engineer in the world and he was treated royally.

Mr. Casson was at Binghamton, N. Y., where President McKinley died, and he went on to Buffalo and from there to Canton, Ohio, where he attended the obsequies of the lamented President who was his personal friend. Mr. Casson has had a wonderful experience during his active life and he now lives quietly at 366 Fifteenth avenue, Paterson. He is hale and hearty and says that if it was not for a little touch of rheumatism he would yet be able to run an engine.

BRIDGE NOT MUCH HURT.

Flames Did Not Injure Big Cables In New East River Structure.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The new East river bridge suffered comparatively little damage from the fire which swept over it. The loss is estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000.

According to Charles G. Roebling, who represents the company which has charge of the cable work and must stand the loss, not one of the four great cables was injured. Only three months will be lost by the builders as a result of the fire.

The men who were missing at first and were believed to have met death reported for work yesterday morning. Kingsley L. Martin, in charge of the steel construction, said that as far as he knew no lives were lost.

The loss sustained by the Pennsylvania Steel company was $500 in the destruction of material which was stored on top of the Manhattan tower.

Mr. Martin says that the heavy steel saddles there, on which the cables rest, were not damaged nor was any of the ironwork warped by the flames.

Engineers representing the city and the construction companies went to the top of the Manhattan tower at an early hour to make a careful examination of the cables. It was feared that at the very top, where the cables are not covered by a thick iron casing, serious damage had been done.

In the report which Bridge Commissioner Lindenthal will make to Mayor Low he will place the estimate of the damage done the bridge as less than $50,000. He authorized the following statement, which was made by one of his engineers:

"After a careful examination we found only 250 wires on the big cables damaged. They were all on the surface and can be removed and replaced in a week's time. The towers are not bent nor is any of the ironwork warped."

AMERICAN BANKERS.

Twenty-eighth Annual Convention In New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 12.—The twenty-eighth annual convention of the American Bankers' association has assembled in Tulane hall for a three days' session. This is believed to be the largest meeting of the association ever held. Fifteen hundred delegates have registered at headquarters in addition to nearly 500 visitors and ladies. Seven special trains, a dozen private cars and every regular train for the past three days has brought the crowds.

The first day's session was carried out practically in accordance with the programme. There was prayer by Rev. Dr. Beverly Warner and then addresses of welcome by Acting Mayor William Mehle, City Attorney Samuel L. Gilmore on behalf of the city, Professor W. C. Stubbs on behalf of Governor Heard and R. N. Walmsley, president of the Clearing House association, for the local bankers. President Herrick replied to the welcomes and delivered his annual address.

The formal business was then taken up. This consisted in the reception of reports of officers and committees. Secretary J. R. Branch's reports showed a present membership of 6,354, with an annual income of $67,800. There was a net increase in membership during the year of 973. Chairman F. S. Bigelow of the executive council submitted a report, in the course of which it was stated that the currency plan of Mr. Hepburn was indorsed in so far as it suggested the issuance of currency by banks of $50,000 capital and $20,000 surplus or more to the extent of half of their capital stock at a tax of 6 per cent, one-half per cent a month. Reports from the committees on uniform laws and fidelity insurance were then presented.

Sagasta to Form New Cabinet.

MADRID, Nov. 12. — King Alfonso has intrusted Prime Minister Sagasta with the reconstruction of the cabinet and gives him a free hand in the matter. It is believed that General Weyler will not be retained in the war office. Senor Sagasta is endeavoring to embody in the new cabinet a more democratic element than that which was found in the previous cabinet. The resignations of the entire Spanish cabinet were handed to King Alfonso Monday. The cortes was informed of the crisis and suspended its sittings until a new ministry is formed.

The Month's Postal Receipts.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The statistics of the gross postal receipts of the government for last month as compared with October, 1901, at fifty of the largest postoffices in the country show a total of $5,580,499, an increase of 13 per cent. The increase at New York was 11 per cent and at Chicago 19 per cent, the receipts being $1,183,588 and $864,884 respectively. The largest increase was 36 per cent at Los Angeles, closely pressed by 33 per cent at Milwaukee. The largest decrease was 11 per cent at Buffalo.

Captain Ladd Dies of Yellow Fever.

PANAMA, Nov. 12.—P. B. Ladd, who was formerly a captain in a Missouri regiment of volunteers during the Spanish-American war and who came to the isthmus to fight for the Colombian government, is dead here of yellow fever. Captain Ladd's illness prevented him from sailing on the government gunboat Bogota when that vessel left here last Saturday in search of the rebel fleet. Captain Ladd's home was in St. Louis.

Duty For Christmas Presents.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The insular bureau of the war department has informed the Philippine government that according to a decision of the cabinet Christmas presents sent to the islands will be subject to the same duty as other goods.

FINLAND'S TROUBLES.

Russian Domination and Terrors of Famine Cause Great Unrest.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Nov. 12.—The Finlanders are showing restlessness as a result of the Russianizing measures of the St. Petersburg government. Self restraint is beginning to yield to a willingness on the part of a portion of the population to tolerate acts of violence. Such acts have hitherto been severely frowned down.

Another serious indication is the beginning of closer relations between Finlanders and Russian revolutionists, a consummation devoutly wished for by the latter, but hardly to the taste of Interior Minister van Plehwe.

It is believed the altered temper of the people is partly due to the terrible famine in the north, which is worse than any since 1867, when 100,000 people died of disease and starvation. The crops failed to ripen. The grain cut green makes miserable, unhealthy bread. In places bread is also being baked of bark. Emigration has reached the number of 18,000 persons this year.

The resistance of the Finnish officials to such measures as they consider destructive of their country's autonomy remains unshaken by the increased powers conferred recently on the general governor and his dismissal of many of their number.

It is perfectly understood that the Russians will have their way in the end, but it is evident that in the meanwhile no opportunity will be lost to render them ridiculous or to create difficulties for them.

The great problem is what to do with the 14,000 young men who refuse compliance with the military law. Their numbers are their strength. It is said the government would like to proceed against those of the educated classes only, but they have almost to a man gone to Germany, Sweden or England temporarily or emigrated altogether.

FORTY PERSONS HURT.

Gas Explosion Wrecks Seven Story New York Tenement.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Two score persons or more were injured yesterday afternoon in a gas explosion which occurred at 121 Avenue C, which is a seven story tenement with a cigar factory on the street floor.

A plumber was working on a gas engine in the basement of the building and ran upstairs, calling "Fire!" Andrew Luft, proprietor of the cigar factory, ran out and turned in an alarm. Just as the firemen were entering the cellar and as the tenants from the upper part of the building were rushing downstairs the escaping gas exploded and tore up the street floor and blew out the entire front of the cigar factory.

Twenty-eight families lived in the building. Panic prevailed the moment after the building had been shaken by the explosion. The police were not on hand in any numbers, and the excitement spread over the entire neighborhood.

The force of the explosion was so great it blew cigars and other commodities which were in the cigar factory across the street into a butcher shop, where meat which was hanging about was blown to the rear of the shop.

The Bond-Hay Treaty.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 12.—It is understood here that the Bond-Hay treaty providing for limited reciprocity between the United States and Newfoundland, which was signed in Washington last week by Secretary Hay and Sir Michael Herbert, contained no modification from the terms which Premier Bond arranged with Secretary Hay before the former left Washington.

FURS AND AUTO COATS.

Pony Skin—Gray Squirrel Loose Coats.

The latest motoring coats are made of "poulon," or pony skin. One, a short jacket close fitting in the back and pouched in the front, has a sable collar and plaited silk gimp introduced in a double series of vandykes on the narrow basque and cuffs.

The new furs are very rich. Many of them come shaped on the shoulders so as to form a cape, and from there they fall almost to the feet in the shape of flat tabs edged with tails. Sometimes the back of the neck is softened with brown chiffon. The cuffs are large and pliable, the tails trimming them so arranged that whichever way the muff is held they fall into place.

The gray squirrel is one of the most fashionable furs of the moment. It is made into loose sack back paletots, while the pelerine and cape combined is the newest form of fur garment.

A great many odd and even inexpensive furs are made up after the fashion of costlier skins.

One of the latest fur models is shown in the cut. It is of squirrel, with revers of point lace over primrose velvet. The hat is of lace and chiffon to match.

SEPARATE WAISTS.

They Must Conform In Color to the Skirt.

Bodices are so diverse in fashion that a clever dressmaker is able to suit the most exacting figures and arrange trimmings in the most becoming fashion. The blouse still prevails, but the blouse distinct in color and material is only worn with the coat and skirt for country and morning wear. The evening blouse is still fashionable, but although the material may differ the coloring must correspond.

Black blouses of every description are worn with black skirts, and the pin spotted nets, crepe de chines, mousseline de soie and plain and fancy chiffon are much incrusted with lace or decorated with embroidery. Fine jet is much used, and silk featherstitching is quite a popular decoration.

Cross stitching and the varied types of herringbone and feather work are arranged over narrow ribbon velvet. Spots of velvet are also used. These are generally of varying size.

The evening waist in the picture is of lace, nile green liberty satin and chiffon. JUDIC CHOLLET.

Too Great a Risk.

She met him at the kitchen door with a rolling pin in her hand, and she brandished it menacingly.

"Madam"— he began.

"Well, what do you want?" she demanded aggressively. "What are you snoopin' round here for?"

"Madam," he explained, backing away, "I called to see if I could place an accident insurance policy on your husband, but after seeing you I am satisfied he is too great a risk."—Chicago Post.

COPYRIGHT 1898 BY A. N KELLOGG NEWSPAPER CO

"I wish," observed Hendricks, "that it were day instead of night. You can form no idea of the picturesque ruggedness of the scenery. You see we came by the old road through the woods, but just behind the house there is a new drive. At this point it has been cut through solid stone, and there is a cliff, within 400 feet of us, over a hundred feet in height. In blasting the stone away, it was thought that the old mansion became unsafe, especially as it is believed that there are caverns under the hill."

Hendricks mounted the steps and used the knocker vigorously. The clatter had scarcely died out when the tones of a bell as soft and mellow as cathedral chimes in the distance came from the house.

"Kola knows my rap and the bell is a signal to his attendant to admit me," said Hendricks. "If I make no mistake you are going to be repaid for your ride out here. In psychic tom-foolery and mysticism you are a schoolboy compared to Kola. He imbibed it at the dusky breast of an eastern mother, and his very life is steeped in it."

The door was opened by an Indian in the costume of his country. He placed his finger on his lip to indicate that they were to remain silent, and then gave a salaam that brought his turban almost into contact with the floor.

"I want to see your master," whispered Hendricks, handing him his card.

Again the man bowed silently, closed the great door, and left them in the spacious hall. With many and profuse draperies, Kola had hung the walls and ceiling so that the effect was distinctly oriental. The ornaments, scrolls, paintings and statues were all eastern, but what struck Lampkin most forcibly, perhaps because it was so ill suited to its environment, was a dragon of carved walnut, which stood at the foot of the wide curving stairway.

"That belongs to the house," explained Hendricks in a whisper. "It is a genuine curiosity. The carving is excellent. One would think it of Japanese origin, but if you will notice, it is of the same material as the balustrade, and that must have been made in this country."

Just then the attendant glided from between two heavy silken curtains, and with another salaam, invited them to pass before him. Doing so, they found themselves in Kola's big reception-room. Here their vision was given a rare treat. The lessee of the old ruin had removed the two floors above the one on which they stood, giving a becoming altitude to the walls, which were gracefully draped with long flowing hangings of different blending cloths. The ceiling was disguised by a filmy mass of white material, as gauzy as cobwebs, behind which shone red and yellow lights, like signal fires in a mist.

Lampkin almost uttered an exclamation of delight, but the impressive manner of the attendant and Hendricks' unwonted silence checked the impulse. The servant gave them seats with their backs to the door through which they had entered, and then he stood still in the center of the room, his head bowed, his turban held in front of him.

After a moment the mellow-toned bell, which they had heard before, and which was suspended somewhere among the lights overhead, struck three times slowly. Then a white light blazed up and Kola was seen in a hitherto dark alcove. He wore his gray gown and close-fitting cowl, and was seen to be pacing back and forth. Without seeming conscious of their presence so near him, he picked up an unlighted electric bulb and turned the button. Then holding the light in his right hand, he approached a black tripod over which lay a red cloth. He lifted the cloth, and a big polished crystal sphere was exposed to view. It was about ten inches in diameter and as clear as a diamond. Reflecting the dull, sensuous lights overhead, and the bright rays of the electric bulb, it was certainly a marvelous sight.

Still Kola seemed unconscious of their proximity. From the walls near him the smoke of incense began to rise, a rosy light pervaded the room, and soft, seductive music was heard somewhere above.

Kola held the electric bulb over the crystal and began to gaze into its depths, uttering in sing-song tones words of a strange tongue.

Lampkin heard the detective take a deep, impatient breath, and then his voice jarred harshly through the room.

"Oh, I say, Kola!" he remonstrated. "I came out here the other day and had to sit and watch you go through this sort of thing till I was obliged to leave. For the sake of—"

Kola turned furiously, his features working wildly. Holding up his hand, he said:

"You must be patient, Mr. Hendricks. You are as ignorant as an infant of the importance of what I am doing. You laugh at what you don't understand, but you don't know all that there is to be known. Right this minute I am reading for you, and seeing what your untutored eyes will never see. I knew you were coming. I saw it here," touching the crystal. "I know what you don't know about the case you are working on. If your eye were only trained you could see it now in the crystal."

"Pardon me," said Hendricks, "that is what I come to see you about. I am about to the end of my resources, and something must be done."

"Wait!" Kola turned to the crystal. The music changed to a weird air like a Chinese funeral chant. After a pause of several minutes he looked up.

"The other night I was reading the crystal. I saw a big hotel. A man was murdered; his body was shipped off somewhere in a trunk; its ashes were returned by express and placed in an urn together with a severed hand. The young man, who had murdered his rival, went to his rooms—his studio; there he remained a week and then he fled—south? yes, it was south. I went into a trance and my astral body—my spirit — followed him. I saw him aboard a ship, bound for Liverpool. I was near him on deck one dark night, and saw him hurl himself into the water. He is dead."

"Rot! Rubbish!" exclaimed Hendricks. "You have been reading the newspapers, Kola."

The face of the Indian darkened; it was terrible to behold. Turning off the electric light, and covering up the crystal as if to protect it from the profane gaze of an unbeliever, he strode from the alcove and stood before Hendricks. When next he spoke his voice was husky, tremulous, almost threatening.

"You doubt it?" he said, his accent for the first time showing a slight foreign touch.

"I do, my boy, most thoroughly, and I really did think you would have more respect for me than to make such absurd statements to my face."

Kola twisted his long hands together in the folds of his gown.

"As to the crystal," he began, "it is of inestimable value. It was cut from the most perfectly translucent rock crystal on earth, and it took a man's lifetime to polish it. I inherited it. It is reverenced by the ancient Society of Rosicrutians, and the Society of the Illuminati. You, whose mind is schooled to know only the signification of fallen straws and chips of material events, can know nothing of what is revealed to a life-long student of the occult."

"I was not ridiculing the powers of your glass globe," said Hendricks, blending a sneer and a smile; "but when you said you had gone out of your body and roamed all round over sea and land, well, you know that is a little too much."

Kola's face darkened again. For a moment he bent over the back of one of the carved chairs.

"Hendricks," he began with tight lips. "You are a sensible man in most things and I want your good opinion. Now, I am willing for you to put me to any sort of test you or Dr. Lampkin may suggest to prove the truth of my claims."

"Oh, I haven't time just now for that sort of thing," answered Hendricks. "I came out here to have a talk with you about—"

BASEBALL, HARNESS HORSES AND FISHING DISCUSSED

ONWARD SILVER.

With the close of the Memphis trotting, the harness race season came to an end. Campaigning since July, when the sport opened in Detroit, the harness horses of the season may be said to comprise some very satisfactory animals. The best green pacer and green trotter, it is said by critics who are able and fair, are Direct Hal; the beautiful black stallion that Ed Geers drove, and Prince of Orange, also managed by the "silent man." Direct Hal certainly has commanded attention by his remarkably consistent pacing. The Providence $10,000 purse for 2:10 pacers went to him in straight heats.

But Onward Silver, the stallion that will be recalled as the star performer of 1900 on the grand circuit, has stepped into the limelight as a favorite with Creceus and Dan Patch and McKerron. Onward Silver has been withdrawn from the track and will not be campaigned again. His owner has mapped out a future in the stud for this stallion that should result in great good to the breeding and racing interests. If the foals by this sire do not prove stars in future grand circuit meets, the horsemen will miss their guesses.

Only two other stallions, Monroe Chief and Greenlander, have tried for the two-mile record in the last 20 years. Budd Doble had Monroe Chief when he was driven for the record, and that astute veteran trainer and reinsman was at Lexington when the stallion Onward Silver made his mark of 4:29½ for two miles. Monroe Chief was a 2:18¼ trotter, and it is a matter of speculation as to what he might have done with the pneumatic sulky of latter-day racing. Greenlander's 4:32 mark stood until Onward Silver cut it down.

The close students of horseflesh say that Onward Silver's record is but an incident of the stallion's career, and look for great performances by his get. They cite that the winner of the Bonner memorial and the Massachusetts stakes, both for $10,000, in 1900, together with a record of 2:08 in a third heat and the distinction of trotting two miles in faster time than any other horse, argue well for him in the stud. The Aberdeen blood so conspicuous and potent in Onward Silver has come to general notice this season with the stamp of approval. This blood has come to Onward Silver through his dam, a full sister to Kentucky Union (2:07½); is in the veins of other record breakers. Katherine A. and Wiggins have the blood, Anzella, a California mare, at one time this season the class of the circuit trotters, is another of the blood of Aberdeen.

How to go fishing to extract the maximum amount of pleasure from the trip with the smallest amount of expense seems to have been solved by some city officials of La Crosse, Wis., and some employes of a big lumber concern. Recently it was my good fortune to be invited to join a fishing expedition on the Mississippi river, and the invitation concluded with: "Wear rubber hunting boots and canvas clothing."

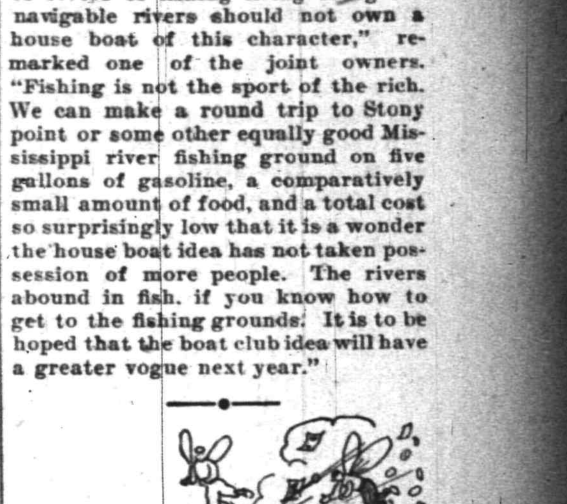
The expedition was so unique in many of its features that it may be of interest. In the first place the genius who owns the boat called "Marion" built the craft almost entirely without assistance. She draws but a few inches of water, and is designed to run up on the bars of the river from the edges of which the lines that get the silver bass and pike are let down. The matter of power and light was a problem that the fisherman owner easily solved. A mill engineer who was a disciple of Walton, was found who had in his possession a lot of old machinery from dismantled sawmills and some more or less famous river boats of the days when log rafts and lumber rafts were marked features of the Mississippi river traffic.

"Could he fix up a gasoline motor?" "As well as any lover of fishing," he replied, and soon the mechanic had a 30-horse power engine ready for running. A small dynamo was required to produce the sparks that ignited the gas. What did the prospective craft owner—cornfield sailor he called himself—do about this? He took an electrician into the fishing party and soon this clever workman not only had rigged up a dynamo of ten volts connected with the main shaft, for the making of sparks, but he had wired the house boat and installed a home-made lighting dynamo.

A riverman who knew how to pilot the fishing boat was needed, and a former raft boat pilot was taken into the fishing club. He had the tiller placed in the forward end of the house boat, got the electrician to put in a switch and install red and green globes for the necessary government lights, and the fishing boat was about ready for the excursions to the fishing grounds. A carpenter was taken into the club to finish the appointments of the cabin, and with 20 gallons of gasoline in the tank for fuel the craft was ready.

Every Saturday this year this boat has been in use on the river, and the club has taken hundreds of fine fish from the river. All members of the club fish with paraphernalia strictly within the law, and derive more enjoyment out of the weekly trips than many people do out of expeditions that cost much more.

"There is no reason why any group of lovers of fishing living along our navigable rivers should not own a house boat of this character," remarked one of the joint owners. "Fishing is not the sport of the rich. We can make a round trip to Stony point or some other equally good Mississippi river fishing ground on five gallons of gasoline, a comparatively small amount of food, and a total cost so surprisingly low that it is a wonder the house boat idea has not taken possession of more people. The rivers abound in fish, if you know how to get to the fishing grounds. It is to be hoped that the boat club idea will have a greater vogue next year."



CAPTURED THE PLAYERS

President Ban Johnson went hunting for duck recently, and Charles Comiskey drew all the shot from the shells of the American League executive. So Ban missed his ducks. Shifting his operations from the wilderness to his office in a big city. Mr. Johnson fired a double barreled charge of contracts for 1903 at the baseball world, and everybody is now talking of the list of baseball stars that the young major league has to array against the raided National league.

Chief among the new men of the American league, of course, are the great players taken from Pittsburg—Catchers Smith and Jack O'Connor; and Pitchers Chesbro and Tannehill, whose records as pirates this year are to be envied by every aspirant for baseball glory. Infielders Leach and Conroy and Outfielder "Lefty" Davis are the other Pittsburg stars raided by Johnson's league. Willie Keeler, the greatest little fellow playing ball in the world, has taken the American league bait, and will be seen in the New York outfield. Brooklyn lost a prize when Keeler was taken.

It may be expected that critics will say that while Johnson has given New York one of the best teams—on paper anyway—that the metropolis ever had, he has weakened some other teams in his league. How has he done that? will be asked. It is answered that he has not weakened a single American league team. Dave Fultz, the great outfielder of the Athletics, would have been with the National league opposition New York team but for some great strategy practiced by Johnson's agents. The Baltimore aggregation of the American league had to be divided on account of the abandoning of that city in the circuit, and a better place than New York for Wiltse and Howell, Williams, Jones and McFarland could not have been found. In addition to the frank announcement of the 1903 roster, there are plans for a few more changes, one of which may place Pitcher Clark Griffith, of the white sox, in the position of player manager in New York.

At last the objective point of all the skirmishing, scouting and charging and assaulting of the American league for two years—New York—has been taken and occupied. The move was the principal one in baseball this year, and is pregnant with results that can only be speculated upon at this date. Certain it is that when the National league magnates awaken to the realization that 19 more of their stars have been bagged, they will lay counter plans. The American players are signed under "ironclad" contracts. Will money buy them up? The winter will tell.

ON THE GRIDIRON.

Company K's football team will go to Brooklyn Saturday afternoon and meet the eleven from the Twenty-third Regiment at Prospect Park. The Brooklyn soldier boys have a heavy team and will probably make things likely for the local eleven, but the Company K contingent is going to make as good a showing as possible.

Quite a delegation of Plainfielders are arranging to attend the Yale-Princeton football game at Princeton Saturday afternoon. Yale probably has the most friends in Plainfield of any college owing to its large alumni here. There are a goodly number of Princeton rooters, however, who will take in the contest. Nearly all will go to Elizabeth and take advantage of the special trains which the Pennsylvania Railroad will run over its line to Princeton that day. There are several Plainfield young men in college at Princeton and each will entertain quite a party of home friends.

Thanksgiving Day will probably see the close of the local football season as far as the Alis A. A. is concerned. Just at present that club is sorely handicapped by the lack of its best men. So many have been forced to retire temporarily from the gridiron that Manager Harold A. Chandor has decided not to play any game at al Saturday of this week and play only a light game the following Saturday so the players can get into shape for the final game Thanksgiving morning with the Bergen Point Field Club. Many of the players will go to Princeton Saturday to see the Yale-Princeton contest and with the rest laid up it would be impossible to get a team together. In order, however, to give the people some kind of a game, an eleven largly made up of substitutes will get out the following week against some lighter team. Manager Chandor has thought something of scheduling a game with Company K, the Orange Field Club or perhaps Roselle for that day.

FOOTBALL.

The A. A. C., of this city, will play a game of football with the C. A. C., of Westfield, on the Orange Field Club grounds, Saturday afternoon. Last Saturday the Plainfield team defeated the Westfield eleven, 25 to 0.

George McComb, manager of the Hope Y. M. A. association football team, has signed for a game with the Woodside Athletic Association, of Perth Amboy. The local team has been in heavy practice for some time, under the management of Mr. McComb, and the members of the team are confident of putting up a winning game.

ROD AND GUN.

Edward Savacool, of West Third street, has gone to Pike county, Pa., for a week's hunting.

Frank Wikoff, of Richmond street, returned Monday evening from Pottersville, where he succeeded in capturing six rabbits and a grey squirrel.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Smalley, Jr., of Somerset street, went hunting yesterday, near Lebanon, and shot seventeen rabbits and a number of birds. Mrs. Smalley shot seven out of the seventeen rabbits.

Thomas Kenney, William Willoughby, Emil Parsh, Gus Koerner and Edward Willoughby returned last evening from a successful hunting trip to Hunterdon county. They captured 167 rabbits, several squirrels and seventeen quail.

J. A. Staats, of the Hotel Kensington, accompanied by Fred Sandford, is spending a few days in northern New Jersey hunting game. They expect to return with plenty of rabbits, squirrels, while they may be fortunate enough to find a deer.

Settled Out of Court.

The case on contract between William Sharkey and George Conover was settled out of court yesterday afternoon when the defendant paid over the amount in question. The case was to have come up before Justice W. E. Mattison in his court today.

eigners or foreign-born. Miss Van Boskerck's report also treated of the work in her department of caring for children and helping not only them but their parents and placing the children where they will receive the best care, where the parents are not able to look after them. The report was received with hearty applause.

The annual election of officers took place at this time and resulted as follows: President, H. M. Maxson; vice presidents, Charles W. McCutchen, John Doull Miller and Mrs. J. K. Myers; secretary, W. S. Tyler; treasurer, Boardman Wright.

By a unanimous vote the constitution was amended to provide for the corporate seal a circle with the name of the association therein and the seal in the centre. Resolutions presented by Miss Tweedy expressing the sincere regret of the death of Mrs. Henry Opdyke, a former zealous member of the association. She was one of the charter members of the association.

Mr. Maxson stated that on Saturday there would be on exhibition of books at the Public Library of special interest to all charity workers, and he urged all persons interested to accept this opportunity of attending the exhibity.

There was no other business and the president introduced Hugh Fox, president of the State Board of Children's Guardians, who gave a short but interesting talk on "Child Saving in New Jersey." At the outset Mr. Fox gave a number of statistics regarding the population of the State. He said that only about 5 per cent. are illiterate and of the 14,000 colored population one half are illiterate.

Mr. Fox said that there is no excuse to build additional institutions for children, the present number being considered sufficient to care for them. He said that the work of the State Board is to make families independent and to keep the alms houses empty. He said that the board is required to recognize the faith of children where it exists and another important duty is that which gives the board the power to review commitments. In this way children are assisted and properly cared for. Nearly all of the dependent children found last year were properly placed with relatives or with others who would care for them. Mr. Fox also spoke of the general practice parents have of deserting their children. In this respect the law does not step in and deter parents from doing this cruel act.

The speaker spoke strongly in favor of physical training for school children so that they may be sent to school for their health instead of being taken out of school for that purpose. Some thought was given to child labor and the incompentency of a majority of the factory inspectors in New Jersey. Some reforms, Mr. Fox said, are being planned along this line. He said that what is needed is a business-like co-operation on the part of the people and this would accomplish immense good in the cause of charity in the whole State.

CHOIR'S EUCHRE.

Delightful Affair at Stafford Hall Last Evening Given by Choir of St. Mary's Church.

A delightful euchre was held last evening at Stafford Hall by the choir of St. Mary's church which was attended by forty people.

A number of handsome prizes were won by the following players: Women's prizes, Miss Mary Daly and Mrs. J. H. Hillman; and the men's prizes by Thomas Carty, and J. H. Hillman. Miss May Harding won the women's consolation prize.

After the card playing a number of those present favored with vocal and instrumental solos including Judge William N. Runyon, Miss Lorreta Flanagan, Mr. O'Keefe, James F. O'Keefe, A. Matthews and Miss M. Smith, the organist of the chruch. M. J. Cashin distributed the prizes at the close of the euchre.

Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour the music for which was rendered by members of the choir.

Cured of Piles After 40 Years.

Mr. C. Haney, of Geneva, Ohio, had the piles for forty years. Doctors and dollars could do him no lasting good. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured him permanently. Invaluable for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, lacerations, eczema, tetter, salt rheum, and all other skin diseases. Look for the name DeWitt on the package — all others are cheap, worthless counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

EIGHTY PLUMS READY TO BE DISTRIBUTED

Governor Murphy Has a Very Choice Collection to Hand Out With the New Year.

$350,000 IN SALARIES

ALL BUT EIGHT OF THEM MUST BE APPROVED BY THE SENATE.

Several Judiciary Appointments and Place As Commissioner of Banking and Insurance to be Filled—The Others.

Soon after the first of the year Governor Franklin Murphy will have the naming of incumbents for about eighty State offices, carrying with them salaries aggregating upward of $850,000. All but eight of these will have the approval of the Senate to make them valid, and as a number of them are positions that sway no little influence and carry with them as much responsiblity as salary, there is likely to be much wire-pulling before the appointments are announced.

Outside the several judiciary appointments to be made, probably the most important office to be filled is that of the commissioner of banking and insurance. William Bettle, of Camden, is the present head of that department, which has supervision over the banks, insurance companies and building and loan concerns of the State. The term is three years, and the office carries with it a salary of $4,000 a year and the appointment of a deputy at $2,500.

The term of Supreme Court Justice Jonathan Dixon will expire April 8, and if he desires it the justice, it is said, is pretty certain of reappointment. The appointment is for seven years at a salary of $9,000 a year.

There will be three vacancies for the Governor to fill on the bench of the Court of Errors and Appeals. The three lay judges whose terms expire are Gottfried Krueger, of Newark; John W. Bogert, of Hobokus, and Frederic Adams, of Summit. Judges Krueger and Bogert are the only members of the court who are not lawyers. They are Democrats. Judge Adams is a Republican.

The judges in the Court of Errors and Appeals receive a per diem allowance of $20 while sitting in court, and $20 while considering cases. The court as at present constituted will be legislated out of office if the pending constitutional amendments for a revision of the judiciary pass the Legislature this winter and are approved at next fall's election.

The term of Henry Nevius, the circuit judge of Monmouth county, will expire on March 2. Judge Nevius has had one term of seven years. The salary is $7,500 a year.

County judges whose terms expire on April 1 are Judge Allen B. Endicott, of Atlantic; Judge David D. Zabriskie, of Bergen; Judge John I. Blair, of Hudson; Judge John B. Vreeland, of Morris; Judge Jenjamin A. Vail, of Union, and Judge George M. Shipman, of Warren. Most of these will be reappointed. As the salaries of county judges are based on population, several of these jugdes will receive increased salaries in their new terms, as will also the prosecutors to be appointed in the same and other counties where the population as taken in the 1900 census showed an increase over the number recorded in the State census of 1895. The salaries of the judges appointed next winter will be: Atlantic, $3,000; Bergen, $3,500; Hudson, $5,000; Morris, $3,000; Union, $4,000; Warren, $2,000.

The Governor will have to appoint prosecutors in Atlantic, to succeed Joseph E. P. Abbott, at a salary of $1,500 a year; Cape May, to succeed Eugene C. Cole, at $1,000; Hudson, to succeed James S. Erwin, $8,000; Mercer, to succeed William J. Crossley, $5,000; Morris, to succeed Alfred Elmer Milles, $2,500; Sussex, to succeed Henry Huston, $1,200; Union, to succeed Nicholas J. English, $5,000.

The terms of District Court Judges Abel I. Smith, of Hoboken, and Charles W. Parker, of Jersey City, will expire next winter, the first on January 18, and the second on February 9. Both terms are for five years, and the salaries $3,000 a year each.

There are two members of the State Sewerage Commission to be appointed to succeed Charles F. Harrington and William D. Hunt. The office pays $1,500 a year salary each, and the term is for three years.

William Stainsby's term as chief of the State Bureau of Labor and Statistics will expire on April 4, and his successor must be appointed and the appointment ratified by the Senate before the end of the legislative session. The term is for five years, and the salary $2,000 a year. Mr. Stainsby was appointed by Governor Voorhees in 1898. It is probable that the Newark man will be a candidate for another term.

An appointment over which there may be some difficulty is that of State prison supervisor. The present incumbent is Edward J. Anderson, of Somerville, a member of the Republican State committee, who has been in the place for nine years. The salary is $3,000 a year, and the appointment for three years. Governor Murphy showed his disapprobation of the former conduct of the prison last winter by refusing to reappoint Head Keeper Moore when his term expired, and it is by no means certain that the Governor may not decide that an entire new administration at the prison would be conducive to even further improvement there.

A remunerative, but little known, office the Governor will have to fill is that of port warden of Jersey City. Colonel John J. Toffey is the present incumbent, and will probably be reappointed. The appointment is for five years, and the compensation, which consists of fees, amounts to something over $3,000 a year.

Other State officials whose terms expire and whose successors will be named by the Governor and referred to the Senate, include seven commissioners of pilotage, who receive fees; a member of the board of managers of the State Asylum at Trenton; four members of the State Board of Education, no salary; two trustees of the Raway Reformatory, no salary; a trustee of the Jamesburg Reform School, no salary; three trustees of the State Home for Girls, no salary; two members of the State Board of Medical Examiners, no salary; two managers of the Village for Epileptics, no salary; two Palisades Park commissioners, no salary; a member of the Public Library Commission, no salary, and twenty members of the board of visitors to the State Agricultural College, no salary.

Appointments the Governor will make without reference to the Senate, none of which includes any salary, are three inspectors of steamboats, a members of the State Board of Health, a member of the State Board of Pharmacy, a member of the State Board of Dentistry, and a member of the State Oyster Commission.

The Way a Pocket is Picked.

The easiest, safest and some of the most lucrative graft I ever engaged in was when I was a boy robbing women in the street or on crowded cars. I was at that time what is called a mollbuzzer, a fly that buzzed about women. I worked with Zack and one or two other boys. Each of us had his particular job to look after. I was generally the pick, dip or tool, the boy that actually made the touch. My companions were stalls, i. e., they were to look out for policemen, distract the attention of the victim and cover up my operations. As a rule one stood in front of the sucker, one directly behind him, and one was the lookout. Then, when we had the victim just right, I would do the dipping.—From "Autobiography of a Thief," in Leslie's Monthly.

Lived Down His Reputation.

The king of Italy was unpopular at the time of his coming to the throne because of the stories of his extreme economy, but has lately shown that, though he is circumspect in his expenditure, he is liberal and benevolent. He gives largely to charity, both organized and individual, and in his social life seems ready to make any outlay that is necessitated by his position. Among his recent benefactions was a gift of 100,000 lire to the town of Palermo, to be distributed among the poor and three charitable institutions. Of this sum 50,000 lire is to go to the poor, 30,000 lire to the town hospital, 10,000 lire to the marine hospital and 1,000 lire to the Red Cross society.—London Chronicle.

Hard to Say Good-By.

Some time back a man of notoriously bad character, residing in a village, wished to emigrate. To obtain assistance from the emigration commissioners it was necessary for him to have a character, and he accordingly asked for one from his neighbors. Everybody was anxious he should go, and everybody on this account testified to his excellence. No one was more astonished at this result than himself, and, after looking at his certificate, with its long list of signatures:

"Well," said he, "I had no idea I was so much liked; I think I shall stay!"—London Answers.

Making Merry.

The young man with wide ears had been waiting for a chance for some time. At last there was a lull in the conversation, which he promptly appropriated.

"I heard a good one last night," he said.

"Did you hear about—" began the military gentleman in an attempt to head him off.

"I was talking with some musicians," proceeded the young man as if nothing had happened, "and one of them said that the way to compose successful melodies was to take advantage of every oppor-tune-ity. Ha! ha!"—Washington Star.

TROLLEY CAR KILLED MAN

Rammed Furniture Van and Threw Driver, Amil Amiet, Out on His Head.

MAN DIED INSTANTLY

Accident Happened on West Front Street, Near Plainfield Avenue, at 10 o'Clock Last Night—Motorman Says He Couldn't Stop—Was Held Without Bail.

Amil Amiet, a teamster in the employ of John H. King, of Bound Brook, met almost instant death on West Front street, between Elmwood place and Plainfield avenue, shortly after 10 o'clock last night, when his furniture van was rammed from the rear by a trolley car. He was hurled from his high seat to the curb line of the sidewalk, striking squarely on his head. The compact crushed in his skull and broke his neck. Dr. Gaston, who lives directly opposite where the collision occurred and who witnessed the accident, was by his side in a moment but the man had died without a moan.

Eugene Sharp, of 83 Somerset street, motorman of the car, and Aaron Levine, conductor, of 230 East Fourth street, were placed under arrest, charged with criminal negligence. They were held without bail to await the action of the county physician, who, if he thinks the evidence sufficient, will place the matter in the hands of Coroner Sheriffs for further investigation.

The police made an investigation and claim the motorman is guilty of gross carelessness. As proof they declare that the moon's rays made it possible to see objects for blocks and in addition a lantern was suspended from the rear of the wagon. Sharp admits seeing the van but shifts the blame to the slippery condition and down grade of the track which, he declares, made it impossible to stop the car.

From facts gathered by the police, the car which caused the damage was No. 42 and left the Watchung avenue terminus at 9:55. It was proceeding at an average rate of speed on West Front street when it came upon the vehicle half way over the tracks. Whether Amiet was asleep or not cannot be determined but he did not swerve his course as the car bore down upon him. The wagon was struck with a terrific crash, setting the horses off on a run dragging the vehicle after them. They ran as far as the old Serrell property where they took to the sidewalk and fetched up against the fence.

Both Sharp and Levine followed them, not knowing that the driver had been left behind. It was only when they returned and found a knot of persons gathered about the lifeless form that they realized the extent of the accident. As a precaution the ambulance was summoned but the man was passed human aid. The body was afterward taken to Cole's undertaking parlors where it still remains.

Amiet, who was thirty-five years old, lived at Martinsville. He leaves a wife but no family. He was employed for a long time by Truckman King and was regarded as a most careful and experienced driver. Sharp, the motorman, had been running a car but one week.

County Physician Westcott held a preliminary hearing this afternoon and acting on authority from Prosecutor N. C. J. English, discharged Levine from custody. Sharp was held but will be released on bail as soon as the amount is fixed by the county authorities.

THOUGHT FIREMAN DEMENTED

BUT HE REALLY HAD ONLY LOST HIS HEARING.

Followed Spell of Severe Earache and Made Excitement at Fire Headquarters.

A peculiar accident happened to George Mehl, a fireman at headquarters, a few nights ago and for a while he thought he had lost the hearing of one ear entirely.

For several days last week Mehl had been suffering with a severe earache and Monday night when he went to bed in the engine house he could not sleep but tossed and turned in his bed most of the night. Shortly after midnight he felt a sudden snapping in his ear.

When a fellow fireman saw him walking about the room he asked him what was the matter but could not make him hear. He called to him loudly but could not make him hear and thinking that the man had become demented from the constant pain started to get up to quiet him. It was some time before Mehl could hear what was being said to him until the men found that he had suddenly become deaf. Mehl was quickly dressed and hurried to the office of Dr. Ard, of Park avenue, where, after an examination, it was learned that a small blood vessel in the ear had been ruptured.

The ear was treated and now the fireman is able to hear again with some difficulty, although it will be some time before he is able to hear perfectly again in that ear.

NEARLY AN ACCIDENT.

Narrow Escape for Fire Apparatus Going to Blaze on North Avenue Last Evening.

By only the narrowest kind of a margin a serious accident was prevented last evening when the fire department turned out for the blaze on North avenue. The chemical engine and No. 1 hose wagon were coming in opposite directions on Second street with the intention of turning into Park avenue. James Daly, driver of the hose wagon, pulled up his horse just in time to allow the other apparatus to make the turn.

The team to the chemical came so fast that they were unable to make the turn and dashed up on the sidewalk in front of Giles' meat market, narrowly missing an iron post. Driver Freeman cleverly guided the horses back into the road and the engine was at the scene of the fire before any of the rest of the apparatus.

Prior to the institution a banquet was given to the visiting officers.

WEDDED AT BRIDE'S HOME

MARRIAGE OF MISS MABEL AUGUSTA MOORE AND CHARLES GEER.

Pretty Ceremony, Although Bride Was Unattended—Groom From New Brunswick.

A pretty home wedding was that of Miss Mabel Augusta Moore, daughter of Mrs. William H. Moore, to Charles Culver Geer, of New Brunswick, which took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride on East Second street. The wedding was witnessed by a large number of friends and relatives of the contracting parties and the home was very handsomely decorated with palms and chrysanthemums, which gave the front rooms of the house a very attractive appearance.

Attired in a gown of white satin with trimmings to match the bride entered the parlors leaning on the arm of the bridegroom and together they marched to a corner of the room where the minister, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, tied the nuptial knot.

The bride was unattended and was given in marriage by her brother, William Moore. The best man was Ralph W. Christie and the usher was Arthur Moore, a cousin of the bride. The wedding marches were played by Harvey Patterson, of New York, a friend of both the bride and groom. After the ceremony had been performed a wedding supper was served after which a reception was held until train time when they were driven to the depot where they took a train for Ridgewood, N. J., where they will spend their honeymoon. They will reside in Somerville where the groom is employed in the carriage manufactory of Valentine & Van Fleet.

DECIDED QUESTION OF LAW

IMPORTANT DECISION JUST RENDERED IN HUNTERDON COUNTY.

A Verdict in Vandervort-Flemming Case Given to Codington & Swackhamer, for Plaintiff.

In the case of Vander Vort against Flemming in the Hunterdon County Supreme Court a decision was handed down Tuesday in favor of the plaintiffs, who were represented by Codington and Swackhamer, of this city.

The case was brought up in the Court of Common Pleas months ago when the lawyers for the complainants were non-suited on the ground that the case in the lower court had been irregularly adjourned by a justice and had therefore lost its jurisdiction.

Codington and Swackhamer argued to take an appeal and waived the irregularity. The Judge sustained the motion and the other side had the non-suit taken to another court where the decision was rendered Tuesday in favor of the plaintiffs.

This decision settles a point in law where even though the justice loses jurisdiction through an irregular adjournment of the case the injured party can take the case to the Supreme Court on certiorari, waiving irregularities, and by going to the Common Pleas Court on appeal the other side is precluded from raising an objection.

The case has been watched with interest during its term in court as it decides a point and establishes a precedent for the rulings of the bar in the future. The case was argued last term in the Supreme Court and the decision was only handed down yesterday.

The lawyer for the defence was ex-Senator George H. Large, of Hunterdon county.

Owner Wouldn't Appear.

William Roberts, a small boy, was arraigned before City Judge Runyon, this morning, charged by Patrolman McCarthy with stealing a wheel from Herbert VanDoren, of East Fifth street. As the owner did not wish to appear in the matter, the complaint was dismissed.

ENGINE HOUSE BIDS WERE ALL TOO HIGH

Were Opened at Special Meeting of the Borough Council Held Last Evening.

FOR NEW ENGINE HOUSE

SPECIFICATIONS WILL HAVE TO BE ENTIRELY REVISED.

Then New Bids Will be Advertised for Again—But the General Design of the Building Will Not be Changed Any.

A special session of the Borough Council was held in the Council Chambers across the brook last night when the matter of receiving the bids for the new fire engine house was taken up. A full representation of the body was present and the Mayor presided.

The bids were as follows: Plumbing, Chas. H. Dutcher, $560; A. H. Enander, $889.

Carpenter work, Geo. Hummer, $3,575; J. C. Milne, $3,620; W. J. Pierson, $4,260.37; W. Apgar, $4,275; Wyman & Haberle, $4,274.

Mason work, J. H. Snyder, $6,786; W. C. Smith, $6,598; Titus H. Laury, $5,967.

Iron work, W. T. Kirk Company, $1,925; Hay Iron Company, $2,075; Berlin Contracting Company, $2,100.

The bid of Titus H. Laury for $5,967 was the lowest for the masonry; that of George Hummer for the carpenter work for $3,575 was the lowest; for the iron work, W. T. Kirk Company, $1,925; for heating, C. H. Dutcher, $560.

The painting of the building will be included in the carpenter's contract.

The sum total of the lowest bid exceeded the appropriation for the building so the matter was referred to the committee who in turn referred it to the architect, and new bids will be asked for.

There will be changes in the specification for the material for the building but the general plan of the building will remain the same. The matter will be reported on at the next meeting of the Council which will be held Monday evening.

The committee which has the matter in charge comprises Messrs. Chas. L. Lee, chairman, and J. P. Northrup and the building committee is J. J. Stahl, G. H. Fairchild, and H. Codington.

Nothing else was done at the meeting and at 9 o'clock the session adjourned.

TROUBLE FOR TROLLEYS.

A Ground of Current Blocked All Lines for Over an Hour.

The cars of the local traction company were delayed this morning by a bad ground at the power house. They were blocked on all lines for over an hour and it was some time before the cause of the trouble was ascertained. It was learned that a wire in the borough section of the line had become disengaged from the insulation and had fused the current breaker at the power station.

After the power had been turned car No. 22 standing in front of the home of Jacob Voehl on Somerset street blew out a fuse and had to be towed to the car barns by another car, causing a further delay of twenty minutes across the brook.

TALKED ABOUT MISSIONS

MEETING OF YOUNG PEOPLE'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY OF TRINITY.

Interesting Session Held Yesterday—Japan and Arabia Were the Subjects.

The regular meeting of the Junior Missionary Society, of the Trinity Reformed church, was held in the church parlors, yesterday afternoon, when Miss Violet VanWinkle presided. The meeting was very well attended by the members of the society and a very pleasant afternoon was spent by the young folks.

Mrs. Cornelius Schenck led the song service and Mrs. Josephine M. Tier read the roll call which showed that sixty-three members were present. During the afternoon three new members were received into the society.

An interesting feature of the afternoon was the question box which was conducted by Mrs. Tier. When it came time for the little ones to answer the questions, Mrs. Schenck passed around walnut shells tied with ribbons in which were the answers written on small slips of paper. These questions and answers dwelt on the mission work now going on in Arabia and Japan. While the children were answering the questions propounded by Mrs. Tier, little pieces of candy which contained the kernels of the nuts, were distributed. Booklets, telling about the mission work in these countries, were also passed among the children.

Seven little girls, of the society, sang a mission song during the exercises. They were Helen Smith, Helen Roberts, Rosamond Rogers, Helen Wooley, Elsie Tier, Mary Van Deventer and Ethel Vail. After a closing benediction recited in chorus the meeting dismissed.

KEPT NEIGHBORS DODGING

SO THE RICKTERS WERE FINALLY ARRAIGNED IN COURT.

Charged by F. G. Walsh With Being Too Profuse With Stones at Front of His Home.

According to witnesses who gave their testimony in the city court, this morning, residents in the vicinity of East Second street and Johnson avenue must be expert dodgers in order to enjoy life since the advent of Mrs. Bertha Rickter and her three children into the neighborhood. The Rickters one and all, they claimed, have a propensity for throwing stones at everything and everybody with a preference for the front door of F. G. Walsh's residence. Walsh and his children had become used to having rocks fly about their heads, as had their neighbors, but when he returned home the other day and found his front door battered in, a window broken and the hallway paved with stones he sought police aid.

Mrs. Rickter and two children, Paul and Freda, faced City Judge Runyon on Walsh's charge. Another son, Willie, was missing and his mother advanced the excuse that a case of pleurisy, contracted since the complaint was made, was responsible for his absence. Three of Walsh's neighbors presented a long list of grievances which threw most of the blame on the mother's shoulders. Mrs. Rickter had nothing much to say in rebuttal and escaped with a rebuke and warning. Freda, being extremely small, was discharged and Paul was placed in a cell on an indeterminate sentence. As soon as Willie's pleurisy fades away, he will be given a chance to explain his side of the case.

Played Whist.

The G. E. Social Club met last evening at the home of Mrs. G. M. Anderson, of West Fourth street. Whist was a feature of the occasion and the game was played until a late hour. Twenty members of the club were in attendance.

Next Council Meeting.

The City Common Council will probably not meet again until Monday, December 1, the regular time for meeting. It is hardly probable that there will be any special business needing urgent attention before that time.

Return In Dunavan Case.

The return in the case of Louis M. Dunevan against the City of Plainfield in certiorari, was received this morning by Lawyer Robert M. Clark from the Supreme Court and will be filed with the city clerk this week.

Miss Nettie Newcorn, of West Front street, is visiting relatives in New York.

TESTED APPARATUS.

New Compound Chemical Engine and Hose Wagon in the West End Was Found Very Satisfactory.

The compound chemical engine and hose wagon, recently installed by the Common Council in the West End house, was given its first official trial, yesterday afternoon. Driver George Feiring was in charge of the test and found it satisfactory in every way. The chemical stream was driven through the hose with great force, so much in fact that Hoseman Dunavan, who attempted to hold it alone, was bowled over. Both tanks were emptied.

Another test will be given the machine in a few days, after which it will be formally accepted by the Council. It will then be placed in commission.

MANY MOURNED HER LOSS

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL SERVICES OF MRS. JOSEPH M. MYERS.

Rev. Dr. Bliss, an Old Friend and Neighbor, Conducted the Service—Her Sunday-School Present.

The funeral services of Mrs. Joseph M. Myers were held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the late home on East Front street, where a very large number of friends were present to honor the memory of one whose death is a distinct loss. There was a profusion of floral tributes from many persons who loved and esteemed Mrs. Myers for her true Christian character and her devotion in the work of helping others. Noticeable among these tributes was a floral gift from the members of the Chinese Sunday-school, which was organized and taught by Mrs. Myers. The members of this Sunday-school were present in a body to show their respect to their beloved teacher. This was very impressive.

Rev. Dr. Bliss, a former pastor of the Crescent Avenue church and a very dear friend and neighbor of Mrs. Myers, conducted the service and he gave sincere and earnest testimony of the life of devotion to the cause of Christ which was so suddenly terminated. He referred to her constant and never-ceasing labor in the charitable enterprises and her desire to help others, who were less fortunate.

Rev. E. M. Rodman, pastor emeritus of Grace Episcopal church, assisted in the services, and in the absence of Dr. Bliss, who was unable to attend the burial in Hillside cemetery, Mr. Rodman took charge of the committal services.

MAN NEARLY BURNED ALIVE

A. Scheurlein Surrounded by Flames From Exploding Gasoline Last Evening.

WAS SEVERELY BURNED

Cleaning Clothes With Gasolene, When He Stepped on a Match—Accident Occurred in the Cleaning and Pressing Establishment on Somerset Street.

A small fire occurred yesterday afternoon in a Hebrew dying and cleaning establishment on Somerset street just over the city line in North Plainfield which called out the fire company from Box 141 at the corner of Somerset street and Craig place. The damage done to property was slight but A. Scheurlein, of 249 Somerset, nearly lost his eyesight if not his life in the flames. His injuries were very severe.

Scheurlein was in the store alone at the time. He had taken a large wash boiler and filled it with gasoline with which he was going to clean his coat. As he was about to dip the coat in the tank he stepped on a match and in a second the flames had communicated with the boiler and at the next instant a blinding sheet of flames shot toward the ceiling, enveloping the workman about the head and body.

There was a loud report and a neighbor hearing the noise rushed into the store in time to save the young man from being burned alive. The two men then threw the blazing can out of the doorway. The woodwork on the side of the building caught fire and threatened to destroy the building but the fire department arrived in time to put out the blaze.

Young Scheurlein was taken to the office of Dr. Dundon who dressed the man's wounds and later had him taken to his home on Somerset street, where he was resting easily this morning.

The store is rented by H. Moskovitz and is located at 41 Somerset street.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A young Plainfielder, who recently returned from the North Woods, is bearing the jokes of many of his friends over his experiences deer hunting. He and a friend had stationed themselves along a runway when the deer appeared. The Plainfielder was not expecting such a meeting so soon and had neglected to load his gun. He sat down expecting his more experienced friend to bring down the game but the friend was in the same predicament and the two had to watch the coveted prize disappear in the woods after having passed within a few feet of them.

The recent election of Robert A. Meeker as president of the Plainfield Amateur Basket Ball League recalls to mind the basket ball team on which Mr. Meeker first played and which made quite a reputation for itself. It was the Business Men's team of the Y. M. C. A. and was captained by John H. Doane, the well-known shoe merchant. Three clergymen played on the team and two of them, Rev. H. J. Johnston, now of Bayonne, and Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, now of Jersey City, made quite a reputation for themselves as forwards. Rev. J. O. McKelvey was also a valuable member. Particularly active in the games in which he took part was Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the city schools and president of the Organized Aid Association. A tower of strength was Berry Egan, who is now a member of the physical work committee of the association and who played first base on the Y. M. C. A. baseball nine which won the local championship last summer.

THEATRICAL.

The Bostock Animal Show that has kept Greater New York in a whirl of excitement for the past six weeks will positively close its season at the St. Nicholas Garden, Sixty-sixth street and Columbus avenue, November 30, after one of the most remarkable and brilliant engagements ever known in the history of amusement annals. As the closing performances are announced, the rush for seats has been increased and those who anticipate a visit to an entertainment repeatedly pronounced in a field by itself, will be wise to secure their seats in advance. For the closing weeks several new features will be introduced including an act by four polar bears and three tigers under the guidance of Prof. Millar. Madame Creedonia, a beautiful young French woman, will also introduce a new act with animals that have not yet made their debut in public. Incidental to this feature, Madame Creedonia will sit down to supper with five lions and will indulge in see-saw, hurdle jumping and other feats hitherto unknown to the leonine family, at least so far as their capabilities as actors are concerned. One of the sights promised in the feeding of the carnivora, always watched with the keenest interest by thousands each day, will be a feast of turkeys for the lions and all the other carnivorous animals, Thanksgiving Day. They will be fed with turkey at 4:30 in the afternoon and at 10:30 in the evening. A contract has already been placed that may possibly cause a corner in the turkey market, but will suffice to satisfy the appetites of the animals. Two performances are given daily and every afternoon and evening, children being admitted at half price to the afternoon preformances.

LOOKS DARK FOR PERRY.

Boston Police Gather Evidence of the Negro's Guilt.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 13.—The state police and members of the police force of Boston are devoting all their time to searching for evidence as to the past life and movements of George L. O. Perry, the young negro who upon the release of Alan G. Mason was charged with the murder of Miss Clara A. Morton.

The police late yesterday received a fragment of a watch chain which in texture and pattern matches that worn by Miss Morton with her watch from F. R. Murdock, who lives near the house occupied by the Perry family. Mr. Murdock was clearing up his yard when the glitter of an object caught his eye. The find being rather unusual and knowing that people traversed his yard to reach the Perry house, he turned the fragment over to an officer simply as an experiment.

Later the Somerville police found Perry's sweetheart and after persuasion got her to exhibit whatever jewelry she had received from Perry. Among the trinkets was a gold chain, which was immediately recognized as having belonged to Miss McPhee. Private marks on the chain proved the identification, and the jeweler who sold it to Miss McPhee later described his own upon it. The chain had been given by Perry's sweetheart to her sister. The officers next secured letters written by Perry to his sweetheart and one to her sister, and in the latter missive there is reference to a chain and the instruction not to say a word about it. When Miss McPhee was in the hospital during a lucid moment she asked, "Where is my chain?" At the time there was an abrasion on her neck, caused by the forcible tightening of a chain worn there. After her death search was made for the chain, but as it was not pawned in this vicinity no clew to the murderer was secured this way. The police refuse to give the names of the girls.

All of Perry's clothes which he wore to jail were taken from him because an officer thought he detected a blood spot on a shirt sleeve. Perry admitted the spot was blood, saying that he had had a bleeding tooth.

All the negro's clothing at home has been seized. Some of this, especially a coat, has stains which look like blood. Professor Wood of Harvard will examine the garments.

Kaiser a Crack Shot.

SANDRINGHAM, England, Nov. 13.—Emperor William has proved his prowess as a marvelous shot. Clad in a light green hunting suit, he kept three loaders busier than they had ever been in their lives. King Edward, the Prince of Wales, Count Wolff-Metternich, the German ambassador, and the other members of the shooting party, who accompanied the emperor, are all good shots, but twice as many pheasants fell to Emperor William's gun as to any of the others. The large crowd who had come to witness the day's drive, which was the biggest one arranged for the royal visit, had an excellent view of the sport, and as bird after bird dropped before the unerring aim of the German emperor the spectators openly expressed their astonishment and admiration, much to the emperor's amusement. The day's bag was one of the biggest on record.

Bankers and the Currency.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 13.—The attitude of the American Bankers' association toward the currency question has been fixed. No decisive stand was taken on the questions of assets currency or branch banking, it being considered unwise to act until a solution of the questions shall have been evolved, but provision was made for the appointment of a committee to consider carefully the entire subject and to report at the next meeting. The same resolution stated the association's approval of a law imparting a greater degree of elasticity to the currency system to make it responsive to the demands of the business interests of the country.

Many Good Roads Planned.

ALBANY, Nov. 13.—It is estimated by the state engineer's department that by the time the next legislature is ready to make an appropriation for good roads the county boards of supervisors will have adopted plans for roads calling for an aggregate expenditure of $4,000,000. The state's share of this expense would be $2,000,000. It is not likely that the state will appropriate any such amount. For the year which ended Sept. 30, 1902, the actual expenditures by the state for road construction and repair amounted to nearly $600,000. So far the county boards have approved plans for eighty-two new roads, covering about 310 miles.

Mascagni Complains to Rome.

ROME, Nov. 13.—According to the Tribuna, Italy purposes to make an international matter of the arrest in Boston of Mascagni. The Tribuna says: "Mascagni has telegraphed Premier Zanardelli, requesting the intervention of the Italian government to protect him from the vexatious treatment of which he says he has been a victim in America. Signor Zanardelli replied to the musician, assuring him of the interest taken in his case by the government and informing him that he would request Signor Prinetti, minister of foreign affairs, to take up the matter. Signor Prinetti immediately took up Mascagni's case."

OFF FOR A BEAR HUNT

President Seeks Rest and Big Game in Mississippi.

A NIGHT TRIP THROUGH KENTUCKY

Crowds Waited at Many Stations Along the Journey Across Ohio. Few Stops Made and Little Speechmaking.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 13.—President Roosevelt after a night journey down through Kentucky arrived here this morning at 9:30 on his way to Smedes, Miss., about twenty-five miles north of Vicksburg, for a four days' bear hunt.

The place selected for the hunt is some miles from the railroad and is in the region which was formerly the favorite hunting ground of General Wade Hampton, the famous leader of the Confederate Black Horse cavalry. General Hampton at one time owned a plantation in this vicinity and hunted black bear in the canebrakes with horse and hounds. Before the war he is said to have killed more than fifty bears in a single season, some of them with a knife.

Years ago the president and General Hampton planned a hunt in this region, but it was never made, and when President Stuyvesant Fish of the Illinois Central proposed the present trip the president readily assented. The president, however, does not anticipate the pleasure of killing a bear so much as the pleasure of a few days' complete recreation in the woods. He has had a hard and trying summer and fall and feels that he has earned a holiday, and that privilege is what he is after, whether he can get a bear or not. To one who has hunted grizzlies in the Rockies black bear are not very big game. But hunting bear with horse and hounds will be a new experience for him. If a bear shall not be secured, it will not be the fault of Mr. Fish. He has arranged to have one of the best packs of hounds in the Mississippi delta at the camp.

On the arrival of the president's train this morning he was joined by Mr. Fish and John McElhenny of Louisiana, who was lieutenant in the president's regiment during the Spanish war. The train then proceeded to Smedes over the Mississippi and Yazoo railroad. There it will be held upon a siding until next Wednesday, when the president will return to Memphis.

The president's trip across Ohio during the day was pleasant, but uneventful. Despite the fact that the itinerary had not been published in advance crowds were waiting at almost all the stations, and there were plenty of cheers as the train swept by. At Trimway, a small place west of Dennison, the school children lined up on either side of a large American flag and waved their handkerchiefs. The president stepped on the rear platform and waved his hat in response to the demonstration of the little ones. At other places he showed himself, and at Dennison he made a few remarks to the crowd.

The only stop between Dennison and Cincinnati was at Columbus, where a stop of fifteen minutes was made to change locomotives. The gallery at the station overlooking the tracks was crowded with people. Dr. Washington Gladden and General Axline greeted the president as he stepped out of his car. After a brief chat with them the president went forward and shook hands with the engineer and fireman, who were leaving at the end of their run, and thanked them for the safe journey from Columbus.

Dared to Fight a Duel.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 13.—Colonel Moses C. Wetmore, the millionaire, former tobacco magnate, member of the executive committee and bosom friend of William J. Bryan, Senator George Graham Vest, Senator James K. Jones and ex-Governor William J. Stone, has been challenged to a duel. Peter Arlund of Louisville, Ky., dares him to a test of skill with swords, knives, guns or pistols on next Sunday night. Arlund alleges as his reason that the colonel had followed Mrs. Arlund to her room a few nights before and insulted her during the absence from town of her husband.

Spanish Ship Sent to Tetuan.

GIBRALTAR, Nov. 13.—Owing to the fact that serious disturbances have broken out at Tetuan, Morocco, a Spanish mail steamer has been dispatched from Ceuta to embark the European residents of Tetuan. The disturbances at Tetuan arise from a rebellion of the Kabyle tribesmen in consequence of the refusal of the governor of Tetuan to liberate certain Kabyle prisoners, including the murderer of an Englishman. The tribesmen are terrorizing the town and its outskirts and are attacking and seizing caravans between Tetuan and Tangier.

Wagner Home Destroyed.

FORT PLAIN, N. Y., Nov. 13.—What was commonly known as the Wagner homestead in the town of Palatine, opposite this village, has been destroyed by fire. The house was erected by George Wagner, a soldier of the Revolution, and it was owned and occupied at the time of the fire by Chauncey Wagner, eighty-two years old, a grandson of the builder and a cousin of the late Senator Webster Wagner.

A REMARK

We overheard the other afternoon, passed from one lady to another, fully explains the popularity of our stores. The remark (and it's no imaginary one) was: "Oh, yes! I always come here; I don't know where else you can get as nice candies for so reasonable prices." Covers the whole ground, does that remark. Walk in and look up and down our long candy counters and you'll see it does.

GRAVE ROBBING CASE

Indianapolis Detectives Make Important Capture.

AN OLD HAND AT BODY SNATCHING

Former Janitor of Medical College Claimed to Have Been Furnishing "Material" For Twenty-five Years.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 13.—William Moffitt, an alleged grave robber, has been arrested at his home in north Indianapolis by Detectives Manning and Asch. Moffitt was implicated by Rufus Cantrell, Sam Martin and John McEndree. He is white, about fifty-five years of age and has a family. It is said he has been in the grave robbing business for nearly a quarter of a century. The detectives say that he was employed as a janitor in one of the local medical colleges a few years ago. Asch and Manning have been getting evidence against Moffitt for several days.

Moffitt refused to talk on his way to the police station and denied that he knew Cantrell and the other ghouls. Moffitt was confronted with Cantrell and the other negro ghouls under arrest. At first he denied that he knew any of the negroes.

"Now, look here, Moffitt," Cantrell said, "I can prove right here that I know you. What kind of a scar have you on your back?"

Moffitt replied sullenly that he did not have a scar on his back. A heated argument between them arose, and Cantrell declared that Moffitt was shot in the back while robbing a grave in the insane hospital cemetery by a night watchman about four years ago.

Detective Asch said, "I'm going to strip you and see if you were shot."

Moffitt realized then that he was in a tight place and admitted that there was a bullet wound in his back. He denied, however, that he was robbing a grave when he was shot. Before leaving the jail Moffitt admitted that he knew the negroes, but denied again that he ever robbed graves with them. He said he would talk when the right time came, and he was locked up in the police station.

Moffitt was taken into the detective department and submitted to a cross examination in the presence of Cantrell, Martin, McEndree, Asch, Manning and W. T. Long. He refused absolutely to answer questions of any kind. Cantrell said that Moffitt lost his job at the medical college because of the objections raised by a member of the faculty to Moffitt drawing pay as a janitor and receiving money for "material."

Mission of Bliss to Cuba.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—A high official of the government who is well informed regarding our relations with Cuba in discussing the proposed treaty and General Bliss' mission said: "The principal mission of General Bliss will be to clear up in the minds of the Cubans some apprehensions which they have regarding the effect of the concession offered by the United States and the various concessions which the United States demands from Cuba. It seems apparent that the situation is not understood in Cuba, and the negotiation halts on that account. There is no disposition to offer a greater concession to Cuba than 20 per cent, which will include all products of the islands, while the concessions demanded vary from 10 to 70 per cent."

Miss Danforth Pleaded Guilty.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 13.—To a charge of manslaughter Nina J. Danforth of Newton pleaded guilty in the Middlesex superior criminal court. Previously she had pleaded not guilty to a charge of murder, her alleged victim being Andrew J. Emery of South Framingham. The charge, after a consultation of counsel, was changed from murder to manslaughter, and the defendant made a corresponding change in her plea. She was sentenced to serve a year and nine months in the Cambridge House of Correction.

Three Schooners Lost.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Nov. 13.—The schooner Tasso, laden with fish, sank during the night in Trinity bay. Her crew of nine men were rescued at great risk by the crew of the schooner Nelly. The Tasso was bound for St. John's. The schooner St. Francis, from Labrador, has been burned at sea. Her crew of seven men escaped in the boats. The schooner Harvest has been wrecked on the island of Quirpon, at the entrance of Belle Isle strait. Her crew of seven men were saved by the coast folk.

Yukon Frozen Solid.

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 13.—The steamer Amur from Skaguay reports that the Yukon has been frozen solid, and the steamer La France was caught and held in the ice when en route down near Minto. She will remain there all winter, and fears are expressed that she may be crushed by the ice. The first stage from White Horse reached Dawson on Nov. 9 after six days' travel, and the first stage from Dawson was due at White Horse on Monday.

Dineen Leads In Race.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—Twelve men out of the twenty-five original starters remain in the six day go as you please race now in progress in Industrial hall. Dineen, the leader, has increased his lead to sixteen miles and is going well.

Large Shipments of Salmon.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—The British ship Osborne has just cleared for Liverpool with 61,000 cases of salmon. This makes 291,600 cases of salmon that have been shipped from this port for Europe since the middle of September.

AMERICANS SHOT.

One Killed Two Wounded In Attack on Colombian Forces.

PANAMA, Colombia, Nov. 13.—The first American casualties as a result of the revolution have occurred here. The Colombian fleet captured a boat having on board correspondence showing the whereabouts of two revolutionary schooners loaded with provisions. The government warships headed for the place, and on arriving there the Bogota, formerly the Jessie Banning of San Francisco, manned by an American crew commanded by Captain Marmaduke, lowered two boats with armed men, but as the schooners were aground they waited until high tide to attack them. In the meanwhile the revolutionists were discovered in ambush close to the beach, and when the Bogota's boats pulled ahead the second time the rebels opened fire on them, killing the ship's armorer, Richard Kane of Washington, and wounding George Walker, who was shot through the legs. A seaman named Clark and Lieutenant Vasquez were also wounded, but not seriously. The Bogota and Chucuito then opened fire on the enemy and killed every man in sight. One shot fired at a group of ten rebels who were most actively engaged in shooting at the boats' crews killed every one of them.

Gunner Cross of the Bogota thinks that from forty to fifty rebels were killed.

One of the schooners, the Helvetia, loaded with rice, was captured, but the first shot at the second schooner set her on fire, and she was completely destroyed, with her cargo.

The body of Kane will be buried here with military honors.

LEGAL STANDARD CHANGED.

Pennsylvania Supreme Court Makes New Rules For Admission to Bar.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—The supreme court of Pennsylvania has promulgated new rules to govern admissions to the bar, completely revolutionizing the system in force for more than a century. A state board of law examiners composed of five members is established. Admissions on law school diplomas are abolished. Registration is required at the commencement of the course of three years' study, but a preliminary examination must first be passed in English literature, universal history, history of England and the United States, arithmetic, algebra, geometry, geography and Latin, Cæsar, Virgil and Cicero.

The three years of preparation after registration must be passed either in an approved law school or by the service of a bona fide clerkship in a law office.

This action of the court was taken as the result of a memorial presented on behalf of the Pennsylvania Bar association.

New Professorship For Pennsylvania

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—Edward W. and Clarence H. Clark of Philadelphia have subscribed $100,000 to found a professorship in Assyriology at the University of Pennsylvania. The Messrs. Clark have been among the largest subscribers to the Babylonian expeditions of the University of Pennsylvania for the past fourteen years, and the success of these expeditions, now known all over the world, has led them to endow this professorship. The trustees of the university have accepted the gift and have named the chair "the Clark professorship of Assyriology," and Dr. H. V. Hilprecht will be the first incumbent under this endowment.

After Sunken Treasure.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—The Chronicle says there is no longer any doubt that the object of the schooner Louisa D., about ready to sail for the south, is to attempt to recover a part of the treasure lost in 1862 by the burning of the Pacific mail steamer Golden Gate off Manzanillo, on the Mexican coast. The wreck of the Golden Gate caused the loss of 200 lives and property valued at $1,750,000. Much of this amount was in the form of bullion, and a considerable quantity of it was never recovered.

Three Great Sea Masters.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—James D. Phelan, formerly mayor of San Francisco, came back from Europe in the White Star line steamer Oceanic. He has visited Italy, France and Ireland, the latter being in his opinion more celebrated than any of the others. Mr. Phelan was the chairman of the concert held on the Oceanic Monday night. He made a long and witty speech and as a finale proposed a standing toast "to the three great masters of the sea—Noah, Columbus and Morgan."

Lunatic Kills His Brother.

CAMPBELLSVILLE, Ky., Nov. 13.—T. Pitman, an escaped lunatic from the Lakeland asylum, killed his brother, Temple Pitman, near Merrimac, in this county, with a maul. The body of the murdered man was found in the woods, with the head beaten to a jelly. The murderer was captured and has been returned to the asylum.

Big Damages Against Irish League.

DUBLIN, Nov. 13.—After four trials before different courts David O'Keefe, a shopkeeper of Tallow, County Waterford, has obtained a verdict, with damages of $27,500, against ten local leaders of the United Irish league whom he sued for damages because of injury to his business resulting from their incitement to boycott.

DIGG'S UPRIGHT FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

The Best on Earth! We Challenge the World!

The Extinguishers that turn up-side-down to discharge are good of their kind, but this is far better. Read the following reasons:

Points of superior merit of the Digg-Upright over any other machine—

1—A sealed acid bottle and an air-tight tank. No change in the conditions of the chemicals possible.

2—Can never be discharged by accident; absolutely under the control of the operator.

3—A 3-gallon machine of this type contains ONE QUART more of liquid than a reversible, because it does not require a handle underneath.

4—It does not need inspection and recharging as required for the reversible with its loose stopple.

5—The acid being released at the top of the tank, and the outlet being at the bottom, the mingling of the chemicals is so thorough before the acid reaches the outlet that it is completely neutralized and no harm can be done to flesh or fabric. In the reversible type the acid is released within the two inches of the outlet.

6—Convenience is handling. The machine stands on its bottom, and all the operator has to do is to turn the screw in the cap, and the flow begins instantly.

7—The bottle is not broken, and no nuisance of broken glass.

Plainfield Citizens Gladly Testify.

It is testimony like the following that has placed "the little conqueror" so far above competitors. When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt. Read the public statement of a Plainfield citizen:

Mr. Charles Giese, a cigar manufacturer of 25 Elm place, says: "I was subject to attacks of kidney complaint for two or three years. Most of the pain was in my back and hips, and I could not stoop or straighten without feeling sharp, shooting twinges. When I sat for any length of time I grew so stiff and sore and was compelled to get up and move about. I grew so bad I had to do something for it. I had read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills being such good medicine for kidney troubles so I got a box of them at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I used them according to directions and after two or three days I felt better. I continued their use until the pain disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

MINERS WELL PAID

Answer of Independent Operators to Mitchell.

TROUBLES TRACED TO THE UNION.

Skillful Anthracite Workmen Can Earn More Per Hour Than Any Class of Labor, Skilled or Unskilled, It Is Claimed.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 13.—The answer of the independent operators of the Lackawanna and Wyoming region to the statement of President Mitchell of the mine workers has been made public.

In response to the demand for an increase in wages they say that the present wages are such as to enable the diligent and skillful miner to earn more per hour than any class of labor, skilled or unskilled, in the towns in which the mines are located and amply sufficient to allow him not only to maintain an American standard of living and educate his children, but to lay aside something for his old age. That some miners' wages are small, it is stated, is because they choose to exercise their option to work only a few hours a day.

In answering the contention that mining is extremely dangerous and unhealthy and tends to shorten life the operators set forth a petition recently circulated in the interests of a candidate for mine inspector, which contained the names of ninety-five employees of one mine, sixty-six of whom had worked in the mine for twenty years or more and twenty for forty years or more and five for fifty years or more.

The demand for the weighing of coal and payment by the legal ton of 2,240 pounds instead of by the fictitious ton of 2,750 or 3,000 pounds is characterized as a thinly disguised effort to secure a 40 per cent increase in wages.

The answer asserts that 2,750 pounds of coal as it comes from the mine is barely sufficient to produce a 2,240 pound ton of prepared coal.

Regarding the declaration of the miners that labor unions improve the morals and discipline of their members this comment is made: "This may be true when applied to some organizations, but when applied to the miners' union we enter a most emphatic denial and propose to introduce evidence showing that prior to the advent of the United Mine Workers of America it was considered bad form to kill or maim a citizen who attempted to exercise his constitutional right to sell his labor and that the vast number of brutal murders and beatings during the past five months show that the teaching of the United Mine Workers of America has brought about such moral obliquity that its members believed themselves justified in these acts; also that officers of the union justified this course by furnishing bail and counsel for those who have been guilty of these atrocious acts. We believe we will be able to prove such tremendous losses of life and money as the direct results of the methods of this particular union as to convince your honorable commission that it is inexpedient to do any act which may contribute to its continued existence."

Blackmailer Found Guilty.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 13.—Harlow Cazar of Peruville, charged with attempting to blackmail Benn Conger, a wealthy manufacturer of Groton, has been found guilty, with a recommendation for clemency. Last July Mr. Conger received a letter threatening his life if he did not leave $12,000 in a secluded spot on a stated night. On the night in question Cazar and a companion drove to the spot, where a dozen deputies had been stationed by the sheriff. The plan for the capture of the blackmailers was poorly executed, and they escaped, although some thirty shots were fired, one of which wounded their horse. By means of the blood Cazar was traced to his home and arrested. The court withheld sentence.

Some Sugar Estimates.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Henry W. Diederich, United States consul at Bremen, in a report to the state department gives the estimates for the sugar crop of 1902-03 as issued by Mr. Gieseker, the noted Belgian statistician, and Otto Licht of Magleburg, a veteran publisher of sugar statistics. Mr. Gieseker estimates the total crop at 5,350,000 tons, Germany leading with 1,730,000 tons. According to Mr. Licht's figures, in which Consul Diederich places more confidence, the crop will aggregate 5,850,000 tons, or 993,000 tons less than last year. Consul Diederich looks for at least 6,000,000 tons of beet sugar for this year.

Counterfeiter Caught In the Act.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Charles Wilder has been arrested at his home on a charge of counterfeiting. Detectives say that Wilder, who claims to be a molder by trade, was caught in the act of turning out spurious half dollars when the arrest was made. Captain Porter of the secret service stated that the bogus coins have been in circulation since 1899 and are of a very deceptive appearance.

Sentenced to Life Imprisonment.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 13.—Carl Torno of Webster, who in July killed his eldest son, Rudolph, in a dispute over the boy's wages, has retracted his plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree. The plea was accepted by District Attorney Rockwood Hoar and by Judges Hardy and Waitt, and Torno was sentenced to life imprisonment. The trial consumed but three days.

NO REPEAL LIKELY.

Although an attempt has been made by certain of the citizens of Somerville to secure the assistance of Governor Murphy in repealing the greater city laws passed by the State Legislature last winter, it is extremely doubtful that they will be able to bring about the repeal of this legislation. As a matter of fact, a Republican Legislature is likely to look with more favor on any project that will offer another opportunity similar to that given by last winter's legislation.

As the Newark News very aptly put it, the defeat of the Republican candidates in Somerset county removed the last obstacle against the annexation movement. It will be remembered that one of the strongest arguments brought to bear by the Republicans of Somerville was that the loss of North Plainfield to Somerset would make that county Democratic. Actual experience has shown that the possession of North Plainfield cost the Republicans the county. As there is every likelihood of such a state of affairs continuing indefinitely, owing to the factional disturbances in the Republican ranks in Somerset, it will not be at all surprising if the State legislators favor anything that will restore Somerset county to the Republican column.

In some of the outside newspapers, a rather peculiar idea of the Republican defeat in Somerset county is set forth. It is pointed out as a rebuke to the Republicans of the county for allowing the greater city bills to pass the Legislature. Such a thing is far from the truth. The result contained a rebuke all right but it was to the Somerville Republicans for attempting to run county affairs to suit themselves without considering North Plainfield's wishes or desires and for interfering with a subject that was distinctly the business of no one except the citizens of North Plainfield. When the press at large throughout the State realizes the real condition of affairs here, there will be few, indeed, which will oppose any project to place North Plainfield where it belongs.

There are three candidates for president of the State Senate who have so far declared their desires of being elected to the chairmanship of the upper house of the State Legislature. They are Senator Joseph Cross, of Union, Senator Strong, of Middlesex, and Senator Hutchinson, of Mercer. Although U. S. Senator Kean has declared that he is merely a spectator, it is generally understood that he is quietly using his influence for Senator Cross in this fight. No one doubts for a moment that Mr. Cross would not make a fine presiding officer as he has a dignified and commanding personality that is particularly desired, although not always secured. One of the most able presidents who ever presided over New Jersey's Senate was Charles A. Reed.

P. V. D. Van Doren, the defeated candidate for surrogate of Somerset county, was in the little group of Somerset county politicians who went to Trenton to labor in the interest of the repeal of the greater city bills. It is evident that Mr Van Doren takes his defeat deeply to heart. Mr. Frelinghuysen should have gone too.

A prominent Camden clergyman visited the polls on election day and told his congregation last Sunday something of modern politicial methods. From all accounts, Camden offered him unusual opportunities of viewing the ways of the most "up-to-date" politicians.

A week does not pass that a least one death is reported which is directly or indirectly due to the subways now being constructed in New York. But history shows that the progress of any great undertaking like that is almost always marked by a trail of human blood.

By wireless telegraphy from Quincy, Ill., comes the intelligence that Maude Berri, leading woman of a theatrical troupe, swallowed a watch while taking a nap. The chances are the doctors will make her cough up a few dollars before she is relieved.

A local organization of young women held the other evening what they termed a "scrap-book" social. One might presume they read the lines of Jeffries, Corbett and other exponents of the manly art.

The Yonkers, N. Y., police recently arrested a chauffeur for speeding his auto and he was jailed for ten days. There is no doubt that he will make up for lost time when he gets out.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

Slowly Removing Obstacles.

Little by little the coniractors are removing the obstructions from in front of the Babcock building. The contractors and Postmaster Bird had a conference the first of the week, when Mr. Bird gave the contractors to understand that he wanted a free and clear right of way in front of the postoffice and he would be satisfied with nothing less. The contractors agreed to heed his request.

Severed Artery in Hand.

John Moran, of West Fifth street, was at work at the Hotel Rosell, yesterday afternoon, when he met with a severe accident and nearly bled to death before he recieved medical attion. He was ripping out some galvanized iron when the metal cut into the palm of his hand severing the artery. He was taken to the office of Dr. Hedges, where several stitches were taken in the hand.

Unearthed Indian Ax.

While digging for the foundation of a house on West Third street, yesterday, Horace G, Pangborn, of Scotch Plains, unearthed a fine specimen of an Indian ax which he exhibited proudly to his friends last night. It is a very common thing to hear of Indian arrow heads being found in this locality, but ax heads are quite out of the ordinary.

Rushed With Orders.

The local coal dealers who have coal to sell are now kept very busy delivering the anthracite. In some cases the dealers are short of help and it is impossible to get the coal out on time. The present moderate weather has had a tendency, however, to make the demand less urgent and give the dealers a chance to get ahead with orders.

I. C. T. Masquerade.

CHOLERA IN MANILA.

Sudden Reappearance Causes Death of Seven Americans.

MANILA, Nov. 13.—Cholera has made its appearance among the men of a detachment of the Fifth infantry which is stationed here. Seven men have already died, and a number of others are seriously ill.

The detachment of the Fifth infantry in question had been placed on guard along the Marnquina river, whence Manila receives its water supply, as it was deemed necessary to protect the stream from possible pollution. The cholera developed while the men were on this duty.

It was believed that cholera had entirely disappeared fr m Manila, and its reappearance has creaied general feelings of apprehension.

The further decline in the price of silver has forced the government to raise the rate of exchange to $2.50 Mexican for $1 gold.

The cheapening of silver has resulted in increasing the loss of the government and all other holders of silver. The instability of the present currency is seriously damaging business, and the members of the civil commission and representatives of commercial interests in the islands will unite in making a strong plea to congress for the establishment of a nonfluctuating Philippine currency.

General Miles, who is making a tour of the archipelago, was given a reception and banquet at Iloilo, island of Panay, Tuesday. The general delivered a short address, in which he expressed sympathy with the people in the afflictions which had come to them with the war and the cholera. He said he hoped for an early improvement in their affairs. From Iloilo General Miles proceeded for Jolo.

Senatorial Committee Welcomed.

LAS VEGAS, N. M., Nov. 13.—A large number of citizens, headed by a brass band, turned out to meet the senatorial committee which is on an official trip through the territories seeking admission into the Union. The committee entered New Mexico early yesterday and made its first stop at Raton. From the territorial line to Las Vegas, where the committee took up its first official hearing, it was greeted at each station by enthusiastic delegations of citizens, school children and territorial officials. There were numerous calls for a speech from Senator Beveridge, chairman of the committee, but he uniformly declined.

Hawaii Went Republican.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—The steamer Alameda, from Honolulu, brings news that the recent election in the territory of Hawaii resulted in a sweeping Republican victory. Prince Kalanianaole, popularly known as Prince Cupid, was elected delegate to congress over Robert W. Wilcox, the incumbent and Democratic candidate, by a majority of over 2,000.

Daughters of the Confederacy.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 13.—The ninth annual convention of the Daughters of the Confederacy is in session at the Washington Artillery hall. Delegates are present from eighteen or twenty states. General Francis T. Nicholls and other distinguished veterans of the Confederacy occupied seats on the platform at the opening meeting.

M. E. Church South.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 13.—With probably 250 delegates present the Virginia conference of the M. E. Church South is holding its one hundred and twentieth annual session in this city. The first day was taken up mostly with organization and the appointment of committees and boards.

ONE OF THE ANCIENT ARTS

As with Everything Else, America Has Captured the Cooperage Business of the World.

Cooperage is one of the ancient arts born, doubtless, of the necessity of having proper vessels for preserving wines. The London coopers were incorporated into a guild in 1501. As usual, America has captured the cooperage business of the world. The National Barrel and Cooperage company declares that 200,000,000 barrels are used annually. I could mention one company alone that turns out 40,000 a day, or 12,500,000 a year. Its product includes casks, kegs, all sorts of barrels, butter tubs, pails, churns, etc. Our boundless forests gave us the advantage in cooperage. We supply nearly all the rest of the world with barrels, casks and staves, our annual product being valued at more than $40,000,000. For casks to hold liquids oak is used, while for sugar and flour and other dry substances nothing has been found to equal elm. The manufacturers have bought up millions of acres of forests to guard against a scarcity of barrel material. They are vandals, like the rest of the timber users. Sufficient unto the day is the forest thereof. If they can make $1,000,000 in a lifetime by utterly devastating 10,000,000,000 acres of precious woodland, why, they will make the $1,000,000.

BIRTH OF LONDON BRIDGE.

Story of Its Opening by William IV. and Queen Adelaide 71 Years Ago.

On August 1, 1831, William IV. and Queen Adelaide formally opened with much ceremony the famous London bridge, so that the structure now is a little over 71 years old. Their majesties went in grand procession from Buckingham palace to Somerset house, and thence by barge to the bridge. The awnings of the royal barge were removed, that a full view of the royal pair could be had along the whole line. At London bridge a grand pavilion had been set up close to the site of Old Fishmongers' hall. It was constructed of standards captured in a hundred fights, canopied in crimson and decorated with massive shields. When the king stepped ashore he said to two members of the London bridge committee: "Mr. Jones and Mr. Routh, I am very glad to see you on London bridge. It is certainly a most beautiful edifice and the spectacle is the grandest and the most delightful in every respect that I ever had the pleasure to witness." This, of course, says the London News, was before anyone thought of building an annex to Westminster abbey.

HOW HE SAVED HIS LUNG.

Young Bostonian Who Was Cured of Consumption on a Farm in Ireland.

A young Bostonian, reared in the lap of luxury, had lost a lung and physicians informed the father that if he was not sent on an ocean cruise or to the far west he would die of consumption. Accordingly the father put him aboard ship, with $1,400 in cash, and started him off to Samaria, being advised that the dry country between the River Jordan and the Mediterranean was good for consumptives. When he reached Queenstown the boy made the acquaintance of a hard-headed, sensible chap, who told him that Samaria was sure death; that the only way to save his lungs was to go to Wicklow county, near Tinahely, and set to work on a farm. The advice was taken and for nine months the scion of Back Bay aristocracy did chores for a man who owned a castle. At the end of that period he was as lusty as a bull moose, with a pair of lungs like a blacksmith's bellows. The former gave him £20 and an honorable discharge. He returned to Boston with his $1,400 and his health. He now lives in New York, a modern Hercules.

LAST OF THE DELAWARES.

Passing of the Greatest Tribe of America's Aborignes in the Death of Kiankia.

Kiankia, descendant of a long line of distinguished Indian chiefs, died a few days ago in a little hut in a secluded spot near the shores of Raritan river, about two miles from Flemington, N. J., and with his passage disappeared the last of the once great and proud tribe of the Delawares. Arthur Tenbroeck, of New York city, who has spent many summers in the neighborhood of Flemington, and who made the acquaintance of the aged chief of an extinct tribe about three years ago, superintended his burial and says that his wishes—that he should be laid away under the shadow of an ancient elm, where once his forefathers sat in solemn council—were carried out. Mr. Tenbroeck says that Kiankia informed him some time before his death that he was 96 years old. "It was generally supposed," said Mr. Tenbroeck, in discussing the death of the last of the Delawares, "that old Indian Anne, who died in Mount Holly in 1894, was the last of the famous tribe, but it was not known then that her brother Kiankia was still alive."

Aluminum for Paper.

It is stated that experiments with aluminum as a substitute for paper are now under way in France. If is now possible to roll aluminum into sheets four-thousandths of an inch in thickness, in which form it weighs less than paper. By the adoption of suitable machinery these sheets can be made even thinner and can be used for book and writing paper. The metal will not oxidize, is practically fire and water proof, and is indestructible by worms.

SMART MILLINERY.

Long Ends Not Yet Out of Style—Picture Hats.

Some of the prettiest millinery models are picture hats of felt and beaver in delicate tones trimmed with autumn leaves, grapes and blackberries.

If not exaggerated, the ends at the back of the hat can still be pretty, but when the simplest hats show streamers of velvet and lace they degenerate into absurdities.

There is more hair shown in front than formerly; still nearly all the smart hats are worn well forward. Some of the Gainsboroughs are tilted on the right instead of the left side. Some of the crowns, too, are low, while others are high.

Useful and smart are the little silk hats piped to match the tailor made frocks. They are also pretty in felt with two or three quills at the side or some pompons consisting chiefly of tassels. Simple hats such as these are ideal for country wear.

Stuffed birds and paradise plumes are also greatly in evidence.

The cut shows an elaborate gown of pale yellow chiffon and lace. The bertha is ornamented with little chiffon flowers and baby velvet ribbon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

NEW TRIMMINGS.

Piecements of Braid—Llama Cloth. Crushed Velvet.

Embroidered piecements of braid are inlet into heavy wool gowns after the fashion of lace. The woolen fabric is cut away and the edges bordered with cut scrolls of velvet buttonholed at the edges.

Llama sack coats in a pale putty shade are finished off with bands of plain stitched cloth and broad collars.

BLACK AND WHITE COMBINATION.

The material is a rival to the zibeline cloths, having a waved surface much resembling broadtail.

Crushed velvets and even plushes will be favorite materials this winter both for day and evening wear.

Velvet this season has a very important place in fashion, and pin spotted velvets are very dressy. One of the latest things is a dark green corduroy. This is very smart made up with deep russet lace.

The illustration shows a street dress. The material is black broadcloth trimmed with panne velvet having an embroidered dot of white. The waist is made with a soft front of chiffon and lace.

THE CARUTHERS AFFAIR

cuss anything with you till you acknowledge that I can do everything I claim. After you are convinced, and you will be, my dear sir, then you will value the information I gave you just now, and it may mean much to you. It will not take five minutes for the test I propose."

"Well, what is it?" asked Hendricks, who had noted Dr. Lampkin's look of intense interest in Kola's remarks.

"It is this," said Kola, impressively. "I will give you the opportunity to name any article at any distance from us that you wish. Then I will recline on that couch there, and after five minutes has passed, I will allow Dr. Lampkin to examine my body to see if it is not absolutely at the very lowest possible stage of vitality. As a signal, to show when the spirit has left my body, I will cause the bell overhead to strike once. Then, within five minutes from that time, I will bring to you here whatever article you have decided on."

"You can do that?" exclaimed Lampkin, impulsively.

"Try me," answered the Indian. "Think of anything, Mr. Hendricks—any important paper in your office or book or article in your house."

Kola was bending towards Hendricks and gazing fixedly into his eyes. Lampkin, who was a member of the Psychical Research society of London, was taken almost out of himself by the Indian's earnestness and his novel proposition.

Hendricks laughed.

"Bring me my Bible," he said lightly. "It is a beautiful book bound in gold and pearls, which was presented to me by a good old bishop for whom I once did a favor."

"The idea of your having a Bible," gasped Kola, his eyes falling to the floor. "Now, quick! think of something—anything in your office or Dr. Lampkin's."

Hendricks glanced at the doctor with a look which seemed to say: "I have him there; watch me make him squirm out of his own proposition."

"The Bible or nothing," he said to Kola. "Get into your trance and bring me my Bible from home. I want to read a chapter on my way back. You can't mistake it. It is bound in Russian leather and has gold and pearl trimmings."

For a moment Kola stood as if undecided; then he went to the lounge and threw himself on it.

"You will have to tell me where it is," he said. "I confess that I know little more when out of my body about material things than I do now. People, like that fleeing artist, sometimes draw me to them magnetically, but any inanimate thing is different. Where is the book?"

Hendricks laughed.

"It is on the center table in the library, directly under the chandelier; you can't miss it."

"Thanks," said the Indian. "Now, Dr. Lampkin, when you hear the bell strike, make an examination of my body. Then when the bell strikes five minutes later, sit quiet and—and Mr. Hendricks shall have his proof."

"If you do what you propose," said Hendricks, still tauntingly, "you will make a convert of me, but mind, Kola, I don't want any explanations about unfavorable conditions preventing the performance, or anything of that kind. It won't go down."

Kola made no answer. The music overhead had ceased. The clouds of incense had risen and hovered about the red and yellow lights above. The Indian's breast heaved, as he took a deep breath, and then he lay still. Gradually he grew paler and paler, till he looked like a corpse. His features and limbs were rigid. Hendricks up to this moment had been smiling at the absurdity of Kola's proposal, but the earnestness depicted on Dr. Lampkin's face finally influenced him, and he grew strangely quiet.

In about five minutes the bell overhead struck. There was a fragmentary wave of soft music, and it died away in the distance.

Lampkin glanced at Hendricks and mutely approached Kola and bent over him. He opened his vest and shirt and made an examination of his respiration and heart. When he looked again at Hendricks his face was almost pale.

"If he has a particle of vitality in him I can't detect it," he said, grimly. "I wish I had a stethoscope. Hang it, this [illegible] thing always did have too big a hold on me."

Hendricks smiled.

"It's only a trick," he said. "When he opens his eyes he will make some excuse. I saw I had him when I mentioned that Bible. He tried to make me select something else."

But Lampkin only shook his head.

"How could he have succeeded if you had named something else?" he questioned. "If he had been able to bring anything you had mentioned I should have considered it miraculous. You know we members of the Physical Research society hold ourselves in readiness to investigate any claims of this kind and not to discredit them till we prove them false."

"We are both wasting time," said Hendricks. "He couldn't do what he proposes in a thousand years. He tried to back out when I mentioned the Bible."

Just then they heard a strain of far-off music like that which had followed the stroke of the bell, and then the room suddenly became absolutely dark. The music ceased; the solemn-toned bell struck. At that instant the detective felt something placed in his hands, and the lights flashed up.

"Well!" exclaimed Lampkin, tentatively, and then he simply stared at the rigid face of his friend. Hendricks made an effort to smile, but his features produced only a grimace.

"What is that?" asked Lampkin, pointing to the object in the detective's lap.

"My Bible," said Hendricks.

"Are you sure?" asked the doctor.

Hendricks opened it and examined it, his fingers quivering.

"There is no doubt about it," said he, and he shrugged his shoulders, and tried to smile.

"Are you superstitious?" asked Lampkin.

"Very," was the sheepish answer. "A great phrenologist once told me that I was well-balanced in everything excepting that. I have been fighting against it all my life, but such a thing as this—ugh!"

Nothing more was said just then, for the doctor had pointed to the returning flush in the Indian's face. Hendricks sat holding the Bible between his legs, evidently worried and chagrined over what had occurred. Kola's breast began to rise and fall gently, and then he opened his eyes. His gaze rested on the detective.

Effect of Lightning Stroke.

Of the visible effects of lightning stroke upon the human body little more can be said than that sometimes burns have been noticed and frequently red markings, which are localized congestions of the small blood vessels of the skin. These, because of the branchings and network, have led to the fanciful idea of photographs of trees. The effect of lightning is to cause a temporary paralysis of the respiration and the heart beat, which if allowed to continue will deepen into death, but when treated as above described will generally pass away. — Scientific American.

Rearing of the Kaiser.

The kaiser is credited as saying that to him the most miserable spectacle on earth is that of a prince for whom life is exhausted. He himself was brought up on the theory that he should be denied everything that could be forbidden a person of his birth, and he has educated his sons on the same principle.—N. Y. Sun.

A Green Caddy.

Madge—You went over the links with Harry Huggard? He plays an excellent game, doesn't he?

Blanche—Doesn't he, though? Why, I actually believe that we'd have been engaged if the stupid caddy had only known his business. —Judge.

Summer School.

"I hear that Claribel has given up her music lessons," remarked Mabel.

"Yes," responded Genevieve, "but she has taken up an under study."

"What is it?"

"Why, haven't you heard? George is trying to teach her to love him."—Indianapolis Sun.

"Busted."

Jasper—Prof. Bighead has had a great disappointment in his life.

Jumpuppe—What was it?

"He pursued his scientific researches until he developed a beautiful theory, and then he kept on pursuing them until he exploded it."—Judge.

An Argument in Favor.

"What have you to say in favor of polygamy?" was argued.

The man with 16 wives chuckled: "My wives quarrel among themselves, and let me alone," he said.—Detroit Free Press.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 16—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—For me.—Isa. liii, 6; Luke xxii, 19, 20; Rom. v, 6-8; I John iii, 16.

The doctrine of the atonement, or that Christ died "for me," is the most precious doctrine of the word of God. The expression "for me" as used in the New Testament in connection with this doctrine means "in my stead." Christ did not die simply for an object lesson on sacrifice or to set forth God's hatred of sin, but He died for us—died instead of us. Had He not died we in ourselves would have been compelled to bear the penalty of our sins. But since He died as our substitute we are free from the penalty of sin if we accept His sacrifice for us. Christ's atonement for our sins is accepted of God, and we escape eternal death and receive eternal life.

No one can believe the Bible and doubt or deny the atonement. It is purely a doctrine of revelation. Nature and even history give us some suggestions that look toward vicarious suffering, but they fall far short of revealing God's great sacrifice of Himself, and this fact forms the crowning revelation of God's word. And here this doctrine is writ large. To reject the atonement is to reject the Bible or at least any reasonable and sensible interpretation of it. The testimony of sacred writers upon this subject is very complete, and it is unanimously upon one side. And when a doctrine is purely a matter of revelation we must accept the conclusions of the holy men who spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost.

1. The testimony of Isaiah. Isa. liii teaches clearly the vicarious character of Christ's death. The seer of God speaks of no human deliverer, for none ever appeared in Israel. Nor does he personify Israel herself, for she has not died for others. He speaks of the promised Messiah, and he says, "He was wounded for our transgressions. He was bruised for our iniquities; * * * the Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all." Could language be plainer? Can any one deny that they refer to a substitution? And since they can be applied to Christ alone must His death not have been vicarious?

2. The testimony of Christ. In connection with the institution of the Lord's supper, which was to commemorate His death, Jesus said, "This cup is the New Testament in My blood, which is shed for you." What can "shed for you" mean but substitution? Would God have sacrificed Christ simply to have taught mankind a lesson? Never. Christ's death was necessary to save mankind or He never would have died.

3. The testimony of Paul. God commended His love toward us in that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us (Rom. v, 8).

4. The testimony of Peter. "Who His own self bare our sins in His own body on the tree." Thus Peter speaks of the character of Christ's death. Our sins were placed upon Him, and he bare them. "The Lord laid on Him the iniquity of us all." Could this mean anything else than substitution?

5. The testimony of John. "Hereby we perceive the love of God because He laid down His life for us." John's opinion is seen to be in accord with other inspired writers upon this subject. God in Christ laid down His life for us—for me.

Since Christ died for us we should live for Him. He has substituted His life for ours, and we should also substitute His life for us. "It is no longer I that live; Christ liveth in me."

BIBLE READINGS.

Isa. liii, 1-12; Matt. xxvi, 26-28; John i, 29; Gal. ii, 20; iii, 13, 14; Eph. ii, 4-7; II Peter ii, 21-25.

Christian Endeavor In Wartimes.

There were twelve "floating Endeavorers" (the name given to sailors who belong to the society) on the Olympia the morning Admiral Dewey sailed into Manila harbor. A crew made up entirely of Christian Endeavor men was put in charge of one of the captured Spanish gunboats. There was a floating society of Christian Endeavor on board the Oregon when she made that magnificent run around Cape Horn. A Christian Endeavorer was among those killed at Cardenas, Cuba, where the first American blood was spilled.

Pennsylvania's Fame.

This epigram, which has been going the rounds, is from the lips of Rev. Dr. George B. Stewart, president of Auburn Theological seminary, a former president of the Pennsylvania State Christian Endeavor union: "Pennsylvania is famous for pig iron and Christian Endeavor."

President McKinley's Interest.

Every year that Mr. McKinley was in the White House he sent a telegram of greeting to the international Christian Endeavor convention, and as governor of Ohio he delivered the address of welcome at the Cleveland convention.

Pledged Endeavor.

We are pledged to do but what is right
And bound to do it with our might.
Our pledges we must seek to fill
According to the Master's will.
The world, the flesh, we follow never;
To follow Christ is our endeavor.
—Rev. Dr. John Hall.

9. K. L. B., Connecticut.—International conventions are now held only every other year. State conventions, in large part, are also beginning to be held in the same way, the state gathering coming on the year when there is no international meeting.

10. X. Maryland.—The next international convention will be held in Denver in 1903.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning Nov. 16, "Present Opportunities For Methodist Missions"—Text, Matt. xxviii, 19; Phil. iii, 7, 12, 16.

Opportunities are sometimes best measured by obstacles removed. Our present condition, with its doors wide open, may well be contrasted with the situation a few years since. Our people of middle age clearly recall how matters stood in 1857, the great revival year.

William Butler was in India. He was a lone pioneer in the far northwest provinces, hostile, bigoted, heathen millions surrounding him, armed and thirsting for blood, in a few weeks to sweep with billows of fire and blood the whole vast peninsula from snow capped Himalayas to the tropic ocean in the effort to exterminate Christianity and British dominion.

In the great empire of China we had work on a small scale in a few places only, while the land as a whole was fast closed against us and almost unknown. Japan had not yet awakened from her feudalism, and foreigners were permitted to land in but two or three ports. Korea was as little known as the south pole is today. Africa was unexplored except a narrow fringe around the coast. We had some work in Buenos Ayres, in South America, but Mexico was not to be entered until after our civil war. We had some work in Europe, but it was small and carried forward under hampering restrictions.

Now India is everywhere feeling the impulse of Christian thought and work. Years since one of our bishops returning from there declared that if Christianity was blotted out from every other land on earth there was vitality enough in India Methodism to restore it and evangelize the world. Japan is passing through a revival of religion which has swept the whole empire as the revival of 1857 swept the United States. Korea and China, the Philippines, the far strait of Malacca, Burma and even Borneo are in the full light of the gospel. Africa is open from circumference to center and feels the new life. Our Spanish speaking work is most notable and encouraging. So much for the fields. In 1857 the church prayed God to open the closed doors. He has marvelously answered that prayer. The bars are down.

In 1859 our missionary secretaries advertised for several months in our church papers for two men for the foreign work, and no one offered. In 1869 Dr. Edward Parker of India appealed to some of our conferences for young men to go back with him, and none went. Now there are several hundred of the choicest spirited and best equipped of our young people of both sexes ready to go anywhere they may be needed.

We have in all our past been hindered in our progress by lack of funds. Our people have been among the poor. This is also largely changed. Lands in city and country have increased in value and made many rich; mines, oil wells, farming, trading, manufacturing, commerce, stocks and thrift in a hundred directions have brought wealth until we have a superabundance. Much has been consecrated. More will be. Our young people will be richer than their fathers. We believe they will not be less devoted. Opportunities become necessities. We believe they will be seen and the Lord's work grandly advanced.

Divided Confidences.

The poverty of the individual life and the abortive efforts of the church are largely due to divided confidence. A full faith is essential to a well rounded character. Division here means a halting feebleness and a hesitating performance of clearly defined duties. This way lies safety. Ships in time of storm need sea room, and their masters commit themselves with confidence to the vast deep. The inexperienced might long for a sight of land, but the captain knows the treachery of the shore. The soul for its development and safety must commit itself with a true heart in full assurance of faith to Christ. He is strong enough and lasting enough to be worthy of a whole heart for all time.—Episcopal Recorder.

Thoughts.

Even the lion must lower himself before victoriously attacking.

With men we can afford to be children sometimes; with God we must be children always.

Man is satisfied if he has done good. God is not satisfied until he has done well.

Who wishes to avoid pain must take pains.

The heart should always be open, the ears often, the mouth seldom.—Christian Endeavor World.

Can Never Grow Old.

We have a gospel which can never grow old. Its adaptation to the deepest needs of men's souls remains constant with these needs. People tell us the gospel has done its work; that the world has outgrown it. We are confident, with a confidence born of our knowledge, that as long as men live by bread so long will this word, which proceedeth out of the mouth of God, be the food of our souls.—A. Maclaren.

So Does He Look Upon Us.

As one who sees and knows us altogether, as one who understands the nature of sin and its unhappy results, as one who remembereth that we are dust, as one who loves purity and hates sin, as one who made us and loved us and gave Himself for us, so does the Lord look upon us. It is out of His very strong character that His pity and love and mercy and our salvation come.—Independent.

The championship of the East Jersey Golf League has just been awarded to the Town and Country Club, of Elizabeth. Edward Kent, secretary of the league, made known the final standing of the clubs yesterday, giving the Elizabeth team the cup on a score of eight victories and two defeats. In addition to the championship cup which is held by the club each member of the winning team will receive an individual prize. The Morristown Field Club got second place and the Forest Hill Field Club third. The season has been the most successful in the history of the organization, and next year a more elaborate programme will probably be attempted.

The final standing of the clubs follows:

	Won.	Lost.
Elizabeth T. and C	8	2
Morristown Field	7	3
Forest Hill Field	6	4
East Orange Golf	4	6
Colonia Country	3	7
South Orange Field	2	8

ON THE GRIDIRON.

The Orange F. C. eleven will play a game of football with Leal's School eleven, Saturday, November 22.

Manager Chandor, of the Alis A. A. football team, announces that his team will not play this coming Saturday as many of the members of the team will witness the Yale-Princeton game at Princeton on that day. The Alis boys will play the big game of the season Thanksgiving morning when they will play the Bergen Point Field Club on Hope Common. This will be the greatest game of the year for the local players and, as they have not lost a game this season, the local football enthusiasts are awaiting the results with interest. Friday night the team will meet for practice as usual at the regular place.

ROD AND GUN.

Edward Campbell and James Burke, of Park avenue, have returned from Hunterdon county, where they have been hunting, with over sixty rabbits.

J. B. Higgins, of West Front street, spent yesterday hunting on Tip Clawson's farm, near Hopewell. He returned with several rabbits and four woodcock.

John Mowen, an inspector of the trolley road, is planning to take a trip to his native home in Maryland. While away he will do some hunting and expects to have great success.

William Stanbury returned home, yesterday from his game preserve near Lebanon, where, with several friends he spent two days in hunting. The party made a total catch of sixty rabbits, two woodcock and a crow.

David C. Smalley, the butcher, enjoyed the hunting Tuesday near Westfield and brought back with him fourteen rabbits, three woodcock, and a number of quail. Mr. Smalley reports that there are a large number of rabbits in that locality and the quail are also plentiful.

FRIENDS HOLD CONFERENCE

HALF-YEARLY CONFERENCE OF PLAINFIELD AND RAHWAY MEETING.

Opened This Morning at Meeting House on Watchung Avenue —Several Addresses.

The half-yearly conference of the Plainfield and Rahway Meeting of Friends opened this morning at the meeting house on Watchung avenue and will continue today and tomorrow. There are a goodly number of Friends present from both the Plainfield and Rahway Meeting and much interest is shown.

The early part of the morning was devoted a religious service, during which there were excellent talks by John Shotwell, of Asbury Park, and W. D. Williams, a speaker of the Plainfield meeting. These remarks cited chiefly the fundamental principles of the faith and practice of the Society of Friends as set forth in the teachings of Christ and by the exemplification of Elias Hicks.

Following the religious part of the morning service, the business meeting was held. Reports were received from the meetings showing the advancement made in Christian living during the past six months. These reports were encouraging and gave strong evidence that while there is no great increase in membership, the members of the Society of Friends are adhering to the faith and there is a steady growth in deep spirituality.

After the business meeting dinner was served in the upper part of the meeting house. This afternoon the conference was continued with addresses relative to the Society of Friends.

The meeting-house presents an attractive appearance, it having recently been cleaned and a new carpet laid.

SUGGESTED A BOND.

Vice Chancellor Stevens' Method of Adjusting Cider Mill Case to Suit All.

The injunction matter between Mrs. Ella R. Walcott, of Brooklyn, and James A. Beggs, of New York, over the sale and purchase of the cider mill of William Silence at Oak Tree, came up before Vice Chancellor Stevens in Newark, Wednesday when he decided that Lawyer Robert M. Clark, representing the plaintiffs, was sustained in his argument for the issuance of the injunction but that if he granted the injunction restraining the firm of James Beggs from foreclosing on the mortgage it would take away the right of ever collecting the money for the machinery.

He suggested that it was feasable for the other side to get an order to sell the machinery if they put up a bond to insure the opposite side against loss or damage.

Mr. McDermott, the lawyer for the defendants, was instructed to prepare such an order and the matter will come up again for argument next Monday when the question of whether such an order can be accepted or not will be argued by Mr. Clark.

ANNUAL SESSION WAS HELD AT NEW BRUNSWICK TUESDAY.

A Number of Delegates From This City Attended the Meeting— The Programme.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, Nov. 13—The State convention of the McAll Mission was held Tuesday in the Second Reformed church chapel, delegates being present from Newark, Elizabeth, Morristown, Belvidere, Trenton, Nyack, Plainfield, East Orange and New Brunswick.

The first session was held at 10:30 in the morning, when a devotional service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Hutton, pastor of the church. Miss Kate Latham, president of the auxiliary, presided.

The other local officers who officiated at the meeting, there being no State officers, were: Vice president, Miss Helen Janeway; treasurer, Miss Annie B. Cook; secretary, Mrs. George Berdine.

The convention was honored with the presence of the president of the national association, Mrs. Charles Parkhurst, wife of Dr. Parkhurst, of New York. Rev. Dr. Rossiter, of New York, the general secretary, made an address.

The greeting was made by Miss Kate Latham and a response was made by Mrs. Frank Kelly, of Elizabeth. Miss Harriet Harve, of Philadelphia, spoke after the roll-call and reports. Miss Cotrell Smith, of Newark, followed her. Mrs. H. G. Parker, of this city, sang a solo.

The offering was followed by an address by Mrs. Frank Kelly, of Elizabeth, for young people. After the morning session luncheon was served in the chapel building. At 2 o'clock the convention was resumed. The speakers for the afternoon session were Mrs. L. S. Houghton, of New York, and Mrs. Dudley, of Elizabeth. Mrs. Meade, of Plainfield, was also expected, but was prevented by a recent death in her family.

THEATRICAL.

Ethel Dyffryn and her metropolitan players will open a week's engagement at Central Theatre Monday. This child actress possesses talent and a charming personality and will be supported by a company especially chosen for the week's repertoire, which contains several bills of more than ordinary attractiveness. High class specialties will be introduced between the acts by Little Ethel, the "Baby Pattie," "Dyffryn Trio" and several others. Women's tickets Monday night, matinee Wednesday and Saturday.

AWNING ON FIRE.

Called Fire Department to North Avenue Last Evening.

An awning and large display sign over the entrance to the Waldorf shoe store on North avenue, caught fire, shortly after 10 o'clock, last night. A merry blaze was soon in progress which necessitated summoning the department from box No. 13. The chemical engine put out the flames in short order before any great damage resulted. A cigarette or cigar stub dropped from above, is believed by Chief Doane to have been the origin of the blaze.

Banquetted by Chairman.

The Union county Republican executive committee held the closing business meeting of the season in the Dix building at Elizabeth, Tuesday evening. Afterward the members banquetted at the Berkely Hotel as the guests of Chairman Hamilton Kean. Plates were set for 100. Among those present from this city were Sheriff B. F. Coriell and Andrew McCardle.

Men's Turn This Time.

The men of the First Presbyterian church will give a chicken and waffle supper this evening in the chapel of the church to help defray the expense of the new kitchen. After the supper a musical programme will be rendered by the men. In fact the entire affair will be conducted by the men without any assistance whatever from the women.

Coal for Station.

A large quantity of hard coal has been received this week at the North Avenue station to be used in heating the two stations. This is the first anthracite received in a long time, but fortunately the supply on hand was sufficient for the time being.

Week of Prayer Meeting.

The men's meetings, in connection with the week of prayer for young men, will be held this evening and tomorrow evening from 9 to 9:30 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. Stephen Cahoone will lead tonight.

ORGANIZING IN NEW JERSEY

LABOR UNIONS ARE TO BE GREATLY STRENGTHENED HERE.

Active Campaign Has Been Planned for All Parts of the State.

Labor organizations in this city and vicinity may shortly feel the influence of a new move which the American Federation of Labor has decided to adopt. It has for its aims the enrollment of every workman in a union representing his craft and the banding of them all together more strongly than has ever been accomplished.

To attain this end, State organizers will be placed at work, and every part of the State will be visited. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has sanctioned the movement and has advised the State leaders the best means of conducting a uniform campaign. National and International unions, whose trades are represented in New Jersey, have been asked to co-operate and assist in making unionism stronger than ever. As soon as satisfactory arrangements can be made competent organizers will be appointed and commence work.

Proper Pronunciation.

Two well-known officials, one of the state and the other of the city, while warm friends, occasionally get into arguments as to the proper pronunciation of words. The other night the word "isolate" was used by the city man, who pronounced it with the accent on the "i" as "i-solate," whereupon the state man immediately "butted in" with "Oh, no, not i-solate, but is-olate." "Why, you're bughouse," rejoined the "i" man." "Common sense ought to teach you that you are wrong. Just look at what the word means—ice, that is frozen, which is to be a dead one, that is of no account, I mean out of commission or put away back, see?" "No, I'll be hanged if I do, nor anyone else," shouted the state man. Then a pained look came over the face of the city man, and with gentle pity he said: "You ought not to need a piledriver or an ax. I'll spell it for you phonetically. Ice-o-late. Ice, do you catch on? Frozen, put away, eh?"

"Oh, rats!" yelled Bowen, "let's have some vichy and milk," and William acquiesced.—Albany Journal.

Filipino Printer's "Stick."

Mail is still coming to the house for the late Amos J. Cummings, says the Washington Post. A letter and accompanying package, which he would have greatly prized, has just arrived from Manila. It is from Frederick Power, who voyaged thither as a printer, and who expresses thanks for some kindnesses that Cummings did him. Power forwarded a native printer's stick which belonged to Aguinaldo's printing office, and which was captured when the little Filipino chieftain was driven out of Tarlac province. It is a small stick of wood, some ten inches long, having a space of about six inches in length hollowed out and roughly lined with brass. Therein the native printers set their type. The stick holds but a line, because the native printers will set but a line at a time. The interesting trophy will be forwarded to "Big Six" typographical union, in New York, of which Mr. Cummings was a member for 40 years. Up to the day of his death he always carried a card of this organization in his pocket.

A Sticky Breakfast.

"Jim" Marshall, who caters to the dry of Cumminsville, has a bunch of friends that swarm around him like a cloud of bees, and when he isn't hiding in the cellar he is with them. The other night he was very much in their company, and became somewhat inoculated with the cup that cheers. When the morning sun was about to make its appearance "Jim" was doing a stunt with the banister. He finally landed in the kitchen without arousing the people of Hamilton and sat down. On the stove rested a stewpan, and immediately a fierce appetite came upon him. His wife must have left something eatable in that pan, and she did—a nice mess of boiled rice; and it tasted mighty good, too, until his wife came in to find out how much of the back end of the building was intact. When she saw the stewpan she screamed: "Jim, you have devoured that starch Mary left for the wash to-morrow!"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

MEN ARRANGED SUPPER AND GAVE PROGRAMME

Delightful Social Was Held at the First Presbyterian Church Last Evening.

SUPPER WAS GOOD ONE

IT WAS COOKED AND SERVED BY THE MEN OF THE CHURCH ALONE.

After the Supper Was Over, a Programme Including Instrumental Selections by "Waiter Trio" and Funny Things by Mr. Closs.

Not to be out done by the women in raising the amount still due on the new kitchen recently added to the First Presbyterian church the male members of that congregation served a chicken and waffle supper last evening to a large nmuber of people in the Sunday-school rooms of the church which proved to be not only a most successful affair but an enjoyable one as well.

The supper was prepared and served by the men without the assistance of the women. There were four tables arranged in the large room which seated about fifty people each and their wants were attended to by William McKillop, George Herrmann, Westley Messersmith, Harry Messersmith, Howard George, E. Douglas Murphey and Norman Hill, all of whom were costumed in natty white jackets.

After the supper the tables were cleared and a musical programme was rendered. The "Waiter Trio" were the first to appear in the musical part of the evening's events and they rendered several selections including "Sunshine and Shadow" in which they were repeatedly encored. Those in the trio were M. A. Korff, William McKillop and Vincent Sokol, who presided at the piano.

Emil Closs, of Brooklyn, gave several humorous recitations and during the evening rendered pantomimic selections which produced round after round of applause and laughter. His impersonations of different types were exceptionally clever and were well carried out. The evening's entertainment closed with the "Good-night March" by the "Waiter Trio."

The committee which arranged the entertainment comprised Howard Pope, Edward Boroughs, John Johnson and Edward A. Gano and assisted by A. V. Williams.

ALARM TURNS ON LIGHTS

INVENTION OF A. C. ROGERS TRIED AT WEST END HOUSE.

Automatic Switch Which Lights the Engine House When Alarm Comes In.

There has recently been installed at the West End engine house, No. 3, an invention which though small in one sense, bids fair to be adopted by fire departments throughout the country. It is an automatic lighting switch, the idea emanating from the brain of A. C. Rogers, of East Fifth street, the patentee of numerous useful electric and other devices.

The switch is attached to the fire gong circuit and the instant an alarm is sounded on the house tappers, every electric light in the building is turned on. This not only saves the firemen taking time to throw the switches but would warn them of an alarm if for any cause the house gong should fail to resound.

Several experts have witnessed the working of the scheme and are loud in their praises of its efficiency. The present system was installed as an experiment but it universal adoption is but a matter of time, mainly from its simplicity and small cost.

This is only one of Inventor Rogers' devices which have attracted wide spread attention. Principal among the others are an improved fire alarm box, an automatic painting machine, a self-acting electric trolley switch and a cut-off attachment for automatic telephone pay stations. This latter is being considered by several telephone companies and so far has been found feasible. At the present time a person who uses an automatic pay-station, that is, a 'phone which registers the amount of money dropped in a box for the benefit of the operator, can talk over the time limit if not watched from the central office. The Rogers invention times the connection and the instant the alotted period paid for is completed, the connection is disengaged without human agency.

POPULAR YOUNG FOLK MARRIED IN CHURCH

Miss Mabel Adele Woodruff Became the Wife of Harry Sloat Potter Last Evening.

AT TRINITY CHURCH

CHARMING CHURCH WEDDING WAS LARGELY ATTENDED.

Those Who Made Up Bridal Party—Ceremony Performed by Rev. Dr. Schenck—Reception at Bride's Home Followed Ceremony.

A brilliant affair of early winter was that of last evening when Miss Mabel Adele Woodruff, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Woodruff, of 215 East Second street, and Harry Sloat Potter, of Duer street, North Plainfield, were married in Trinity Reformed church in the presence of a large and fashionable throng of relatives and friends from this city and distant points. It was the union of two popular young people, who for sometime have been identified with many events of both church and society interests and the details were carried out with elaborate effect.

It was a white and green wedding and the color scheme was attractively brought out through the use of palms, ferns, smilax and a profusion of white chrysanthemums. These plants and flowers were banked about the pulpit platform.

The hour set for the event was 7:30, and some time before that every seat in the edifice was filled with guests. While they were awaiting the arrival of the bridal party, Howard Case, organist of the First Baptist church, rendered a programme of select music. Exactly at the appointed time the bridal party reached the church and their entrance was announced by the introduction to the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin. All eyes were turned in the one direction as the party proceeded up the main aisle.

The ushers, Edgar I. Serrell, John G. McLaughlin, William Slape, Percy Dayton, of Plainfield; Neil Potter, of Metuchen, a cousin of the groom; and C. H. Florandin, of Westfield, led the way, followed by the flower girl, Miss Helen Schley, of Orange. Then came the maid-of-honor, Miss Evelyn Taylor, of Philadelphia. Following the maid-of-honor, was the bride, accompanied by her father.

While these members of the party were wending their way to the altar, the groom and his best man, Robert Vail, of Rahway, entered from the pastor's study and all were met at the altar by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor of the church, who performed the ceremony according to the ritual of the Reformed church. In this a ring was used and the responses were given in a distinct voice.

The gown worn by the bride was an exquisite one of peau de cynge, trimmed with duchesse lace, a much prized heir-loom. She also wore a veil caught up with tiny lace butterflies mounted on fine spiral wires and she carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley and bride roses.

The maid-of-honor was gowned in nile green crepe with iridescent trimmings, and she carried pink chrysanthemums. The flower girl wore a gown of white lace over nile green silk She carried a basket of carnations which were strewn along the pathway of the bride after the ceremony was over.

Immediately after the solemn vows were taken, the bride and groom, followed by the other members of the party, left the church. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, where several hundred guests gathered to offer their hearty congratulations and well-wishes to the happy couple. The home was prettily decorated to receive the newly-wedded pair and their friends. The principal colors, green and white, were to be seen in the spacious parlors, where Mr. and Mrs. Potter received. In the hallway smilax was used with good effect, while in the library, where an orchestra discoursed an attractive programme of music, the decorations consisted of cedar and autumn leaves. The dining-room also presented the colors of green and white.

During the hours of the reception, the guests were invited to inspect the handsome array of costly and elegant presents. There was a large collection, including furniture, silver and gold ware, cut glass, oil paintings, fancy work, banquet lamps and many

MISTOOK HIS MAN.

So City Judge Runyon Made Up for His Mistake When Offender Came Up Again.

City Judge Runyon decided, this morning, that for once he had been mistaken in reading character, when James Smith was arraigned before him on a charge of drunkenness. The same man was in court Monday morning but gave such a plausible tale that His Honor had nothing but kind words and sympathy for him, besides suspending sentence.

He celebrated his release by getting drunk and remained so until today, being so much under the influence that he was unable to make a plea when brought in by Patrolman Saffron. When he heard a sentence of thirty days straight pronounced he realized that the chief executive of the police court doesn't like to be trifled with.

FIRST EXPERIENCE.

So City Judge Runyon Gave the Young Man a Chance.

Thomas Ryan, a young man just of age, faced City Judge Runyon, this morning, charged by Patrolman Overbaugh with being helplessly drunk, last evening. He was taken from a hay wagon at the corner of Fifth street and Watchung avenue as it was seen he was unable to care for himself or the horses. The defendant declared with emphasis that it was the first time he had ever been drunk and to give him a chance, sentence was suspended.

C. C. Cummings, of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, of New York, has rented the house at 147 East Seventh street through the agency of Mulford, the real estate dealer. Mr. Cummings will bring his family to this city in the course of a few weeks.

Second Degree for Fourteen.

At the regular meeting of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., to be held this evening, fourteen candidates will receive the second degree. An extra amount of routine business is to be transacted for which a large attendance is desired.

Surprise for Pastor.

ANNUAL HARVEST HOME HELD FOR HOSPITAL

Affair Held at Nurses' Home of Muhlenberg Hospital Yesterday Afternoon.

THE FRIENDS GENEROUS

GUESTS WERE RECEIVED BY FRIENDS OF THE HOSPITAL.

Light Refreshments Served—Those Who Assisted—Affair in Charge of the Women's Auxiliary of the Hospital.

The fourth annual harvest home under the auspices of Muhlenberg Hospital, was held yesterday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock in the Nurses' Home of that institution, and it was without a doubt the most successful of any previous affair of the kind.

All friends of the hospital were most generous in their contributions of money and provisions and especially so were the teachers and pupils in the public schools. The teachers of the Franklin School combined in their contributions, and in many other instances this was done. Especially noteworthy was the contribution of the Needlework Guild, the members giving 215 garments, including sheets, pillow casse, towels. This donation, as well as all others, are greatly appreciated by those in charge of the hospital.

The donations of provisions exceed those given heretofore. They include all kinds of canned goods, cereals, jellies, preserves, potatoes, apples, and many articles too numerous to mention. They were piled up in the large room at the Nurses' Home, and made a pretty showing. There were many barrels of apples and potatoes which were put in the basement at the hospital and could not be displayed owing to lack of room. It is expected that other donations will be received today.

The decorations at the home were attractive. They were arranged by the committee of which Mrs. William Pelletier is the chairman, and consisted entirely of American and English flags prettily draped about the various rooms and hallways.

During the afternoon tea and cake was served to the large number of guests who called to leave their donations and show their interest in the hospital. Miss Elizabeth Cock, president of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors of the Hospital, had general supervision of the affair, while the other members of the auxiliary assisted.

Mr. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., presided at the table and assisting her were Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., Mrs. Herman A. Schwed, Mrs. A. G. Hooley, Mrs. F. H. Andrews, Mrs. Thomas Minford, Mrs. Emil Woltmann and Mrs. W. A. Pinto. Miss Love and Miss Mumford also assisted in serving tea. Mrs. Daniel T. VanBuren, an active member and earnest worker in the auxiliary, assisted in receiving the guests and making them acquainted with the work of the hospital.

Yearly Meeting.

The yearly meeting of the Plainfield and New York Seventh-Day Baptist churches will begin at the Seventh-Day Baptist church, this evening, when there will be a prayer and conference meeting conducted by Rev. E. B. Saunders, of Shiloh. The meetings will be continued until Sunday noon.

Built New Office.

A substantial and well-equipped office has just been built in the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Store on West Front street. Manager Vanderhoff, wanting to be up-to-date, had the office made and it will be of much assistance to him in the increasing business which the store enjoys.

A Bound Brook Wedding.

Thomas Ambrose, of Bound Brook, and Miss Theresa Reed, of Asbury, were married in St. Joseph's R. C. church at Bound Brook, Wednesday morning. The ceremony was witnessed by a large gathering of friends, among whom were many from this city.

To Publish Sermons.

The work of compiling for publication the sermons delivered by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, while he was pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, is now underway. It is expected that they will be on sale within a short time.

PREPARING FOR CONCERT.

Y. M. C. A. Orchestra Will Attempt Something More Elaborate.

The preparations for the orchestral recital at the Young Men's Christian Association are occupying much of the attention of those who are rehearsing the orchestra for the event. The music this year will differ from that rendered at previous recitals in that the selections will be more classical, most of the music being from the great composers. Mrs. F. M. Ward, the soloist at the First Baptist church, has consented to sing at the recital, and those who have not heard her will no doubt embrace this opportunity of doing so.

LEARNING TO TAKE NOTES

NEW TRAINING FOR PUPILS OF NORTH PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL.

A. V. D. Honeyman Read Chapter From His New Boek on European Travel.

Yesterday afternoon between the hours of 12 and 1 o'clock A. V. D. Honeyman read a chapter from the manuscript of his new book on his travels through Europe before the pupils of the North Plainfield High School. The pupils took notes of the talk for the purpose of making a report of the different events described. The chapter was an interesting one and told of Madrid, Spain, and incidently a lucid description of a Spanish bull fight was given.

It is the intention of Superintendent Wightman to have a lecture of this kind before the pupils every two weeks so as to get the pupils of the school accustomed to taking notes of lectures and making reports of them. It is possible that Mr. Honeyman will read another chapter from the manuscript next time.

It was the intention of Mr. Wightman to have the two eighth grades take part in this exercise but owing to the crowded condition of the auditorium this was found to be impossible. The two upper grades devoted the time to the cooking class for the girls and the manual training class for the boys.

NEARER TO CHURCH.

Evangelistic Services at Grace M. E. Church Have Attrcted Many.

The evangelistic services which have been conducted during the past week in the Grace M. E. church by the pastor, Rev. Edwin L. Earp, have proved to have been very successful in that many outsiders have been brought nearer the church by means of personal work among the members of the congregation. The services have been very well attended especially during the latter part of the week and at the meeting tonight the questions will be brought up as to whether the services will be continued or not.

The idea of holding the services was to bring the members into closer touch with the church work after the long period of time which passed while the improvements were going on at that church.

TWENTY-FIVE APPEARED.

Friends of Miss Mary Crosby Appeared When Not Expected.

Twenty-five friends of Miss Mary Crosby, of West Sixth street, called unexpectedly at her home, Wednesday evening, making her the hostess of a party that followed. Although taken greatly by surprise she soon regained her composure and entered heartily into the spirit of the occasion. Music, games and dancing were the features that made the occasion enjoyable. The affair was arranged by Miss Lizzie Crosby and Miss Mamie Carney.

Fainted at the Depot.

Mrs. Thomas Martin, a colored woman living on Cottage place, was seized with a fainting spell at the east bound side of the North avenue depot at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The ambulance was called out and she was conveyed to the hospital. The report that a woman had been struck by a train caused a large crowd to gather on the platform.

Evening of Dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Chamberlain, of East Third street, entertained a number of friends at their home last evening. Dancing was the feature and later in the evening refreshments were served. The affair was arranged by Mrs. Chamberlain, it being in the nature of a house warming for the new home recently occupied by the family.

Will Play Whist.

It is quite likely that the Plainfield Camera Club will devote a portion of the winter to whist. There are several good players in the club and the game has heretofore been a source of pleasure and profit.

HALF-YEARLY MEETING OF FRIENDS CLASSES

The Conference Now Being Held at the Meeting House on Watchung Avenue.

THE REPORTS RECEIVED

YOUNG FRIENDS' ASSOCIATION GAVE A SOCIAL LAST NIGHT.

Sessions Held Yesterday Afternoon and Concluded Today—John W. Hutchinson, of New York, Spoke Yesterday.

Following a recess for dinner, taken yesterday noon, the half-yearly conference of the Plainfield and Rahway Meeting of Friends was continued in the meeting house on Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock.

The session was styled a philanthropic meeting and the greater part of the time was occupied in receiving reports from the recent convention held at Asbury Park. The main speaker was John W. Hutchinson, of New York, whose remarks were greatly enjoyed. They were followed by an informal discussion that continued until the early evening. At the conclusion refreshments were served.

A business item which was transacted was the appointment of Phoebe Wright and Mary Willets, as a committee to confer with others in preparing a memorial for presentation to the Legislature, asking that it establish a woman's State reformatory. The idea is to have a building for first offense criminals similar to the reformatory for men at Rahway.

Last evening, sociability reigned in the form of a character party, given under the auspices of the Young Friends' Association. Other games were played and recitations were given by Mabel Pound and Mary J. Shoemaker. The committee in charge consisted of Edith Cooley, Mabel Vail and Mary J. Shoemaker.

The half-yearly conference of Friends was concluded today noon, after a most helpful morning session. There were three sermons given by John Shotwell, of Asbury Park; Phoebe Wright, of Sea Girt, and Rachel Dayton, of Somerville. Each discourse was a strong and impressive one and was listened to attentively by the large number of Friends present. It is believed that this half-yearly meeting has been one of the best held in recent years.

MUSIC AND READINGS.

Alfred J. Everett's Friends Well Entertained at a Stag Party.

Alfred J. Everett gave a very enjoyable stag party last evening at his home on Fairview avenue to a few of his friends. The evening was spent in listening to vocal and instrumental music and to literary readings by the host.

Those who assisted in the entertainment were H. Harold, and William DeCamp who presided at the piano and Benjamin LaVere who favored with cornet solos. Edmund Maybury, Frank Edwards, of East Orange, and George F. Watts, of this city, rendered very acceptably several vocal solos.

Late in the evening refreshments were served by Mrs. Joseph Bolsterle, Miss Everett, Miss Florence King, Miss Creger and Miss Jennie Everett. Among those present were, Edward Maybury, Benjamin LaVere, H. Harold, F. Ewards, of East Orange, S. Robinson, William DeCamp, William Steward, C. Martin, W. R. Brokaw, G. E. Watts, A. G. Everett, A. E. Everett, and Theodore Everett.

Workmen to Entertain.

Central Lodge, No. 48, Ancient Order United Workmen, held a meeting of special interest last evening at which time a committee, consisting of L. J. Spicer, Harvey R. Thorn and Theodore Mason, was appointed to prepare an entertainment and banquet for Thanksgiving night. It is earnestly hoped that all members will be present.

Wedded at Parsonage.

T. J. Everitt, a "knight of the brush," of North avenue, and Miss Annie Fields, of West Fourth street, were married last evening by Rev. Mr. Bean, pastor of Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, at the church parsonage. The couple will reside on Plainfield avenue.

Mrs. John Wikoff, of Richmond street, will return home tomorrow from Red Bank, where she is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Clarence Smock.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

Quite a little amusement was furnished passenger on a Somerset street trolley, yesterday afternoon, by the driver of a stone wagon bound for this city. He seemed to be somewhat under the influence of something else than water and, in a way peculiar to teamsters, claimed the center of the road to the exclusion of all comers, furthermore declaring his right to meet all claimants for the place. As the trolley company a schedule to maintain the motorman rang his gong, shouted himself hoarse and even butted the rear of the vehicle but all to no purpose. The stone wagon was too heavy to be lifted and the driver simply looked on and enjoyed the fun. It is safe to presume the entire road would have suffered a partial tie-up but the fact that a car coming from the opposite direction forced the obdurate teamster to one side.

The official canvass of the election in this county shows some interesting facts in the figures. Assemblyman-elect Coyne received the highest number of votes of any of the candidates. The total for Mr. Coyne was 11,168, which is nine votes more than Surrogate Parrot received, whose total was 11,159. Mr. Parrot had the highest plurality of any of the candidates, 1,983 over Gibby, the Democratic candidate. Mr. Coyne's plurality over the highest Democratic assembly candidate, Moffett, is 1,263, Mr. Coyne received 265 more votes than the Republican candidate for coroner.

The total vote of the five parties for congress was 21,033. In 1900 it was 21,219, showing a falling off of 186 So that the amount of popular interest taken in the two elections may be regarded as practically identical.

The Republicans this year for congress polled 10,722, in 1900 they had 12,419. The Democrats this year polled, for Flanagan, 9,581, and in 1900, for Man only 7,777. The Prohibition candidate for congress received this fall 191, and in 1900 their candidate, Kennedy, received 307 votes. The Socialist, formerly Social Democrat, polled for congress 351 votes last week Tuesday, and in 1900 their candidate received 493 The Socialist Labor ticket also showed a falling off. Grieb for congress received this year 188, and in 1900 he received 223.

RAHWAY NEXT.

Pennsylvania Railroad Will Consider Raising of Tracks Through That City.

When the elevation of the Pennsylvania Railroad's tracks through Newark and New Brunswick, now under way, is completed, Rahway will remain as the only city on the New York division where grade crossings still exist. The elimination of this is now under consideration and will be begun next spring if the necessary municipal legislation can be secured. The company has contemplated this improvement for some time, but owing to some opposition to its proposed plans and the desire of the officials not to have it tracks torn up at too many places at the same time, it has not pressed the matter.

The result of the last election, it is said, will greatly aid the company in securing the required municipal legislation in Rahway as soon as its plans are fully determined upon and the matter comes formally before the Councils of that city. The people of Rahway generally are in favor of the improvements, and while there has been and will continue to be opposition owing to the necessity of closing certain streets and bridging others, it is fully expected that it will be successfully combatted.

A Thanksgiving Dinner.

Heavy eating is usually the first cause of indigestion. Repeated attacks inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, exposes the nerves of the stomach, producing a swelling after eating, heartburn, headache, sour risings and finally catarrh of the stomach. Kodol relieves the inflammation, protects the nerves and cures catarrh. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia, all stomach troubles by cleansing and sweetening the glands of the stomach. L. W. FEW BANKRUPTCIES HERE

PLAINFIELD DOES NOT PROMINENTLY FIGURE IN THAT WAY.

Bankruptcy Statistics in Jersey—Thousands of Petitions Now Filed Under New Law.

Petition in bankruptcy 1,000 was filed in the bankrupt division of the United States district court at Trenton recently just four years, three and one-half months since the signing of the federal bankruptcy law by the late President McKinley, July 1, 1898.

In the first year of the life of the law 149 petitions were filed, 290 during the second year, 268 came in the third year, and 239 was the record of the fourth year. During the fractional part of the fifth year, or from July 1 to October 15, three and one-half months, there were 54 petitions entered.

Of the grand total of 1,000 cases 801 were voluntarily filed by debtors and 199 were involuntary — filed by creditors.

Since the passage of the act 480 discharges have been granted, of which 434 are voluntary and forty-six involuntary. Nineteen petitions have been dismissed, some by consent, many in spite of opposition. Of the nineteen six were voluntary and thirteen involuntary.

The total number of cases disposed of to date is 507, or a little more than one-half the petitions filed.

Petitions from Newark easily lead the number, while the greatest number of petitions next in order have appeared from the following cities: Jersey City, Paterson, Hoboken, Passaic, East Orange, Elizabeth, Trenton, Atlantic City, Camden, Freehold, Morristown, Long Branch, Hackensack, Somerville and New Brunswick.

The 1,000 cases are distributed as follows among the various counties of the State:

Essex, 236; Hudson, 179; Passaic, 121; Monmouth, 68; Mercer, 56; Union, 50; Bergen, 44; Atlantic, 42; Camden, 31; Somerset, 22; Cumberland, 22; Middlesex, 18; Burlington, 16, Warren, 16; Hunterdon, 13; Salem, 11; Cape May, 10; Sussex, 8; Ocean, 8; Gloucester, 3 Total, 1,000.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The Republican Senators could not do a better thing for their party and for the State than to make Senator Cross their unanimous choice for president of the Senate. No member of that body enjoys to a higher degree the esteem and confidence of the people. The election of Senator Cross would be a guarantee that at the coming session the authority exercised by the president of the Senate would never be prostituted for the accomplishment of unworthy purposes. Had the Union county Senator been elected to the presidency last year, the Senate would have left a better record behind it.—Newark News.

THEATRICAL.

Women theatre patrons in New York have a new matinee idol and this time have departed from tradition and raised up one of their own sex. She is Miss Henrietta Crosman who is appearing at Wallack's Theatre in "The Sword of the King." Miss Crosman's impersonation of Philippa Dryton seems completely to have fascinated her own sex. At the successive Saturday matinees, October 18 and 25, the big audiences composed almost entirely of women grew so enthusiastic that they insisted on Miss Crosman making a speech from the stage. Addresses to audiences are not infrequent on special occasions such as first nights or extraordinary dramatic events, but for audiences to demand speeches at usual performances, and these matinees, is unprecedented and declares for Miss Crosman's wonderful popularity. As audiences at the Wednesday matinees are equally enthusiastic it is possible that Miss Crosman will be required to make speeches at all her afternoon performances. In her speeches she declared that she liked to play to women.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brown, who have been spending several months with Mr. and Mrs. Yardley Brown, of the borough, left yesterday for Florida, where they will remain this winter.

KILLED IN EXPLOSION

Four Dead and Twenty Hurt In Steel Plant Accident.

NINE PUDDLE FURNACES WRECKED

Large Boiler In American Manufacturing Company's Plant at Lebanon, Pa., Bursts With Terrible Results.

LEBANON, Pa., Nov. 14.—Four persons are known to have been killed and twenty injured by an explosion of a boiler at the west works of the American Iron and Steel Manufacturing company's plant.

The dead are Jacob Bricker, Walter Turner, James Hissner and Jacob Nine.

The boiler explosion came without warning, and there was no chance for the workmen to escape.

It is not known whether the explosion was due to defects in the boiler or not. The boiler, which was of 200 horsepower, broke squarely in half, one part sailing through the machinery and woodwork of the mill. The roof collapsed, and the flames from the puddle furnaces under the wrecked boiler set fire to the debris. The fire force of the company, however, had the flames extinguished in fifteen minutes. Physicians were called from every quarter of the city, and the hospital ambulances and other vehicles were hurried into service. The offices of the works were at once converted into a hospital, and a corps of nurses from the Good Samaritan hospital were brought to the place. Into this temporary hospital the maimed and scalded workmen were carried and given attention. Some have their eyes burned out, others their hands blown off. Many of them, it is believed, cannot live. Women and children thronged the entrance to the works, crying and begging to be allowed inside.

It is feared the list of dead will be materially increased when the ruins of the nine wrecked puddle furnaces are explored.

Strike Hearing Opened.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 14.—All the members of the anthracite strike commission were here in attendance at the hearing of the differences existing between the miners and their employers, which began in the morning at 10 o'clock in the Lackawanna county courthouse. The commissioners used the room occupied by the state superior court, which is admirably adapted to the purpose. Two sessions will be held each day. Most of the representatives of the contending parties are also on the ground. Each side will have an array of attorneys, and it is expected that at least two weeks will be taken up in hearing the witnesses on each side.

Make Wholesale Arrests.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—A special dispatch received here from Rome says that the Sicilian police, who have for a long time been trying to capture a notorious brigand named Varsalone, raided the district of Cammarata, in the province of Girgenti, and took sixty persons prisoners, among whom were included a marquis, a mayor, several doctors and a number of lawyers. In the course of these dragnets operations a wealthy landowner named Lino barricaded his house and shot one policeman dead and wounded another. The police were unsuccessful, inasmuch as they failed to find Varsalone.

Train Robbers Caught.

FRANKFORT, Ind., Nov. 14.—Four men attempted to hold up the southbound Monon express at Cyclone. The train slackened speed on striking torpedoes on the rails, but when the engineer faced four revolvers he threw open the throttle. The four men fired rapidly and often, but all trainmen and passengers escaped. Sheriff Corns and deputies afterward caught the men, who gave the names of Charles Johnson, James Mock, Frank Smith and Harry Gray, all claiming to live in Cincinnati.

Samoan Volcano Breaks Out.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Nov. 14.—According to advices received here from Apia, Samoa, via Tonga, a volcanic eruption has broken out in Savaii, the westernmost and largest island of the Samoan group. Six craters are reported to be emitting smoke and flames. One village in the vicinity is covered two inches deep with ashes.

The Czarina Sad and Silent.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—In a dispatch from Livadia, Russia, the correspondent of the Daily Mail says the czarina has fallen into a condition of deep melancholy which takes the form of preserving silence for long periods, even in the presence of guests. Her majesty's condition is causing her doctors considerable anxiety.

Seek Home In Turkey.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 14.—A petition from the Doukhobors (Russian Quakers) asking the sultan of Turkey for permission to settle in some part of his empire where they can cultivate gardens with their own hands and not be compelled to obey "human laws" is published here.

Stromboli Again.

ROME, Nov. 14.—The volcano on Stromboli island, off the north coast of Sicily, has commenced a terrible eruption. A colossal column of fire is rising, and incandescent stones are being emitted from the craters. Many houses on the island have been destroyed.

Cabinet Making Slow Work.

MADRID, Nov. 14.—All efforts to form a conservative cabinet have failed, and Senor Sagasta has now begun an attempt to form a homogeneous Liberal ministry.

TAKES TO THE WOODS

President In Hunting Garb Goes After Bear.

A LONG RIDE ON HORSEBACK.

Camp From Which a Sunrise Start Was to Be Made Located Fifteen Miles In the Wilderness.

SMEDES, Miss., Nov. 14.—President Roosevelt and his party arrived here shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and in their hunting togs started soon afterward for the camp on the Little Sunflower river. As the distance is about fifteen miles and the trail is rough and bad the chances are that it was after dark before they reached the camp.

Smedes is a siding on the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railway, where cotton is loaded from the big Smedes plantations. A plantation store and the residence of one of the managers are the only structures, except negro cabins, in sight. Work on the neighboring plantations was suspended in the afternoon, and several hundred negroes were at the siding when the train stopped. Most of the men sat on the cotton bales, but the black mammies and pickaninnies stood along the track. They showed their white teeth in broad grins, but made no other demonstration, as the president stepped from the train. He was clad in hunting costume, riding trousers, heavy leather leggings, blue flannel shirt, corduroy coat and wore a brown slouch hat. Around his waist was buckled his cartridge belt, and at his side hung his ivory handled hunting knife.

The other members of the party also wore hunting suits. While the guns, blankets and other small baggage were being loaded into a four mule wagon the president chatted with the manager of the Smede estate and two ladies who had come especially to greet him.

When all was in readiness, the members of the party, except Mr. Fish and Mr. Dickinson, mounted small, wiry, tough looking horses and dashed away for the woods at a breakneck canter. The president's mount was a black horse. He did not look spirited, but it was explained that he was just the sort of animal needed to force a way through the dense undergrowth. Mr. Fish and Mr. Dickinson followed the others in a buckboard drawn by two mules.

The start out was scheduled for daylight this morning. Paths have been cut through the undergrowth to be used as cut offs to the river crossing, and on these stations the members of the party, except the president, will be stationed.

The president and his guides will follow the hounds through the undergrowth in order to be at hand if a bear is brought to bay. "It will be powerful hard," said Mr. Mangum, "and I predict the president will lose at least five pounds in the next five days. I rode through this a few days ago, and when I got out my clothes were almost torn off of me. I looked as if I had been in a railroad wreck."

Mr. Mangum says the black bears hereabouts weigh from 300 to 600 pounds. "We have a set of scales at the camp," said he, "and the beasts will be weighed when they are brought in."

The signs of bears in the vicinity of the camp are plentiful, and Mr. Parker promises the president a shot before evening. In one water hole Hoke Collier on Monday found the footprints of nine.

Tin Plate Factories Starting.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 14.—As a result of the recent agreements between the American Tin Plate company and the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers to secure the export tin trade many plants that have been idle for months are starting up. Monday last twenty of the twenty-six mills of the Elwood plant were started, and the remainder, which are being repaired, will be put to work as rapidly as the repairs are completed. The plants at Anderson, Gas City and Middleton have orders to start tomorrow. At the four plants about forty-seven mills will be operated, giving employment to about 3,100 men.

New Mexico's Capital Visited.

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 14.—The United States senate committee on territories, which is investigating the claims of territories for statehood, upon their arrival at the capital of New Mexico immediately called before it the principal judicial officials of the district and a large number of other witnesses. The committee dined with Governor Otero and took a look through the city and surrounding country. The committee and the prince of Siam were counter attractions at Santa Fe.

Not Elected After All.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Nov. 14.—John M. Schoonmaker, nephew of Chief Judge Parker of the court of appeals, who was re-elected school commissioner, according to returns he received, has learned by official canvass of the board of supervisors that he is defeated by John J. Harrington. He thought he had carried his district by 25, but lost it by 14.

Roumanian Minister Snubbed.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The Jewish Chronicle this morning asserts that the name of M. Catargi, Roumanian minister in London, was omitted from the list of diplomats invited to attend the lord mayor's inaugural banquet. This was done, according to the paper, as a mark of disdleasure at the persecution of the Jews in Roumania.

LABOR FEDERATION.

President Gompers Opens Convention at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 14.—President Samuel Gompers at the opening of the American Federation of Labor delivered an impassioned warning to the members of the organization that the immediate future of trade and labor assemblies was seriously endangered by the conflicting claims of jurisdiction made by different bodies. Unless such things were approached in calmness and handled with moderation, he declared, the labor organizations of the country soon would be involved in a conflict which by comparison would dwarf all the struggles in which labor organizations have been engaged thus far. The matter unless checked, he asserted, would come to a point where laboring men would fight with laboring men from behind barricades in the manner in which men deal with their mortal foes.

His warning of danger and his counsels of peace and moderation met with a hearty response from the assembled delegates, and wild applause greeted the speaker as he closed that portion of his annual address in which he had pointed out the perils which in his opinion will surely come unless methods are altered and altered soon.

In the course of his address President Gompers declared that it was amazing to note the ignorance among so called educated people regarding the aims and objects of the organization. "No man who as an educator," said President Gompers, "poses as a strike breaker is fit for the position he holds. Compared to such a man Benedict Arnold was a martyr and Judas Iscariot a saint."

The first day of the convention, aside from the address of President Gompers, was not of great interest to outsiders, and many delegates found it fatiguing.

The morning session was occupied with addresses of welcome and responses and the report of the committee on credentials. The afternoon was consumed by the address of President Gompers, which occupied him for two hours and twenty minutes of rapid reading. The reports of other officers required two additional hours.

Forty Still Missing.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Nov. 14.—Forty persons who were on board the British steamer Elingamite, which was wrecked Nov. 9 on one of the Three Kings islands, off the north coast of New Zealand, are still missing in spite of the careful search which is still being made of the coast and islands adjacent to the scene of the wreck. Wreckage from the Elingamite has drifted to a great distance from the point where the ship was lost. The ninety survivors of the Elingamite who were rescued a couple of days ago had a painful experience. They spent three days on a barren island, where they had to subsist upon shellfish until they were rescued by a passing steamer.

French Mining Strike Ended.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—The general coal miners' strike has practically come to an end, although many of the men are still holding out. About two-thirds of the strikers have already returned to work at the mines. The miners' congress now being held at Lens has voted in favor of the resumption of work. Ten thousand strikers, many of them armed with clubs and carrying banners and red flags, made a demonstration at St. Etienne yesterday. They marched through the streets, but seemed more bent on merrymaking than creating disorder, and no untoward incident occurred necessitating the intervention of the troops, a strong force of which was on hand.

The Cuban Treaty.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—General Tasker H. Bliss will sail for Cuba tomorrow if he can secure steamship accommodations. If not, he will go by way of Tampa and reach Havana early next week. It is the intention of those interested in the commercial treaty with Cuba to have it ready if possible in three weeks, and General Bliss will endeavor to adjust the differences by that time. It is considered important to have the treaty sent to the senate before the holiday recess. It will require a two-thirds vote to ratify the treaty, and a determined minority in the senate could postpone action on it for some time.

General Matos at Willemstad.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Nov. 14.—General Matos, chief of the Venezuelan revolutionists, and his son arrived here yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. They came in a small boat, in which they left Tucacas the previous evening. General Matos is very ill. His landing was witnessed by a considerable crowd and gave rise to demonstrations of a varied character.

Gasoline Injures Eight.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 14.—A gasoline lamp in the general store of Stiles & Weckerley at Whitehouse, this county, exploded, and five out of eight persons in the store were badly burned, one probably fatally. Only slight damage was done by the flames.

SPEECHES BY SHAW AND YOUNG.

General Who Fought In Philippines Warmly Defends the Army and Denounces Villifiers In Unmeasured Terms.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—A banquet was given at the Arlington hotel last night in honor of the representatives of foreign commercial bodies who came to America to attend the dedication of the New York Chamber of Commerce building and who are in Washington from the metropolis for a short visit.

The table was set in oval shaped form and was decorated in large yellow chrysanthemums and American Beauty roses. Mr. A. Barton Hepburn, the chairman of the committee of reception of the New York chamber of commerce, sat at the head of the table, with Ambassador Cambon of France on his right and Ambassador Herbert of Great Britain on his left, while to the right and left of the ambassadors were seated respectively Prince Pless and Count Quadt of the German embassy. Mr. Hepburn introduced the speakers, among whom were Secretary Shaw and Major General Young. Mr. Shaw said in part:

"Speaking for that department which is supposed more than any other to represent the business interests of the nation, I take great and peculiar pleasure in bidding welcome to the capital of the greatest American republic representatives of so many of the leading commercial nations of the world. Such a gathering as this would have been impossible a century ago. In the creation of sentiment rendering this event both natural and agreeable and in the evolution of conditions making international banquets possible commerce has played a most important part."

The spread of intelligence and the prudence of commerce, he added, were making for international peace, and, continuing, he said:

"The consent of rulers to engage in wars involving the expenditure of well nigh limitless blood and treasure has not always been difficult to obtain. Statesmen have not always trembled as they have declared war and made appropriations for its maintenance. But commerce trembles. It counts the cost. Commerce is not wanting in ambition, but it is never ambitious to squander the accumulations of centuries in rebuking the injury of a day. And so, gentlemen of the chamber of commerce of the Empire State, our hosts, and distinguished guests from foreign chambers, I felicitate you all and thank my God that the day has come when nations shall no longer war without cause, when great navies are no longer looked upon as threatening the peace of the world and when armaments and fortifications have lost much of their terror."

YOUNG DEFENDS THE ARMY.

General S. B. M. Young in speaking on "Our Soldiers In the Philippines" said that much comment on the army in the Philippines had passed beyond the limits of criticism and descended to absolute vilification. He said that the statements came from unreliable persons and from comparatively few individuals. The complaints did not come from the Filipino people or from the foreign press, but originated with our own people and were against our own soldiers. He continued:

"No one was more anxious to have the soldiers behave properly than were our generals in the field. These defamers of our patriotic soldiers were never numerous, but for a time were noisy, and some of our good people believed there was some truth in their statements. There were a few good people that sincerely believed that a voyage across the Pacific actually had turned their brothers and lovers, fathers and uncles into bloodthirsty savages. All of the army's defamers were densely ignorant of what constitutes the laws of war.

"The election is now passed, and those who expected to gain political advantage by assailing the army have failed in their object, and the results have buried that question forever as a political one, and I feel now that I can speak the truth about our soldiers without being accused of having political bias or defending them for political effect. Taking into consideration the circumstances surrounding them, our soldiers in the Philippines behaved remarkably well, better than any other nation expected or than we had any reasonable hope to expect. War is a game and a very dangerous one, and the rules of conduct should be left to those that are experienced in the game.

"During the civil war the fire in the rear from the so called copperheads was what the Union soldiers most feared. There may have been some excuse for the existence of copperheads in 1861, but what possible excuse could there be for an honest and reasonable man to become a fire in the rear Filipino?

"If every accusation that was brought against these soldiers were true, these stay at homes, these befoulers of their own nest, these seekers after notoriety, these active disturbers of the peace of mind of the brave, patriotic wives and mothers, should have had the decency to present their wild fancies to the proper authorities instead of trying to convince the whole world that our own brothers and kindred were barbarians.

"I say that the American army is the most humane army that ever waged war, and I could bear out my assertions by the Filipinos and Chinese and even the Spanish prisoners."

UNEXPECTED DELAY.

North Plainfield is going to have a new engine house but it will not be on quite as elaborate lines as was first expected. This change has been made necessary by the fact that the building, as originally designed, would cost something over $11,000 while the Borough Council has but $7,500 with which to erect it. This fact came to light when the Council received the bids and did a little figuring on the lowest of them.

There will be no change in the general design of the building but the specifications will have to be altered somewhat and portions of the building made a trifle less elaborate. In that way it is believed that the cost of erection can be brought somewhere within the amount required. This discovery, just made, is going to delay somewhat the progress on the new building as the changes to the specifications will take time and then the contractors will have to make new estimates on them when completed.

WHO WAS TO BLAME?

Another fatal trolley accident has occurred in close proximity to West Front street and Plainfield avenue. The responsibility for the death of the van driver is yet to be fixed but it rests between the motorman and the condition of the tracks at the time. Either the motorman did not or could not stop the car in time and the death of Amil Amiet was the direct result.

According to the statement of Motorman Sharp, he could not stop the car. The rails were wet and slippery with mud and leaves and his best efforts refused to bring the car to a halt in time. That is a question which the proper authorities will have to settle, was or was not the motorman to blame? If it is proven that he was, it is likely to prove a serious experience for him. To be the cause of the death of another human being is to be placed in an undesirable position. If that death was due to negligence, it is a serious crime and may mean a term of imprisonment and a heavy fine.

Everybody realizes the need of a prompt response on the part of the fire department when an alarm is sent in. It is particularly necessary in the business section of the city where the delay of a fraction of a minute may result in the disastrous spread of the flames. With all this necessity for haste, however, it is also required that a due amount of care shall be exercised so that the lives of passersby shall not be placed in jeopardy and the apparatus of the department disabled at the time it is most needed. Occasionally mistakes will happen but the drivers of the fire department should use particular care not to be in such a hurry to reach the scene of action that they will cause a greater disaster than that which they aim to subdue.

It is the opinion of Printers' Ink (the George P. Rowell & Co. Advertising Agency) that "the newspaper stands first, and far and away first, among the great advertising media of the country. The newspapers reach the greatest number of people and (unlike all other forms of advertising) lend the weight of their influence and character to the advertisement."

The Elizabeth Journal believes that the quality of the Assemblymen will be bettered if they are elected by Assembly districts instead of at large in the counties. It points to some of the recent members of the Assembly as examples of a class not desirable. Was the editor of the Journal thinking what a fine representative William F. Hall makes for Union county?

Already the politicians are beginning to gather at Trenton and talk of the work of the coming Legislature. Then there are all those "plums" to be distributed the first of the year and lots of wires must be pulled first.

How does the public feel on the question of a local league or an All-Plainfield baseball nine? There are many who would like to know.

The Newark News has long been an admirer of Senator Joseph Cross and now favors his election to the presiding chair in the State Senate.

other gifts of use and beauty. The popularity of the couple was evidenced through these magnificent gifts.

A delightful feature of the reception was the elaborate supper served after congratulations were given. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Potter left their friends to enjoy a wedding trip. Upon their return they will take up their residence with the bride's parents on East Second street.

The bride is a most estimable young woman and is actively engaged in many of the departments of work at Trinity Reformed church. The groom, who is the son of Reuben Potter, of Oak Tree, is also well-known and popular in a large circle of friends and acquaintances. He is president of the M. A. Lawton Company, of New York, electric supplies. In the happy exchange of gifts the bride gave the maid-of-honor a gold necklace with pearl pendants and to the flower girl she gave a bonbonniere. The groom's gifts to his best man and ushers were stick pins.

A gift of great value received by the bride was that of a book containing the autographs of a host of her friends and expressing some pleasant words of a congratulatory nature. It is in the nature of a birthday book and the unique idea was conceived by the bride's mother. The book has been passing among friends since last March and was complete when presented last evening, a total surprise to Mrs. Potter.

An ingenious plan was laid by the bride and groom for their escape from the guests who were closely watching for this opportunity to give them a good send-off. The bride made an excuse to go to the kitchen. While there she put on wraps and rubbers and went out the back way, through a fence, where the boards had been removed, and to the home of Mr. Enander, on Watchung avenue. There she was joined by her husband. At Mr. Enander's home she changed her wedding gown for a travelling one. A coach was standing on Watchung avenue waiting for them and as they drove off, the guests were still looking for the couple. No one had the slightest idea where they were and the couple escaped many pranks planned for their departure.

THEATRICAL.

A large and well pleased audience greeted the annual of company No. 2 last evening at the Central Theatre. The bill is an unusually strong one, including the Great Mitchell's Coon Shouters and whirlwind dancers, Cook & Oaks' comedians and acrobat buck and wing dancing, Burk king of the wire and the Murpheys' black farce comedians. All are first class and a pleasing entertainment is assured. Do not forget the special Saturday matinee, special tickets for school children.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Few local citizens are aware of the daily output of the seven wells pumped by the Middlesex Water Company's works situated in this place. About 560,000 gallons per day are pumped and forced a distance of seven miles, to the elevation of 208 feet, this being the altitude of the two stand pipes, situated near Carteret, from the level of the pumping station. These standpipes contain one million and a half gallons. About two tons of coal per day are consumed at the pumping station. The pumps are under the care of Edward Horne who faithfully performs his duties twelve hours every day. So large a work in the hands of one man alone is not common. The Plainfield Water Company whose pumps empty directly into the standpipe employes five men, pumping less than twice the amount that is pumped here.

Somebody claims "there is just as good fish in the sea as was ever caught." True, but they can't be much nicer than the beauties received fresh every day by Foss & Jeter. Drop in at their Park avenue store and have them quote prices on all kinds of seafood.

There are many kinds of jewelry and one can easily be fooled in buying it. The person who trades with J. Hervey Doane can rest assured that the goods he buys will be just as represented and will be first-class. Mr. Doane also carries the best makes of watches and he does the best kind of repair work.

This is the time to secure a stove for your home, if you have not already made such provision, and there is no better place to buy one than at the H. E. Gayle Hardware Company store. They handle only the best makes and they sell at reasonable prices. This firm also sells the best kind of hardware.

Druggist P. B. Hodge, whose store is located in the Y. M. C. A. building, announces that he is the sole agent for Legget's Demulscent Cream of Witch Hazel, the greatest known remedy for chapped hands, lips or rough skin. Beware of all imitations and the "just as good" kind. It is sold by Hodge at wholesale as well as retail.

Charles E. Vall, the Park avenue jeweler, is arranging for a package sale, to be held Thursday and Friday, November 20 and 21. The sale will commence Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, and a nominal fixed price will be asked for each package. These goods will be exhibited this afternoon in the show windows. The goods include many articles worth many times the price asked.

SAVED ON THE BRINK.

Woman Who Attempted Suicide Rescued From Niagara.

BUFFALO, Nov. 14.—Mrs. Helen Costello of Buffalo has been rescued from the brink of the American falls by employees of the state reservation. Yesterday afternoon word was received at the reservation office that a woman had attempted to commit suicide and was floating down stream toward the falls.

Superintendent Perry secured a quantity of rope and hurried to the bridge which connects Green island with Goat island. The woman was seen clinging to a submerged log at a point a few feet below the bridge. A noose was fitted about the body of John Marshall, a reservation employee, and he was lowered into the rushing waters. He succeeded in reaching the woman's side and placed a rope about her waist. The two were then slowly hauled to the stone abutment of the bridge. A ladder was lowered, and the woman was landed safely.

Mrs. Costello is very weak from exposure, but the hospital physicians say she will recover. Domestic troubles caused the woman to seek death.

AIRSHIP A SUCCESS.

The Lebaudy Machine Makes Many Favorable Tests.

NANTES, France, Nov. 14.—The airship built for the brothers Pierre and Paul Lebaudy made a very successful trial in this neighborhood. Several free ascents and descents were effected, accompanied by evolutions in all directions over the fields and woods bordering the Seine between La Roche Guyon and the town of Bonnieres. The flying machine returned each time to its point of departure at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour. There were four persons in the car.

The Lebaudy steerable balloon is similar in appearance but twice the size of the airships of M. Santos-Dumont. It is 64½ yards long and 12 yards in diameter. The car is 5½ yards long. The propeller is driven by a motor of forty horsepower. The first trial of the machine in a captive state took place on Nov. 3, when it was successfully maneuvered for half an hour.

Railroad Increases Wages.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—The Pennsylvania Railroad company has announced an increase of 10 per cent in the wages of all employees of the company east of Pittsburg and Erie and now earning less than $200 a month. The advance became operative Nov. 1. This increase, which was decided upon at a meeting of the directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, will, it is estimated, affect about 59,000 employees. The cost of the increase to the company will be heavy. Estimating the average wage rate per month at $60 a man, the additional expense to the company would be $354,000 a month, or about $4,250,000 a year.

License For Vermont.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Nov. 14.—For the first time in half a century a majority of the temperance committee of the legislature is in favor of license, with the result that the local option high license bill has been favorably reported to the general assembly. The bill has the indorsement of thirteen members of the committee, while twelve members reported a dispensary bill. The opinion prevails among the legislators that the contest will be a bitter one between the supporters of the two measures, with advocates of a new prohibitory bill ready at any moment to offer their draft as a compromise.

Mrs. Tingley Courts Investigation.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 14.—Mrs. Katherine Tingley of the Universal Brotherhood has received word from New York to the effect that the Gerry Society For the Prevention of Cruelty to Children will send a representative to California to aid similar societies in this state in the instituton of proceedings to have the children removed from the Raja Yoga school at Point Loma. Mrs. Tingley in a statement published says she courts the most searching investigation and has applied to the state authorities of California for a commission to investigate the Raja Yoga school at Point Loma.

Night Work on Education Bill.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The government's "guillotine scheme" with regard to the education bill was put in operation in the house of commons last night at 11 o'clock. The attendance was small. Five clauses of the bill, with their numerous attendant amendments, were all closured and voted without discussion. Members of the opposition challenged every vote, with the result that twenty divisions were taken between 11 o'clock and 3 o'clock this morning, when the house adjourned.

British Warships For Sale.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—As a result apparently of agitation by Vice Admiral Lord Charles Beresford and others regarding the lack of "up to-dateness" in the British navy the admiralty has announced that the battleships Agamemnon, Ajax and Edgar, the turret ships Hecate, Glatton, Cyclops, Hydra and Gorgon, the torpedo ram Polyphemus, the frigate Nettle, the cruisers Heroine and Hyacinth and some smaller vessels are all for sale. They will be dropped from the navy list immediately.

Another Colliery Opens.

SHAMOKIN, Pa., Nov. 14.—After an idleness of five months the Corbin colliery, operated by Robertson & Co., resumed work today. Three hundred men and boys were given employment. Four hundred more employees will find work next Monday by the Excelsior colliery, owned by the above company, resuming operation. This colliery was also idle since the strike.

DIGG'S UPRIGHT FIRE EXTINGUISHER.

The Best on Earth! We Challenge the World!

The Extinguishers that turn up-side-down to discharge are good of their kind, but this is far better. Read the following reasons:

Points of superior merit of the Digg-Upright over any other machine—

1—A sealed acid bottle and an air-tight tank. No change in the conditions of the chemicals possible.

2—Can never be discharged by accident; absolutely under the control of the operator.

3—A 3-gallon machine of this type contains ONE QUART more of liquid than a reversible, because it does not require a handle underneath.

4—It does not need inspection and recharging as required for the reversible with its loose stopple.

5—The acid being released at the top of the tank, and the outlet being at the bottom, the mingling of the chemicals is so thorough before the acid reaches the outlet that it is completely neutralized, and no harm can be done to flesh or fabric. In the reversible type the acid is released within the two inches of the outlet.

6—Convenience in handling. The machine stands on its bottom, and all the operator has to do is to turn the screw in the cap, and the flow begins instantly.

7—The bottle is not broken, and no nuisance of broken glass.

ODD COATS.

Sack Shapes of Zibeline and Fancy Goods.

The sack paletot abounds in many charming shapes. It is made in delicate green zibeline cloth trimmed with hanging green and white tassels. This is lined with delicate brocade and closes right up to the throat.

Equally alluring is a long evening coat of pastel pink zibeline. It is very full sack in form and is stitched with bands of pink satin and finished about the shoulders by a width imparting double cape.

A half sack coat of heavy fawn corduroy is strapped with shaped upright lines of face cloth defined by braid, the whole lined through with scarlet satin.

Gowns are becoming more and more elaborate, especially those for evening wear. They are fairly incrusted with fine lace and embroideries. The dinner dress here shown is of pink crape trimmed with a raised embroidery of hydrangeas worked in chenille over black and white lace. The gown is in two pieces, but simulates a princess dress with its long lines of trimming opening over a full shirred underskirt of chiffon. JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR STREET WEAR.

Rough Cloths—Cord and Tassel Trimmings.

Although rough cloths are deservedly popular, yet fine cloths are also being used. Corduroy velvets and vicunas lend themselves admirably to ruchings of lace and velvet, and these play a very important part in the season's trimmings.

Cords and tassels are seen on many tailor made gowns, while Indian and Russian embroideries are excessively popular.

Never was there a wider choice in furs. Full length coats, three-quarter coats, coats ending at the waist line—all these are the style. The furriers' ingenuity is shown in the fact that they are adding waistbands of embroidery or silk to these short tight fitting coats. This is a becoming touch which does away with the idea of clumsiness that additional thickness at the waist nearly always gives.

Fur toques will be a great deal worn, though in most cases the crown only is of fur and the rest of velvet or felt, which is much more becoming than the old time fur models in millinery.

The smart bathrobe in the cut is of red wool trimmed with bands of black velvet. JUDIC CHOLLET.

THE CARUTHERS AFFAIR

By WILL N. HARBEN.

COPYRIGHT 1898 BY A. N. KELLOGG NEWSPAPER CO.

"Are you satisfied?" he said, feebly, almost in a whisper.

Hendricks said nothing.

"My God, I want you to believe in me, my good friend," Kola went on, "for unless you have faith you will not heed my warning."

"Your warning?" fell from Lampkin's lips.

"My warning!" repeated the Indian. "Just now, Hendricks, while I was in your house, I saw indications of two attempts which have been made on your life. Both came very near killing you. But that is not all. I saw plainly that your fate will be the most awful one ever met by man. Your death will be through the most lingering torture, and it will involve your mother. It lies right in your path. Unless you leave New York at once you and your mother will fall at the hands of these unknown enemies. It is the truth, as God is my Master."

Hendricks had paled, and Lampkin saw that his hands were still quivering, but no word came from him.

Kola had sat up, but suddenly he threw himself back on the couch.

"Oh, I am so weak," he groaned. "Hendricks, I have been fighting the forces against you, and it has done me up. I can't say more."

The Indian closed his eyes. The bell overhead struck three times, and Kola's attendant ran in excitedly.

"Hee's exhausted!" he cried, in a startled tone. "No more talk! He moos sleep, big much sleep." He placed his dusky finger on his lower lip and added in a hissing whisper: "No talk more to-night—to-morrow, maybe, perhaps. Now sleep! No noise. Me hees doctor."

The two visitors rose, and taking their hats they tip-toed from the room. Reaching the outside, they walked side by side nearly to the carriage without a word between them. Just before they reached the vehicle, Lampkin suddenly broke into a laugh.

"I'll treat you to the best dinner ever served if you won't tell this on me," he said.

Hendricks paused and stared at him fixedly.

"What do you mean?" he asked.

"You and Kola certainly did work me," he continued to laugh. "I see it all now. It is a job put up on me. You promised me an interesting evening out here, and between you and your chum you gave it to me. Oh, I never was so badly sold! I would have sworn that you were actually excited yourself."

Hendricks made no reply for an instant, then he laid his hand over the Bible he still held.

"Before God, and with my hand on this Book, I swear that I cannot account for what occurred. The blasted exhibition and—and his bloody warning has knocked me completely off my feet. As I told you, superstition is my weakest point."

"You have reason to be concerned," declared Lampkin as he preceded him into the carriage. "I think what has happened to-night before our eyes would agitate my scientific friends. I almost feel like imploring you to desist in your efforts and leave New York for awhile anyway."

"Nothing could turn me from this case," said Hendricks. "I have pledged my honor on seeing it through. I admit I feel a little upset to-night—not on my own account, you know, but what he said about my mother was not pleasant. I have long had a secret fear that she would sooner or later fall a victim to some enemy of mine."

CHAPTER XV.

It was one o'clock when the detective reached home. He started upstairs to his room, but, noticing a light under the closed door of the library, he went in and found his mother bowed before the fire.

"Why, mother!" he said, chidingly, as she rose to meet him. "This will never do! You must not sit up for me again." And as he took her face in his hands and kissed her, he added: "You have been crying. I declare I shall simply give up my night work. I will not cause you such uneasiness. You were afraid something had happened to me."

"No, Minard," she said. "It was something else. Really I have not worried about you to-night. On the other hand, I have been sitting here praying for your success. To-night after dinner I came here and sat down to read. About nine o'clock I fell asleep. At 11 I was awakened by a ring at the door. It was Miss Huntington. She was alone, and implored me to let her talk to me. She came in and sat down by me, and told me all about her great trouble. Then she begged me to let her wait here till you came home, so that she might know if you had found out anything since she heard from you. She has just left, I persuaded her to go back. She is such a sweet young lady. She put her head in my lap and when she began to cry I couldn't help doing so to save my life. Minard, she remands me so much of your sister. If Lucy had lived, and Jack had been like Mr. Gielow is, it would have been the same with her. Oh, son, I have opposed your dangerous career all along, but somehow to-night, since I have talked with her, I feel as mothers must feel when they send their sons off to battle. I am so thankful that God has given me a boy who can do so much good and save others so much pain. Is there a single bit of hope for her?"

"There is nothing new," Hendricks answered. "There is a bare chance that something may turn up in the morning. I shall do all I can."

She followed him to the foot of the stairs.

"Don't let my fears hinder you," she said, as her old hands clung to his arms. "I shall never be satisfied if you don't do something for the poor girl. She has won my heart completely."

Her voice was husky with emotion, and it touched him. He turned to the hatrack to hang up his overcoat, but it slipped from his fingers and the Bible in one of the pockets drew it heavily to the floor.

"What is that in your pocket?" Mrs. Hendricks asked as he picked up the coat.

"Oh, I forgot," he said. "It is my Bible; put it away, please."

"Your Bible?" she exclaimed, as she took it into her hand. "Ah, that proves me wrong again. I shall never allow my intuition to make me wrongfully suspect anyone again."

"What are you talking about, mother?" He reached up and raised the flame of the gas jet over his head.

"I am almost ashamed to confess it," she answered, with a touch of shame. "You know I have so often told you that I did not trust your friend Kola."

"Yes, yes?" quickly.

"And you always seemed to feel it so much when I referred to it. Well, while you were in Boston he called nearly every day to ask when you would return, and one day I saw him examining your Bible on the table where it lay in the library, and after he had gone I missed it. The girl had been dusting the room and said she had not seen it. Minard, I actually suspected your friend of taking it. I have intended to mention the fact of its being lost, but so much has happened of late that I forgot it."

Hendricks stared at her perplexedly, but there was too much to solve in a moment, so he kissed her and said:

"Oh, Kola is all right, he only wanted to play a little harmless trick on me and Lampkin, he returned it of his own accord to-night."

"I am glad I was wrong," said Mrs. Hendricks, and he ascended the stairs and went into his room.

CHAPTER XVI.

When Gielow and Count Bantinni left the studio on the night the murder was committed, they stealthily descended to the street by means of the dimly lighted stairway rather than by the elevator.

Gielow started in the direction of the elevator, but the count grasped his arm and hastily drew him along one of the darkest corridors.

"Not that way, fool!" he said between his teeth. "Do you want to expose yourself to the view of everybody in the gaslight? You have not a moment to spare. The police and Hendricks are on your track."

"No, not a moment to spare," echoed the artist in a listless, dreamy tone, and he stopped, leaned against the wall and looked back towards the studio.

The count caught him roughly by the arm and shook him violently.

"I tell you the murder has been discovered!" he hissed in the ear of the artist.

"The murder?" repeated Gielow, "the murder, you say?"

"Yes, you remember killing Caruthers."

"Yes, I suppose so. It seems to me—and yet—"

"Come on," burst from the lips of the count. "Come on, or you'll be arrested. If you don't hurry I'll leave you."

Literature as a Trade.

To write successfully means to serve a long and hard apprenticeship; it means to do many things badly in order to learn to do a few things well; to read many authors, and good ones; to live with words till one knows their value, and it means, too, that one must know something about the reality of life. In short, writing is a trade, just like bookbinding or type-setting. It is different, of course; it has a higher side, we believe, but to think only of the higher side, and ignore the trade part of it, is to prepare one's self for a great disappointment. Decidedly the novice should not expect to earn pin-money by setting down her day-dreams, when successful authors are obliged to slog daytime and nighttime in order to learn the mechanics of the art.—Woman's Home Companion.

Japan Is Progressive.

The prisons of Japan are gradually becoming filled with illustrious Japanese. The director of the Namba bank, of Osaka, has just got eight years for fraud; an author named Matsumoto, of the same city, has been arrested for forging a promissory note for £16,000 sterling; and in another city all the civil functionaries—mayor, alderman and all—have been promiscuously "run in" for corruption of a flagrant description. The number of journalists who have lately found their way into jail is very considerable. Some months ago it was over 300: I have not kept a record since.—Tokio Paper.

Do You Wish To Borrow Money?

In order to accommodate all classes of borrowers (those who cannot borrow at a bank, as well as those who can), the Mutual Loan and Investment Company, of 118 Market street, Newark, N. J., has a department for handling quickly and confidentially loans ranging from $10 to $500 on furniture, pianos, storage receipts, etc.

The security is not removed from your possession or in any way disturbed. The honest, careful and conservative borrower will try and decide two points before borrowing. First, where he can get the best terms. Second, where he can get fair and square treatment.

This company is in a position to give you by far the most satisfactory terms ever offered by any concern or individual negotiating this class of loans.

With this company you are assured of getting the lowest rates, easiest payments and longest time for repayment. We also take up loans from other companies and advance more money.

Kindly call and let us explain our simple and up-to-date methods. If not entirely convenient for you to call, please write and our representative will call and give you any desired information. Remember it costs nothing to make application. Loans promptly made in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Westfield, Roselle, Rahway, Perth Amboy and all suburban towns.

paint is usable. To be worth putting on it must be durable, and to be durable it must be top quality. The general war of wind, sun and rain upon houses knows no cessation or truce. WOMAN EXPLORER RETURNS.

Mrs. Colcleugh Visited the Wilds of Darkest Africa.

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—Mrs. Emma Shaw Colcleugh arrived at her home here on the steamer Ivernia, completing a tour which took her into places never before visited by a white woman and sometimes in the face of death itself in central Africa. She has been over the Uganda railroad and to the scene of the latest British tribal war in Somaliland.

Mrs. Colcleugh, who previously had made extensive tours of exploration, including journeys up the Saskatchewan, in Labrador; in Newfoundland, in the Fiji islands, in New Zealand and other points, started from New York last May on an expedition into the wilds of Africa to study the conditions and the peoples. Her plans took her to Mombasa, where begins the Uganda railroad to Victoria Nyanza.

The Uganda railroad officials tried to discourage her, but she proceeded to the lake, taking there a small steamer to Mengo, the capital of one of the native tribes, from which she made short expeditions all through the surrounding country. On her return to England Mrs. Colcleugh was the guest of many distinguished persons.

Bostonians Robbed in New York.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The Hotel Vendome, at Forty-first street and Broadway, was the scene of a robbery yesterday which was attended by several sensational happenings. A negro burglar gained entrance to a suit of rooms on the eighth floor by ascending the fire escape. While he was in the rooms of two Boston business men he was surprised at work, but before an alarm could be given he covered them with a revolver and got away in safety with their gold watches and all the money they had in their clothing. The police, in hopes of catching the thief, kept the robbery secret for several hours. During the last month five hotels in this city have been visited by robbers who in each case have gained entrance by means of fire escapes.

English Tradesmen Visit Us.

BUFFALO, Nov. 14.—Fifteen men representing various English trades have arrived here to study local industrial conditions. The men are members of the party of twenty-three sent to this country by Alfred E. Mosely of London. The other members of the party are now in New York and will arrive here later, when the itinerary of the trip to be made in this country will be arranged. While in this city the Englishmen will be the guests of the Merchants' Exchange. The immense new steel plant and the elevators and harbor works were inspected by the visitors.

Admiral Dewey to Command.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Admiral Dewey, who will have supreme command of the combined fleets engaged in the Caribbean sea maneuvers next month, will hoist his four starred flag on the president's yacht Mayflower at the Washington navy yard Dec. 1 and will sail the same day with his large personal staff direct for the naval base at Culebra island. All the vessels which are to participate are under orders to assemble at their respective rendezvous not later than the 5th prox., and Admiral Dewey will assume active command immediately upon his arrival.
